

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

INTRODUCTION.

WHILE this work professes to be a catalogue of the names used by the Bihar peasant for the things surrounding him in his daily life, yet, in order to relieve the dryness which such a mere list would possess, the writer has attempted to give a description, more or less complete, of that life and of its character and incidents. The book is in fact a discursive catalogue, and it is hoped that it may serve as a solid foundation for more elaborate disquisitions on the Bihār raiyat and his surroundings.

Such a work as this is nothing if not accurate, and no ordinary pains have been spared to compass the greatest accuracy possible. Existing treatises on Indian rural life are not always trustworthy; and as it is impossible to tell what is and what is not correct in them, the writer has avoided taking them as the groundwork of his compilation. Every word in this book has been collected from the mouths of the people, and noted on the spot where it was spoken, either by the writer himself or by one of his assistants. When the work began to assume shape, it was carefully compared with every available book of reference, and where discrepancies occurred, they were either reconciled or explained. Finally the proof-sheets have been circulated to all the Bihār districts, and have been again checked on the spot by competent observers, different from the original persons who collected the materials on which the book was founded.*

So far, therefore, as its contents go, this book may claim to be entirely original, and the writer hopes, to a certain degree, accurate. No originality can, however, be claimed for its general system and arrangement. This is closely modelled on Mr. Crooke's "Materials for a Rural and Agricultural Glossary of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh.”* The writer has followed him very closely in the arrangement of his matter, and in many cases has not scrupled to use his very words when they were the most suitable that could be adopted. The vernacular words embodied in this book have in fact been brought together from two sources, viz. the writer’s own private researches during the past seven years, checked and supplemented by actual translations of the words given by Mr. Crooke’s work made by the writer’s assistants once and sometimes twice over in every district of Bihār. It will thus be seen how much the writer is indebted to the latter gentleman. Mr. Crooke’s book differed from the present work in being to some extent a compilation from existing dictionaries ; and as these were not all of them as accurate as could be wished, it was impossible that it should not contain some mistakes. But as one who has probably worked through it with more minute attention than most people, the writer gladly bears witness to its general accuracy. This may be considered as really wonderful, when the extremely slovenly scholarship of some of the books on which Mr. Crooke had to depend is taken into account.

* The writer would here tender his thanks to the various district officers of Bihār, who have spared no trouble in having this local checking performed in a satisfactory manner. The amount of new information gained, and of mistakes and misprints corrected through their help, has been very considerable.

In the present work every native word is written twice over—once with accuracy in the native character for those who are able to read it, and once in the English character for those who are not acquainted with the Indian vernaculars. This transliteration does not pretend to be scientifically accurate. Such a transliteration with its diacritical dots and dashes would only puzzle those for whom it is intended, viz. those who are ignorant of the language. All that has been attempted for them is to give them a general idea of the correct pronunciation of the words, without professing to tell them the exact pronunciation, which they hardly require, and which would be difficult to do. For these persons all that is necessary is that they should pronounce the vowels as in Italian, and the consonants as in English, and they will then approach sufficiently near to the way in which the natives themselves pronounce the words.† For those who are acquainted with the vernacular languages, no instructions for pronouncing the words in their vernacular dress are necessary.

* Allahabad, 1879. Printed at the North-Western Provinces and Oudh Government Press. The writer would take this opportunity of acknowledging his indebtedness to Mr. Crooke for this really admirable work. Without it the present book could never have been written without an expenditure of labour which few district officials like the writer would have been able to bestow.

† The system of transliteration adopted may be briefly described as the Jonesian system, with every possible diacritical mark omitted. In pursuance of this the cerebral letters are given no dots, and, as nearly every final vowel is long, the long mark has been omitted from final vowels.

In quoting Arabic and Persian words in the Nāgri character, the dots, which are sometimes used to indicate an original z, &c., are omitted, for the reason that the words are given as they are pronounced in Bihār, and that all the dots in the world will not make a Bihāri pronounce a z as other than j, or a sād as other than s.

In order to understand the meaning of the words which the writer has used to express locality, it is necessary to explain that, under the name Tirhut, he has included the whole tract which lies between the river Gandak on the west and the river Kosi on the east, and which is bounded on the north by the Nepāl frontier and on the south by the Ganges. He, therefore, indicates under this term not only the districts of Muzaffarpur and Darbhanga, but also North Bhagalpur and North Munger (Monghyr). This was rendered necessary by the language of these latter tracts being practically the same as that of Darbhanga. By North-West Tirhut he means the Sitāmarhi and Sadr subdivisions of Muzaffarpur; by South-West Tirhut, the subdivision of Hajipur; by North-East Tirhut, the Sadr and Madhubani subdivisions of Darbhanga and the Supaul subdivision of North Bhagalpur; and by South-East Tirhut, the Tajpur subdivision of Darbhanga, North Munger, and the Madaipūra subdivision of North Bhagalpur. By North Bihār he means all Bihār north of the Ganges, and by South Bihār all Bihār south of it. When he speaks of the east or the west, the north-east or the north-west, he means, of course, the east, west, north-east, and north-west respectively of Bihār.

One more word of warning regarding these localities. When the writer says that a word is used in a certain place, he does not mean by implication that it is not used anywhere else. He means simply that the word has been noted by him in such and such a place, and not elsewhere. That it may be used elsewhere is very possible, and any notes on this or kindred topics addressed to the writer, care of the Secretary to the Bengal Government, Revenue and General Departments,* will be gladly welcomed.

Regarding the illustrations, they are all (with one or two small exceptions) lithographed or cut on wood from photographs taken by the writer, who is glad to be able to thank Mr. Schaumburg and the students of the Government School of Art, Calcutta, for the excellent pictures they have produced out of what, he must confess, were too often very indifferent photographs. The difficulties experienced by the writer in taking some of these pictures were great. The most ludicrous reports spread through the city concerning his work. The camera of course was looked upon as a fearful engine of destruction, and sometimes half an hour has been wasted in futile diplomacy to persuade an old lady to allow the lens to be pointed at her. Under these circumstances photographs had almost always to be taken by the instantaneous process, which, however certain it may be in the hands of the professional, frequently disappoints the mere amateur. The last photograph the writer took—that of a native house—was spoilt because the grandmother of the family refused to allow any of the children to appear in the picture, her reason being that the Government was building the bridge across the Gandak and wanted children to bury under its foundations. Just, however, as the plate was exposed, one of the little boys determined to immortalize himself, and leaped in front of the lens to the dismay of the female members of his family. He had his wish in appearing in the picture, but he was so near the lens that he covered half of it with his shoulders. On other occasions the writer was believed to be collecting carts and boats for the Egyptian war, or to be counting the wells in the country, because he knew a famine was approaching, and so on ad infinitum. However, the pictures were finally taken, and, such as they are, are certainly accurate representations of the originals.

* The writer would also suggest, as an excellent field for the discussion of the various points noted in this book, a magazine called Punjab Notes and Queries, edited by Captain Temple, Cantonment Magistrate, Amritsar. Although published in and taking its title from the Panjāb, this useful little work deals with the whole of Northern India.

In conclusion the writer has to draw attention to the thoroughness and accuracy with which his assistants, Munshi Dilawar Ali and Munshi Moti Lal have done their portion of the work. The former has, the writer much regrets to say, died since the above was first written. The latter has been his assistant to the last, and the writer begs to record his high sense of his industry and intelligence, and to recommend his services to the favourable notice of Government.

ADDENDA ET CORRIGENDA.

The Country Plough.

(NOTE.—The front portion of the body is given in section, so as to show the position of the share.)

DIVISION I.

IMPLEMENTS AND APPLIANCES

USED IN AGRICULTURE AND RURAL MANUFACTURES.

SUBDIVISION I.

IMPLEMENTS USED IN PREPARING LAND FOR CULTIVATION.

CHAPTER I.—THE PLOUGH.

1. The ordinary country plough is generally known as हर har. Sometimes the Hindi form of the word, हाल hal, is used. In Gaya the word लंगल lāngal is also used.

2. खिनौरी khinauri is used for an old or worn plough. In the South-East and in North-West Tirhut this is थेंथी thenthi, and generally over North-East and South Tirhut थेंठा thentha. In Shahabad it is खुतहरा khutahra. A new plough is नवठा nautha or नौठा nautha to the west, नवघर naughar in Champāran, and लवठा lawtha generally over North-East and South Tirhut.

3. In West Bihār and South Bhagalpur संग sānga, and in South Munger संगह sāngah, mean the plough and all its appurtenances, as in the sentence संग (or हर संग) लेने आब बहियार sānga (or har sānga) lenē āw bahiyār,—bring the plough, &c., to the field.

4. The various parts of the common plough are as follows :—

5. The beam (a).—North of the Ganges this is हरिष haris, and so also in Shahabad. In East Tirhut it is also called हरसी haris. In Patna, Gaya, and South Munger it is संरह sārḥ. In South Bhagalpur it is रिष is. हरिष haris is, however, understood more or less everywhere.

6. The body (b).—This is everywhere हर har.

7. The handle or stilt (c).—In Shahabad and north of the Ganges this is परिधर parihath; in the eastern portion of the latter tract it is also लगन lāgan. लगना lagnā is used in South Munger, Patna, and Gaya, and नांगनो nāngno in South Bhagalpur. In South-Western Shahabad परिहत parihat is used. The knob at the end of the body near the handle is in Patna चंदवा chandwa, in Gaya चांदी chāndī, north of the Ganges and in Shahabad मुठ mūth (or in the south-west of the district चंदुली chandulī), and in the south-east मुठिया muthiya. In South Bhagalpur मकरी makrī is a piece used for mending it when broken. The first, second, and fourth names are only used if it is a separate piece of wood.

8. The notches on the beam (d), by which the share is raised or lowered.—In Sāran खेड़ा kherha, in Gaya खेड़ी khenrhi, and in Shahabad खेड़ी kherhi. In Patna they are खेरा kheha, in Champāran खाना khāta, and throughout Tirhut खारी khārhi. In South-East Tirhut it is also खरखा kharha, and in South-East Bihār खोड़ा khonrha or खार khār.

9. The sole (e), in which the share is fixed.—

In West Bihār it is टोर tor or टोरा tōra. In East Bihār it is नास nās or नासा nāsa.

North of the Ganges the thicker end of the sole is called नाँच mānth or नाँचा mānthā.

10. The share (f).—Everywhere फार phār. In North-East Tirhut also फारा phāra or फाला phāla, and in South-East Tirhut also लोहाना lohāna.

11. The wedge fixing the beam to the body (g).—North of the Ganges and in Shahabad and South Munger this is पाठ pāt. Variants are पहा patta (Gaya), पाठा pāta (South Tirhut and Patna), and पाटो pāto (South Bhagalpur).

A second wedge is sometimes added, which is known as चेळी chailī everywhere north of the Ganges and in Gaya and the south-west, and also as चेल्की chelkhi in South-East Tirhut. In East Tirhut it is also called चेरी cheri. Another name is पाचड़ pāchar (in North-East Tirhut and Shahabad), or पचड़ी pachrī everywhere south of the Ganges. In South Bhagalpur it is called उपर पाटो upar pāto.

12. The peg (h) passing through the shaft at the end, to prevent the body coming off.—This is बाराइन bardāin generally, or बरेन barain in Champāran and Tirhut; the latter is also used in South Munger. Other forms are बरेन baren in North-East Tirhut, बरबहन barhan in Sāran, बरेनी baraini in Patna, and बरन baran in Shahabad. Other names are सब धरिया sabh dhariya, सत धरिया sat dhariya, in Patna, and सबधर sabhdhar in Gaya, because it holds the whole plough together. Also तरेख taraila in South Bhagalpur, तरेकी taraihi in South-West Shahabad, and हुमना humna in Patna.*

13. The iron clamp (i) for preventing the share falling off.—करुआर karuār or करुआरा karuāra everywhere to the west. A variant is करुआरी karuāri (Patna, Champāran, and West Tirhut). In South-West Shahabad it is also called खुरा khūra. In Patna it is also called जोंका jonka, and the same name is current all over Bihār. जोंकी jonki and चोभी chobhi are also used in South-East Tirhut. In North-East Tirhut a wedge is also used for the same purpose, and is called गासी gāsi.

14. The yoke.—North of the Ganges always पाछो pālo; so also in Patna, Gaya, and South Munger, with a variant पाळ pāla in South Bhagalpur. In Shahabad and Gaya the word is generally जुआठ juāth, which is also sometimes used in Sāran and the east. Sometimes it is made up of two bars. The upper bar then is considered the yoke proper, and is hence usually called the जुआठ juāth. The lower bar is generally तरसेला tarsaila.

This double-bar arrangement is not commonly found in the plough yoke. It is more usually met with in the yoke for well irrigation (मोट mot); so also the two following pins. As a general rule पाछो pālo or जुआठ juāth (according to locality) may be safely used for the single-bar plough-yoke and for the double-bar irrigation yoke, and जूआ jūa for the single-bar cart-yoke. See § 938.

15. The outer pins, which join the two bars of the yoke, are सेला saila or समेल samail to the west and कनेल kanail to the east. They are also कनकिली kankilli in South Bhagalpur.

16. The inner pins are समेल samail or (Patna and the south-east) समेला samaila and (Gaya) समैया samaiya.

17. The leather thongs (j), which attach the yoke to the beam of the plough.—These are from Patna to the east of the South Gangetic tract, and in Champāran, नारन nāran, with a variant लरनी larni in

* About हुमना humna there is a story of a Jolha (the proverbial fool of Bihār stories) who found a humna on the road and cried out in his foolishness पाछो हर के हुमना, खेतीकर बनाय pāon har ke humna, kheti karab banāy,—I have found the rear peg of a plough, I'll turn a farmer at once.

North-West and South-East Tirhut, and optionally लारन lāran in South-East Bihār. नाचा nādha and नरेखो naraili are used in Shahabad, and variants of the former word occur in लदधा ladha (South-East Tirhut), लेधा laidha or लाधा lādha (North-East Tirhut), and हर लधी har ladhi or हर नाचा har nādha over South Tirhut generally. नाचा nādha is also used in Gaya. हर ना चा har nādha in Sāran is only used when they are of string. When they are of leather, in that district they are called दुधाली duḍhali. South Bhagalpur has दोंडा donra or लेधा ledha.

18. The ropes (k) which go round the bullocks' necks.—These are everywhere except in the extreme west जोनी jōti. In the extreme west (Sāran, Champāran, and Western Shahabad) the masculine form, जोना jōta, is the usual one. In North-East Tirhut they are also समेल samel or समेल samail, and in South Bhagalpur फांस phānsa.

19. The projecting knob (l) in the middle of the upper part of the yoke.—Round this the thongs which fasten the yoke to the beam are fixed. This is everywhere महादेवा mahādeva. Variants are महादेवो mahādeo (Patna and Gaya) and महदावा mahdauca (South Munger). In South Bhagalpur it is मंजवार manjhwāra.

20. The notches (m) near each end of the yoke.—To these the ropes which go round the bullocks' necks are fixed. These are खाँरी khānri in Patna, with variants खाँरी khārhi in South-East Tirhut and खेरी kherhi to the west. South-West Shahabad has खड़ी khaddhi. In Gaya the word used is कानौसी kanausi, and in South Bhagalpur खात khāta, while सिमल simal or नक्तो nakti are optional names in South-East Tirhut.

21. The leaf of the yoke (n).—This is पत्ता patta, पचा palla, or (in South Munger) पल्लै palaṭi and (in Sāran) पाना pāta.

22. The trough in which the share lies when fixed in the body is खोल khol, or in South Bhagalpur खोली kholi.

23. The bamboo whip with which the bullocks are driven is पेना paina, and its lash is छिटि chhiti in North-East Tirhut. Other names will be found in § 98 and ff.

24. A drill plough.—This is generally तार tār, with variants in South-East Tirhut टाँरी tānri and टोर tor in South Munger. The share is तारखुरी tarxūi. पिछा khilla is the nail which fastens the share to the body. The bamboo pipe is in West Bihār बाँसा bānsa, also sometimes बन्सा bansa in Shahabad. In East Bihār this is generally बाँगा chonga, except in South Munger, where it is हर बाँड़ी har chānri.

The cup at the top, into which the grain is poured, is in West Bihār माळा māla or मलवा malwa. In East Bihār it is पेला paila (sometimes spelt परला pañla or पपला paēla) or माली māli. In South Munger it is also उखरी ukhri, and in Patna अकरी akri.

25. The sharpening of a ploughshare is called as follows in the various districts:—

Shahabad: धार पिढावळ dhār pitāwal ; or in the south west of the district धार फरंगावळ dhār phargāwal.

Patna: धार असरावळ dhār asrāēb.

Gaya: असार asār.

South Munger and South Bhagalpur: धार पजाव dhār pajāw or असार asār.

North of the Ganges generally: धार पिढावळ dhār pitāwal.

Also, North-West Tirhut and Sāran: धार पिजावळ dhār pijāwal.

North-East Tirhut: धार बनावळ dhār banāēb.

South-East Tirhut: धार करा लावळ phār karā lāēb.

26. When a man wishes to plough deep he harnesses the yoke higher up the beam in the notches (d). This is called in West Bihār जोगार augār. In North-West Tirhut it is called लगार lagār, and in the rest of Tirhut तराळ tarakh. In South-West Shahabad it is called अवाट awāē, in South Munger ढाढा thārha, and in South Bhagalpur ढाढ thār. Light ploughing is done in the converse way, and is known everywhere as सेव sev, or in North-East Tirhut सेब seb.

CHAPTER II.—MATTOCKS AND SPADES.

27. A large mattock is in West Bihār and Gaya फौरा phaura. Variants are फहोरा phahora (Patna and Gaya), फहोरा phahora (South Munger), फहोरा phaōra (Patna and Gaya), and फहुरा phahura or फरुहा pharuha in Shahabad. In South-West Shahabad it is फरसा pharsa. In Tirhut it is कुदर kudār, and in South Bhagalpur and South Mungēr कोदर kodār. Another name current in Gaya is जाम jām or जामा jāma. In the same district अभी abhi is a heavy kind of wooden spade tipped with iron for hard soils, and खुरनी khurni or खुदनी khudni is a kind of spade.

28. A mattock with a narrower blade is कुदारी kudāri, कोदारी kodāri, or कोदारी kodāri. South of the Ganges it is also कुदाली kudali.

कुदाळ kudāl and कुदर kudār are often used to signify also the smaller variety. In South Bhagalpur it is ठेंडी कोदर thenthi kodār.

29. The handle is बेंट bent, and the upper end of it, which projects beyond the socket, हुरा hūra or हूर hūr, or (in South-West Tirhut) मुठा mūtha. Other names for this end are एरा era or अरानी ārāni, and in South Bhagalpur पाटा pāta. The ring or socket in the blade, to which the handle is fixed, is पास pās or पासा pāsa (or in South Bhagalpur पासो pāso). In South-West Shahabad it is पंवाँरी pamwānri, and in South Munger (optionally) पसाटा pasāta. The curved part of the blade is in Sāran and Patna फरी phari. Elsewhere, north of the Ganges and in South Munger, फरकी pharki. In Patna and South Munger it is also called फल phal, in South Bhagalpur फरो pharo, and in Gaya फारी phāri. In Shahabad it is धार dhār, and in the south-west of the district दम्प damp. The place where the ring and the blade meet is कन्धी kanthi in Patna and Gaya, नही nahin in Shahabad, सन san or कन्ध kanth in South Bhagalpur, and सुन sun in South Munger. In Sāran the part of the handle which is grasped is मुठ mūth, and the corners काना kāna. A new mattock is नवघर navghar, and a worn one ठेंडी thenthi.

1. Bent (handle).

2. Pāsa (socket).

3. Hūra.

4. Phari (blade).

5. Kanthi (neck).

The Mattock (Phaura or Kodār).

CHAPTER III.—THE HARROW.

30. This is usually the flat plank, with (in the east) a groove along the underside. It is dragged along the ground to break the clods after ploughing, while a man stands on it to give weight. In West Bihār and in South-East Tirhut it is called हेंगा henga, and in East Bihār more usually चौकी chaunki or चौकी chauki. In Patna it is also called सिल्वे silwe, पटवे patwe, or लगवन्री lagāwri.

31. When drawn by one pair of oxen—one ox at each end—it is called हेंगी hengi in Champāran, दुगोड़ी dugori in Tirhut, एक हरा ek hara in South Bhagalpur, and दोबरन्दा dobarda elsewhere. When drawn by two pair of oxen—one pair at each end—it is called in North-East Tirhut चौगोड़ा chaugora, in the rest of Tirhut चरगोरी chargori, दो हरा do hara in South Bhagalpur, and elsewhere चौबरन्दा chaubarda.

32. The pegs to which the hauling ropes are fastened are generally खूंटी khūnti. In Shahabad they are also called सँडु sanrusa, and in the south-west of the district गुल्ली gulli. In Gaya they are बाँका baunkha, in Patna and South Munger बहका bahkha, and in South Bhagalpur अंकोरा ankora.

33. The hauling ropes are, north of the Ganges generally, and in West Shahabad, बारही barhi. North of the Ganges they are also हेंगही hengahi. In Shahabad chains used for the purpose are सीकर sinkar, and in Patna and Gaya सीकर sikar when used with four bullocks abreast. These words are also used in North Tirhut. In Patna they are also चौक नारन chauk nāran when of rope. In South-East Tirhut they are also called मरिखर marikhar, and in South Bhagalpur जगन्दीरी jagdori. In South Munger they are सीकर sikar when made of chain, and मरिखर marikhar when made of rope, and मज्जौतर majhautar is the rope or leather strap joining the two yokes when four bullocks are used. So also in Patna and Gaya. The last word is मज्जौतर majhotar in East Tirhut. In East Tirhut, when made of leather they are called मेरन mairan or मेहन merhan, and when made of rope बारन्दा barha or बारही barhi. Sometimes long strips of bamboo are made to serve as hauling ropes. They are then called in South Munger कुदन्दी kudandī, in South Bhagalpur बसन्तोती banjoti, and elsewhere आरोआ arauna.

34. The channel in the lower part of the plank to break the clods is in South Bhagalpur घाघरी ghaghri or घाढ़ ghāi, in South Munger खदन्दा khaddha, and elsewhere खड्डा khaddha. The channel is generally the hollow of the stem of the talipot palm, the harrow being composed of the split half of a log of that tree.

1. Henga (harrow).

2. Khūnti (pegs).

3. Barki (ropes).

The Harrow (Henga or Chauki).

35. The cylindrical roller is rarely used in the field. It is called everywhere by a corruption of its English name, viz. रोल rol. The block itself is called पल्ला palla (Patna), कड़ी kari (Gaya), एकठा ektha in Shahabad, and लकड़ी lakri in South-West Shahabad. Elsewhere it is simply चौकी chaunki or चौकी chauki.

36. Sometimes the harrow is made of two parallel planks joined together. This is called हेंगा henga or चौकी chauki, &c., as above.

CHAPTER IV.—RAKES USED IN FIELD WORK.

37. Rakes are seldom used. Sometimes a bundle of thorns is dragged over a field to soften the surface when it has been baked hard by the sun after rain or irrigation. This has no special name. In parts of Tirhut the कंटा kanta or खखोरनी khakhorni is a sort of rake or harrow worked by oxen to loosen the soil and extricate weeds from a crop of young rice. A पचफरिया pachphariya or (in Sāran) गेल्ली gelhni is a kind of plough with five shares used in indigo factories.

CHAPTER V.—PICKAXES, PITCHFORKS, &c.

38. A pickaxe.—North of the Ganges this is गैता gainta, south of the Ganges it is गैता gainta or गैती gainti. In South Bhagalpur it is गैचा gaincha, and in South Munger गैता gāta.

39. The dredger, used in well-sinking, has various names. In Shahabad, Sāran, and South Tirhut it is चल्ना chalna, and in Champāran तराही tarchhi. In North-East Tirhut it is चौटी chhti, कठुली kathuli, or पथिया pathiya. चौटी chhti is also used in South-East Tirhut, where also occur कठुन kathwat and (also in Shahabad) तगाड़ी tagāri. Elsewhere south of the Ganges it is गैता gainta or खन्ती khanti, and in South Munger चौटा chhita.

40. The pointed iron spear for tapping the well-spring also has various names, viz. खुंटा khunta north of the Ganges generally, गजाड़ा gajāra in Sāran, and गोभनी gobhni in South-West Tirhut. In Gaya it is खोभना khobhna, and in Shahabad खोभन khobhan, but in the south-west of the latter district it is लरहा larha. In South Munger it is डेभन debhan, and in South Bhagalpur it is गजाड़ा gajāra or खन्ती khanti.

41. The hooked stick for pulling down fruit from trees is generally लग्गा lagga or लग्गी laggi. The hook of this is अंकुसी ankusi or (in South Bhagalpur) कानी kāni. The long pole with a small net at the end to catch the fruit as it falls is जोडा jhola, खोंची khonchi, or (in Sāran) जोरा jhora. Another optional name in South Munger is जलखारी jalkhari.

The short stick thrown up into fruit-trees to bring down fruit is जहाड़ा jhatha, and also (in Sāran) लगूसी lagūsi.

SUBDIVISION II.

IMPLEMENTS USED IN SOWING, WEEDING, AND IRRIGATION.

CHAPTER I.—BASKETS.

42. Baskets are generally woven of bamboo slips or twigs. Unless otherwise stated, this may be assumed of all the following.

43. Baskets used specially by the sower are called generally ओरा ora, ओड़ी ori, or ओड़िया oriya (sometimes made partly with the fibre of the leaves of the tāl palm); also we meet, to the west, छैटी chhainti, and to the east चौटा chhita (a large one), चौटी chhti (a small one), or दौरी dauri. South of the Ganges they are also called in Patna बहा battā, (also in Shahabad) दौरा daura, or दौरी dauri (sometimes made of the culm of the sik grass, andropogon muricatum), in Gaya (also in North-East Tirhut) पथिया pathiyu (also used for feeding cattle), and in South Munger खंचिया khanchiya. The only difference amongst all these is that in the case of the दौरा daura and दौरी dauri the bottom is woven of bamboo slips, like a mat.

44. There are likewise several other kinds of baskets, used indiscriminately for this and other domestic and agricultural purposes. Thus, small straw grain-baskets are चंगेली changeli or चंगेरी changeri, and sometimes दाली dali or दलिया daliya, especially towards the east. In Patna and South Munger they are called बटरी batri. Another very similar basket (but still smaller) is called very generally मौनी maunni or मौनिया mauniya, also बट्टा batta in Patna, Gaya, and South Munger, and फुलुकी phuluki in East Tirhut. A large open basket made of split twigs of bamboo generally woven up with the fibre of the leaves of the tāl palm is called टोकड़ा tokra, ढाका dhāka, ढाकी dhāki, बोड़ा ora, or चैंटा chainta. A smaller variety is called गंजा gānja, टोकरा tokri, ढाकीया dhakiya. When the bottom is very finely woven, so as even to hold water, it is called बोड़ेरा oraisa. The धामा dhāma is an open basket made of rattan. The खैंचा khaincha or खॉचा khāncha is a large coarse basket made of twigs of cytiscus cajan (rahar) or tamarisk (jhāū). South of the Ganges we also find देही deli. A smaller basket of the same kind is known as खॉची khānchi (also खॉकी khānghi in North-East Tirhut), खंचिया khanchiya, खचोली khacholi, पथुली pathuli (Gaya), नोनहारो nonihāri (Patna), or (South Bhagalpur) दमहरिया damhariya. The दगगा dagra, दगरी dagri, also called south of the Ganges दौरा daura, दौरी dauri, or (in South Bhagalpur) दाला dāla, is a large shallow basket. These are all made of either bamboo twigs or slips, except the दौरा daura or दौरी dauri (see above). In Shahabad करर karū or दोकी doki, and north of the Ganges सिक्कती sikahuti or सिकौती sikauti, is a little basket made of the stalks of the mūnj grass.

45. A broken basket is चितनी chhitni, or in Gaya छतना chhatna, or in South Bhagalpur चितना chhitna.* The जॉपी jhampi or जॉपिया jhampiya is a little basket with a lid. It is also called पौती pauti or पौतिया pautiya (being then generally made of mūnj grass) and पेटारी petari (made of bamboo or rattan). A larger kind is called जॉपा jhāmpa. The lid of all these is called पेहानी pehāni or जॉप jhāmp. ढेंचा thaicha or चंगोर changor, or in Shahabad ढेंचा thaincha or ढोंचा thīncha, is a kind of large open basket. फुलदाली phuldālī is a flower-basket.

* A common curse amongst Gaya women is चितनी बटनी बागौ chhitni barhni lāgau,—may your wealth be swept away.

144. The stirrer or stick moved in the churn is रही rahi generally, and also मचनी mahni to the west and in Tirhut. The latter has local variants, viz. मथनी mathni (Tirhut and the West), महान mahān (West), and महोनी mahonni (Gaya). Local names are गजही gajhi (South-East Tirhut), छोही chhorhi (South-West Shahabad and East Tirhut), and घोराही ghorāhi (Patna, Gaya, and South Munger).

145. The rope with which it is twisted is generally रसरी rasri or डोरी dori; but more specific names are नेत net (generally), with local variants नेवल newal or नेवता newta (east) and नेतो neto (South Bhagalpur). In Patna it is खिचनी khinchni, and in South Munger दम dam. Another name in South Bhagalpur is जोती joti.

146. Various vessels.—In South Bhagalpur काई kāin is a small vessel containing a quarter of a ser of milk. A पाथा pātha contains one ser, and a चुका chuka four ser. In Sāran a चुका chukka contains a quarter of a ser.

SUBDIVISION VI.

APPLIANCES USED IN THE CONVEYANCE OF GOODS OR PASSENGERS.

CHAPTER I.—THE COUNTRY CART.

147. The ordinary cart is called everywhere गाड़ी gāri, but in Sāran it is more usually गड़ी gari. The चक्रा chakra or गाड़ा gāra is the large complete full-sized cart, with long bamboo poles projecting from each side in front. In North-East Tirhut it is sometimes called चघूस गाड़ी chaghūs gāri. The सगगर saggar or सागर sāgar is a lighter and rougher kind of cart for carrying country produce. In Gaya and Shahabad it is also called लरहिया larhiya.

148. For carrying passengers the राथ rath or रथ ranth is a light four-wheeled cart used by rich people. A similar two-wheeled cart is called सॉमगी गाड़ी sāmugi gāri or (in Gaya) सौंगी गाड़ी saungi gāri. It is also called मंजोली manjholi in Tirhut and Gaya and बहल bahal generally, with variants बहेली baheli (Patna and Gaya) and बहली bahli (Gaya). The एका ekka is a two-wheeled light trap, generally drawn by a pony. In Sāran it is also called जोड़ बहल ghor bahal. The किरांची kirānchi is a covered cart something like an omnibus on two wheels.

149. A cart drawn by a single pair of bullocks is दोबरन्दा dobarda or दोकरा dokra. One drawn by two pairs is चौबरन्दा chaubarda (but this hardly ever occurs). In a team of three bullocks the wheelers are called धुरी dhūri or धुरिया dhuriya to the west and जोड़ी jori to the east, and the leader बौड़ bīr or बिंदिया binriya to the west and जित्ती jhitti (also in Sāran) or नाटा nāta to the east.

CHAPTER II.—THE LARGE COMPLETE COUNTRY CART.

150. This is छक्का chhakka, गाड़ा gāra, or चघूस गाड़ी chaghūs gāri (see Chapter I). Its parts are as follows:—

151. The wheel.—This is everywhere पहिया pahiya. To the west, and also in Gaya and South-East Tirhut, it is also called चक्का chakka.

152. The felloe is called मंगर mangar, except in Gaya, where it is जमोट jamot. It is made of six segments of sisu wood, called each पुट्टी putthi.

153. The nave is called नाह nāh. In Gaya it is also नह nah, and in Sāran नाहा naha. Through this the spokes run completely through and through, each spoke terminating at each end in the felloe, each thus forming in reality two spokes. There are six of these double spokes altogether, making three pairs of two parallel spokes each (see illustration). These three pairs are of varying thickness. The first pair driven in is thicker and stronger than the second pair, and the second pair than the third pair. In crossing each other in the nave, the second pair runs through the first pair, and the third pair through the second and first. These pairs have names, viz.—

154. The spokes.—1.—The first pair is called आरा āra. This is the thickest and strongest pair of spokes in the wheel.
- 2.—The second thickest and second strongest pair of spokes is called निमारा nimāra, other names being बेलि or बेली beli (Tirhut and South Bhagalpur), नीम धूरी nīm dhūri or नेबारा nebāra (South-East Tirhut), and लेवारा lewāra (Shahabad).
- 3.—The weakest and thinnest pair of spokes in a wheel is called गज gaj.

To the west and in Gaya, both the second and third pairs are called गज gaj. The spokes are collectively called डंड़िया danriya, and to the west also आरागज ārāgaj.

1. Āra.
2. Nimāra.
3. Gaj.

155. The six segments of the felloe are fastened together by a wedge of wood called चूर chūr or, in Gaya, चूड़ chūl, fitting tightly into two mortices, one in each of the two contiguous ends of the segment. This wedge is also called चोही chonhi generally, also जोही jonhi or जोहिवा jonhiya to the west of the North Gangetic tract and गरब खिहा garab khilla in Shahabad, Gaya, and South-East Tirhut. In Shahabad it is also called चोंटी chonti or चेंची chenghi, and in Patna चूड़ chūl.

156. The mortice in the end of each segment of the felloe is called चेह chhed or चूर bhūr, or in Saran कोल khol. The end of the wedge is called डाकनी dākni.

157. A wedge driven through the segment of the felloe from outside to tighten the spokes in their places is called पचर or पचड़ pachchar, or in Saran पची pachchi.

158. The iron hoop round the nave to prevent it from splitting is called बन्द band or बन ban.

159. Inside the nave is sometimes tightly fastened an iron tube to receive the axle. This is called the मोहनरी mohanri, and in Gaya also मोहनही mohandi.

160. The iron axle-box passing through the centre of the nave inside the मोहनरी mohanri, when there is one, is called आवन awan, and also (in Champaran, North Tirhut, and South Munger) आबोन āon.

161. When the outside edge of the felloe is bevelled to prevent wearing, it is called north of the Ganges and in Shahabad टाल tāl, with variants टाहवा tahua (East Tirhut, Patna, and Gaya), टाहवा talha in West Tirhut, and टाहा talāh in South-East Tirhut. To the east it is also called मङ्गर mangar, मंगरा mangra, or मेगर maigar, with a variant मेहरा meghra in North-East Tirhut. In South Munger it is called कोरमार kormār.

162. When the outside of the felloe is flat it is called पाथर pāthar, but this rarely occurs.

163. The tire.—When the wheel is tired, the tire is called हाह hal.

164. The linch-pin is generally धुरकिली dhurkilli, local optional names being रनकिली rankilli (Gaya and South-East Tirhut) and कील ki in Shahabad. In East Tirhut, Gaya, and South Bhagalpur it is पचड़ pachchar. The peg inside the wheel is फरकिली pharkilli, or in Saran फरकिला pharkilla. In a चक्र chakra there is generally only one linch-pin, on the inside end of the axle.

165. The outside washer of hemp (सन san) is चेनी cheni, चेंदी chendi, or (in Sāran) चेही chenhi. That inside the wheel is खानन khānan, with variants खनन khanan (Sāran), खनखन khanhan (South-East Tirhut), खाँनन khāngan (South-West Shahabad), and खाँदन khāndan (South Munger, Patna, and Gaya).

166. The axle.—Each wheel has an axle of its own, each supported entirely by struts descending on each side of the wheel from the side of the cart to which the wheel belongs. The axle is धूरा dhūra or धूरी dhuri. Sometimes a distinction is made, धूरा dhūra being used when the axle is of wood and धूरी dhuri when it is of iron; but this is by no means universal.

167. The outside supports of the axle.—The supports outside the wheel are two pieces of wood meeting outside the wheel in front of the nave, where, at the point of crossing, they receive the axle. The upper end of one fits into one end of the front crossbar of the frame of the body of the cart (टेकानी tekāni, &c.), and that of the other into one end of the rear crossbar of the frame of the body of the cart (आक āk, &c.) (see illustration). These supports are called तुलावा tulāwa. They are fastened to the body of the cart by chains or ropes, called बान bān or बन्ध band.

168. The curved branch of sisu wood which passes under the point of the axle, where it projects from the तुलावा tulāwa, and thus further supports the axle, is called पैंजनी painjani, with variants पैंजनी panjani (Shahabad optionally) and पेंगनी pengni (North-East Tirhut). In Gaya it is called दाब dāb. It is pulled tightly up against the axle by three ties, two in front and one behind.

169. The front ties fastened to the fore end of the पैंजनी painjani are called जन्त jant. The other end of each of these ropes is fastened to a hook, called कड़ी kari. One of these hooks is fastened to the टेकानी tekāni, and the other to the bottom of the cart, farther on in front, to one of the करहरी karhari (vide post). The जन्त jant are tightened by a stick called अमेही amerhi, or in Sāran सलुया saluiya, which passes between them and twists them together to the requisite degree of tightness.

170. The rear tie of the पैंजनी painjani is called कुलंगरा kulangra, or in Sāran तुलंगरा tulangra. It generally consists of one iron chain. Two rings (खर्कहरीया kharkhariya) hang in two staples (कोंदा konrha) to the underside (पराक parāk) of the rear bar (आक āk) of the cart. One of these rings hangs near the centre of the आक āk, and the other at the end near the wheel. The chain is fastened to one, then passes round the end of the पैजनी painjani, and the other end is fastened to the other ring. In this way the पैजनी painjani is held in its place. The accompanying sketch will make this clear.

c = the konrā.

f = the rear end of the painjani.

171. The body of the cart may roughly be described as a long triangle strongly built, lying on one surface, and arched so that its convex side is uppermost. Viewed from the side it resembles a shallow arch, and from above a triangle. Across the back a strong square or oblong frame is laid. This serves as the foundation for the carrying portion of the cart. The annexed illustration is a plan of a cart taken from above.

172. The बाक āk or बाज āg is the main beam in the rear of the cart. It is made of sisu. In Shahabad this is called बाँच ānkh. Another and lighter piece of wood going underneath the बाक āk to strengthen it, and also made of sisu, is called पड़ाक parāk. A slip of bamboo tied on behind the बाक āk and forming the tail of the cart is known as पचलकड़ा pachhlakra, with local variants, viz. पंचलकड़ा panchlakra in West Tirhut, पिचलकड़ा pichhalkura in Patna and Gaya, and पिचलकड़ा pichhlakra or कड़ा kara in Shahabad. In South Bhagalpur it is अँकोरा ankora or पचहना pachhera.

173. The front bar of the square portion of the cart is known as टेकानी tekāni. In South Munger it is तेकानी tekāni with a dental t.

174. The sides of the square part of the body, going over the wheels and joined at one end to the बाक āk and at the other end fitting on to the top of the टेकानी tekāni, are called धुरौटी dhurauti.

175. The piece of wood fitting over the end of each of the धुरौटी dhurauti, where it joins the टेकानी tekāni, and holding the former in its place, is called बिलैया bilaiya.

FULL SIZED BULLOCK CART (CHHAKRA)—FRONT VIEW.

Labd. by Hem Chander Ghosal, Student, Govt. School of Art, Calcutta.

W. NEWMAN & CO., LIMITED, CALCUTTA-IND.

176. The short stout cross-bar of sisu wood crossing the triangular body of the cart between the डेकानी tekāni and the apex of the triangle, in front of the driver's seat, is called पिदिवा pirhiya.

177. The point which is the front of the cart, and which forms the apex of the triangle, is called सगुन sagūn, or in Patna and Gaya सगुनी saguni. The lower portion of this is called in Sāran थोप thop.

178. The two long sides of the cart, forming the sides of the triangle, starting one from each end of the बाक āk and meeting in the सगुन sagūn, are known as फर or फड़ phar, a local variant being फेड़ phair (North-East Tirhut). They are also called तांगा tānga south of the Ganges and बरसा barsa in Sāran and Champaran. They are sometimes strengthened with a band of iron, called पत्तार pattar, बन ban, or बन्द band.

179. The whole bottom of the cart is called चप्पा chhappa. It is composed of the फर phar, the बाक āk, the डेकानी tekāni, and the पिदिवा pirhiya, and has in addition three long strips running the length of the cart, called कड़कड़ी karhari, and thirteen cross-pieces called बत्ती batti, or in Sāran बत्ता batla, and in Gaya also चाही chālī. The कड़कड़ी karhari are also called फरी phari in Patna and the south-west and चपोट chapot in Shahabad. North of the Ganges they are also called मन्जा manjha, मांजा mānjha, or भरानी bharāni. They are fastened in their places by pegs, called फरकिला pharkilla, कठकिल्ली kathkilli, or किल्ली killi, पच्चेर pachchar (&c.), or कांटी kānti. Of the thirteen बत्ती batti or cross-pieces, there are three between the बाक āk and the डेकानी tekāni, four between the डेकानी tekāni and the पिदिवा pirhiya, and six between the पिदिवा pirhiya and the सगुन sagūn.

180. This completes the description of the main frame of the cart.

We now come to the various contrivances for retaining goods in the cart. These are the following, but they are not all used in one cart:—

181. At the rear of the cart, just in front of the बाक āk, is tied a thick bough of wood. This is called the पछुआ pachhua. It prevents goods falling out behind.

182. Over the पिदिवा pirhiya, and of equal length to the डेकानी tekāni, runs a bamboo called the तीज tij, supported by two stout pillars about a foot high, each standing on one end of the पिदिवा pirhiya. These pillars are called the खुंटरी khuntri or खुंटरा khuntra, local variant being खुंटहरी khuntahri (Sāran and South Tirhut) and खुंटेहरी khuntehri or खुंटीहरी khuntihri in Shahabad. In Gaya similar posts are called माँची mānchi.

183. Two very long bamboos now form sides, each resting on one end of the आक āk, on a बिलैया bilaiya, and on one end of the तीज tij. Each projects behind the आक āk and a long way in front of the तीज tij, and is called बाला balla. Other names are बाँस bāns, बाँसबली bansballi, बाँसौरा bansaura (Shahabad), or चंदवा chandwa (Patna).

184. Sometimes bamboos run from end to end. These are called चीप chip when they commence at the टेकानी tekāni and run close under and fastened to the फर phar, up to the सगून sagūn. They serve to strengthen the फर phar. When they run the whole length of the cart, from the आक āk to the सगून sagūn, and form as it were the string of the bow formed by the body of the cart, running close to and parallel with the जहाका jhatka (vide post), they are called लप्पा lappa or (in Tirhut) लप्पु lappu. They are fastened to the body of the cart by ties, known as दाँगली dāngli in Sāran, दाँगड़ी daungri in East Tirhut, बाधी bādhi in Shahabad, जौंदा jaunrha in Gaya, and सोंठ sonth in South Bhagalpur. Elsewhere they are simply रस्सा rassa, &c.

185. Sometimes the बाला ballā is raised behind by a pillar (खुंटरी khuntri) at each end of the आक āk, and the space between it and the body of the cart filled up with a rope siding. This rope siding is then called हथवासा hanthwāsa, or in Patna फड़का pharka, and in Sāran एड़ा era.

186. The flat board forming the driver's seat is called मोहनरा mohra, or in South Bhagalpur मोड़ा morha and in Shahabad मुंहरा munhra.

187. The parts underneath the cart supporting the inner end of the axle-tree.—There are two supports inside each wheel, like the तुलावा tulāwā outside. They cross each other opposite the inner end of the axle which passes through the intersection. As each wheel has a separate short axle, there are therefore two independent pairs of these, one inside each wheel.

188. The rear one of each of these pairs is called गुरिया guriya or गोरिया goriya, or (in Patna) खजाना khajāna. Like the rear तुलावा tulāwā, its upper end is fastened into the आक āk. It is strengthened in its place in the आक āk by a strut, called मेहराब mehrab, and the two गुरिया guriya are further strengthened by a cross-piece called चंदेरी danrheri, joining the two, which thus prevents them approaching each other. The annexed illustration will make this clear.

- a—a = the āk.
 b—b = the parāk.
 c, c = the two goriya.
 d, d = the two mehrab.

189. The front supports of these pairs are each called थोप thobh or चोप thop. The upper ends of these are fixed in the टेकानी tekāni.

190. The apparatus for keeping the body of the cart curved.—This consists of a set of strings called जडका jhatka, which passes right under the cart from end to end, one end being fastened to the आक āk and the other to the सगुन sagūn. This is kept tight, so that it keeps the whole cart bent exactly like a bow.

- a—a = the āk.
 c = the sagūn.
 d = strings fastened to the āk, passing round the danta and back to the āk.
 e = strings fastened to the sagūn, passing round the danta and back to the sagūn.

191. The danta, or in south Bhagulpur अमेरी ameri, in the above figure is a stout piece of bamboo. It will be evident from the figure that it affords increased leverage, and offers a ready means for tightening the जठका jhātka when necessary. Sometimes bamboos run parallel to the जठका jhātka from the सगुन sagūn to each end of the बाक āk as further strengtheners. These are called लप्पा lappa or (in Tirhut) लप्पू lappū.

192. The चहिया chhatiya is a slip of wood fastened across and under the body of the cart from थोभ thobh to थोभ thobh, which serves to hang baskets, &c., from.

193. The point which is the front of the cart, and which forms the apex of the triangle, is, as already stated, the सगुन sagūn or सगुनी sagun. It is here that the yoke is fastened. Underneath it, to prevent the point resting on the ground, is fixed a stout peg, called उदरा utra. On the top of the सगुन sagūn, to afford a boss for fastening the yoke to, is fixed the मुँहचोपड़ा munhthopra, मुँहचपड़ा munhthapra, or (south of the Ganges) मोथापड़ा mothāpra. In Champaran it is called मोहनड़ा mohra.

194. The yoke is जूबा jūa, and also in Shahabad जूचड़ jūar, as distinct from पाखो pālo or जुआठ juāth, a plough yoke (see § 14). The pegs passing through the ends of the yoke, outside the bullocks' necks, to prevent them shirking their work, are made either of wood or iron. The name समेख samail is generally applied to them when of wood, and सेमल semal, समल sammal, or सिमल simmal when of iron; but this distinction is not always observed. To the east they are called कनेख kanail. The inner pegs towards the middle of the yoke, on the inside of each bullock's neck, are called (in East Tirhut) चिरैया chiraiya. They may be of either iron or wood.

195. Props.—When the bullocks are unyoked, the front of the cart is supported at the सगुन sagūn, to prevent it falling forward, by the सिपावा sipāwa or (in North-East Tirhut) सिरपावा sirpāya and (in Sāran) सिपवा sipwa. The top of this is called in Gaya मॉंजा mānjha. The prop to prevent the cart falling back is एड़ा era, उलरवा ularua, सिधवार sidhwāi, or (in Patna) लरवा larua.

196. The ropes which go round the bullocks' necks are जोता jota, जोती joti, or गलजोती galjoti. When three bullocks are yoked, the rope which goes over the leader's neck is to the west बिंरिया binriya or बिरिया biriya, and in Sāran and the east जिड़ी jhitti. The rope (रसी rassi, &c.) by which the yoke is kept in its place is called बिहुच bichhua, or in North-East Tirhut जॉंक jhonk.

197. The mat put in the bottom of the cart to prevent grain from falling out is चटार chatāi generally, but it is हरियार hariyār in Patna and भंडारी bhandāri in South Bhagalpur. The last is also used optionally in Gaya and East Tirhut. In Sāran a canvas mat used in the same way is called धाला dhāla.

198. The iron chain for tying up the bullocks at night is generally सीकर sikar or जन्गीर janjīr. Local names are पाही pāhi or दानर dānrar in Champāran and Tirhut, बेल bel in Gaya, and पैकल paikal, (also in Gaya) पैकर paikar, or पैकड़ painkar in Shahabad. The portion round the bullock's neck is called गरदनी gardani.

199. The above is the description, except where otherwise stated, of a very complete चकड़ा chhakra, which is itself the most complete kind of cart. Few carts are as complete as this; but they differ merely in being less complete, and in no other way.

200. As regards size, the cart of which the above is a description had the following measurements, a cubit being taken as equivalent to $1\frac{1}{2}$ feet:—

	Cubits.
Length from आक āk to टेकानी tekāni ...	$1\frac{1}{2}$
„ टेकानी tekāni to पिदिवा pirhiya ...	$1\frac{1}{2}$
„ पिदिवा pirhiya to सगून sagūn ...	3
Total length ...	6 cubits, = 9 feet.

The आक āk, टेकानी tekāni, and लीज tij, were each three cubits long.

The बाला ballā were each six cubits long, and the खुंटरी khuntri one foot. The wheel was two cubits across.

The greatest height of the arch was at the पिदिवा pirhiya, where it was one cubit.

The height of the सगून sagūn from the ground when supported by the सिपावा sipāwa was $2\frac{1}{2}$ cubits, and that of the आक āk, at the same time, $1\frac{1}{2}$ cubits.

CHAPTER III.—THE LIGHT COUNTRY CART.

201. This is सगड़ saggar, सागड़ sāgar, or लरहिवा larhiya (see § 147). In Sāran it is called गाड़ा gāra.

This cart is rougher, lighter, and cheaper than the चकड़ा chhakra.

202. The wheel is the same as in the चकड़ा chhakra.

203. The axle.—There is only one axle (धूरा dhāra), which goes right across under the cart, and on which both wheels run. It runs through a block of wood which runs across from wheel to wheel, and out of each end of which the ends of the axle project. This block is called मँदरा mandra. The projecting ends of the axle receive the wheels, which are held in their places by outside linch-pins (धुरगिळी dhurkilli, &c. (see § 164). Sometimes the wheels of the सगड़ saggar are protected by a board outside, one end being fastened to the चाक āk and the other to the टेकनी tekāni (see §§ 172, 173). Through this the end of the axle projects, and is made secure by the linch-pin. This board is called पँजनी painjani, पँजनी panjani (Shahabad optionally), or (North-East Tirhut) पँगनी pengni, and must be distinguished from the different wheel support bearing the same name in the चकड़ा chhakra.

204. The body of the सगड़ saggar is not arched, as in the चकड़ा chhakra. It is simply a flat triangle of wood, principally bamboo. The two long sides of the body, commencing at each end of the चाक āk and ending together at the सगून sagūn, are called, as in the चकड़ा chhakra, फड़ phar, &c. As the सगड़ saggar has no तुलवा tuliwa, थोस thobh, or गुरिया guriya, the body rests directly on the axle, being supported by two blocks of wood, called तेतला tellu, तेतहिया tetahiya, or in Saran तेंतुला tentula, each of which rests on one end of the मँदरा mandra, and on which, on the other hand, the corresponding फर phar rests. Along the फर phar, and underneath it, is tied a bamboo to strengthen it. This is called बाँगर bāngar.

205. In other respects a सगड़ saggar differs little from a चकड़ा chhakra, except that it is built lighter and almost entirely of bamboo. As the body is not arched, the former has of course no झटका jhutka, &c.

CHAPTER IV.—THE BULLOCK CARRIAGE.

206. When it has four wheels, it is called रथ rath or रन्थ ranth. This is rare in Bihār.

207. When it has two wheels, it is called बहल bahal, with variants बहेली baheli (Patna) and बहली bahli (Shahabad and Gaya).

208. This cart is almost exactly the same in principle as the चकड़ा chhakra, except that it is generally built lighter. On the square portion at the back is reared a kind of canopied seat, called साँवगी sāmgi or साँगी saungi; hence the cart is also called a साँवगी गाड़ी sāmgi gāri.

209. Its parts are as follows:—

The wheel.—As in a cart (see § 151 and ff.).

The leather washer is called चकन्ती or चकन्डी chakti, गद्दा gadda, or बिठरी biṭhai.

210. The axle.—As in a cart (see § 166).

211. The supports of the wheels and axles.—These are the same as in a चकन्डा chhakra (see § 167 and ff., § 187 and ff.).

212. The body of the vehicle.—The lower part is like a चकन्डा chhakra. Over it is placed the following, the whole of which is called सॉन्गी sāwgi or सौंगी sāungi.

213. The frame of the seat is पट्टी patti, local variants being पहा patta (East Tirhut and Patna), पटिया patiya (East Tirhut and the west), and बौदन्डी baudandi (Gaya). Its supports are खूँटा khūnta or खुंटा khunta. On these are ornamental brass knobs, called फुलिवा phuliya. The posts supporting the awning are दन्दा danda or डन्दा danta (East Tirhut and the west). The top of the awning is चहत्तरी chhattari or (in Shahabad and Gaya) ठहत्तरी thatri, and the stuffed cover to keep off the sun is गद्दा gadda or गदेला gadela. In South Munger it is गद्दी gaddi. The net forming the bottom of the seat is सॉन्गी sāwgi or सौंगी saungi, and the leather guard of the body inside the wheels is धमाका dhamāka.

214. The two long sides are called फर phar, &c., or तॉंगा tānga, as in the चकन्डा chhakra. Between them are placed narrow planks, called मॉन्हा mānjha.

215. The supports of the body behind are डरवा dharua or डंरवा dhanrua, and similar smaller ones inside are बावली bāwli.

216. The दौत्तवा dantua, or in Saran दाला dhāla, is the back seat for carrying luggage, and it is also called अरानी arāni in South-East Tirhut and Champaran. डोरी dori are the strings forming the side of the awning, and परन्दा parda is the side awning, which may be raised or let down as required. In Saran it is also called ओहार ohār.

217. The rails on each side of the driver's seat are बल्लि balli.

218. In other respects the bullock carriage is the same as the चकन्डा chhakra (see Chapter II).

CHAPTER V.—THE PONY CARRIAGE.

219. This is nearly the same as the bullock cart, on a smaller scale, except in the following particulars :—

220. The wheel is the same as in the bullock carriage (see § 151 and ff.).

221. The axle is धूरा dhūra or धूरी dhūri, which is strengthened inside by a short metal tube, सॉमा sāmma, सामा sāma, or सामी sāmi. In North-East Tirhut the latter is also called साम sām. There is one of these inside each wheel, and they act as a kind of washer. There is only one axle (धूरी dhūri), on which both wheels run. Outside each wheel are a pair of तुलावा tulāwa, but inside there are no जोम thobh or गुरिया guriya, as in the bullock cart (see § 187 and ff.). Round the ends of the टेकानी tekāni, the चाक āk, and the axle, forming a triangle outside the wheel, is tightly tied a rope called the जन्त jant, and just above the lowest angle of this triangle (i.e., just above the point of axle), is tied to it a short stick serving as a footstep, called सलार salāi or सलैया salaiya.

222. The तुलावा tulāwa are fastened to the चाक āk and the टेकानी tekāni (see §§ 167, 172, and 173) by iron hooks, called अंकुरी ankuri or (Champāran, South Tirhut, and South Munger) अंकुरा ankura. South of the Ganges they are also called in Shahabad and South Bhagalpur तुलार tulāi. चाक hāl is the tire of the wheel. The leather splashboard over the wheel is लकटना lakhta or लकटी lakhti. In South-West Shahabad it is called पट्टरा patra.

223. The props of the body are दंडा danda (west), दान्ता danta (east and Champāran), or खूंटा khūnta. The top of the awning is चहत्तरी chhattri, and the roof of it is चहत्त chhat or (in Gaya) तारक tarak; गदेला godela or (in South-East Tirhut and South Munger) गद्दी gaddi is a cushion at the top to keep off the sun. The awning at the sides is परदा parda, or in Sāran घटा टोप ghata top, which is fastened by iron rings, कड़ी kari or (in Gaya) खोली kholi. The ropes which support the awning poles are हथुआंसा hathuānsa, and the rope trellis between the two rear awning poles चौक chauk. This last serves as a back to lean against.

224. The खूंटा khūnta or खूंटरा khuntra are posts which support the body in front on the axle. धरवा dharua, धारवा dhārua, or (in South Bhagalpur) धालुआं dhāluān, are the posts which support the body on the axle behind the खूंटा khūnta. बावली bāwli or बीबी bauli are similar posts behind the कुंटा khunta, but in front of the धरुवा dharua. They are quite inside the body of the cart. To the west of the North Gangetic tract they are also called गज ganj. The पोंछिया ponchhiya or (to the west) पिछुवा pichhua are the pointed ends of the lower shafts behind. In South Bhagalpur they are called दगली dagli. तान tām are the four iron bars which support the body on the axle. Two of them are called कुंटातान khuntātān or (in South-West Shahabad) गजबान gajbāg. मंजा mājha are similar wooden supports. The सामुगी sāmugi or सौंगी saungi is the twine net under the seat, and the straps which keep it up are the सौंगी के नारी saungi ke nāri. The गोड़िया goriya are side ropes which fasten the splash-board to the axle, and the धमाका dhamāka is the leather siding inside the wheels. The four curved bamboo shafts are तंगा tānga or (in Patna) डंगा tānga. The छाती के नारी chhātī ke nāri is a strap inside, fastening the body to the axle in front of the सौंगी के नारी saungi ke nāri. The लदाव ladāv are cross-pieces of bamboo from shaft to shaft, forming the body of the cart. In North-East Tirhut they are called फाठी phathi, and in South Bhagalpur बत्ता battā. The net at the bottom is जाळा jāla, and the जहका jhatka is a strong rope behind and below, fastening the cross-pieces of the body.

225. The driver's seat is करन्तली kartali. The pieces of bamboo which run underneath from shaft to shaft, on which the driver rests his feet, are लत्कहोरा lathkhorā generally north of the Ganges, or दरेंरी darenri in Saran and दरेंरी danrera in South-East Tirhut. In Shahabad they are लतेरा latera, in Patna and Gaya दरिया danriya, and तरेरा tarera in South Bhagalpur. The गोड़िया goriya or (in South-East Tirhut) घोड़िया ghorīya are pieces of wood which join the upper and lower shafts. पङ्खी pankhi are pieces of leather joining the upper and lower shafts near the yoke. These shafts are also fastened by a leather rope called, north of the Ganges, मुठरा muthra, and to the south of it मोठरा के नारी mothra ke nāri, or in Shahabad मुंहरा के नारी munhra ke nāri. In Patna and Gaya it is called चहरा chhara. The मोथपन्ना mothapra is a brass cap fitting on to the ends of the two shafts.

226. Harness.—The pointed part of the saddle is खोगीर khogīr, or in Shahabad and East Bhagalpur खगूर khagūr. The pad is गदी gadi or गद्दी gaddi. The wooden block is कठरा kathra or (in South-West Shahabad) कठला kathla. The rings through which the reins pass are करा kara or रास करी rās kari. The leather surcingle going over the saddle, round the horse's shoulders and across his chest, is पुस्तंग pushtang or पुस्तङ्ग pustang. Another name is जोत jot. The leather belly-band is तङ्ग tang. रास rās means the reins; तावा tāwa or (in South Bhagalpur) तवक tauwak, the leather cover of the saddle; नागन्हा nāgla, नागन्हा nagla, or तसन्हा tasma, the straps which fasten the shafts to the saddle; and कैची kainchi, the wooden side supports of the saddle. Other names for this last are कैचिया kainchiya (Champan and Tirhut), गोड़िया goriya (South Tirhut, Patna, and Gaya), ठिकन्ही के लकड़ी tikthi ke lakri in South-West Shahabad, and टेकन्ही tekhi in South Bhagalpur. डुमन्ची dumchi or डुमन्का *dumkaja is the crupper. The bridle is पूंजीपट्टा pūñji patta, and the iron bit लगाम lagām. The martingale is जेरबन्द jerband, the cloth over the eyes which serves as blinkers अंधारी andhāri, the neck-ornament कन्हा kantha, and the brass moon on the horse's forehead चाँद chānd.

227. गँजिया ganjiga or तोबड़ा tobra is the bag hung on either side for holding the passenger's shoes, &c.

228. The above is a description of an एक्का ekka when the canopy is attached. When this is taken down, a back railing is added, कटहरा katahra, instead of the rear posts, and instead of the two front posts two shorter ones are set up, one on each side of the driver's seat, called निमन्दा nimdanda.

CHAPTER VI.—THE COUNTRY BOAT.

229. Boats are of various kinds. The following may be noted :—
The general term for a boat is नाव nāw, and to the west also नैया naiya.

230. The larger kinds of boats are उलान्क ulānk (which has a long narrow bow overhanging the water in front), मेल्हनी melhni (which has a broad bluff bow), पटेही pateli or पटेही pataili, also called in Saran कतरा katra (on which the boards forming the sides overlap and are not joined edge to edge), कच्छा kachchha (which is shaped like a square shallow box, without proper bow or stern, and is steered with two rudders. It takes great burdens, and will go in very shallow water), and the सरङ्गा saranga, or in Shahabad सलीना salina, and in Tirhut सरिन्ना sarinna (which has a round bottom for shallow water).

231. Smaller varieties are दोहट dohat or in Shahabad दोट्ट doët (which has a flattish bottom for shallow water, and has its bow and stern portions out out of solid wood), and पन्सुही pansuhi (which has a round bottom, but goes in shallow water).

232. The smallest kinds are पखवार pakhār or skiff and पखटा ektha or dug-out. The latter is also called बंगड़ा bangra. Also the खोलमाया kholmaiya, with both ends rising like a gondola well out of the water, and which cannot sink. Another similar boat is called the डेंगी महुचा dengi machhua, or dingy. घरमरी gharnai (South Bihar) is a temporary raft made of water-jars (घड़ा ghara) and bamboos tied together.

233. The parts of a boat are as follows:—The thwarts are गूदा gūrha and the ribs बाता bāta or (in Champāran) ठरुबाता tharbāta, ठरिबा tharhiya (in Champāran and North-West Tirhut), गोछा gochha (in Saran and South-West Tirhut), गुछा guchchha (in North-East Tirhut), and काछ kāchh (in South-East Tirhut). Smaller transverse ribs are बाँक bānk. The outer planking is हार hār or (in South Munger) बाकल bākal, (in Champāran and West Tirhut) बगल bagal, and (in North-East Tirhut) काछक पाटी kāchhak pāti. In Gaya it is जलमहार jalamhār. In Shahabad the planks which run from end to end in the length of the boat are पवार akhār, and देवाल dewal is also used to mean the “wall” or side planks. The flooring inside the boat is पाटन pātan or पटवटन patwatan, or in Saran पटौरी patauri. A long plank running over this is in Shahabad अपनी apti. The grating above the bottom of the boat is चाली chālī or (in South-West Tirhut) उरुहा urhā, and (in North-East Tirhut) पटार patāi. In a पटौरी patai the planks at the bottom which run from end to end are लेवा lewa, and in other kinds of boats मरिबा mariya or (in North-East Tirhut) मरेवा mareya, and in Saran मोरिबा moriya. The platform on which the rower sits is पटौरी patauri or बिटन bitan. When on the roof of a large boat, it is बीट bit or पटार patāi, or in Shahabad हलमचानी halmachāni or मचान machān. The deck planks in the middle are पाटना pātna. चचार chachār is brushwood put in the bottom to stand on. कड़वा karwa or कंड़वा kanrwa are the posts which support the thwarts. जौंका jonka are iron rings to which the roof of the boat is fastened by ropes. In North-East Tirhut and South Munger they are called करी kari.

234. When a boat is calked with the bark of the परास parās tree (butea frondosa) the calking is called रसवत raswat, and when with hemp it is गहनी gahni. अटार atār (in Champāran and North-West Tirhut) is string used for calking.

235. The keel, which is the first plank laid in making a boat, is सिक्का sikka. In Champāran it is सहन sahan, and पतेन patain or डंडा danda in South-East Tirhut. It runs the whole length of the boat, and hence शिखा sikka is also used to mean the two ends of the boat. The length of the boat is दार dawar, and the stern post गलही galhi. The prow is मलङ्ग malang, माँगी māngi,* or माँग māng.

236. The rudder is पतवार patwār or (in North Tirhut) पतिवार patiyār. In Gaya it is पटवार patwār. This is properly the lower piece. The rudder post is गोल gol, (in Shahabad, North-East Tirhut and, optionally, South Munger) खम्हा khamha, or in Gaya गौला gaula, and it is fastened to the thwart by a rope called नथिया nathiya. The tiller is सैला saila or (in South Munger and North-East Tirhut) दन्ता danta, and the socket in which it works बनरा banra or (in North-West Tirhut) डेल thel, and (in North-East Tirhut) डेहरी thehri. One rope, by which the rudder is fastened to the boat, is गङ्कसा ganrkassa, and another, by which it is held up, is अङ्कवारिया ankwariya. The steersman is माँजी mānjihi.

237. सेवता sewta or (in South-East Tirhut) सोता sota is the wooden vessel used for baling out water. An oar is दाँड़ dānr, a paddle करवार karuār, केरवार keruār, or in Sāran करवारी karuāri, and the blade of it पाता pāta. A punting pole is लगी laggi or लग्गा lagga.

238. The mast is गुरखा gurkha or मस्तूल mastūl, or in Shahabad गुनखा gunarkha, and the yard is मोरनी morni. The mast is raised on a post to which it is spliced. This is दारखुवा darsūdha or जसोधा jasodha in South Munger and Tirhut, जारखुवा jarsudha in Champāran, and जवखुवा jawsadha there and in North-West Tirhut. The socket in the bottom, in which the post is stepped, is दारखुवा के मलिया darsūdha ke maliya or मलुवा mahua. The सतवनिहाँ satwaniyān is the thwart to which the post is tied. It is called in South-East Tirhut सूत sūt. The pulleys are घिरनी ghirni, and the sail is पाल pāl, and in Shahabad सूते sūrt or सतवनिहाँ surtwaniyān.

239. The tow-rope is गूँ gūn or (in Gaya and the south-west) गोन gon, which is tied to pieces of bamboo called बेरुवा berua or खूँटा khūnta, or in Shahabad बारुवा barua, which the boatmen press against their shoulders when hauling a boat up stream. The man who tows is गुनवाह gunwāh. लाहसी lahāsi is a cable, and लङ्गर langar or गिराबी girābi the anchor. A large iron anchor is लोहलङ्गर lohlangar or गिरामी girāmi.

240. To draw water (of a boat) is पानि तोड़ pāni torāb to the east and पानि तूर pāni tūral to the west, e.g. रै कच्छा बडत कम पानि तूरत

* The most comfortable seat is in the bow. Hence the proverb जानिका खेवा नहिं डै पगिया माँगी खवार janikā khewa nahin, se agila māngi sawār,—the fellow who hasn't money to pay his fare takes the bow seat.

THE ORDINARY COUNTRY LITTER (DOLI).

CHAPTER VII.—THE LITTER.

241. The litter is खटोली khatoli, डोली doli, or (in North-East Tirhut) खोटली khotli. डोली doli is also used for the ornamented litter used at marriages, which is also called in South Bhagalpur चण्डोली chandoli or तर्तारुन tartarwān. The last word is said by natives to be a corruption of the Persian تخت روان takht rawān, or moving throne. In the west it is also called नालकी nalki or बिहारी पांखनी biyahuti palki.

242. The bamboo pole is बाँच bān, and from it the litter is suspended.

243. The litter itself is खटोली khatoli, and is a kind of small bed (चरणपाच charpāy) with a bottom made of rough twine (सुतरा sutri). The sides and ends of the bed are पाटी pāti. In South Bhagalpur the sides are called पट्टी patti and the ends सिरवा sirwa. At each end two pieces of split bamboo run up from each corner, meeting about 3 feet above the bed, and thus forming a triangle. These bamboos are called सिपावा sipāwa, or in South Munger सिपाहा sipāha, and in Saran सिपवा sipwa, and they are fastened to the corners of the bed, and, at the apex of the triangle, to the pole by a string called बरकास barkas. This string is also twisted round the सिपावा sipāwa to strengthen them. A bamboo stick passes through the pole just behind the rear सिपावा sipāwa, and, descending perpendicularly, is braced to them by strings. This is called टेरुआ tenrua or डेरुआ terua. It prevents the pole slipping round. The illustration shows a litter as carried by four persons, but this kind is more usually borne by two.

244. The feet of the bed are called पौआ paua, and the strings for tightening the bottom of the bed are ओरचन orchan, and also in Shahabad ओरदावन ordāwan.

245. Fastened to the pole over the bed, and in a plane parallel to it, is an oblong framework of bamboo slips for supporting the canopy. This is called ठात्री thatri, and in South Bhagalpur also चहत्नी chhatni or चहत्री chhatri; and the string braces descending from its four corners to the four corners of the bed, to keep this awning steady, are called तान tān.

246. The illustration shows a litter without the curtains. When a woman travels in it, the whole is enclosed in a set of curtains like a bell-mouthed bag, called ओहार ohār or परदा parda.

247. A superior kind of litter, used by richer women, is मेढाना meḍāna, मेँढाना meñāna, महप्पा mahappa, दान्री dānri, or दँडिया danriya. It has a domed roof, called ठात्री thatri, supported on eight pillars (four at each side), called दन्ता danta. The side-boards of the body are called दीवाल diwāl, or in Shahabad दिहवा dilhā, and the doorway दुहारी duhāri, or in South Munger दुहारी duāri. The rest is like the दोली dōli.

248. The बरन्दरी bardari, or in Shahabad बरहन्दरी barahdari, also called in Saran खरखरिया kharkhariya, is the corresponding litter used by wealthy men. It is the native form of the Europeanized palankeen. In this the side-pieces at the bottom are called पाटी pāti or पटिया patiya, the net bottom बिनावट bināwat, the legs पौवा paua, the side-boards पट्टरी patri, the four pillars at each side सिपौवा sipaua, the doorway दुहारी duhāri, and the roof चह chhat. The shelf inside at the feet end of the litter is दराज darāj.

249. The poles are called बाँस bāns, and the curved end of the front pole थोप thop. The four iron struts at each end are called तान tān, and they meet in a ring (चुकिवा chukiya or in South Bhagalpur सानी sami), which goes round the pole. The inner end of the pole rests in a socket in the end of the litter, which is also called चुकिवा chukiya, and also in South Munger सानी sāmi or खुबिया khubiya. The rope network filling up the space between the two lower struts at each end is called कसावट kasāwat, or in South Bhagalpur कसन kasan.

SUBDIVISION VII.

APPLIANCES USED IN RURAL MANUFACTURE.

CHAPTER I.—APPLIANCES USED IN THE MANUFACTURE OF OIL.

250. The oil-mill is known as कोह kolh or कोहू kolhu throughout the province. In Gaya it is also केहू kelhu. It closely resembles the sugar-mill, as described in the next section, and a detailed description is not necessary. Nevertheless, owing to the circumstances stated therein, it has been found inconvenient to give an illustration of a sugar-mill, and accordingly the following description of a Patna oil-mill is here given in order to explain the accompanying sketches. To these reference can be made in reading the section on the sugar-mill, in which the few points of difference are noted. A well-known proverb about the oil-mill is देल खरी खाद्य नहिँ, कोल खाटे जाय del khari khāy nahiñ, kolh chātai jāy,—(the bullock) won't eat oil-cake when it is given to him, and yet it goes to lick the oil-press ; i.e., stolen goods are sweet.

251. The hollow wooden block forming the bed of the mill.—This is कोल kolh or कोल्ह kolhu, and in Gaya also केल्हू kelhu. In this the cavity in which the oil-seeds to be crushed are placed is known as पेट pet or हन्दा handa, or in North-East Tirhut कुँह kūnrh and in Shahabad खान khān. In the oil-mill this cavity is shaped like an inverted cone, the apex reaching to about midway down the block. There it is about two inches wide, and thence it widens again like an hour-glass till it leads into the back of the top of the निरोह niroh. The lower half of this hour-glass cavity is known as अथरी athri. The lower end (मुँदी mūñdi) of the pestle (महन mahan) is just wide enough to fit tightly into the narrow part of the cavity at the waist. The upper half of the cavity is that in which the oil-seeds are placed. It has a lining of a series of longitudinal pieces of hard wood, wider at the top and tapering to the bottom, which are very tightly wedged together. These are called पाचर pāchar. Sometimes, when these get worn away by the constant working of the pestle, a fresh lining is put inside them. In this case the old lining is called ठरपचरा tharpachra, or in North-East Tirhut तरपचरा tarpachra, and the new inner lining पेटपचरा petpachra.

252. The block is buried very deeply in the ground to steady it. The part below ground is called जङ्घा jangha. Round the base a circular mound of earth is fitted, called बीँता bhaunta, or in South Bhagalpur बीँठो bhauntho, in North-East Tirhut भत्ता bhatta, and in Saran मँचौटा manjhauta ; and in this, below the exit for oil, a space is dug out for the vessel (चह्ना chhanna) receiving the oil.

253. The exit for oil is the triangular hole at the bottom of the block over the above-mentioned cavity. It communicates at its upper end with the अथरी athri. This oil exit, together with the cavity for holding the vessel, are together called निरोह niroh, and in Saran and Tirhut also नरोह naroh.

254. The flat top of the block is called पारा pāra.

255. The horizontal board to which the bullocks are attached.—This is called कत्री katri. On it the oilman (तेली teḷi) sits, and while he drives the bullocks he at the same time keeps pressing down the seeds into the cavity with his left hand.

256. The upright beam, or pestle, which moves in the hollow of the mill and crushes the seeds.—This is मोहन mohan or महान mahan. To the west it is also called जाठ jāth, or in Shahabad मोहन monhan, and in North-East Tirhut मोहैन mohain. The ball at the end of this beam, which fits into the narrowest part of the hollow of the block, is मूँड़ी mūnri. The ferrule round this is मुकुवारी murwāri. The notch above this is कान्ह kānh or कन्हा kandha. The upper end of the pestle rounded off is चूर chūr or पूँची pūnchhi, and the curved piece of wood joined to this is डेंका dhenka, or in North-East Tirhut डेंकुवा dhenkua. This curved block of wood connects the pestle with the upright post which is fixed in the horizontal driving-beam : thus—

257. In the above sketch b is the डेंका dhenka, a is the top of the मोहन mohan fitting into it up to the point marked d. The upright post is c, which is fastened to b by a string g passing round the two pegs e and f.

258. The upright post is called मरन्धम marthamh, or in Sāran मलिक थम malik tham, the pegs e and f खुँटी khūnti, and the string g नाधन nādhan, or in East Tirhut लाध lādḥ and South Bhagalpur लेध ledha. The string is generally made of straw. The upright post is fastened to the horizontal board, कतरी katri, by a wedge, गड़किल्ली garkilli, which goes through the former and under the latter.

259. The horizontal board revolves round the main block of the machine; at the end of the board nearest the block is fastened a thick lump of wood called फेंडा phenta, or in Sāran फेडा pheta, which acts as a kind of washer between the end of the board and the block, and which also rests against the latter, revolving in a horizontal groove (called मॉंदर māndar) cut in the latter's exterior surface. A bamboo strut runs up from the inner portion of the horizontal board to meet the upright post, so as to strengthen the joint. It is called खरचाडी khar-chāli, or in North-East Tirhut खंरचारी khanrchāri, and in Gaya and Shahabad खंरचर khanrchar.

260. The arrangement for stirring up the oil-seeds.—This is called रेव्ही rewti, or in South Bhagalpur भरनाडी bharnāthi or उठकनी utkani, and does not exist in the sugar-mill. It consists of a peg, खूँडी khūnti, standing up in the cavity amidst the oil-seeds, alongside the peste; to its top is fixed a horizontal pole or handle, the other end of which is fastened to the upright post, मरन्ध marthamh, by another peg, खूँडी khūnti. The whole therefore revolves with the pestle, the first peg moving amongst the seeds concentrically with it and stirring them up. At the same time the stirring is rendered more effective by the peg being perpendicular and the pestle on a slant.

261. The yoking apparatus.—The rope which is fastend to a peg in the end of the horizontal beam, passed round the hump of the bullock and back again to the beam, where it is tied into a hole, is called काड़ा kārha, and the rope passing under the bullock's chest, joining the two traces thus made, is पेडी peti. The canvas pad on the bullock's hump is काँधी kāndhi, and the cloth or wicker basket by which he is blindfolded is डोकनी tokni or खोला khola, or to the east खोलसा kholsa. The rope from the bullock's neck up to the curved block or डेंका dhenka is पगन्हा pagha, and the iron link fastened to this close to the bullock's neck is भौँर कली bhaunr kalī. The rope round his neck, connected to the पगन्हा pagha by this link, is गरदानी gardawāni, or in North-East Tirhut गरदानी gardāmi and in Champāran गरदानी gardāni, and that going through the bullock's nose is नाथ nath. A bullock employed in an oil or sugar-cane press is called a नाटा बैल nāta bail.

262. Miscellaneous.—The circle in which the bullocks move is called पौर paur or पौरी pauri, and in South Bhagalpur also भर bhar.

263. The pot into which the oil drops is called खन्ना chhanna. As much oil-seed as can go into the press at one time is called गानी ghāni. The oil-cake which remains after the oil has been expressed is called खली khallī, or in Saran खर्री kharri, except the oil-cake of poppy seeds (पोखना पोता posta), which is called पीना खली pīna khallī, or simply पीना pīna.

264. To work the mill is पेरब or पेरुब perab.

CHAPTER II.—APPLIANCES USED IN THE MANUFACTURE OF SUGAR.

A.—THE CANE-MILL.

265. The cane-mill is known as कोल्ह kolh or कोल्हु kolhu throughout the province. Patent mills introduced by European firms are known as कल kal.

266. It is apprehended that the following description of a country sugar-mill will be of little else than antiquarian interest, for such mills are fast disappearing from Bihār, being superseded by the English-made iron crushing-mill made at Bihiā. To such an extent has the use of country mills died out, that the writer found it impossible to find a single one in the sadar subdivision of the Patna district which was in a fit state for a photograph to be taken of it. They had all been broken up for firewood, only a few dismantled ones being available. For a general idea as to its appearance, the reader is referred to the illustrations of an oil-mill in the last chapter.

267. The following are the principal points of difference:—

- (1) The hollow in the block has perpendicular and not sloping sides, and it is hence cylindrical, and not conical, in shape.
- (2) The sugar-mill has no रेवड़ी rewṭi.
- (3) In a sugar-mill the pestle and its appurtenances are on a much larger scale. The मोहन mohan is six or seven cubits long, while in an oil-mill it is seldom more than three and a half cubits, the rest in both cases being in proportion.
- (4) The names of the parts differ.

268. The hollowed wooden block forming the bed of the mill.—

This is generally known as कोल्ह kolh or कोल्हु kolhu. The cavity in this, in which the pieces of cane to be crushed are placed, is known north of the Ganges, to the west, as खान khān, or in Champāran घर ghar; and to the east, कुण्ड kund or कुंर kūr. In Shahabad it is known as हन्दा handā or हंकोलना hanrolua. In South Munger it is हँदा hānra, and elsewhere south of the Ganges हन्धा handha or हन्दा handā. Round the edge, at the top of this, a rim of mud is sometimes placed to prevent the pieces of cane falling off. This is called पौड़ pīr. An iron ring fastened round the block to strengthen it and prevent it from splitting is बन ban, and in Tirhut also पत्तर pattar, and in South Bhagalpur मर्रो marro.

269. An iron ring is sometimes fixed under the block to prevent it being worn away by the crushing-pestle. This is generally मोरन्वार morwār, with variants मोरवाह morwāh (North-East Tirhut), मुकुवार murwār (Shahabad and Patna), मुड़ mur (Gaya), मुरेरा murera or मुकुवारी murwāri in South Munger, and चमन्ना channa in Sāran. The पाचर pāchar is a round piece of wood placed in the bottom of the cavity, and on which the crushing-pestle moves. रोड़ा or रोर rorā is used for the smaller wedges of wood placed in the cavity above this to help in crushing the juice. These are also called चँदिया chandiya in Champāran and North-East Tirhut, and खोंच khonch to the east. In Sāran and Champāran रौन raun is a canal cut on the surface of the block through which any juice thrown up may flow back into the cavity. In North-West Tirhut this is called रेन rain, in North-East Tirhut रसपैन raspain, and in South-East Tirhut खाना khāta.

270. The drain for the juice cut in the bottom of the block is to the north नरदोह nardoh; also in Tirhut नरोह naroh, in North-East Tirhut नरोही narohi, and in South-East Tirhut रसेह raser; in South-West Shahabad it is गुजुरवा gujurua, and in the rest of the district जोहा joha or रसवा rasha; in Patna it is रसवारा rasghāra or निरोह niroh; in Gaya it is खोनी khoni; in South Munger, चोना chona; and in South Bhagalpur, लर्रो larlo.

271. The wooden spout through which the juice drops is पतनारी patnāri. In the body of the block a channel is cut in which the block, फेंदा phenta, of the driving gear works. This is called घररा gharra in Shahabad and मँदर māndar in Patna.

272. The horizontal board to which the bullocks are attached.—This is कतरि katri, with a variant, कातरि kātari or कातर kātar, in Shahabad, South-East Tirhut, and South Bhagalpur.

273. The upright beam or pestle which moves in the hollow of the mill and crushes the cane.—For this three names are current, viz. मोहन mohan (Tirhut, except the north-west, Champāran, Patna, and South Munger), with variants, महान mahan, in Gaya and North-West Tirhut, and मँहन monhan in Shahabad, लाठ lāth (Tirhut and Champāran), and जाठ jāth (Tirhut and Shahabad). The last word is used in Sāran only in reference to the oil-mill, and not to the cane-mill.

274. The ball at the end of this beam, which fits with the hollow of the block, is मूँड़ mūnr, मूँड़ा mūnra, मूँड़ी mūnri. The notch above this is north of the Ganges and in Patna कान्ह kānh or कन्ना kandha. In North-West Tirhut it is कन्धिया kanhiya, and in South-East Tirhut पन्ना panja. In Shahabad it is कान kān or लंगरा langra. In Gaya it is मोहनम्बहा mohanthambha, and in South Munger डेंका dhenka. The upper end rounded off is चूर chār or चुरिया churiya, or (in North-East Tirhut) मूँर mūnr; and the curved block of wood joined to this is डेंका dhenka or (in North Tirhut, Shahabad, and South Bhagalpur) डेंकुवा dhenkua, and in Sāran डेंकुवा dhenkuha. This curved block of wood connects the pestle with the upright post which is fixed in the horizontal driving-board.

275. This upright post is north of the Ganges, to the west, हरसा harsa or हरिया harisa, and to the east (and in South Bhagalpur) मनिक्थम maniktham or मानिक थम mānik tham. In Shahabad it is मनन्थम mankham, in Patna and Gaya खूँटा khūnta or मरन्थम marthamh, and मानिकथम māniktham in South Munger. The pieces of wood which keep the beam of the driving gear in the channel at the base of the block are जीभा jibha or जिबिया jibhiya, or in Sāran the front one is called फंटा phenta, and the back one कनेछ kanail or (south of the Ganges) कनेछी kanheli, and in Sāran कनेछी kanaili. In North-East Tirhut they are called जिबिया jibiya.

276. A rope of straw supporting the pestle by fastening it to the upright beam is north of the Ganges, to the west, नाधन nāadhan, in Champāran नधन्ना nadhna, in Tirhut नधान nadhān, but in East Tirhut लाध lādh. In Shahabad it is टँडन्ना tanrna, in Gaya नाध बरन्ता nādh barta, in Patna नाधन nāadhan, in South Munger नाध nādh or बरन्त barah, and in South Bhagalpur सारंगी sārangi or लेधा ledha.

277. The bamboo strut attached to the horizontal driving-board, and running up obliquely to meet the upright post, is called north of the Ganges खरर्चाड़ी kharchānri, or south of it कमोरा kamora (Shahabad), खँरुचर khanrchar (also in Shahabad), खरुचर kharchar or खरचाही kharchāli (Patna and Gaya), कुडँदिया kudanriya in South Munger, and खरन्चारी khanrchāro in South Bhagalpur. This is fastened to the driving-beam by a rope, called नारन nāran or नाधा nādhā, or in East Tirhut लारन lāran.

278. The part of the horizontal beam on which the driver sits is कातरि kāteri, कातर kātar, or कतरौ katri as above.

279. The leather thong by which this horizontal beam is connected with the yoke is नाधा nādhā or (in Sāran) कनेछी kanheli, (in Gaya) नाधा बरन्ता nādhā barta, and in Patna मँज्हा mānjha. कार kār or (in North-East Tirhut and Shahabad) कारा kārha is a rope which is tied to a peg in the end of the horizontal board, passed round the hump of the bullock and back again to the board, where it is tied into a hole; and the rope passing under the bullock's chest, joining the two traces thus made, is पेटी peti.

280. Miscellaneous.—The circle in which the bullocks move has various names, viz. गोरगपौर gorpaur (Sāran), पौदर paudar (Champāran and Shahabad), पौर paur or पौरी pauri elsewhere north of the Ganges, in Patna, Gaya, and South Bhagalpur, बाही bahi also in Patna, and बकुहरा barhara in South Munger.

In Shahabad it is called अंगरवार angarwār.

282. A wooden mallet is used for pressing the cane under the crusher. This is थापी thāpi; also in North-East Tirhut मिळिट milīt.

283. The cane as it is crushed is stirred up by hand, and the man who does this is called मोरन्नाह morwāh or मौरन्नाह monrīwāh, or in South Bhagalpur गन्नाहा ghanwāha. This man sometimes drives the bullocks also, and when he does so he is still called by this name.

284. The pot into which the juice drops is called generally खोरा khora or (in South-East Tirhut) खोर chor, other local names being नाह nād (Shahabad) and कुन्दा kunda (Shahabad, West Tirhut, and Patna), or (generally) चन्ना chhanna. Over this is often placed a basket or earthen pot with the bottom pierced like a sieve. This is called generally चन्ना chhanna, रसचन्ना raschhanna, or चेनी chheni. Local names for this are तारौड़ी tarauri (Sāran and Champāran), चिहा chhitta (also in East Tirhut), or चिरहिरा chhirhira (Shahabad), and दलिया daliya (South Munger). An earthen vessel for holding the juice is in Gaya हथैला hathaila.

285. From these vessels the juice is removed to the boiler in a pot called कराह or कड़ाह karāh, or sometimes कराहा karāhā.

286. The blocks on which the cane is cut are north of the Ganges and in Shahabad निसुहा nisuha, a variant being निसुवा nisua in South Bhagalpur. Other names are थेहा theha (North-West Tirhut), पारियेथा pariyetha (Gaya), कुकाठ kukāth (Patna), पारकाठ parkath (South Bhagalpur), and टोमन्नाहा tonkattā or टोमन्नाह tonkat in South-East Tirhut and Munger.

287. The hollow in the mill is in Bihār cleaned by hand while the crusher is turning: hence there is no apparatus in existence for raising the latter, as there is in Gorakhpur and Āzamgarh.

288. The basket from which the mill is fed is चैदी chainti north of the Ganges, with a variant, चौदी chhti, in North-East Tirhut. In Shahabad it is ओड़ी ori (also in East Tirhut) or खैची khainchi, and in South Bhagalpur ओड़िया oriya. In Patna it is बहा batta, and in Gaya पथिया pathiya. In South Bhagalpur he is घुरकहा ghurkatta or कटनिया kataniya.

In Sāran and Champāran these men do their work without wages in money, their pay being the leaves of the cane which they cut, which they take home and use for cattle fodder.

293. (2) The man who cuts the cane into lengths for the mill is कानू kānu in South Tirhut and Sāran. In Champāran he is पकवाह pakwāh, and to the west he is गेंदिकाटा genrikāta or अंगरवाह angarwāh. 299. Folklore on the subject.—Near the place where the cane is cut into slips the men make a round idol of a deity called मकार बीर makār bīr, or in Shahabad महकार बीर mahkār bīr, and in North-East Tirhut महकार mahkār. He is said to have been originally a Dom, who once came to a sugar manufactory in the olden time and asked for juice, which the people refused to give to him. Thereupon he jumped into the boiler and was boiled to death. His spirit became deified, and is now worshipped by the workmen. The worship consists in pouring a little water on the image when the cane is brought into the manufactory from the field, so that he may wash himself. Then five canes are put before him. They are then cut up and put first into the mill. The first juice that comes out is also poured over him, and then the rest may go into the boiler. In South Bhagalpur the deity worshipped is बिसवकर्मा bisvakarma.

The sugar is collected and thrown into this with a bamboo fitted at one end with a roller, which is called गुरदम gurdam or (in South-West Shahabad) गुरदन gurdan. In Tirhut it is also called दबकन dabkan, and in South-East Tirhut सपई sapaī.

310. In North-East Tirhut माट māt or कोठी kothi is the large vessel in which the juice is finally coagulated. These are in Tirhut गुरपौर gurpaur, and in Champāran (made of sun-baked earth) देहरी dehri.

311. राब rāb is undrained raw sugar, and गूर gūr is rāb boiled down for a longer time. Further particulars concerning these and the other products will be found in the chapter relating to sugar-cane (§§ 1014, 1015).

C.—THE SUGAR REFINERY.

312. A sugar refinery is known as चीनी के करगाना chīni ke kar-khāna or चीनी के गोदाम chīni ke godām. South of the Ganges the word खंड़सर khanrsār or खंड़सारी khanrsāri is also used. The house in which the sugar is refined is called चूल्हा के घर chūlha ke ghar or कराह के घर karāh ke ghar. In South Bhagalpur it is भट्टा bhattha.

313. In making coarse sugar (काँची चीनी kānchi chīni), a vat, a drain, a reservoir, and a treading-floor are used.

314. The vat is in Shahabad चौद haud or चौदी haudi, in Gaya चबन्चा chahbachcha, in Patna खंड़गरना khanrgarna, and in South Bhagalpur गुरहण्डी gurhandi. North of the Ganges and in Gaya it is नाद nād or नौद nānd.

315. The drain is नाली nālī or नारी nāri, or in South Bhagalpur करगहा karha. In Saran it is also called खाता khāta.

316. The reservoir is north of the Ganges, and optionally in Shahabad, नाद nād or नौद nānd. In Shahabad it is डोहा dobha, in Patna चौद haud or चरवा charua, and elsewhere south of the Ganges चबन्चा chahbachcha.

318. In making regular sugar or सक्कर sakkar, the drain and the reservoir are used as before. The bundles (मोटरी motri, or in Patna नारंगी nārgi, in Gaya थैया thaiya, and in South Bhagalpur गजा gāja) of sugar are tied up in cloths [डोहा lotha or (in Patna and Gaya) चल्ना chhalna], placed on a bamboo framework and pressed with weights of stone or sun-dried clay. The framework is called north of the Ganges खँच khānch or खँचा khāncha, or (in Champāran and East Tirhut) छँडा chhainta. In Shahabad it is ठट्टरी thatri or टिकठी tikthi, in Patna and Gaya टेकठी tekthi, and in South Bhagalpur चँचरी chānchri. The weights are चँपा chāmpa, or, when made of stone, पथल pathal, or in Saran थापी thāpi.

319. The following utensils are used in the boiling-house :—

- (a) An iron boiler, कराह karāh, कराहा karāha, or कराही karāhi. When an earthen boiler is used, it is called खपड़ा khapra or खपड़ी khapri, or in South-West Shahabad and East Tirhut अथरी athri.

CHAPTER III.—APPLIANCES USED IN THE MANUFACTURE OF INDIGO.

320. Indigo manufacture is confined almost entirely to North-Gangetic Bihār.*

321. The indigo beating-vat is महार के चौद (or चौद) mahāi ke hauj (or haud), and also in North-East Tirhut महनिया चौद mahaniya haud. The water reservoir is खजाना khajāna. The upper or steeping-vat is बौहार के चौद bojhāi ke haud, or in East Tirhut बोजनिया चौद bojhaniya haud. The rake for agitating the fermented liquor is फहरा phahuri in Sāran and फरुहा pharuha elsewhere. In North-East Tirhut it is also फरमा pharma.

* The author is indebted to W. B. Hudson, Esq., for much of the information contained in this chapter. The system of manufacture described is the old style, now only used by natives. In European factories the use of steam power has made considerable changes.

322. The beams of wood for pressing the plant are दबौटा dabauta in Sāran and Champāran, सहतीर sahṭir in Tirhut and Sāran, दाब dāb or धरन dharan in North-East Tirhut, and बीम bim in South-East Tirhut. These are supported on projections in the walls of the vat, called मजुसी majusi, or in Champāran तान tān. In East Tirhut they are called सिरपाहा sirpāha. Under these pressing-beams are placed, बल्ल ballal, or in Sāran कैच kainch, which are bamboos laid immediately on the top of the plant.

323. The हौदरी haudri (Sāran and South Tirhut) or माल मढ़ी māl jhari (Champāran and North Tirhut) is the small reservoir where the indigo juice collects to be taken to the boiler. The drain is नाली nālī or नारी nāri, or in Sāran मोरी mori, and the चेकन chhekan is the door by which it is closed. The strainer is चन्ना chhanna, or in South-West Tirhut चद्दर chaddar.

324. The boiling-room is कराब घर karāb ghar. The मेज mej is the wooden or masonry straining table in which the indigo is put after being boiled. This is the name in Sāran, Champāran, and West Tirhut; to the east it is बाबू मेज bālu mej or (in South-East Tirhut) माल मेज māl mej.

325. The पेरिस pirich or पोरिस piris is a corruption of the English word "press," in which the boiled liquor is placed in a cloth and the water pressed out. In Sāran दादा dāda, and elsewhere चल्ना chalna, are the perforated boards placed above and below the indigo in the press. The screw of the press is पेंच pench. The square boss or nut on it is डिबरी dhibri. The मोरनी morni is the spanner or apparatus for turning the screw. In South-East Tirhut it is also ममोरनी mamorni or पेचकस pechkas. The large wooden beam through which the screw passes is थेहा theha in Sāran, and elsewhere दबौटा dabauta or दाब dāb; when it is made of iron it is called in South Tirhut बैंक bānk. The कुटका kutka are small pieces of wood placed below and above the दादा dāda or चल्ना chalna.

326. The machine for cutting cakes is फरमा pharma, and the wires with which they are cut तार tār.

327. The cakes of indigo are गोटी goti, and they are dried in a drying-house, गोटी घर goti ghar, on shelves, called in East Tirhut मचान machān, and elsewhere चाही chāhī.

328. The following are among the implements used in indigo agriculture:—

- (1) The धर्म लगी dharm laggi, a wheel for measuring land, each revolution of which covers one लगी laggi.
- (2) The कुदर kudār or कुदरि kudāri, a mattock for digging.
- (3) The हार har or plough, which is of two kinds—
 - (a) बिछाएनी bilāēti, or English plough.
 - (b) देसी desi or कठौर kathaur, the country plough.
- (4) डंड़ी tānri, the drill plough.
- (5) कटा kanta or कठोरनी khakhorni, the rake or harrow.
- (6) खुरपी khurpi, the spud for weeding.
- (7) चाँद hānsu or चँदवा hansua, the sickle for cutting the plant.

CHAPTER IV.—THE SPINNING-WHEEL.

329. The following diary shows the process of spinning thread and making cloth in the subdivision of Madhubani, in North-East Tirhut, in the year 1879:—

On the 20th September the writer bought 24 sers of cotton, being a day's plucking on a sunny day from about a bigha and a half of cotton field. The cotton बाँगा bānga (see § 1016 for the various names and varieties) was of the kind called कोकटो kokti, which ripens in the month of Bhādon (August–September). It was pulled out of the husks from the tree.

20th–26th September.—During this time the cotton has been drying in the sun, and now (26th) two old women are employed to clean it, picking out the dirty and immature cotton, called कर्कट karkut. This is principally composed of seeds which have come to nothing and been worm-eaten. This cleaning is done by hand. It lasted to the 30th September.

1st October.—Commenced to separate the seeds, बाँगा bangaur, from the बाँगा bānga. This is done by a machine called चरकी charkhi, which consists of two rollers, about an inch thick, of hard wood tightly wedged one above the other; both rollers are supported in uprights, the ends passing through. At one end the lower roller is turned by a handle, and has at the other end, where it projects from the upright, a screw cut in it. The same end of the upper screw has a reversed screw cut in it, and these two screws fitting into each other act like cog-wheels; but when the lower roller is turned, the upper roller turns in the direction reverse to that of the lower one, so that they act as a pair of feeders tightly wedged together. The बाँगा bānga or uncleaned cotton is then applied to the feeding side of the two rollers, and on the handle being turned the cotton is pulled forcibly through by their revolution, while the seeds remain behind and fall down to the ground.

330. The two upright standards are called खूँटा khūnta, and each of the rollers जाठि jāthi, or in Saran सँकरी sanrari. Underneath the rollers is a cross-bar, called कल kal, joining the two uprights and holding the machine together. The खूँटी khūnti is a wedge going through each upright from front to back, under the cross-bar and holding it and the roller in their places.

331. The पचरी pachri are the wedges running sideways through each upright and tightening the two rollers together. The crank which turns the lower roller is called मकरी makri, and it is held to it by the किली killi or linch-pin. The handle at the other end of the crank, which is held in the hand, and by which the machine is turned, is called लागनि lāgani, or in Saran चलाउनी chalauni and in Gaya चौरी hathauri.

332. The base of the machine in which the uprights rest is called पीड़ा pirha, or to the west पिदिवा pirhiya, and out of this projects behind, along the ground, the मज्जा majhwa, on which the foot of the operator is placed to keep the machine steady.

333. The cotton, when cleaned from the seeds by this machine, is called रू rū, रूँ rūi, or तूर tūr,—the last by women of the upper Hindu castes, and the two first by Musalmāns and low-caste Hindus. रूआ rūa is used in Shahabad.

334. The above lasted three days. It was then again cleaned (तूनब tūnab, तूँनब tūnnab, or (in Shahabad) तूमब tāmab, to clean), the few remaining pieces of husk, &c., being picked out by hand.

21st October.—The cotton was to-day put out in the sun preparatory to being carded (धुनब dhunab, to card).

22nd October.—To-day two cotton-carders (धुनिवा dhuniya) came to card the cotton. Each brought with him a machine, called a धुनकी dhunki, or to the west धनुही dhanuhi. In Gaya it is धुनेठी dhunethi, in South Munger and South-East Tirhut धुनेठ dhunaith, and in South Bhagalpur धुनहठ dhunhath.

335. It is composed of the following parts :—

- (a) The flexible piece of wood acting as a bow, called दन्ती danti or दन्ता danta to the east and दन्री dānri to the west.
- (b) A broad wooden board, called फरेहा phareha in North-East Tirhut. In South-West Tirhut it is फरोटा pharauta, in South Bhagalpur फरुहा pharuha, and elsewhere as फरहा pharha.
- (c) The bridge over which the string is passed, मांगी māngi. In Shahabad and also optionally in East Tirhut it is माथा mātha, in South Bhagalpur मथवा mathwa, and in South Munger मगवासी magwāsi.
- (d) A leather string, called तान tānt. In Patna and Gaya it is also called रोदा roda.
- (e) A leather strip acting as a sounding board, lying along the round edge of the फरेहा phareha, on which the string rebounds, called पुछेठ puchhet or पुछेटा puchheta generally,

A Cotton-carder (Dhuniya) at Work.

पक्षौठा pachhauta in Tirhut, and कँकर kankar in Sāran and Champāran. In North-East Tirhut it is पुस्तैल pushtail, and an optional name in Shahabad is पुक्षौठा puchhauta.

- (f) A stout leather string along the outer side of the फरेहा phareha, to one end of which the तान tānt is attached, while the other end is fastened to the दन्ती danti. It is used to tighten the तान tānt, and is called बिरन्ची ghirchi or घुरन्ची ghurchi. When pegs are used for tightening this, they are called बीरी biri or बिरिया biriya.
- (g) The हथकर hathkar, हथगर hathgar, or हथकर hathkar, is a loop of string under which the left hand is passed to hold the machine steady. The above is the name current in North-East Tirhut. South of the Ganges it is also called हथकर hathkar, with variants हथकर hathkar or हथकर hathkara in Shahabad. In North-West Tirhut it is हथरा hathra, in South-West Tirhut and Sāran हथा hathā, and in Sāran and Champāran मुठवारा muthwāra.
- (h) The mallet for twanging the bow, of wood, shaped like a dumb-bell. It is held in the right hand, and the तान tānt is struck and twanged with it. It is called जिस्ता jista, and also (in Tirhut and South Bhagalpur) दिस्ता dista. In Patna it is called दस्ता dasta, and in South Munger दिस्ता distha.

336. In using this instrument it is held by the left hand under the हथकर hathkar, which passes over the wrist, and the तान tānt twanged in the midst of the cotton by the जिस्ता jista, which is held in the right hand. This process loosens the texture of the cotton, and causes all the dust and dirt to fly out of it. The धुन्की dhunki is not allowed to rest on the ground, but is supported in the air by the हथकर hathkar passing over the wrist, and it springs up and down as the तान tānt is twanged.

337. The whole pile of cleaned cotton was called गोठी gothi. While this was going on, two old women were called in to make little hollow rolls of cotton to be made into thread. They are called to the east पीनी piṇi, and to the west पिन्नी piṇi or पेवनी pevni. A local name in East Tirhut is पीर pīr. These are about four inches long and a quarter of an inch thick. A lump of clean cotton, the size of a walnut, is put round a thin skewer, called पिन्सरि pinrsari, and is then rolled on a board, called पिदिहा pirhiya, with the palm of the hand. These are then tied up in bundles of about ten each, called मुट्ठी mutthi.

338. These पीनी pini are now ready for being made into thread in the spinning-wheel.

339. The spinning-wheel is चरखा charkha, but in South-West Shahabad it is राहटा rahta, and in the south-east जरखा jarkha.

340. Its parts are as follows :—

The foundation.—This is in the shape of a double letter T : thus—

341. On one of the cross-pieces the driving-wheel stands, and on the other the spinning apparatus. This foundation is called पीड़ा pīrha or पिदिवा pirhiya to the east, and पिदरै pirhāi to the west. The connecting bar between the two cross-pieces is मंजवा manjhwa or मंजा mānja, in Patna and Gaya it is लखनचोरा lakhora, and in South Bhagalpur मनन्धार manjhāi.

342. The driving-wheel.—The supports of the driving-wheel are called खूंटा khūntā. The wheel itself is composed of two parts,—

- (a) The central boss or nave, and
- (b) The four spokes on each side of the nave.

343. The nave is called मूँड़ी mūnri or मूड़ी mūri south of the Ganges, and मूँरी mūnri or मुँरिया munriya north of it; in East Tirhut it is also तामा tāma, and in South Bhagalpur and South Munger पैला paila. It is about 5 inches long and 4 inches thick.

344. There are four spokes lying across each end of the nave from one circumference to the other; there are therefore eight radii on each side, and they are so arranged that the radii on each side are not opposite each other, but alternate. Each of these cross spokes is called पुत्ती putti or पूती pūti, or in South-West Shahabad कमरी kamri; sometimes they are also called खूंटा khūnta or खूंटी khūnti.

345. These spokes are held in their places by a string, called अवाळ awāl to the west, अँवाळ amwāl in Patna and Gaya, and अमाळ amāl or अमाळ amāh to the east. In South Munger it is अमहाळ amhāl. This string goes round the extremities of each radius of each side alternately: thus—

It forms therefore a kind of edge or rim of a broad wheel, something like a paddle-wheel, and over it passes the driving-band which turns the spinning apparatus. This paddle-wheel is about a foot in diameter and five inches thick.

346. The central axle of the driving-wheel is called जाठ lath generally north of the Ganges and in South Bhagalpur. In Tirhut it is called जाठ jāth, and in North-East Tirhut also जारठ lāth or जारठ jāth. South of the Ganges it is generally बेङ्गना belna. It is caused to revolve by a crank end called मकरी makri, or in Shahabad and West Tirhut नाक nāk. It is दाही dārhi or दड़िया darhiya elsewhere south of the Ganges, except South Bhagalpur, where it is again मकरी makri. To this is attached a handle, called to the west and in Gaya चलौना chalauna, and to the east सरंगना larna or हारनि lārani. In South-West Shahabad it is called भौंती bhaunti or भौवत bhāmwat, and in Sāran optionally चलौनी chalauni.

347. The driving-band is called माळ māl or माळ māh. It is rubbed with rosin (धूमन dhūman) and oil (तेल tel), and is then blackened with charcoal (कोयला koela). The driving-band goes twice round the driving-wheel and the spinning-axle, once passing through the मलकाठी malkāthi (vide post), and once not.

348. The spinning apparatus.—We now come to the spinning apparatus. There are three perpendicular uprights. The two outside ones are called खंटी khanti, and the middle one is called मलकाठी malkāthi. In Patna these three uprights are called together पक्कठिया pakkathiya, and in South-West Shahabad खुंतिपुती khuntiputti. The two outside ones support the bearings of the spinning-axle, and the centre one has in its length, facing the driving-wheel and going right through its thickness, a long slot cut. One of the strings of the driving-band passes through this slot, and the other passes outside it, so that the double turn round the spinning-axle can never get jammed up together, and so entangled.

349. On the two outside uprights, on the side furthest from the driving-wheel, project two stiff pieces of leather, called चमरख chamrakh. These form the bearings of the spinning-axle, which passes through them.

350. The spinning-axle.—This is called टकुषा takua, and also to the west टेकुषा tekua. It is an iron skewer about 8 inches long and an eighth of an inch thick at the thickest part. It projects a distance of three inches beyond its bearing on the same side as the handle of the driving-wheel. This bearing has on each side two little pieces of wood fitting on to the spinning-axle, which act as washers, and are called छुचो chhuchchi. Outside the outer washer on the spinning-axle is a flat disc called फिरकी phirki, and two and a half inches of the axle project beyond it.

351. The driving-band, after passing twice round the driving-wheel, passes through the मलकाठी malakāthi, then twice round the spinning-axle, and then back to the driving-wheel outside the मलकाठी malakāthi; and it is evident that even the slow turning of the driving-wheel will make the spinning-axle revolve at a very high speed indeed.

352. In spinning, the projecting point of the spinning-axle has a short length of thread attached to it, and then, while the handle of the driving-wheel is turned with the right hand, a roll of cotton (पीनी pini) is held in the left hand between the finger and thumb, and the cotton, being quickly caught up by the length of thread, is drawn off in the shape of thread on to the quickly revolving spinning-axle.

353. When the projecting point of the spinning-axle is filled with thread, the whole is called a कुकरी kukri, or in Saran कुकुरी kukurhi, and is wound off on a winder, called परना parta or परेता pareta. It is also called in South-West Tirhut नटना natwa, and in East Tirhut लटना latwa or नटना natwa. In South Bhagalpur it is called नटई natāi. This is like an ordinary silk-winder. The handle (चालना chalauna) of the driving-wheel is taken out of its socket in the crank (मकरी makri), and in its place is placed one end of the axle of the winder. The other end is held in the right hand, and is revolved between the finger and thumb. The winder is conical in shape, and does not need further description. It will hold half a quarter of a ser of thread at a time. When it is filled, the thread is taken off and tied in hanks. These are generally पोडा pola, पोडी poli, or पोडिया poliya. Local names are नत्ती natti (North-East Tirhut), लत्ती latti (Patna and Gaya), and करन्ची karchi in South-West Shahabad.

354. The diary breaks off here temporarily, as the spinning of this particular cotton was not done in the writer's presence. He wished the thread to be spun as fine as possible, and as this could only be done by Brāhmani women, who would not come to a strange house, this part of the work was done by them at home.

CHAPTER V.—THE WEAVER'S LOOM.

355. The following is a continuation of the same diary.

18th January 1880.—The skeins of fine thread were brought to me to-day, and were put in water to soak for eight days. This strengthens it.

27th January.—After they had soaked this period I sent for a weaver. A Muhammadan weaver is जोडावा jolha or मोमिन momin, and a Hindu weaver is तन्वा tantwa or तन्ती tanti, or, in Shahabad तानो tanto. Sometimes the Hindi word जोडावा jolāha is used instead of जोडावा jolha.

356. The Musalmān weaver or जोडावा jolha is the proverbial fool of Hindu stories and proverbs. He swims in the moonlight across fields of flowering linseed, thinking the blue colour to be caused by water. He hears his family priest reading the Qūrān, and bursts into tears to the gratification of the reader. When pressed to tell what part affected him most, he says it was not that, but the wagging beard of the old gentleman so much reminded him of a pet goat which had died. When forming one of a company of twelve he tries to count them, and finding himself missing wants to perform his own funeral obsequies. He finds the rear peg of a plough, and wants to set up farming on the strength of it. He gets into a boat at night, and forgets to pull up the anchor. After rowing till dawn he finds himself where he started, and concludes that the only explanation is that his native village could not bear to lose him, and had followed him. If there are eight weavers and nine hukkas, they fight for the odd one. Once on a time a crow carried off to the roof of the house some bread which a weaver had given his child. Before giving the child any more he took the precaution of removing the ladder. Like the English fool, he always gets unmerited blows. For instance, he once went to see a ram fight and got butted himself, as the saying runs:—

करिगह बाहु तमासा जाव

नाहक चोट जोलाहा बाव.

Karigah chhār tamāsa jāy,

Nāhak chot jolāha khāy.

—‘He left his loom to see the fun, and for no reason got a bruising.’ Another story (told by Fallon) is, that being told by a soothsayer that it was written in his fate that his nose would be cut off with an axe, the weaver was incredulous, and taking up an axe kept flourishing it, saying यों करना तब जोड़ काँट-बों, यों करना तब बाव काँट-बों, और यों करना तब ना-, yon karba ta gor kātbon, yon karba ta hāth kātbon, aur yon karba tah nā-, —if I do so I cut my leg, and if I do so I cut my hand; but unless I do so my no—, and his nose was off. A proverb जोलाहा जानधि जो काटे jolha jānathi jou kātai,—does a weaver know how to cut barley,—refers to a story (in Fallon) that a weaver, unable to pay his debt, was set to cut barley by his creditor, who thought to repay himself in this way. But instead of reaping, the stupid fellow kept trying to untwist the tangled barley stems. Other proverbs at his expense are कौवा चलाव बाव केँ, जोलाहा चलाव बाव केँ kaua chalal bās ken, jolha chalal ghās ken,—the weaver went out to cut grass (at sunset), when even the crows were going home; जोलाहा भुतिहाई तीसी खेत jolha bhutiaīlāh tīsī khet,—the weaver lost his way in the linseed-field, an allusion to the swimming exploit already recorded. His wife bears an equally bad character, as in the proverb बाहसली जोलहिनी बापक दाँदी मोचे bahsali jolhini bāpak dānrhi nochē,—a wilful weaver’s wife will pull her own father’s beard.

357. The weaver proceeded to set up in the ground seventeen pairs of sticks in two lines, at a distance between each pair of about one and a quarter cubits, and between the lines of about two cubits. At each end of each line a stout bamboo post is fixed, and close to each of those at one end another smaller staff. Round these sticks the thread is twisted as follows :—

A, A, A, A, are the tops of the bamboo posts, and the dots are the tops of the smaller sticks.

358. This operation of setting the warp is called तानी करब tāni-karab, or in Shahabad ताना करब tāna karab. The bamboo posts are called खूंटी khūnti, and each stick, सर sar. These last are called in Sāran, Champāran, and North-West Tirhut सरका sarka.

359. The sticks immediately in front of the bamboo posts are called to the west चिटुआ chhitua, in Shahabad चिपकी chhipki, and to the east चिटकी chhitki, also in North-East Tirhut डोरीक सर dorik sar. The whole apparatus is called तानी tāni, or in Shahabad ताना tāna, and the thread to be stretched is put on a kind of pyramidal reel called चरन्गी charkhi. It spins on a spindle, called दगन्गी dagni, or in Shahabad दाँगी dāngi, and in the inside of the apex of the cone is a cup called थोड़ी thori, or in Shahabad थोड़री tholiri, in South Munger थोड़की thorki, and in South Bhagalpur टोई toi, which rests on, and revolves on the point of, the spindle: thus—

360. The spool is composed of 14 slips of bamboo, forming the framework of the cone, fastened at equal distances round the circumference (चकर chakkar) of the base of the cone, and converging to a point at the top.

361. The spindle of the spool is held in the left hand, and the weaver walks up and down between the two lines of thread, directing the thread by a hook called खूंड़ी khūnri or खोंड़ी khonri, or in South-West Shahabad खुंदा khunda, in South Munger खुंड़ी khundi, and in North-East Tirhut and Shahabad खूंड़ा khūnra, and shaped as follows:—

The hook at the top is made of iron.

362. 5th February 1880.—The warp having now been all set upon the sticks (सर sar), they were, with the खूंड़ी khūnri, pulled up, rolled up, and put by till to-day. To-day they were unrolled and laid out in a long line on the grass. The खूंड़ी khūnri were then carefully drawn out, and a bamboo staff, called सिरार sirār (or सिरारि sirāri), put in the place of each. It will be remembered that the सर sar were in pairs, and that at each pair the thread crossed thus  Another kind of each end. The arches of the various bows all face one way. The warp is then laid out on the ground, and the threads neatly spread out upon the bows in parallel lines, to the width of the future piece of cloth.

- 362A. 9th February.—The thread thus arranged was rolled up, dipped into, and well wet with cold rice-water (मॉइ mānr), to which some मरुआ marua seeds had been added to stiffen it. It was then unrolled and stretched out horizontally at a height of three feet from the ground and brushed with a large brush, called कूँच kūñch, dipped in mustard oil and water, which smooths the threads and takes away any knots or inequalities in the thread. This brush is also called मज्जना majna in West Tirhut, मॉजा mānja in South Bhagalpur, and मॉजन mānjan in South-West Shahabad. The cross sticks on which the thread rests are called मॉजा mānjha, and the cross bamboos at each end are ठेंगनी thenghni or लाठी डोर lāthi dor to the west, गोड़ा gora to the east, खसरैया khسرائيا in North-West Tirhut, डडा dhattha also in North-East Tirhut, धॉडा dhānthā in South Bhagalpur, and लाठी lāthi also in South-East Tirhut. This brushing is hard work, and takes eight men to do it properly. The brushing is along the threads, and not across them. The bristles of the brush are made of खखर khaskhas, called also in Sāran कतरा के जड़ katra ke jar, such as is used for tatties, and are about two and a half inches long. The brush itself is about a foot long and two inches wide. The brushing went on for three days, and is called पार करव pāi karab, and also in East Tirhut तासन करव tāsan karab. The phrase चार पार āi pāi means the brushing and other preparations, and there is a proverb, जोखन्हा के चार पार, चमरा के बिहान jolha ke āi pāi, chamra ke bihān,—when a weaver says the cloth will be soon ready, as he is now brushing it, don't believe him, any more than you believe a shoemaker who says 'the boots will be ready to-morrow.'

- 363. When this was concluded, the threads were put into the loom and woven at the rate of a yard a day. The loom is little different from that used in England. It is called करिग kariyah to the west and करग kargah to the east. It consists of the following parts:—

- (1) The shuttle.—This is धरकी dharki in Gaya and to the west, and कपरबिनी kaparbinni or कपरबीनी kaparbini to the east. In North-East Tirhut it is also called कपरनी kaparni.
- (2) The needle inside the shuttle, on which the thread is wound, is तिरि tiri, and the tube which revolves on this डुकी chhuchchi, or in Shahabad डुकी chhunchhi. When thread is wound on this tube the whole is called नरी nari, also in East Tirhut लरी lari. This is held in its place in the hollow of the shuttle by a pin made of a feather. This is called पखनरी pakhnari to the west and in South-East Tirhut, बीर bir in South Bhagalpur, and पखबीर pakhbīr or पखेवारी pakheāri to the east. A weaver estimates his work by the number of नरी nari which he uses up, as in the proverb in which he is supposed to address a man who has seized him to carry a load, टंगव तऽ टांगव, नहिं तऽ नौ नरीक हरकति होयत tangbah ta tāngah, nahin ta nau narik harkati hoet,—if you must load me, load me quickly, otherwise the time of nine shuttles will be wasted.
- (3) The wooden frame suspended from the roof, which after the shuttle passes is pulled forward by the weaver and drives the thread home. This is हाथा hatha or हाथा hattha in West Shahabad, Patna, and West Tirhut, कमन्हड़ kamhanr in the west generally, कमहर kamhar in the north-west, and कमहदा kamhanda in Gaya. In North-East Tirhut it is ताना tāna, and in South-East Tirhut तानी tāni. In South Bhagalpur it is तनकर tankar.
- (4) The comb of reeds or bamboo in this bar, which keeps the threads of the warp apart, is called राख rāchh.
- (5) The heddles, which alternately raise or depress the threads of the warp, are बा bae or बै bai.
- (6) The set of three reeds which is placed in front of the heddles to keep the two sets of the threads of the warp apart is

The Country Loom (Kariyah).

2. Rākhā (comb).
- 3, 3. Bai (heddles).
- 4, 4, 4. Sar.

5. Chaspat (roller).
6. Jibhala.
7. Bamandri.
8. Khar-khar.

9. Kasuli.
10. Agala.
11. Monhandha.

13. Kar (upper beam).
14. Pās (woof).
16. Tungai.

अतरावन atrāwan north of the Ganges generally and in Shahabad, and तरावन tarāwan elsewhere south of the Ganges. Another set of three reeds also used is called भंजनी bhanjni in Champāran, North Tirhut, Gaya, and South Munger, and the two sets together are called in North-East Tirhut अतरावन भोज atrāwan bhānj. In Patna and the south-east the reeds are also called सर sar.

- (7) The elastic bow which keeps the woven cloth stretched in front of the weaver is पन्निक pannik south of the Ganges; north of the Ganges it is पन्निक pannikh, and also पन्नी panni in East Tirhut.
- (8) The wooden roller behind which the weaver sits, and on which the cloth is wound up as fast as it is made, is in the north-west, in West Shahabad, and in South Munger लपेटन lapetan; elsewhere it is चौपत chaupat.
- (9) This is supported by posts called खूँटा khūnta; also the right and left ones have different names, viz. the right-hand one, which passes through the roller and prevents it turning round, is जिभेला jibhela everywhere, in North-East Tirhut also जिहला jihla, and in South-East Tirhut also जिहेला jihela. In South Bhagalpur it is गाली खूँटा gāli khūnta. The left-hand one, against which the roller rests, is बँघेला banghela north of the Ganges everywhere. Also, in East Tirhut, as also to the west and Gaya, it is बँवारी bamwāri or बँवरिया bamwariya, in Shahabad it is also पचेला pachhela, and in South-West Tirhut कँधेला kandhela. In South-East Tirhut it is also called बमैला bamaila. In South Bhagalpur it is simply खुँटा khutta.
- (10) The woof is supported at the end opposite the weaver by a piece of wood called खरकौट kharkaut to the west and खरकौटी kharkauti to the east or खरकूटी kharkūti in South Bhagalpur, which is held up by pillars called कनेली kanaili to the north and west, खूँटा khūnta in East Tirhut, थूम thūm in Patna, थुम्भी thumbhi in Gaya, and थुम्बा thumbha in the east, and also खरको खूँटा kharko khūnta in South Bhagalpur.

- (11) The woof is held tight by a string, which is fastened to its end and passes round a peg at the extreme end of the loom and back again up to the weaver, where it is fastened within his reach to another peg. He is thus able to slacken the woof as necessary. The first peg is called अगेला के खूँटा agela ke khūnta, or in Tirhut सरकौनी के खूँटी sarkauni ke khūnti; the second peg is called दोरबन्धा के खूँटा dorbandha ke khūnta, or in South Bhagalpur कनकिल्ली kankilli.
- (12) The treadle, which the weaver moves with his foot, is पौंसार paunsār or पौसर pausār generally, and in East Tirhut पसार pasār. The knob on this, held between the weaver's toes, is पौतान pautān.
- (13) The upper levers, to which the heddles are attached, are नचनी nachni generally. In East Tirhut they are लोचनी lochni, and in South Munger लचनी lachni.
- (14) These levers are fastened to an upper beam, which has various names, viz. अभेर abher to the west, भितभेरा bhitbhera in Sāran and Champāran, धचाना dhachāna in South-West Tirhut, धचान dhachān or अकासी akāsi in North-East Tirhut, उपरकर uparkar in South-East Tirhut, करबार korbār in Gaya, and कर kar in Patna and South Munger.

364. The loose end of the woof (पार pāi) is called सिरारा sirāra, and it is wound up on a तंगनी tangni, which is hung up out of the way.

CHAPTER VI.—THE SALTPETRE MANUFACTURER.

365. He is called नोनियाँ noniyān. The round vat in which he dissolves the saltpetre from the saline earth is कोठी kothi north of the Ganges, and south of it अहरी ahri. The mother liquid thus produced flows out through a drain called पनार panār in Tirhut and to the east, and पौनार paunār to the west; also in Sāran मोहान mohān, and in South-West Shahabad परनौहा parnauha. It flows into an earthen vessel fixed in the ground, called नदहा nadha, नाद nād, or नादा nāda, also परन्हा parchha in Tirhut and towards the west, and गढ़नी garni in South-East Tirhut.

366. The mother liquid is called रस ras, or in South-West Shahabad अगरस agras. After the saltpetre has been deposited, the refuse liquid from which salt can be educed is called पहाड़ी pachhāri, or in South-West Shahabad काही kāhi. In Sāran काही kāhi means the liquor from which salt is educed, and पहाड़ी pachhāri the refuse which is thrown away.

367. Over the round vat are placed bamboo rafters, which are called कोर kora to the west, कोरो koro in North-East Tirhut, and पटवटन patwatan in South-East Tirhut. These are supported on bricks, ईटा inta, and over them is spread straw, called चाचा chhāja, चिडी chhitti, or खर khar.

368. The mother liquor is boiled in a large iron pan called कराह karah, or (to the east) तौला taula. When made of earth it is called कुआ kunda, or in Sāran कोर kor. The fireplace is called चूल्हा chūlha. The pot for cooling the boiled liquid is हँडिया hanriya, or to the east तौला taula.

369. The iron curved spud by which the saline earth is scraped from the ground or wall is खुरपा khurpa, and the mattock for digging is फहरा phahura to the west, कोदार kodār in Tirhut, and कुदारी kudāri in Sāran. The basket for carrying the saline earth is टोकड़ी tokri, and that for carrying the saltpetre चैडी chhainti

370. In South-West Shahabad—

- (a) जवसा सोरा jarua sora is saltpetre prepared by boiling ;
- (b) चाबी सोरा abi sora is saltpetre prepared by evaporation by the sun's rays ; and
- (c) कलमी सोरा kalmi sora is refined saltpetre.

CHAPTER VII.—A DISTILLERY OF COUNTRY-LIQUOR.

371. भट्टीदार bhatthidār or चाबन्कार abkār is a distiller. In Sāran he is also called रँकी rānki. कलाल kalāl is a Muhammadan who sells country-wine ; कलवार kalwār is a Hindu who does this. कलाल kalāl and रँकी rānki are caste names. When a man of another caste sells liquor, either on his own account or as a servant, he is called गद्दीवान gaddiwan. भट्टी bhatthi is a distillery. कलाली kalālī or गद्दी gaddi is a place where country-spirits are sold.

372. The still is called भट्टी bhatthi, and consists of the following parts:—

- (1) देग deg or डेग deg, the boiler.—This has a baked earthen cover called अबन्कार adhkār, or in Sāran अधकार adhkar.

- (2) Over this is inverted a wide-mouthed globular copper vessel ; this is called ताम्मी tāmmi, or in Saran तमिया tamiya. It serves as a condensing-vessel. The spirit rises into it, and over its outside surface runs continually a supply of cold water.
- (3) The water reservoir is नाद nād. The water flows from this through a pipe called पौनली paunalli, or in South Bhagalpur पन्नाली pannāli, and in Saran also धोंगा dhonga, on to the top of the condensing-vessel.
- (4) The spirit thus condensed flows out through a pipe called मधनरी madhnari.
- (5) The spirit is collected in an earthen jar called टैंक tānk or मटुका matuka, and in this it is carried to the place of sale.
- (6) The refuse left in the boiler is रस ras ; also, in Gaya, बकसा baksa, and in South Bhagalpur also गौरा gora.
- (7) साजन sajan or छाजन chhājan is water used for diluting spirit, so as to increase the quantity for sale.
- (8) The liquid for distillation is made as follows. Liquid (रस ras) and sweet preparations (मीठा mītha) are mixed and buried in the ground. This mixture is called कसौजी kasauji. When it is ripe महुआ mahua is poured into it. This act of mixing is called भरती bharti. When the mixture is sufficiently fermented for distillation it is called बोहार bojhāi. The constituents of the रस ras and of the मीठा mītha vary, and are not detailed here.
- (9) Earthen cups for drinking country-spirit are चुक्क chukkar, गुरकी gurki, or पिठौचा pitaua.
- (10) Pots for keeping the spirit in the shop are called माट māt, कोरेना korena, or in Shahabad कौरेना kaurena and बरयाम buiyām. In Saran another name is करारा karāba.

373. Ordinary weak country-spirit is दोकानी dokāni, and also in Saran कसिया khasiya ; the next strongest (when made of गूर gūr only) is कन्दी kandī or (when made of other materials) दोबारा dobāra ; the next strongest is सौंफी saumphi, or in South-East Tirhut सेबारा sebāra ; and the strongest of all, महारदार mahardār.

SUBDIVISION VIII.

APPLIANCES USED BY MISCELLANEOUS VILLAGE
TRADERS AND PROFESSIONALS.

CHAPTER I.—THE PALM-JUICE SELLER.

374. The palm-juice seller is पासी pāsi.

375. In climbing up the palm-tree he uses a heel-rope, which ties his feet close together. At the same time he has a stout rope passing round the tree and his body. He leans back against this rope, and presses the soles of his feet, thus tied together, against the tree. He then climbs up the tree by a series of hitches or jerks of his back and his feet alternately. The heel-rope is called मकरी makri, or to the west पकुसी pakusi. In Shahabad it is पकसी paksi, and in Tirhut and Patna पँदिआ phandiya. The body-rope is generally डंरुवाँच danrudns. In the east it is also रसा rassa, and in South Munger बरंगना barta.

376. The longish earthen pot in which the juice is collected is called लबनी labni, or to the east उरहर urharh. Round its neck is tied a string, called to the west अरवान arwan and to the east फन्नी phanni or फन्की phanki, or in South-East Tirhut रौना rauna. This string is hooked on to a hook, अंकुरा ankura, or in Sāran अंकुरा ankurha, in Shahabad अंकुसी ankusi, and in South Bhagalpur अंकोरा ankora, which is tied to the man's waist by a rope, लेवार lewār, or in Sāran डंरुका danrkas, in Champāran डँड़ा dānra, and in South Bhagalpur पेडार petār.

377. The sickle used for cutting the palm-tree is हंसुही hansuhi to the west and हंसुआ hansua to the east. It is sharpened on a piece of wood called लौठा lautha, and also, to the east सोंटा sonta, or बलुथ bahuath in South Bhagalpur and बलेठा balettha in South Munger.

378. A हथौना hathauna or तरकही tarkatti, or in Sāran लबना labna, is a large longish earthen pot for holding toddy (ताड़ी tāri). In South Bhagalpur तौला taula or कुआ kunda is an ordinary vessel for holding it. नापा nāpa, or in Sāran नपही naphi, is a small earthen pot used for measuring it, and जोरवा jorwa, बररिया barariya, and गोहाना gohān are in South Bhagalpur earthen vessels in which toddy is sold.

379. A toddy palm-tree is तार or ताड़ tār, and the juice is तारी or ताड़ी tāri. There are two kinds of this tree—the female one, which bears fruit and is called फलतार phaltār, or in South Bhagalpur फला phalla, and the male one, which produces hairy flowers and is called बलंगार baltār or फलंगार phultār, or in North-East Tirhut फलुंदो phuldo, and in Saran बलिहा baliha. A खंगरा khangra, खगरा khagra, or खगरी khagri is a young palm-tree. A कोही korhi (North-East Tirhut) or a बहिरा bahira (South-East Tirhut), बाँजी सिस्वा bānji siswa or अनाथु anāthu (South-West Tirhut), is a palm-tree which does not produce juice; a बसन्ती basanti is a tree which produces juice in spring, and जेठुआ jethua, or in Saran साल sāl, one which does so in summer, while घौद ghaud is one which does so all the year round. In the east घौर ghaur is a tree which produces juice in the rainy season.

380. To cut a palm-tree for the juice is छेव chhewab.

CHAPTER II.—THE BIRD-CATCHER.

381. The bird-catcher or मिरसिकार mirsikār, or in Shahabad बहेलिया baheliya, uses a number of नल nal or नर nar, which are long shafts of bamboo tied together like a fishing rod, of which the top one is called कम्पा kampa, or in South Bhagalpur खोंचा khoncha. On this last is applied bird-lime (लासा lāsa), and the bird-catcher cautiously approaches the bird, concealing himself behind a टहो tatti or screen of leaves and branches. When the bird is within distance it is struck with the limed कम्पा kampa, and thus caught. The चोंगा chonga is the bamboo tube for keeping the bird-lime.

382. The फाँद phānd or फाँदा phānda and चोगोड़ा chaugora are two kinds of nooses. बटियारी batiyari is a net used in the day-time, and चातर chātar, one used at night for catching birds.

CHAPTER III.—THE BARBER.

383. The barber is हजाम hajām, ठाकुर thākur, नाद nāi, नाउ nāu, or नौवा naua. In North East Tirhut he is also नहेरि naheri, and in Saran sometimes ओस्ता osta. He has his लोखर lokhar or किसमत kismat, किसमत kisbat, or किसबद kisbad, which is his instrument-bag. Also he has a चमौटा chamauta or चमौटी chamauti, or piece of thick leather used as a strop, a मोचना mochna or tweezers, and a छुरा chhūra or अस्तुरा astūra, or to the east खुर khūr, or razor. His nail-parers are नहरनी naharni, but in Champāran they are नहरन nahrn, and लहरनी laharni in East Tirhut. His whetstone is सिद्धा silla or सिद्धी silli. कैची kainchi is his scissors, कटोरी katori his brass cup for water, दर्पण darpan his looking-glass, and लुङ्गी lungi the cloth which he spreads in front of the person he is shaving, and on which the hairs fall.

CHAPTER IV.—THE COUNTRY SURGEON.

384. The country surgeon is जराह jarrah, जराह jarāh, or हजाम hajām.

385. Among his instruments are जमूरा jamāra, a tooth-extractor, चोभा chobha or नखर nastar, a lancet for the arm, and थुन्का thunka, a lancet for the head.

386. For circumcision (सुन्नत sunnat or खतना khatna) he has जन्नी jantri, घोड़ी ghorī, or in South Bhagalpur चूँटा chūnta, which are nippers of bamboo, and सल्ला salāī, which is a bamboo needle for holding up the foreskin.

CHAPTER V.—THE FARRIER.

387. The farrier or नालबन्ध nālband has the following appliances.

388. A मेखारी mekhāri or किसबत kisbat, which is the bag in which his tools are carried, a छुरी chhūri or curved knife, a सुमतरास sumtarās or large curved knife, a जम्बूर jambūr or pincers, a रेत ret or file, a बल्ला balkha or मोरन्तौल mārtaul or small but long hammer, a दोवाली doālī, or in South Bhagalpur बल्ला balkha, which is a leather for holding up the horse's hoof, a पुजनाल pujmāl or hair string for tying the ear of a refractory horse, a हल्ला halkha or iron ring, and a सुमकट्टी sumkattī or chisel for cutting the horse's hoof.

CHAPTER VI.—THE WASHERMAN.

389. The धोबी dhobi or washerman uses a पट्टा patha or pāt, which is the washing-board, of which the support is in Shahabad तेहवा thehua or नेवन्थ newnath. In South-West Tirhut it is called चौकी chauki, and, when made of stone, पथल pathal. His iron is इस्तिरी istiri or (in North-East Tirhut) मिस्तिरी mistiri. His ironing cloth is बेटन bethan, and his starch कलप kalap or कलफ kalaph.

390. When the article to be washed is too heavy for him to lift up and dash upon the washing-board, he beats it with a mallet, called मुंगरा mungra or मुंगरी mungri, or (in Sāran) दँसन dānsan, (in North-East Tirhut) सोंटा sonta, and in South-East Tirhut लाठी lāthi. In South-West Shahabad it is called कठका kathka, and in South Bhagalpur धोबदंग dhobdāng. The clothes-line or drying-frame is तनाव tandav. His bundle of clothes is बकुचा bakucha.

393. The honesty of the washerman and his tenderness for the clothes committed to his care are not considered of much account in Bihār, and there are numerous proverbs coined at his expense, e.g. धोबी पर धोबी बसे, तब कपड़ा पर साबुन पड़े dhobi par dhobi base, tab kapra par sābun pare,—no soap ever touches clothes unless many washermen live together (when owing to competition they wash well). Again, धोबिक बाप केर किछु नहिं फाट dhobik bāp ker kichhu nahiñ phā',—nothing belonging to a washerman's father is ever torn by him (i.e. those are the only clothes about which he is careful). It is also a wise precaution, which according to Bihār ideas should universally be adopted, to disbelieve a washerman when he says the clothes are 'nearly' ready. A washerman's donkey is a bye-word, as in the proverb गधवा के न दोसर गोसैयान, धोबिया के न दोसर परोहन, gadha ken na dosar gosainyān, dhobiya ken na dosar parohan,—an ass has only one master (a washerman), and the washerman has only one steed (a donkey). Again धोबी नाच दरन्गी, रे तोजू चरन्गरन्गी dhobi, naū, darji, i tinu algarji,—there are three careless people, the washerman, the barber, and the tailor.

दुरजन दावागीर उस को मसक मार ॥
कह गिरधर कवि राय लिख भेजिबे पत्नी ।
कमर धिबे तरवार बाध मैं लिबे लाठी ॥

Lāthi aisi chīj hai sadā rākhiye sang,
Nadī nār agāh jal tahān bachāo ang.
Tahān bachāo ang jhapat kutto ko mār,
Durjan dāwāgīr us ko masak jhār.
Kah Girdhar kabi rāy likh bhejiye pātī,
Kamar liye tarwār, hāth men liye lāthī.

A stick is the kind of thing you should always have with you :
If the water in a river is too deep, you can save yourself by it.
You can also at once save yourself by hitting dogs with it.
And if you meet a wicked enemy you can dust (lit. trans.) his head

* About this vessel there is a story. Once upon a time all the people of Bhojpur, in Shahabad, were robbers. When a traveller passed through one of these villages, they used to seize his cooking-pot, saying "तसला तोर की मोर tasla tor ki mor,"—"Is the pot mine or yours?" If the traveller replied "मोर mor," "mine," they would set upon him and beat him and rob him of the vessel by force. If he said "तोर tor," "yours," they used, on his own admission, to take it from him and let him go peaceably. Thus, in any way, they plundered him. Hence the saying तसला तोर की मोर tasla tor ki mor has passed into a proverb, of which the application is easy to see.

A smaller kind, or handkerchief, is अंगौची angauchhi, गमची gamchhi, साफी sāphi, तानी tauni (East Tirhut), or तिउनी tiuni (North-West Tirhut). The Muhammadans call the bathing-cloth लुङ्गी lungi or लूंगी lūngi. The हजुरिया hajuriya is a similar bathing-cloth worn by Hindu mendicants (बैरागी bairāgi).

A proverb of similar import is नया नोकर खरगोस पकड़तारे, naya nokar khargos pakartāre,—a new servant will catch a hare, or, as they say in Ireland, a sharp fellow won't let a hare catch him. The smaller sheet worn by poorer women is जानानी धोती janāni dhoti or लुगरी lugri. Over the साड़ी sāri is worn another sheet, called चद्दर chaddar or चादर chādar, or (in Gaya and South Munger) पिछौरा pichhaura. 741. The hem of the sheet is generally आँचर ānchar, and also अँचरा anchra or अचरा achra. This is also the part which covers the bosom. The first of these words is the nominative, and the others are more properly used with postpositions. Thus है आँचर बहुत नीमन बा : ānchar bar niman bā,—this border is very beautiful; but अचरा में बाव

देखो achra men bānh delān,—I tied it up in the hem of my garment. The loose fold on the left side is गोखनौटा gojhnauta. In the south-west it is पिछौरा pichhaura. When a woman is modest and meets a strange man, she draws her sheet or veil (see below) before her face. This last in North-East Tirhut is called चोली choli.

745. The veil or cloth worn over the head is ओढ़नी orhni. When a veil or a sheet (चादर chādar) has a dyed border, it is called चुनरी

* As in Manbodh's Haribans, where the wife of Akrūr, although very modest, still wanted to look at Krishna when he came into the house, बड़ घोघट हुन तकलो चादिय bar ghoghat punu takalo chāhia.

They are fastened in the hair. Of this the ornament is called चौकडा chauktha, and the strings सिकरी sikri. The spangles or wafers gummed on to the forehead are टिकुली tikuli. Another name in South-West Tirhut is सिस्फूल sisphāl or चौंद chānd. In Shahabad सटिया satiya is a wafer made of embossed paper and gummed on the forehead.

763. Nose-ornaments.—The nose-studs fastened on to the outside of one nostril is छुछी chhuchchi, in South Bhagalpur नकचन्दा nakchanda, and in Patna and to the south-west लौंग laung. It is not an easy thing to steal, hence the proverb कहावे छे सेयद चौरावे छे छुछी kahāwai lai saiyad, chorāwai lai chhuchchi,—by name he is a saiyad, but he can steal even a nose-stud. The ring passing through the outside side of the nostril is नथ nath. A smaller kind is नथिया nathiya, and that worn by girls नहुनी nathuni. The बुलाक bulāk or बेसर besar is a ring hung from the centre cartilage of the nose, and the जुलनी jhulni is a similar one worn by women of the Rauniyār caste. It swings backwards and forwards, and is ornamented with beads.*

* Nose-ornaments are peculiar to females. If a mother loses a first-born son she endeavours to persuade the demon who kills children that any future boys born are only girls, and hence not worth killing. To do this, she often makes the boy wear nose-ornaments, and calls him by some nickname, as Bulāki (wearer of a nose-ring), &c. There are other similar customs, such as giving opprobrious names to such sons who are born after the death of a first born, which it would take too much space to mention here.

764. Ear-ornaments.—Ear-studs fastened to the lobe of the ear are करनफूल karanphul or कनफूल kanphul and खोटला khotla, or in East Tirhut खुटला khutla or खुट्टी khutti, to the north-west खुटली khutli, and in Gaya and Shahabad खुटिला khutila. The कनैली kanaili is a stud worn on the cartilage just where it leaves the head under the hair. Rings worn in the lobe of the ear are बाखी bāki, and those worn in the upper part of the cartilage उतरना utarna. Broad plates worn across the ear are पात pāt, पत्ता patta, and तरकी tarki. A smaller kind worn in Gaya is called गोहवा gohwa. Amongst pendants are the झूमक jhūmak or झुमक jhummak, which has two round pendants, and the जिमजिमिया jhimjhimiya, which are flat pendants. The मछरिया machhariya is a pendant shaped like a fish. In South Munger it is called मछलिया machhaliya. The लोर lor and कनौसी kanausi form a set of ear-ornaments. The first are round plates with a square out out of the inside, forming a kind of ring with a square inside. One of these is hung in the lobe of each ear. The latter is a ring. One is hung in the upper part of the cartilage of the right ear, and two in the upper part of the cartilage of the left ear. When a hole bored in the ear for an ornament is not in use, it may be filled up with a plug, called ढेक thek. When the ornaments worn are too heavy for the ear to carry without tearing, a chain is fastened round the ear so as to support the heavier ornaments. This is called सिकरी sikri. Other ornaments for the ear are बीड़ bir (Tirhut), कॉप kāmp, and खुबिया khubiya in the south-east, and बिजली bijli in Patna and Gaya.

765. Neck-ornaments.—The चन्दर चार chandar hār is a long chain. A तावीज tāwij is a similar one with an amulet attached. A set of three chains of various lengths is तेलरी telri, and also to the north-west तिलरी tilri, of five chains पचलरी pachlari, and of seven chains सतलरी satlari. The सिकरी sikri is a long chain, and the बद्धी baddhi is a long chain crossing the chest and going behind round the body. हुमेल humel is a necklace fitted with bells. Bosses tied to the throat are चम्पा कली champa kali, जुगनु jugnu, and डोलना चौकी dholna chauki. The last is principally worn by the bride at a marriage, and is the first ornament put on before the marriage ceremony. The हंसुली hansuli is the solid necklet open in front which goes round the neck, and the तवक tavak is similar with pendants in front (worn by Musalmāns). सूति sūti in North-East Tirhut is a kind of neck-ring. जवा गोटा jawa gota, गलचडका galsatka, गरद्वानी gardawāni, and गरसी garai, are various neck-ornaments used in Gaya. Other neck-ornaments are चित्तिका (South-East Tirhut), कटेसर katesar (Champāran, Patna, and South Bhagalpur) or कटसर katsar (Tirhut and South Bhagalpur), and खम्बिया khambiya (South Bhagalpur). हार hār or हरवा harwa is the general term for a necklace, and मोती माला moti mālā is a pearl necklace, or one made with beads of the shape of pearls. लाली lālri and दरपन darpan are two ornaments worn on the breast in Gaya and South Bhagalpur. A हैकल haihal, or in Champāran हैलक hailak, is a long necklace composed of flat pieces, generally nine in number. When a man marries a second wife, an ornament is made representing the first wife, which the second wife wears. On the first occasion on which the second wife applies vermilion to her hair, she first puts some on the ornament before applying it to herself. This ornament is called सौतिन sautin, or in South Munger सौत saut.

766. On the clothes.—मनोरी manori are ornaments on the veil (सारी sari), and अँचरी anchri on the hem of the sheet.

Below it the बिजावठ bijāwath, बिजापठ bijāeth, or बिजौठा bijautha, which are five ornaments strung together; below that the बिरन्की birkhi, which is smaller. Another name is बिरेंडी birenti. Below this comes the बाँक bank, made of one piece. It is worn by Hindu women on the right arm, but by Musalmāns on both. Lowest down comes the बहुन्ता babhunta, or to the west बहन्ता bahunta, of five pieces and round. Arm-ornaments worn principally by Hindu women are अनन्त anant and तार tār or टरिया tariya. DIVISION III.

SOILS.

CHAPTER I.—CLASSIFICATION OF SOILS.

783. Soils may be classified—

- (a) According to their distance from the village site.
- (b) According to their constituent elements.
- (c) According to the crops for which they are prepared, or which they usually produce.

CHAPTER II.—SOILS CLASSIFIED ACCORDING TO THEIR DISTANCE FROM THE VILLAGE SITE.

784. The concentric circles (चक्रवात halka) are generally, but not always, three in number. The nomenclature and division differ according to locality.

- (a) The belt near the homestead, which is better manured, more carefully cultivated, and adapted for superior kinds of crops. The homestead is called अबादी abādi, डीह dih, बस्त basti; and the belt of land गोरेड़ा goēnr, गोरेड़ा goenra, गोंदा gonrha, or गौदा gaunrha or बाध bādh; also कोरार korār in Patna and to the west, दिहांस dihāns (Shahabad, Patna, and Gaya), घरबारी gharbāri in Patna and South Munger, and बाड़ी bāri in South Bhagalpur. The land actually in the homestead is specially called डीह dih, दिहांस dihāns, or (in Tirhut) भीठा bhitha, and in Champaran भीठ bhith. डीह dih is properly an old village site or mound. If there are two clusters of dwellings of the same name some distance apart, the older one will be called डीह dih. अबादी abādi is properly settled or cultivated land. The land near the village which receives the drainage of the houses is गोदान gohān in Shahabad.

- (b) The next furthest belt from the village site is बहारसी baharsi to the west and in Patna and South Munger. This belt is also called सरह sareh to the south-west as long as crops are standing on it. It is also called ताडी tadhi (Champaran), बहारभूम baharbhūm (Saran and Tirhut), ताल tal (South-East Tirhut), बाहियार bahiyār (North-East Tirhut), and बैहार baihar (South Bhagalpur). In Hazaribagh it is called सिङ्गा singha.
- (c) The belt furthest from the village site is also called सरह sareh to the west, also बहारभूम baharbhūm in South Munger. So that the second and third belts are only considered as one. There are also, however, separate names for the third belt, viz. टार tār, टॉर tānr, or टॉरी tānri, which is used to mean high extensive wastes of infertile or gravelly soil, or of hillocks and ridges such as are found in Gaya, and चौर chaunr, which means low open marshy country. In South Bhagalpur भीठो bhitho is the land far from the village site which only produces bhadoi crops with much labour, and a still further circle is बरन baran, which bears no produce. In Saran and Tirhut दीयार diyar are the fields situated on the further side of a river, or islands formed by rivers.

CHAPTER III.—SOILS CLASSIFIED ACCORDING TO THEIR CONSTITUENT ELEMENTS.

785. Sandy soils.—बाला bāla or बलवा bahca, बल्वर balhar (North-West and in Patna and in Gaya), बलवाह bahoāh (South Bhagalpur), and बलधूस baldhūs (Champaran), are soils principally composed of sand. Sandy loams are बलसुन्दर balsundar or बलसुन्दरी balsundri, with local variants बलसुन balsun or बलसुम्ही balsumhi in South Tirhut, बलकसी balkasi in South-East Tirhut, and बलसुम balsum in North-East Tirhut. They are also called बलुवट baluat to the west, and बलिमत balimat in Shahabad. North of the Ganges and in South Munger बलुवा balua is land with sand on the surface and clay at some distance below. In Champaran and South-West Tirhut धूस dhūs or धूसी dhūsi is an arid and sterile soil consisting of an admixture of sand and clay. A loose sandy subsoil, in which a clay well will not work, is बेंगा benga or बेंगवा bengua. In South-East Tirhut it is also सुखनी bhusni. In Shahabad जोष bhis is fine compact sand, and बाबा bāla loose coarse sand.

786. Clayey soils.—The principal is मटियार matiyār, or in Gaya मटिगर matigar, which is a brown clay soil, well adapted for rice. It contains about 60 or 70 per cent of clay. A stronger kind, containing about 85 per cent, is called केवाल kewāl. This is also called करार karār in the south-east. केवाल kewāl in South Munger is of three kinds, viz. करका karka, which is black; गोरिचहा gorialta, which is yellowish; and चणकी chanki or नगरी केवाल gagri kewāl, which is mixed with fine gravel. This last is also called पथरटिया pathratiya in South Bhagalpur or (when it is of a reddish colour) गोरंटिया पथरौटी gorentiya pathrauti. In South-East Tirhut केवाल kewāl is of two kinds, viz. गोरी केवाल gori kewāl, which is light-coloured, and तेलिया केवाल teliya kewāl, which is dark. करैल karail to the west is a bluish-black soil, which contains more organic matter than मटियार matiyār. In Shahabad it is divided into two kinds, viz. बांगर करैल bāngar karail, which is apt to crack on drying, and डोना करैल dona karail, which is of a more bluish colour than the other. A clay which feels greasy when rubbed in the hand is called दूधी dūdhi or चिकन मिट्टी chikkan mitti or चिकनी मिट्टी chikni mitti; and सुहुरी bhusuri (west) and कचौष kachaus (east) are clay soils which soon dry on the surface. रकौर rakhaur is a similar soil mixed with ashes, which is called in South Munger भसुराही bhasurāhi. चणकी chanki, or to the west सिग्ता sigta, are hard soils, which split and crack when dry. In Patna and Gaya कछुरवा kachhuiya is a loose clay met in digging wells. लल्की मिट्टी lalki mitti north of the Ganges, गेरु geru south of it, and काबिस kābis in South-West Shahabad, is a red clay. नरम naram, and also to the east लरम laram, mean soft when applied to clay. North of the Ganges, to the west, and in South Munger, अक्राह akrah is a hard clay soil mixed with fine gravel. In South-East Tirhut it is चराही chharahi. रोरियाह roriyāh or रोरहा rorha is land which goes into hard lumps the size of eggs after preparation. कुमरौटी kumrauti, or in Saran कुमरौटी kumrauti, and in Tirhut कारी माटी kāri māti, is potter's clay.

787. Loamy soils.—The चहाल chahal or कदौर kadoi is that which is never drier than mud, and in which crops are planted without ploughing. धबरी dhabri or धाब dhāb is land which is part of the year under water and part of it dry. दोरह doras, or (in Patna and Gaya) दोरहाही dorsāhi, and (in South Bhagalpur) परसोती parsoṭi, and also पंचकटेल panchkatail in Tirhut, is a clayey loam; while बलसुन्दर balsundar (see sandy soils for other names) is a fine sandy loam. In Champaran बभनी babhni is a light red soil.

CHAPTER IV.—SOILS AND WATER ACTION.

788. Land thrown up by fluvial action is गङ्ग बरार gang barār (also spelt बरार barār), and that cut away गङ्ग सिक्का gang sikast. चारन chhāran is land left by the retrocession of a river. टाँच tānr in South-West Shahabad, and पटपर patpar in South-East Bihar, is newly-formed land so situated as to receive an annual accretion of alluvial deposit; but in Sāran and South Tirhut पटपर patpar is barren alluviated land. In Sāran मामस māmas is rich alluviated land. In Tirhut, Patna, Gaya, and the south-east तरौ tari means moist soil in hollows and at the foot of slopes. It also even means water. Thus they say, 'Are you going तरौ tari (by water) or खुसकी khuski (by land)?' In Sāran तरयानी taryāni is similarly used. तरौ tari is also applied to lands recovered by retrocession of a river. In Shahabad they are भागर bhāgar, and in the south-west of that district चिचलहिया chhichhlahiya. They are also called चारन chhāran. दीयर diyar or दियारा diyāra is fresh land thrown up by the shifting of the course of a river. In Patna, and also in Champaran, it is called दिचरा diara, in South-West Shahabad डीला dila, in South Munger दीरा dīra, and in South Bhagalpur दीरा dīra. The alluvial deposit left by rivers while still wet is called कदरै kadaṛi, कदौर kadoi, or पॉक pānk or पङ्क pank (see § 789). Land rendered useless by deposits of sand is called कोरा बाळ kora bāl (in Sāran) and बलान balān (North-West Tirhut).

CHAPTER V.—MUDDY AND WATER-LOGGED SOILS.

789. Land in the bed of a tank is in Patna and Gaya तरौ tari. In Shahabad it is कौच kinch, and to the west generally कानो किचर kāno kichchar. Marshy or muddy soils and quagmires are भास bhās and दलकी dalki to the west and in Patna, and the latter also in Gaya and South Munger. In Tirhut, Sāran, and Patna they are दलदल daldal, in Patna and Shahabad पंकहा pankha, and in the south-west of the last district खंचरा khanchra. Lands usually saturated with water are पनमार panmār north of the Ganges, सुगरा sugra in South-West Shahabad, सिंहास siñrah in the rest of the district, सिंहास siraha in Patna and South Munger, सीरा sira in South Bhagalpur, and सेत set in Gaya. धसना dhasna is land liable to be submerged. It is called गौची gaunchi in Gaya and जलकी jalki in South-West Shahabad; in South Munger it is गौची gaunchhi. The old dry bed of a river is चारन chhāran or (in North Tirhut) मरन maran. Other names are बाँक bānr in Patna and Shahabad and जोर jhor in the south-west of the last district. पाँक pānk, पाँकी pānki, or पक pank is earth wet and soft so as to yield to the tread, adhesive and rotting. Nothing will grow in it. कादो kādo, कदो kadoi, or कदई kadai, is mud in which crops will grow.

CHAPTER VI.—HIGHLANDS AND LOWLANDS.

790. Highlands, as contrasted with river valleys, are उपरवार uparwār in Patna and to the north-west, बहारभूम baharbhūm in South Tirhut, and उपरार uprār in East Tirhut. South of the Ganges दिहांस dihāns is used in Patna, टाँक tānr in Gaya and South Munger, डीह dih in Shahabad, and डीह dih in South Bhagalpur. In Hazaribagh other names are उचास uchās and डीबर dhībar. In South Munger गाढ़ gād is the corresponding word for a lowland. झील jhil or चौँर chauñr, or in Saran काच kāchh, is low marshy land. In Patna, Gaya, and South Munger it is जाह jāh. मन man is a large sheet of water of considerable depth, and in Tirhut जान jān is similar but something smaller. खाल khāl, खलवा khahwa, or in the north-west खलार khalār or खलहर khalhar, is a hollow with or without water.

CHAPTER VII.—RAVINES AND MOUNDS, &c.

and चाँच chānch in South Bhagalpur. Land which never lies fallow is अबाद abād or अबादी abādi. Another name is उठनी uthni in Champāran. North of the Ganges रूनी rulli or (to the east) रूनी runni is poor light land which requires to be left fallow for a year or two. It also means land which has lost its fertility. Other words in use are जूस jhūs and हलुक haluk to the north-west and in Patna, झूसी jhūsi in North-East Tirhut, कोदी korhi in Patna, चँच chhānchh in Gaya, बंगरा bangrāh to the south-west of that district, तिलिया कोदी tiliya korhi in South Munger, and अलगी algi in South Bhagalpur.

CHAPTER XI.—RICHNESS AND POORNESS OF SOIL.

800. बरियार bariyār or गहरा gahra, or in South Munger जैयद jaiyad, is the general term used for rich soils. Others are जीगर jigar (Patna) and चोखा chokha (North-West, Gaya, and South Munger). Poor soils are हलुक haluk (North-West Bihar), रूनी runni (see § 799), तपना tapnāh (North-East Tirhut), and ठस thas, अबार abbar (also in Champāran), or उसठ usath south of the Ganges.

CHAPTER XII.—IRRIGATED AND DRY LANDS.

801. Land artificially irrigated is पटौना patauna or पटौरी pataui to the west. Other local names are पटौना patauna South-East Tirhut, and पटाचौल patāöl North-East Tirhut and पटहुई patāhuñ in Shahabad. If watered after ploughing, it is छिरिकनी chhirikni to the west, पचौचाँ pachauān in South-West Shahabad, and पनौला panaula in the rest of that district. निपनिचाँ nipaniyān are in Patna unirrigated crops. In South Munger lands which require irrigation are रूना rūna, and there and in Sāran those which produce crops without irrigation are हलही halhi.

CHAPTER XIII.—LANDS WHICH RETAIN AND WHICH DO NOT RETAIN MOISTURE.

802. This is the division most common amongst natives themselves. The moisture in land is हाल hāl. Land which does not retain it is बाँगर bāngar, and that which does is भौट bhith, or in North Saran भाट bhāth. Under these divisions come other subdivisions, such as बलुआ बाँगर balua bāngar (which is sandy), मटियार बाँगर matiyār bāngar (which is clayey), and so on, and बलुआ भौट balua bhith, मटियार भौट matiyār bhith, and so on. Crops on bāngar lands cannot be cultivated without irrigation, and the expense of cultivation is therefore greater, but the yield more than compensates the outlay, being a third, and sometimes double the amount of bhith produce. The latter lands are sometimes irrigated and sometimes not.

CHAPTER XIV.—LANDS BEARING A SINGLE AND A DOUBLE CROP.

803. Lands which produce only one crop in the year are एकफसलिया ekphasila or एकफसिली ekphasili. In Champaran they are called एकफसलिया eksaliya. चौमास chaumās lands (also called पलिकर palikar to the west) are kept free from crop during the rains, and tilled for the cold weather crop. Lands bearing two crops in the year are दोफसलिया dophasila or दोफसिली dophasili, or in Champaran दोफसलिया dosaliya. In South Bhagalpur they are दोसाळ dosāl. DIVISION IV.

GENERAL AGRICULTURAL OPERATIONS.

SUBDIVISION I.

PLOUGHING AND HARROWING.

CHAPTER I.—PLOUGHING AND HARROWING.

817. To plough is हर जोतव har jotab, हर बहव har bahab, or हर चलाव har chalāēb. हर नाधव har nādhab is properly to yoke the oxen to the plough (also called हरगनी larni in Champāran and South-East Tirhut). Other expressions for ploughing are सिरावर के बरह sirdur ke dharab or सरिया के जोतव sariya ke jotab in Champāran, पैस धराब pais dharab (or पुरस धराब puis dharab in North-East Tirhut) in Champāran and Tirhut, and दहिन धरेबाव dahin dharedo in Champāran and South-East Tirhut. One ploughing is बास chās, and in Gaya and to the west also बाँह bāñh: thus, प्रक बाँह ek bāñh the first ploughing, दो बाँह do bāñh the second ploughing, and so on.

818. The first ploughing is called पहिल बास pahil chās or हरगनी pharni. In Gaya and Champāran it is फारन phāran. Lands sown after a single ploughing are भोकौवा bhokaua in the north-west and जोता बावग jota bāwag in Champāran and Tirhut. मघाड़ जोतव maghār jotab is north of the Ganges and in Patna and Gaya the ploughing in the month of Māgh (January–February) of lands intended to be sown at the next rainy season. In East Tirhut and Champāran this is also called चौमाँस जोतव chaumāns jotab. In Gaya and Champāran it is also मघड़ा बास maghra chās, in Shahabad मघवट maghwat, and in the south-west of that district कुलहार kulhar. In South Bhagalpur it is माघी बास māghi chās, and in South Munger मघाड़ maghār. The field which is thus ploughed is बिड़ार birār to the west and south and पह pah also south of the Ganges and in Champāran. North of the Ganges it is called चौमाँस chaumāns.

819. The second ploughing is दोहार or दोहाड़ dokhār. In Gaya and Champaran it is also called पुरवे purwe. Other names are सोमरा somra to the north-west and समार samār in North-East Tirhut, दोहार dohār in Champaran and North-West Tirhut, and दोहरावन dohrāwan in South-West Shahabad; and the same names are also applied to the field so ploughed. In the south-east the second ploughing is called चार chās, दोहार dokhār being the third ploughing.

820. The third ploughing is तेहार tekhār and also (in Champaran) तेहरा tekhra. To the west it is also तेहरावन tehrāwan. In the south-east it is दोहार dokhār. The same terms are used for the land so ploughed.

821. The fourth ploughing is in East Tirhut and Gaya चौहार chaukhār, and in Shahabad, Gaya, and South Bhagalpur चरचसी charchasi. Elsewhere it is चार चार chār chās; so also the land so ploughed.

822. The fifth ploughing is पानचास pānchās.

823. The phrase used for successive ploughing is एक चार ek chās, दू चार du chās, and so on. Theoretically there is no limit to the number of ploughings required for some crops, as is shown in the following rhyme current in Gaya:—

चौ चार गन्दा,	Sau chās ganda,
पचास चार मन्दा,	Pachās chās manda,
तेकर चापा मोरी	Tekar ādha mori,
तेकर चापा मोरी	Tekar ādha tori.

—A hundred ploughings for cane, fifty for wheat, half that (25) for rice, and half that (12½) for oilseeds.

824. The ploughing of millets, when they are about a foot high, is बिदाह bidāh, a local variant being बिदाहनी bidahni in Champaran, West Tirhut, Patna, and the south-east. In Gaya and Champaran it is कोरन koran, and in South Munger, when hoeing is substituted for ploughing, it is कोरनी korni. When a rice-field is flooded and then ploughed to kill the weeds, the process is called लेव leo in the north-west, लेवा lewa in Gaya, and कादो kado or कदवा kadwa to the north-west and in Tirhut. In North-West Tirhut it is called मसाह masāh.

825. In Saran and Champaran ploughing with a plough of which the block is new and full-sized is नवथा के जोत nawtha ke jot, and with one which has a small worn block खिनौरी के जोत khinauri ke jot. In Tirhut and also in Champāran the corresponding words are respectively लवठा के जोत lawtha ke jot and ठेंठा के जोत thentha ke jot, and in Shahabad नवहरा nawahra and खुंटेहरा khuntehra.

826. In rice cultivation, after sowing, the field is lightly reploughed to clear the weeds and cover the seed. This is called उनाह unah to the north-west and in North-West Tirhut, गजर gajar in the North-East Tirhut, and समार samār in Champāran and South-East Tirhut. In Patna it is समाह samāh, in Gaya बिराह birāh, to the west and in Patna and Gaya बिदाह bidāh, and in Champāran and to the south-east बिदहनी bidahni.

827. The small pieces of the field which the plough has not touched are पैस pais in Champāran and South-West Tirhut and पुरस puis in North-East Tirhut. In North-West and South-East Tirhut and in Champāran they are दहिना dahina, and in Saran and Champāran छट्टल खेत chhūtal khet.

828. Cross-ploughing is आरा ara, or in Champāran and South Bhagalpur आर ar, and in South-East Tirhut समार samār. When a field is ploughed round and round in constantly diminishing circuits, it is called चौकेठा chaukettha or (in Patna) चौएठा chauetha, आरी आर ari chās in Gaya, चौबगली chaubagli in Champāran and Gaya, and चौगठिया chaugathiya or चौक chauk to the west. In Saran and Champāran it is चौगेठ chaugeth, in South Munger बौरिया bhaunriya, and in North-West Tirhut चौकेर chauker. The centre plot in the middle, round which the bullocks have no room to turn, is called बदहार badhār, and this is furrowed by taking the plough across it diagonally from corner to corner. Ploughing from corner to corner is कोनिया जोत koniya jot or कोन kon, also कोनसी kōnsi in South Munger, कोनसिया konasiya in Champāran and South-West Tirhut, कोनी koni in Gaya, and कोना कोनी kona koni to the west. When a crookedly-shaped field has to be ploughed, it is called अना द्योरी जोत āna dyorhi jot in Saran and Patna and अनादेरी जोत āna derhi jot in Champāran. When a rectangular field is ploughed straight along its length or breadth, the ploughing is called सोजावा जोत sojhaṭa jot. Other names current are थारही tharhāī in Patna and Champāran and थारिया tharhiya to the west. Ploughing breadthways is फानी phāni in Saran and North-West Tirhut, फाकी phatki in Champāran and the south-east, अना फानी āna phāni in Patna, and फंदिया phandiya in South-West Shahabad.

829. The following rule is current in North-East Bihar as to ploughing and harrowing :—

थोर जोतिहः बहुत हेंगरबः, ऊंच के बँधिहः बार ।

उपके तः उपके बाधौ तः बाधे दीहः गार ॥

Thor jotihā bahut hengāihā, ūnch ke bandhihā ār,

Upje ta upje nāhin, ta Ghāghe diha gār.

—Plough little, harrow much, and have your field boundaries high. If what should come does not then do so, you can abuse Ghāgh (who gives you this advice).

830. A harrow is हेंगा henga, &c., as described in § 30 and ff. To harrow is हेंगायब hengāēb, हेंगा चलायब henga chālāēb, or चौकी घुमायब chauki ghumāēb. The act of harrowing is in Gaya पालट pālat.

831. The oxen attached to a harrow have various names. The one on the left-hand side is called पंचौट panchaut or कुदरहिना kurdahina, and the one next to him चौचा hathaua. The right-hand ox is घेरा phera, or in South Munger भसनी bhasni.

In Shahabad, Patna, and Gaya they are करवा karha, and in Patna and Gaya पेरगा panrga, in South Bhagalpur पलंगा palanga, and in South Munger दौग dug. North of the Ganges a plot marked off by a boundary is बाना बाबा bāta wāla in the north-west and South Munger and चरकी बाबा chharkī bāla in East Tirhut. The small patch of ground adjoining a house is कोला kola, कोली kohi, or कोलवार kohodā to the north-west, and बारी bāri in Champāran and Tirhut. कोला kola also obtains in Shahabad and the south-east. In Sāran and Patna it is खण्ड khand or खँड़ khanr (which properly means a ruined house), and in Gaya घेवारी ghewāri. Other optional names are गल्ली galli in South Bhagalpur and कोनासी kondāsi in Shahabad. When the fields of one proprietor's share are scattered over a village, each is called तख्ता takhta or किता kitta. The whole cultivation of such a proprietor is called खेती बारी kheti bāri to the west and in Tirhut; also खेत पवार khet badhār in Shahabad and Patna, and खेत पवार khet pathār in Champāran and South Munger. In Patna and Gaya खण्ड khandh, खन्ना khandha, किता kitta or किता kita, is a large area of cultivated land. A division of this is खँडौ khandhaut, which is again divided into fields.

CHAPTER III.—BOUNDARIES.

833. The low ridge which forms the boundary of a field is everywhere बार ar, बारि or बारी āri, as in the proverb बारि बारि तः कपार छाडी, बीच बङ्गा चरवाही, āri jāi ta kapār lāthi, bich banga charwāhi,—if you go on a field boundary have a stick (to protect) your head, (and then) you may graze your cattle in the midst of a cotton-field. North of the Ganges it is also called डँदेर danrer. Other names are अहरी ahri (see § 919), अलङ्ग alang, or पराँठ parānth in Patna, Gaya, and the south-west; पँरगा panrga, गँडारी ganrāri, बारल āil, or बार al in Gaya and South Munger, and दँर dānr in South-West Shahabad. A ditch boundary is खाई khai, बार khāi, खन्ना khatta, or खान्वाँ khāwān. Another name is खन्ना khanta in South Bhagalpur. In Gaya district डोभरा dobhra is a small ditch. An embankment used as a boundary is अहरा ahra (see § 919) or बँध bāndh. Other names are बरबन bharban (Champāran), धूर dher (North Tirhut), and चरकी chharki (South-East Tirhut). A place where three boundaries meet is तिनकोनिया tinkoniya, and where four meet चौमुख chaumukh, चौबटिया chaubatiya, or चौराहा chaurāha. In Champāran and South-East Tirhut it is also चौपड़ chaupar.

834. The rural Bihari lays great stress on the importance of keeping these boundary embankments in order. Thus, there is a proverb ठारिक चुकल बानर; थारिक चुकल बिबान thārik chukal bānar, ārik chukal kisān,—a cultivator who neglects to look after his boundary embankments becomes like a monkey fallen from a branch. Another proverb which may be noted here is खेत भाड़े, चारि कोड़ी khet bhāse dāri kori,—the field is flooded, out the boundary embankments, i.e., passion must have its vent.

CHAPTER IV.—FURROWS.

835. A furrow is हारा hardi to the west. In Champaran and Tirhut it is सिरावर siraur, in Patna सिरोर siror, and elsewhere सिरौर siraur. In Gaya another name is सेवान sewāt. जंजिया jhanjhiya or चारी dhari in Gaya and Sāran, and घाई ghai in Patna and South-East Tirhut, are the deep furrows in a field in which extra crops are grown, especially those at the edge of the field, or running from corner to corner.

836. The deep furrow used as an irrigation channel is चारा dāra in the north-west, पेन pain or पेनि paini generally, दौंगर daungar in South Tirhut, Patna, and Gaya, नारी nāri or करवा karha to the west and in Patna and Gaya, बीता bhita in East Tirhut, and दौग daug in Patna and to the south-east.

CHAPTER V.—MISCELLANEOUS TERMS USED IN CONNECTION WITH PLOUGHING.

837. To the west सँजले sanjh le, सँजिया sanjhiya, and सँजहरिया sanjhariya mean 'up to evening,' or 'at evening' and hence are used as adjectives with the word जोत jot to signify as much land as can be ploughed in a day. In Champaran and South Munger this is सगर्दिना sagardina, and in Patna ठकहरिया thakhariya. The area ploughed in half a day is called दोपहरिया dopahariya.

838. The portion of land included in a plough circuit is आँतर āntar, and also to the north-west and in North-East Tirhut हठा hattha, and to commence another circuit is दोसर आँतर चरण dosar āntar dharab. The place where ploughing is going on is हरवाही harwāhi in Patna and north of the Ganges. In Shahabad it is हरवाँही harwāñhi. In Patna it is डोपरा topra, and generally हाराठा harāṭha.

839. The first ploughing of the season is हरमहतार harmahutar in Sāran and हरमोहतार harmohtar in Patna and Gaya. It is also समहत samhut, and to the north सिरपंचमी sirpanchmi or सिरपचई sirpachai, both the last two terms being derived from the festival of the eri panchami. In South Munger it is हर महन्तर har mahantar or हर समत har samat, and in South Bhagalpur सोमता somāta. Another name current in Sāran is हरवत harwat.

841. The bullocks which draw a plough or harrow are called बरद barad, and to the west. also बैल bail. When it is wished to distinguish them specially from cart-bullocks, they are called in Champāran and Tirhut हट्ठा बरद hattha barad, and to the north-west and in Gaya हरेबा बैल hareba bail. A lazy fat plough bullock, which sits down rather than work, is called कोहि korhi or परबा parua, as in the proverb कोहि बरद केँ पेषरि बहुत korhi barad keñ phephari bahut,—it's the lazy bullock that puffs and blows.

The last is usually the man who binds himself to work off a debt incurred. When a ploughman receives the use of a plough for one day in three instead of wages in cash or kind, he is called अंगवरिया angwariya or अगवरिया agwariya, and to the west अंगवार angwār. In Sāran and Champaran he is also called टेपन्दा tepta (so also in North-East Tirhut), or तिसरी tisri or तिसरिया tisariya. In East Tirhut a ploughman who works without advances is called उठा uttha, as distinguished from चरवाहा harwāha or चरौरी harauri, who does take them.

843. In North-East Tirhut पट pat or साटी पाटी sati pāti is the custom of a plough-owner employing two ploughmen for each plough, each ploughman relieving the other at intervals of eight days. A labourer who by custom works a certain number of days for nothing for Government (formerly, and for the landlord nowadays) is called बेगार begār. Payments made in kind to agricultural labourers are called बान ban, or in East Tirhut बोन bon. Advances to ploughmen are अगवड़ agwar in the west and अगौरी agauri in South-West Tirhut. Elsewhere in Tirhut and to the north-west they are called चरौरी harauri, and generally लघुवा lagua.

The cultivator in this case is भँजा वाला bhānjā wāla, or in Tirhut भँजेत bhanjait. Another name current to the west is अँगवारा angwāra, though this properly refers to the custom of paying ploughmen (अँगवरिया angwariya, see last chapter) by lending them a plough and cattle one day in three.

- 847. The work which one cultivator does for another in this way is called to the west सापट sāpat.

SUBDIVISION III.

SOWING AND TRANSPLANTING.

CHAPTER I.—SOWING.

855. Sowing is to the west बोनी boāni, and to the east बावग bāwag, बाबोग bāög, or बाउग bāüg. In Patna चुलाग्र chulāgr is also used in connection with Bhadoi or autumn crops.

Barren seeds are चबौ abbi (or in Shahabad) चबर awai, and fertile seeds are सुग्गी suggi.

CHAPTER II.—MODES OF SOWING.

857. The following are the modes of sowing:—

- (a) Furrow sowing.—चारी dhāri or चरिवा dhariya. To plough in this way is चारी लगान dhāri lagāēb or चरिवा लगान dhariyāēb. South of the Ganges this method is called चुटकी chutki. In this method a plough goes in advance of the sower, who carries the seed in a basket. He drops it into the furrow as soon as the latter becomes visible. By this method the seed is sown deep, the stalk is stronger, and not so liable to be laid by high winds. भटाग bha'hāēb, दोहरिवा dodhariya, दोहार dohār, or समार samār is the practice of filling up with soil the furrow in which the seed has been sown, by ploughing a separate furrow beside it. This is generally done in the case of Bhadoi crops. Sugar-cane is not covered in this way in Bihār, but by hand. The long straight lines of seed across a field are known as चारी dhāri or पंती pānti. When the ploughing is done round a field, and not across, it is called चौकैठा chauketha, &c. (See § 828).
- (b) Sowing by drill.—This is तार tār, तारी tāri, टोर tor, टोरी tori, often spelt टौर, टौड़ tāur, टौर, टौड़ tonr, &c. To sow in this way is टारन tārāb or टोर लगान tor lagāēb. The man who works the drill-plough is टारवाह tarwāh or टोरवाह torwāh.
- (c) Broadcast sowing.—This is generally बावन bāwag or its variants,—see above. Other names are चिह्ता chhitla or चिह्ता chhitua north of the Ganges, and चौंटा chhinta south of it. Maize and similar crops are sometimes sown broadcast on land left soft after an inundation, and are then pressed into the mud by hand. This method of sowing is called डोभा dobha, and to sow thus is डोबन dobhab.

858. If the seed is sown on lands which have not been ploughed, it is called बिहा chhitta, बिहुवा chhitua, or south of the Ganges जंगली बावर jangli bāwag, पैरा paira (Gaya, also in Champāran), or पापर pāer or समार samār (Patna and South Munger). चिंटा chhinta or चिहा chhitta is also used to signify lands in which the seed has been scattered after a single ploughing. It is also specially used for sowing the spring (रबी rabi) crops on the दोफसिला dophasila lands, i.e., those from which the autumn crop has just been cut, as contrasted with the पल्लिहार palīhar or चौमास chaumās, which are carefully-prepared fallow lands for wheat and similar crops. The sowing of the early rice in dry lands is खरखर बावग kharhar bāwag. North of the Ganges it is also धुरिया बावग dhuriya bāwag. South of the Ganges it is in Shahabad and Patna ठररा tharra, in the rest of the district खरवाह kharwāh, in Gaya खरवेह kharweh or खरवे kharwe, in Patna बाघा baugha, and in South Munger धुरघुसा dhurghussa. Other names are (north of the Ganges) फकाह phakāh or फाँफर phānphar to the west and छेहर chhehar or चेरमार permār generally. South of the Ganges we find पाथर pāthar in Gaya, पतला patla in South Munger, and पतौल patil in South Bhagalpur, the last two being also met with in Champāran. Sowing thick is generally घन ghan, गाढ़ gārh, or गाढ़ा gārha. North of the Ganges सजोर sajor is used in the same sense.

859. Grain that fails to germinate is अब्बी abbi, निरबीज nirbij, बिजमार bijmār, or बीया मार biyā mār. In South-West Shahabad it is बरुवा barua. If a man wishes to say that his seeds have not come up, he says हमार बिजमार मारल गेल hammar bihnāi mārāl gel.

860. When from excess of rain followed by heat a crust is formed on the surface, which prevents the young plant from coming up, it is called to the west सपट जारल sapat jāil or सपटा जारल sapta jāil. In East Tirhut and Shahabad it is called सपरी papri. South of the Ganges it is तावा tāwa to the south-west of Shahabad, or सेवठा sewtha in the rest of the district and in Patna. Elsewhere it is सेवठा sewta or मुन्दा munda.

CHAPTER III.—SEED-BEDS AND NURSERIES.

862. A nursery for rice is बिहार birār or बिहार biyār. To the west it is also बेंगा benga. The young plants which are transplanted from the nursery are generally बीया biya or गच्छी gachhi. They are also called बीहन bihan or बीहनाई bihnāi. South of the Ganges and to the north-west (when of rice) they are also called मोरी mōri, and in Champaran जरई jarai. The bundles of rice seedlings ready for transplanting are आँटी ānti or आँटिया antiya.

CHAPTER IV.—SOWING TIME.

863. The sowing season is बोखनी boāni north of the Ganges and बोग्हा bogha south of it. It is also generally called बावग bāwag.

CHAPTER V.—TRANSPLANTING.

864. To transplant is रोपव ropab. In Gaya when a man has finished transplanting he says हमार बहुतार लेह hammar banusār bhel,—‘I have finished transplanting,’ the quantity of rice seedlings transplanted at one place being called everywhere except in the south-east बाब bān. A bundle of seedlings is आँटी ānti, and the man who plants them is called डोहा dobha or रोपनिहार ropnihār. The bundles are tied in pairs and set astride over a long bamboo when carried about. This bamboo is called to the west बिहान्दोहा bihandhoa or कनाठ kanāth. The man who roots up the seedlings from the seed-bed is called कबरिया kabariya, or in Sāran कबरिहा kabariha. In South Munger he is also called मोरकबरा morkabra. Seedlings which have been re-transplanted, i.e., transplanted more than once, are called north of the Ganges खार khāru or खरुह kharuhan.

SUBDIVISION IV.

CHAPTER I.—DIGGING.

865. To dig is कोदव kōrab. In Champaran and Tirhut it is also तामव tāmab or पारव pārab. In South-West Shahabad it is डेखव

866. Hoeing is खुरपिचाना khurpiyāna to the north-west. In Champaran and in Tirhut generally it is केरौनी kerauni or कामैनी kamaini. South of the Ganges it is कोढ़नी korni, or in South-West Shahabad छेजनी chhejni. In the month of Asārḥ (June-July) sugar-cane gets a special hoeing, which is called असाही कोर asārhi kor, and in Champaran and North-East Tirhut टोकब tokab. In Gaya it is called पासा pāsa, and in Patna असाही कोढ़ asārhi koran. In Champaran and the south-east it is अद्रा कोर adra koran, and elsewhere it has no special name. In Champaran and Tirhut it is called टिपनी tipni. The digging up a field to clear it of weeds before ploughing is तामब tāmab, also in North-East Tirhut टोकब tokab. The operation is called तमनी tamni, or in North-East Tirhut टोकनी tokni.

Weeding by hand is चिखुरनी chikhurni in the north-west and उच्हतनी uchhtani in Champāran and Tirhut. In Patna, Gaya, and South Munger it is हाँव सेँ निकारव hānth señ nikāēb, and in South Bhagalpur थकुरी thakurai. In Shahabad it has no special name.

868. Weeds are घास ghās or घास पान ghās pāt. In the north-west they are also दूब दाँदर dūbh dāndar, and in Tirhut धू dhū. When collected and burnt as manure, they are खादर khādar in the north-west, and गोसा goa there and in Tirhut. In Patna and Gaya these are अलाह alāh or दाही dāhi, हूरा hūra in South Munger, and चारो chhāro in South Bhagalpur.

869. Wages for weeding are सोहार sohāi or चिखुराई chikhurāi in north-west, and in the east generally simply बन ban. In Patna and Gaya they are निकौनी nikauni, in South-West Shahabad बनी bani, and to the west generally बनिहारी banihāri.

SUBDIVISION V.

WATCHING CROPS.

870. Watching of crops is generally रखवारी rakhwāri, अगोरी agori, or अगोरिया agoriya. Other terms are रखवाही rakhwāhi or बलरक्खी balrakkhi in Patna, जगवारी jagwāri or बधवाहा badhwāha in Gaya, बधवार badhwār in East Tirhut, and जोगाएव jogāēb in Champāran and South Bhagalpur. In Champāran and the south-east हाँकी hānki is to drive crows off a field. Elsewhere it is कौसा हाँकव kaua hānkab, &c. A field-watchman is रखवार rakhwār, अगोरिया agoriya, or अगोरनिहार agornihār; also बलरक्खवा balrakkha in Patna, अगोरा agora there and in Champāran and South Munger, जगवरिया jagwariya in Gaya, and जोगनिवाँ joganīyān in South Bhagalpur. The बधवार badhwār or बधवाहा badhwāha is generally a man appointed to watch the fields of a number of cultivators and paid by the landlord.

871. In the north-west चेंकनिहार chhenknihār, and in North-East Tirhut चकलेदा chakledār, is a man appointed to watch on behalf of the landlord to see that none of the crops is carried away before the demand is paid. Elsewhere he is simply called पिवादा piyāda or बराहिल barāhil, but to the south-east he is सिरमान sirmān or बलरक्खवा balrakkha. To attach the crops thus is called रोकव rokaēb: hence the Anglo-Indian phrase "to roke crops." The act of "roking" is called in the north-west चापा chhāpa.

872. When cultivators club together to watch their crops in turn, it is called north of the Ganges पारी pāri, भौज bhānj, or भौजा bhānja. It is also पल्लड़ी palti in Patna, Gaya, and the west; also परिहार parihar in Patna and Gaya, पेठी pethi in South-West Shahabad, and पाएठ pāēth in South Munger.

SUBDIVISION VI.

REAPING AND GLEANING.

CHAPTER I.—REAPING.

873. Reaping is कटनी katni, or to the north-west कटिया katiya. In South-West Shahabad it is लौनी launi. To reap is काटव kātab, or in South-West Shahabad लौनी करल launi karal. To cut cane is झोलल chholal in the north-west, गेंडा करल genra karal to the west, पारव pārab in Champāran and Patna and Gaya and South Munger, and गूर काटव ghar kātab in South Bhagalpur.

874. The man who cuts the cane is described in section 292. A reaper is कटनिहार katnihār north of the Ganges and in Patna and to the south-west. He is also दिनिहार dinihar in Patna, Gaya, and South Munger, लेवनिहार leonihār or कटनिघाँ katniyān to the west. Elsewhere he is simply जन jan, बनिहार banihār, &c. Harvest time is कटनी katni. The wages of harvesting are दिनौरा dinaura in Patna and Gaya, and दिनी dīni in Champāran, Gaya, and the south-east. Another name is in Gaya गुदारा gudāra, or in Sāran गुदर gudār. Elsewhere they are बन ban, or in South-West Shahabad बनी bani.

875. Cutting the ears without the stalks is बलकट balkat generally. Other names are टुंगनी tungni north of the Ganges and to the west, अगला agla in Champāran and Gaya, कटुई katui in South-West Shahabad, पंगल pāngal to the west, and ननकटनी nankatni in South Munger. So also in East Tirhut it is ननकटनी nankatni or (also in Champāran) सिक्कटनी siskatni, and in South-East Tirhut चिक्कट्टा chhipkatta. It is अगला agra in South Bhagalpur. Cutting crops at the root is जरहोरनी jarchhorni, (in South-East Tirhut) जरकटा jarkatta, or (in South Munger) जरहोरा jarchhora.

876. To shake the fruit off a tree is जहजहार jhārjharāēl in the north-west. In Champāran and West Tirhut it is जहकाय jharkhāēb, and in East Tirhut जकाय jhakāēb. To the west it is जोरल jhoral, and also, generally, दोलब dolab or दोलाय देब dolāy deb. जहाब jhatahab is to knock down fruit from a tree by throwing up sticks into it (see § 41).

CHAPTER II.—CUTTING OF UNRIPE CROPS.

877. Unripe crops are sometimes cut for food. North of the Ganges this is known as गदरा gadra or कच्चा kachcha. Other names are गादा gāda and गदा gadda. In South Munger it is गदर gādar, and in South Bhagalpur अंकुरी ankuri. The last two are also met with in Champāran. A word used to the east generally is कचरी kachri. In the north-west समहुत samahut is a little grain cut first, and this is सुमुत sumut in North-West Tirhut, नेवान newān in Saran, and नेबाब nebān in Champāran and Tirhut. होरहा horha is unripe grain cut for parohing. It is also called ओरहा orha in Tirhut and the south-east, and optionally होल्हा holha in Champāran and South Munger. The green ears of Eleusine coracana (महुआ marua) treated in this way are called उमी ummi or अमी ami to the west and in Tirhut and अनी ani in Champāran. आलो alo in Gaya is the part of the crop which is reaped by a cultivator for present eating before the whole is ripe. Sometimes unripe pulses and barley are rooted up and given as fodder to cattle. This is called in Saran रखौत rakhānt.

CHAPTER III.—GLEANNING.

878. A gleaner is बिन्नहार binnihār or बिनीयौ biniyān to the west. He is also generally लोहनिहार lorhnihār, with variants लोहताहार lorhtāhar in Patna, Gaya, and South Munger, and लोहरा lohra in South Bhagalpur. Gleanings left on the field for the lower orders are जहंगा jharnga or जहंग jhārang to the west, and लोही lorhi or लोहिवा lorhiya to the east and in Champāran. Gleaning is called in Gaya and South Munger लोहा बिचा lorha bichcha, and gleanings are लोहा lorha.

SUBDIVISION VII.

THRESHING AND WINNOWER.

CHAPTER I.—THE THRESHING-FLOOR.

879. A threshing-floor is everywhere खरिहान kharihān, with an optional variant खरिहानी kharihāni in Patna. The shed erected on the threshing-floor is मरई marai, खोंपड़ी khompri, or खोंपड़ी jhompri. In Patna it is मरुका maruka or खोंपड़ा jhompṛa, in Gaya कूड़ा kārha, and in the south-east खोंपड़ा khompṛa.

CHAPTER II.—SHEAVES AND BUNDLES.

880. The cut crop is दंड dānth to the north-west, or दंत dānt in North-West Tirhut. In East Tirhut it is लार lār. In Shahabad it is लेहनी lehni, in Champāran लेहन lehan, in Gaya पतौर pataur, in Patna पतौड़ी patauri or पतनी patni, in South Munger पातन pātan, and in South Bhagalpur पतन pattan. In Shahabad it is called पधारी palhāri, and in Sāran पधारी pathāri, when it is left a day in the field without being gathered.

881. In considering the nomenclature of the sheaves it will be convenient to take North and South Bihar separately.

NORTH BIHAR.

882. The smallest sheaf, about a handful, is called मूठा mūtha, मुठा muttha, or पूठा pūṭha; the next largest is the अँदाँसा anwānsa (north-west), ओल्हा aulha (North Tirhut), and अडल dhul or अबुला abula (East Tirhut); the next largest is the अँटिया antiya or (Champāran and North-West Tirhut) पसही pasahi; the next largest is an armful or पाँजा pānja; the next largest is a बोझा bojha; and the largest of all, that carried on a bullock, लदना ladna. The relative scale of some of the above is generally as follows:—

4 मूठा mūtha	= 1 अँदाँसा anwānsa or ओल्हा aulha .
8 ओल्हा aulha	= 1 पाँजा pānja .
4 पाँजा pānja	= 1 बोझा bojha .
16 बोझा bojha	= 1 सोरही sorhi .

In East Tirhut the following scale obtains :—

4 चाडल āhul	= 1 केडनी kehuni .
4 केडनी kehuni	= 1 पाँजा pānja .
4 पाँजा pānja	= 1 बोझा bojha .
16 बोझा bojha	= 1 सोरही sorhi .
16 सोरही sorhi	= 1 सोरहा sorha .

883. The word सोरही sorhi is a common unit for measuring produce. Thus, a raiyat will say that such and such a field gives so many सोरही sorhi to the bigha.

SOUTH BIHAR.

884. The proportions vary in different places, as follows :—

SOUTH-WEST SHAHABAD.

2 अँवाँसी anwānsi	= 1 अँडिया antiya or होमड़ा domra .
10 ditto	= 1 पाँजा pānja , पूरी pūri , or चाँटी ānti .
3 पाँजा pānja , पूरी pūri , or चाँटी ānti	= 1 बोझा bojha .
30 ditto ditto	= 1 तिसौर tisaur .

10 अँवाँसी anwānsi	= 1 अँडिया antiya or पचगिरीया panpiaua .
4 अँडिया antiya	= 1 बोझा bojha .
Or 10 चाँसी ānsi	= 1 पाँजा pānja .
4 पाँजा pānja	= 1 बोझा bojha .
21 बोझा bojha	= 1 एकैसिया ekaisiya .

PATNA.

4 चरपा arpa	= 1 चाँटी ānti .
5 चाँटी ānti	= 1 गारी gāhi .
5 गारी gāhi	= 1 बोझा bojha .
Or 5 चरपा arpa	= 1 पाँजा pānja .
5 पाँजा pānja	= 1 बोझा bojha .
21 बोझा bojha	= 1 एकैसी ekaisi .

3 चरप्पा arpa	= 1 चाँटी ānti .
5 चाँटी ānti	= 1 गाही gāhi .
10 गाही gāhi	= 1 बोझा bojha .
Or 9 चरप्पा arpa	= 1 पाँजा pānja .
3 पाँजा pānja	= 1 बोझा bojha .
21 बोझा bojha	= 1 प्रकैसी ekaisi .

SOUTH MUNGER.

The same as Gaya, except that 4 पाँजा pānja = 1 बोझा bojha.

SOUTH BHAGALPUR.

4 गौंती gaunti	= 1 चाँटी ānti .
4 चाँटी ānti	= 1 पाँजौ pānjau .
16 चाँटी ānti	= 1 बोझा bojha .
16 बोझा bojha	= 1 सोरही sorhi .

885. The word प्रकैसी ekaisi south of the Ganges is used in much the same way that सोरही sorhi is used; so also तिसौर tisaur. It will be seen that the above scales are not always consistent amongst themselves. This is the fact, and is due to a difference in the size of the unit according to locality. The बोझा bojha is about the same everywhere.

886. An अक्कार akwār or अंकवार ankwār (optionally), or in Patna and South-East Tirhut केहुनी kehuni, is as much grain as can be carried between the arms, and मथबोझा mathbojha is a load carried on the head. Out of each बोझा bojha one चाँटी ānti is given to the labourer who cuts and carries away the crop, and the remainder is in Shahabad called गुदर gudār.* गुच्छ gund in Patna or गूँडा gūnra in Gaya is a bundle of cut pulse.

CHAPTER III.—TREADING OUT GRAIN.

887. Treading out grain is दाँनी dauni north of the Ganges. To the west and in Patna it is also दाँरी daunri or मिनजनी minjni. The latter word is principally used when the grain is trodden out by men and not by bullocks. In Shahabad it is दौरी dāuri, and so also in the south-east. In Champāran, Patna, Gaya, and South Munger it is दाँही dāwāhi, and in Patna also (when trodden by men) मैजनी mainjini. In South Bhagalpur सहरी sahrī is a thorough threshing of corn. The beating out of the heads against the ground or bed to disengage any grains that remain is पीटा pitā, झारव jhārab, or झाँटा jhāntā north of the Ganges. It is also पेटारी petāri to the west, डंगौनी dangauni in Patna, पिटनी pitni in Champāran and Gaya, डंगौनी dengauni in East Tirhut and South Munger, and झंटनी jhantni in South Bhagalpur.

888. The first treading out of the grain is called पौर paur; the second treading is दन्ती दाँव danti dāwāb north of the Ganges and in Shahabad, or तोड़ाव torāēb in North-East Tirhut. To the west it is झाँटा chhāntā, in Champāran and Patna it is खुरदौनी khurdauni, in Gaya खुरदौती khurdonti, and in South-East Tirhut and South Munger खुरदाँई khurdāin.

889. The stake to which the bullocks are tied in treading out the grain is मैह meñh, with local variants मैहा meñha (to the north-west and in South-East Tirhut), मेहटा mehta (Patna), and मीहाँ mīñhon (South Bhagalpur). In South-West Shahabad no centre stake is used. A bullock stands in the centre, who is called मैहियाँ बैल meñhiyān bail. In other places the inner bullock next the post, which is the slowest and weakest of the team, is called मैहियाँ meñhiyān generally; also मैहा menrha in Champāran and South-East Tirhut, and मेहटा mehta or मेहटा menhta in Gaya and South Munger. In South Munger he is also मेहा meha, and in South Bhagalpur मीहाँ mīhān. Another name for him is in Gaya कुर्दाहिना kurdahina. The outer bullock, which is the smartest of the team, is called पाठ pāth or पठिया pathiya to the west, to the north-west and in North-West Tirhut पठिया patiya, and in East Tirhut पाठ बाहा pāt wāla. In South-East Tirhut it is अगदाँ agdān, and variants of this are अगदाँ agdāin in Patna and South Munger, आगदाँ agdāin or अगदाँ agdāinyān in Gaya, and एगदाँ egdāin in South Bhagalpur. In South-West Tirhut he is पेरा phera. The rope which goes round a bullock's neck is गरदाँव gardāw in the west and in South Munger, गरदानी gardani in Champāran and West Tirhut, and गरौँडा garaundha in Patna. The main rope to which all the bullocks are tied is मज्जा manjha, also दौरी daunri to the west, दौरदाँ daunrar or दोगडा dogha in West Tirhut, and कराम karām in East Tirhut. In Patna, Gaya, and South Munger it is दाँही dāwāhi, and in South Bhagalpur दाँजर dāmmar. In Champāran and Gaya it is also called कौड़ kāur or कौड़ा kāura. The rope by which the main rope is tied to the stake is घुरी ghūri or मेन्हाटी meñhauti in Patna and Gaya, and ढोंडा donra in South Bhagalpur.

CHAPTER IV.—CROPS ON THE THRESHING-FLOOR.

890. The pile of sheaves.—When the crop is piled in bundles on the threshing-floor it is known as गँज gānj. Other names are डाल tāl (north of the Ganges and Shahabad), गल्ला galla (North-West Bihar), डेरी dheri in Gaya, and कौड़ kāur or कौड़ा kāura in Champāran and to the east; also खम्हार khamhār in South-East Tirhut. When the cut crop is piled like a stack in England, with the grain heads inside to save them from rain, it is called कोठिया kothiyau in Saran, and पूँज pūnj or पुँजौर punjaur to the north-west and in Patna, Gaya, and the south-east. When rahar (cytiseus cajan) is piled on end to ripen before threshing, it is called खड़ा डाल khara tāl north of the Ganges. Stacks are rarely raised on platforms in Bihar, but when it is done the platform is called मचान machān.

891. The spread-out crop.—When the crop is spread out flat on the threshing-floor, ready to be trodden out by the bullocks, it is पैर pair north of the Ganges and in Shahabad. Other names are पौर paur or पौरी pauri in East Tirhut, खोह khoh in Champāran and South East Tirhut, बड़होरा barhora in Patna and Gaya, बड़हरा barhara in South Munger, and खूआ khāa in South Bhagalpur.

892. The crop after it is trodden.—After the crop is trodden out the pile of chaff and grain ready for winnowing is सिल्ली silli north of the Ganges, in Patna, and the south-west. Other names are कुटानु kutānu (Patna and North-West Bihar), डेरी dheri in Champāran, Tirhut, and South Munger, पैर pair in Champāran and Gaya, and धार dhar in South Bhagalpur. In South-East Tirhut it is also उकाम ukām (also in Patna) or उकुम ukum, and in Shahabad उकाँव ukāñw.

893. The heaped grain.—This is रास rās or डेरी dheri, also in North-East Tirhut खोर khōr. Over this is placed a cake of cowdung to avert the evil eye. This is बर्हानु barhānu (Patna and West Bihar) and बड़हानु barhāwan in Gaya and the west; but बर्हानु barhānu is more properly the dung deposited by the bullocks while treading. Other names for the cake are महादे mahade or महादेव mahadev. A piece of moist earth stamped is sometimes used in the same way, and is called चाकल chakal to the west and चप्पा chhappa generally. In South-East Tirhut a piece of wood so used is called जाक jak.

894. The heaped straw and chaff.—Straw in bundles is पूरा pāla in Patna and north of the Ganges, except in North-East Tirhut, where it is जहवा jhatua. South of the Ganges, and optionally in Sāran, it is चाँटी ānti or चँटिया antiya, except in the south-east, where it is पुआ pulla or बिँरा biñra. Loose straw that has been threshed is पुआरा puara (to the west) or पुआर puār (to the east). Local variants are पोरा pora (also in West Tirhut) or पोआर poār in Patna and South Munger. When it has not been threshed, but has been left standing in the field after the ears are cut off, and then itself cut out, it is called नार nār, and also (to the east) लार lār. Its stalks are whole, and are not crushed like threshed straw. नैवारी newāri is straw which is cut with the ear, but is not trodden by bullocks. It is tied up in bundles, and the heads are beaten against the ground. The husks of the grains are हुआ bhūsa or हुआ bhussa. South of the Ganges a nasal is generally inserted—thus, भूँसा bhūñsa. Other names are जहवा katua in Patna and Gaya, गुंडो gundo in Champāran and South Bhagalpur, and खखरा khakhra or हुआ dhulla in South Munger. Bran is चोकर chokar, also in Patna and the west भूँसी bhānsi. Other names are चहाँसी chalaunsi (Patna and the west), कोरार korāi (Patna, Tirhut, and the west), चोंकर chonkar in Champāran and Patna, and चोकरा chokra in South Munger. The heaped straw on the threshing-floor, or a stack of straw anywhere, is गँज gānj or टाल tāl. सिल्ली silli is also specially used for the heap of straw on the floor.

895. An enclosure for stacking straw or fuel is घेरान gherān in West Tirhut, Sāran, and Champāran, घोरान ghorān in Shahabad, and घेरा ghera or धाढ़ dhādh in Champāran and Tirhut, the latter specially to the east. To the west it is पुरवाट purwat. A house for holding chaff is हुआल घर bhusaul ghar in the north-west and West Tirhut, and हुआर bhuskār, हुआलहुआ bhusabhulba,* or (also in Champāran) हुआर bhuskhār to the east. In South-West Shahabad it is हुआर bhunsaur, and to the west generally of that district हुआलहुआ bhuñsāhul. In Champāran and Patna it is भौँसीहा bhoñsaula, and there and in Gaya बूसा घर bhusa ghar. In Champāran and South Munger it is बूसघर bhusghar, and in South Bhagalpur बूसकारो bhuskāri. खोंप khomp or खोंपी khompi north of the Ganges is a small shed for chaff. The round thatch covering a खोंप khomp to save it from the weather is खोंप के मथनी khomp ke mathni, छावनी chhāni, or टोपड़ topar. In South-East Tirhut चाँग chāng is a large basket for holding chaff equalling four टोकरी tokri. टंगौर tangaur in the same place is a similar one, but is rougher and made of rahar (Cytisus cajan).

* As in the proverb झूटन घोड़ हुआलहुआरहिं टाढ़ chhūṭan ghōṛ bhūsabhulbahin tārāh,—a horse, when he gets loose, stays in the chaff-house.

896. The refuse straw and fodder.—This is in the north-west गोथार gothār, to the west and in North-West Tirhut it is लथेर lather, in Champāran and North-East Tirhut निघास nighās, and South-East Tirhut निघेस nighes. CHAPTER V.—WINNOWER.

897. Winnowing grain is ओसौनी osauni. To winnow is ओसाएव osaēb.

898. The fine chaff which is blown away by the wind in winnowing is पम्भी pambhi generally; also पाँकी pānki or पाँजी pāmbhi to the west, गूँरी gūnri in Champāran and South-East Bihar, and भाउंटा bhaunta in Patna. South of the Ganges these words are confined to the winter (Aghani) crop. The words for the autumn (Bhadoi) crop are पुरैसी puresi or पुसरसी puarsi to the west, and पखनी pakhni in Patna and Gaya. In South Munger अधभारी adhbhari is rice not fully developed, in which the ear is only half full, the rest being all chaff.

CHAPTER VI.—MISCELLANEOUS.

899. The gathering or collecting grain at one place in the time of harvest is बटोरन batoran or लोहन lorhan.

900. When grain is being weighed, an extra handful is thrown in to make up for dust, &c. This is called पक्षुवा pakhua generally, but also कसर kasar to the west and फाव phāo in the south-east. It is also called लाभ lābh in Champāran and South Munger.

901. The grain left on the threshing-floor after removing the bulk of the crop is अग्वार agwār generally north of the Ganges, and भाठ bhāth in South-East Tirhut. South of the Ganges and in Saran it is तरी tari. The gleanings and refuse grain on the threshing-floor are पटपर patpar in the north-west and खखरा khakhra to the west and north. The grain which is blown away with the chaff at the time of winnowing is अग्वार agwār or अग्वारी agwāri to the west, अगाड़ agār in Champāran, Patna, and Gaya, and अगबर agbar in the south east.

SUBDIVISION VIII.

DIVISION OF CROPS.

CHAPTER I.—DIVISION AND VALUATION.

902. The division of crops on the metayer system between landlord and tenant is called बटार batāi or बटेया bataiya. Local variants are बाँट bānt in Champaran and Gaya, बाँटी bānti in Champaran and South Bhagalpur, and बाँटनु bāntnu in South-West Shahabad. Land so held is called बाँटली bāoli or बटेया bataiya, as opposed to नगदी nagdi, of which the rent is paid in cash. In South Bhagalpur the division of the crops is called कुरताली kurtāli.

903. In बटार batāi a certain fixed proportion of the crop is given to the landlord as rent, as described in the following chapter. When,

Instead of a proportion, a certain fixed quantity of the crop per bigha is paid to the landlord, it is called मन्कखप mankhap, मन्थीका manthika, हुन्दा hunda, or मन्कहुन्दा mankhunda. This is especially adopted in the case of जिरात jirāt or home-farm lands when let to a cultivator. In Patna it is called मनी बन्दोबस्त mani bandobast.

CHAPTER II.—THE SHARES INTO WHICH THE CROP IS DIVIDED.

904. Half to landlord and half to tenant.—This is called अदिवा adhiya north of the Ganges and in the south-west, in Patna and Gaya अधबटैया adhbatैया or पच pach, in Champāran and the south-east अधबटिया adhbatiya. In South-West Shahabad they say दू दाना में से एक दाना जमिंदार लेहला, बाचर एक दाना चरामी के देहला dū dāna meñ señ ek dāna jamidār lehala, āur ek dāna asāmi ke dehala,—of two grains, the landlord takes one and gives one to the cultivator. The turn of the sentence which makes the landlord give the cultivator his share is worth noting.

905. Seven-sixteenths to landlord and nine-sixteenths to the tenant.—This is नौसत nausat or नौसत्ता nausatta. The practice has only been noted in the west, Patna, Gaya, and South Munger. In South-East Tirhut the custom is only observed in respect to mangoes and jack-fruit.

906. Nine-sixteenths to the landlord and seven-sixteenths to the tenant.—This is नौसत्ता nausatta. The practice has only been noted to the west and in Patna, Gaya, and South Munger; also (सेरी नौसत्ता seri nausatta) in West Tirhut.

907. One-third to the landlord and two-thirds to the tenant.—This is तेकुरी tekuri or तिहैया tihaiya in Shahabad, Patna, and Gaya, तेकुरा tekura in South-West Shahabad, तेखुरी tekhuri in South Bhagalpur, तेकुली tekuli in Champāran, तिसरी tisri in Saran and Champāran, and तेसरी tesri in South Munger. Not noted elsewhere.

908. Two-fifths to the landlord and three-fifths to the tenant.—This is पचहुं pachdu to the west and in West Tirhut, पचा दूचा pachcha dūa in Patna, Gaya, and the south-east, and पंचहुं panchdu to the west. Not noted elsewhere.

909. Three-fifths to the landlord and two-fifths to the tenant.—This is पचहुं pachdu to the north-west, and पाँचा दूचा pāncha dūa in South Munger and Tirhut. Not noted elsewhere.

910. Landlord one-fourth, tenant three-fourths.—This is चौथैवा chauthaiya in Champaran and South-East Tirhut and चौथैवा chauthaiya to the west and in Patna and Gaya. Not noted elsewhere.

911. The following remarks as to custom south of the Ganges may be of use. The division into equal shares is rare, and is confined to the cases of high-caste tenants, or where a tenant has obtained a decree of the Civil Court restricting the landlord's share to one-half. Nine-sixteenths to the landlord and seven-sixteenths to the tenant is the customary rate, the two-sixteenths in excess which are claimed by the landlord being supposed to represent the cost of collection, irrigation, and watching the crops. When the landlord takes less than a half-share of the crop, as in §§ 905, 907, 908, and 910, it is only in exceptional cases, as in time of drought, or when a jungle or waste land has to be brought under cultivation, or when land requires much labour on the part of the tenant. In these cases the settlement is always for a limited period, say one, two, or three years, and is often on a progressive scale, i.e., in the first year the landlord takes one-fourth, in the second year one-third, in the third year two-fifths, and thereafter half of the gross produce. When the landlord takes three-fifths and the tenant two-fifths (§ 909), it is a case of special agreement with a landlord, who lets his private (खुद काबज khud kāsht) lands. In calculating all these shares (except in the case of division by bundles, see § 913) only the net grain produce after threshing is divided. The tenant in addition takes all the straw.

CHAPTER III.—DEDUCTIONS AND REMISSIONS.

912. A deduction of one ser in the maund from the amount received by the tenant is called सुपही supahi to the west, and also सेरही serhi in Shahabad. A similar deduction of $1\frac{1}{2}$ sers per maund is called in South Bhagalpur नेत्र net, or perquisite. In the case of division by appraisement (see next chapter) an allowance is made for deficient produce. This is called to the west and in Tirhut छूट chhut. South of the Ganges and in Champaran it is called गरन्की garki, also नाबूद nābūd in Patna, छुटती chhutti in Gaya, गरन्की परन्ती garki parti in South Munger, and गरन्की गरन्की marki garki in South Bhagalpur. A similar deduction of $1\frac{1}{2}$ sers in the maund is called in Champaran, Patna, and Gaya डेहसेरी derhseri; and when of two sers, दुहसेरी duseri. To the west दहार महार dahār mahār is the loss to both landlord and tenant when the produce is deficient through inundation. A remission to a high-caste tenant is called पगरी pagri or माफी māphi. North of the Ganges पछुवा pacchua is an allowance made by the tenant for dust in the landlord's share of the grain. In Sāran and Patna अंजुरी anjuri, and in Shahabad अंजुर anjur, is an allowance of one or two *ser*s per plough taken by the tenant. खलिहानी khaliḥāni in Patna is an allowance claimed by the tenant, and so also is मौवर bhāmwar in Shahabad and मंगनी mangni or मंगन māngan ($\frac{1}{2}$ a ser in the maund) in East Munger.

CHAPTER IV.—MODE OF DIVISION.

913. This may be considered under two heads,—division on the field and division on the threshing-floor.

Division on the field.—This may be done either by actual division of the bundles (बोझा bojha) or by appraising (कनब kanab) the value of the crop. When the bundles of the cut crop are divided, this is called बोझबटार bojhbatai or (in Champāran and South-East Tirhut) खरबटार khārbatāi. To the north-west it is जजाती बटार jajāti batāi. The rough appraisement of the crops for the purpose of division is called कन kan or कूत kūt, or कनकूत kankūt or कनकुत्ती kankutti. When the valuation is done by appraisement it is called कनकुत्ती बटार kankutti batāi. It is also called दानाबन्दी dānābandi generally, भौकहा bhaukatta in Shahabad and the south-east, दमाव damāo or दमकट्टी damkatti in Shahabad, Patna, and Gaya. When the crops are ripe for harvesting the landlord deposes an assessor (अमीन amin) and an arbitrator (साहिब sāhis) to the field. They are met there by the tenant and the village officials. The village measurer (कठावर kathādar) then measures the field with the local pole, and the arbitrator goes round it, and after a consultation with the assessor and the village officials estimates the quantity of grain in the field. If the tenant accepts the estimate, the quantity is entered in the patwāri's field-book (खसरा khāsra) and the matter is at an end. If the tenant objects, his fellow tenants are called in as mediators, and if they fail to convince either party a test (परतार partār) takes place. On behalf of the landlord a portion of the best part of the crop is reaped, and an equal portion of the worst part is reaped on behalf of the tenant. The two portions so reaped are threshed and the grain weighed. On the quantity thus ascertained, the whole produce of the field is calculated and entered in the field-book. The tenant is then at liberty to reap the crop and take it home whenever it suits his convenience. In calculating the amount due to the landlord from the whole estimated quantity a deduction in favour of the tenant of generally two *ser*s per maund, called चुट्टी chhutti, &c., (see § 912), is made to allow for deficient produce and for the cost of reaping, gathering, and threshing, which in this system of division is borne by the tenant. The remainder, thus calculated, is then divided into the respective shares of the landlord and the tenant, and the latter is debited with the landlord's share in the accounts. If he pays this amount within the year, it is paid in kind; but if he does not do so, its value in money is written against him as an arrear in next year's accounts.

914. Division on the threshing-floor.—This is बटार करिहानी batāi kharihāni, अगोर बटार agor batāi (because it is watched or guarded till division), or बटार batāi simply. The man who weighs the grain is called हटवा hatwa north of the Ganges. He is also हटवे hatve in Champāran, Patna, and Gaya, बाया bāya or बया baya to the west, सोनार sonār in Patna, and केवाल keāl or बनियान baniyān in Patna and the south-east. His fees are called हटवारी hatwāi or हटवारे hatwārē north of the Ganges, and also पक्षुवा pachhua in Champāran and Tirhut. In Champāran and East Tirhut they are also मनपारी manpārī or मनपौवा manpaua. To the west they are बेवारी beyārī or पवही pawahī ($\frac{1}{2}$ ser per maund), in Gaya and South Munger चालसा chālśa, in Patna and Champāran धुरिया dhuriya ($\frac{1}{2}$ ser per maund), and in the south-east केवाली keālī or तौलारी taulārī (one ser per maund). When grain is measured instead of being weighed, 16 cups (पैला paila) of grain make one आदा ārha. In this system the crops are reaped under the supervision of both parties, and are gathered on a common threshing-floor (see § 879), and strictly watched by both parties. Threshing does not take place until all the crops of the village have been thus gathered. Neither party is allowed the use of the crop till the grain is threshed out, weighed, and divided. During the reaping period the tenant at the end of each day gets the gleanings of the field (लोहा lorha, &c., see § 878), and a fixed proportion of the gross produce (दिनौरा dinaura, &c., see § 874), which go as wages to the reaper. From the joint crop the village artisans and officials (carpenter, blacksmith, shoemaker, accountant, &c., see §§1193 and ff.), who have worked all the year round for both tenants and landlords, receive their perquisites. When the heap of grain is ready for division, the grain which is blown away with the chaff (अगाड़ agār, &c., see § 901) is not divided, but is all the property of the tenant. Out of the common heap are then set aside the dues given for religious purposes (बिसुन पिरित bisun pirit, &c., see § 1203), and out of the grain thus left the landlord takes his share, but the refuse grain mixed with dust left after removing the bulk of the crop (तरी tari, &c., see § 901) is all taken by the tenant. In this system, too, the tenant gets all the straw, chaff, &c.

SUBDIVISION IX.

IRRIGATION.

CHAPTER I.—IRRIGATION GENERALLY.

915. To irrigate is पटाव patāēb, or to the west भरल bharal. Irrigation is पटाव patāwan or पटौनी patauni. In South Munger it is पटान patān. The flooding of a field preparatory to planting rice is लेब leb, लेव leo, or लेवा lewa, and in South Bhagalpur अन्हाव anhāo. Such a flooded field is called पनियाप्रल paniyāēl. A water-drawer is पनियाहारा panihāra or पनभारा panbhara. In the north-west he is also पनभारा panbhāra. A man irrigating has various names. To the north-west he is पनभन्ना panchhanna, and in Gaya पनभन्दा panchhanda; in Saran and Champāran he is पनमोरवाह panmorwāh; in South-West Tirhut he is खरवाहा kharwāha; and in South-West Shahabad he is कम्हैया kamhaiya. The man who distributes the water in the field with the पत्ता hattha or wooden shovel (see section 64) is called पनवाहा hathwāha or चिरकना chhirkana to the north-west. In Shahabad he is बारवाह barwāh; to the west generally पनियाह paniwāh; in Patna and Gaya, खंरमोड़ा khanmora or चिचनियाँ chhichaniyān; in Patna, सिन्धवाहा sinchwāha or खंरवाहा khanrwāha; in Champāran and South Bhagalpur, खरकटा kharkatta; and in South Munger, गंरकटा ganrarkatta. The wages for irrigation with a lever are लठवाही lathwāhi. Sometimes cultivators combine to assist one another in irrigating. This is called जाना jāna in Saran and Champāran, पेँठी painthi or पल्लठी palti to the west, and the latter also in Patna and Gaya, परिहर parihar in Patna, पतिहर patihar in Champāran and South Munger, and पापट pāēt in Champāran and South Bhagalpur.

CHAPTER II.—KINDS OF IRRIGATION.

916. There are three main kinds of irrigation :—

(a) From canals.—A canal is नहर nahar (which is generally used only for the Son and similar Government canals), पैन pain, or पैनि paini, and नद्दी naddi or (South Bha-galpur) लद्दी laddi. In South-West Shahabad a canal is ताल tal.

(b) From wells (कुएँ kūan, &c.)

(c) From tanks, or ponds.—A tank is पोखर pokhar, पोखरा pokhra, or तलाव talāo.* A small pond is तलाई talāi. In Patna, Gaya, and South Munger a reservoir of which the water is higher than the level of the surrounding country and is kept in by embankments is called खजाना khājāna or खजाना khajāna.

917. The embankment round all these tanks and ponds is called भौंर bhīnr or भिन्दा bhinda. Local names are पौंर pinr in Patna and Gaya, and खौंर khāmōn or खावा khāwa to the west. The post erected in the centre of a tank is जाट jāt, जाटि jāti, जाठ jāth, or जाठि jāthi. In South Munger it is लाठ lāth.

* In North-East Tirhut पोखरि pokhari is a large tank, as is instanced by the proverbial saying—

पोखरि राजोखरि, और सब पोखरा ।
राजा सिब सिङ्ग, और सब खोकरा ।

Pokhari Rajokhari, aur sabh pokhra, Rāja Sib Singh, aur sabh chhokra.

—“The tank at Rajokhari is indeed a tank; all the rest are puddles. Raja Sib Singh was indeed a king; all others were princelets.”

Another version of this is—

ताल तः भोपाल ताल, और सब तलेया ।
राजा तः सिब सिङ्ग, और सब राजेया ॥

Tāl ta Bhopāl tāl, aur sabh talaiya, Rāja ta Sibai Singh, aur sabh rajaiya.

Rajokhari and Bhopāl are the names of two villages in the Darbhanga district, where there are very large tanks, said to have been dug by king Sib Singh.

CHAPTER III.—IRRIGATION FROM CANALS.

918. Flush irrigation, when the water is at a higher level than the field and the cultivator has only to cut the bank of the water channel and allow the water to flow into the field, is called अपटा apta in the north-west, and अगरपाट agarpāt in Champāran and North-West Tirhut. To the west it is ढोड़ tor or मोहर mohar. In Patna and Gaya it is चानन chhānan, in South Munger मेहान melān, and in South Bhagalpur धुरका dhurka.

919. Irrigation by lift, when the water has to be raised from a lower level, is called उदर के पानी ले जाय udah ke pāni le jāēb to the west, and in the south-east उखेवा ukhewa. A dam is sometimes built across the stream to raise the water. This is बाँध bāndh or बान्ह bānh generally; also खाँड़ khāñr, गढ़नी garni, and घेरा ghera to the north-west, गराँड़ी garāñri in the north-west, Patna, and Gaya, फाँड़ी phāñri in Champāran and Patna, गराँडी garāñdi in South Munger, and खाँड़ो khāñro in South Bhagalpur. A gang of men employed in making such an embankment is called in Patna and Gaya गोचाम goām. A long embankment thrown round a plain of high land in which rice is cultivated, and in which there is a flow of surface water, is ढाँड़री dhāñreri to the north-west and in Patna. South of the Ganges and to the north-west खजाना khajāna, आहर ahar, अहरा ahra, and अहरी ahri mean the plain itself including the embankment. The embankment as distinguished from the plain is पिच pind or अलंग alang. A cutting in the embankment is called in Gaya खानरु khanrhu.

CHAPTER IV.—IRRIGATION FROM WELLS.

920. Wells may be divided into three classes :—

- (a) Those lined with masonry.—These are called पक्का pakka. In the north-west बावड़ी bāōḷi is a large well, sometimes with a ghāt or flight of steps running down to the water. इन्दारा indāra, इंदारा indāra, इन्दार indr, or इंदरारा indra is a large masonry well. In South Bhagalpur राहत rahat is a masonry well.
- (b) A well without masonry lining is called कच्चा kachcha; also कूँवाँ kūān or कूँवाँ kuiyān or कूप kūp. In South Bhagalpur बँहनी bhanruki, and generally भारकुँवाँ bharkūān, is a small well. In Patna and Gaya कंदरी kandri is a well dug on a river-bank into which the river-water filtrates and is thereby rendered pure.

- (c) Surface depressions containing water.—These are चूँ chūn north of the Ganges, चुआरी chuari to the west and in Patna, and चूआँ chūān elsewhere. A clay well which has fallen in is called भसल bhasal north of the Ganges, and भरन bharan in Champāran and North-East Tirhut. In Champāran, Patna, and Gaya it is भट्टा bhattha, and to the west भगार bhagār. All the above are adjectives agreeing with कूआँ kūān. Another expression used in Shahabad is भथकूआँ bhathkūān. The space formed inside a well by the collapse of the sides is खाँकर khānkhar in the north-west and दोधर dhodhar in Champāran and South-West Tirhut. To the west it is पाल pāl, and in Patna and Gaya चौर chaunr.

CHAPTER V.—CONSTRUCTION OF WELLS.

921. The large circular excavation made before a masonry well is built is दार dawar to the west and in Patna and South Tirhut, and खाँकर khānkhar to the north. In South-West Shahabad it is गोल gol, and in the rest of that district गोल गाल gol gāl. In Gaya it is गोलमार golammar or खमार khabhār.

922. The spring is सोता sota north of the Ganges, and also in North-East Tirhut मोका moka. In Shahabad it is सोत sot or सुत्ती sutti, in Patna, Gaya, and South Munger सोर soī, and in South Bhagalpur सोत sot or सँगरा sangra. The side spring in a well is तरसोचा tarsoa in north-west and in West Tirhut. Spring-water is बरियार पानी bariyār pāni, or in South Bhagalpur सँगरा sangra, and in South Munger जियगर jūgar, the two latter words being adjectives. When the spring is tapped the phrase used is, north of the Ganges, तावा टूट गेल tāwa tūt gel, and south of it बरियार (or जियगर) पानी आवि गेल bariyār (or jūgar) pāni āvi gel. The hole through which the water rises when the spring is reached is बूर bhūr or बुर bhur. In Patna and South Munger it is बुरहा bhurha. An optional word in South Bhagalpur is बम bam. When the spring is copious, it is called बुरफुट bhurphut. When the spring is not reached, the well is called सन्न sunni; and a well, when the spring has risen, is पणिहा paniha.

923. A well supplied from a spring and not from surface drainage is सुतिहाuttiha to the west, and सोतहीsothi in the rest of that district. In Patna, Gaya, and South Munger it is सोरहाsoiya, and in South Bhagalpur जलधरjaldhar. The place where the earth begins to become moist as a well is being sunk is पनसेलpansel or पनसचाpansacha in the north-west. In the south-west it is पसोइpasoi, and to the south-east पसेवाpasewa. In some cases there is a stratum of sand so fine that it falls in at once and chokes the well. This is known in the north-west as भासbhas. The depth to which a well is dug is measured by the height of a man (पूरिसpūris or पोरसाporsa). Thus a well is said to be four, five, six, or seven पूरिसpūris deep.

924. The masonry cylinder of a well is खज्जोरkhanjir. When a well is made up with circular hoops of kiln-burnt earthenware for sides, these hoops are called खपड़ा or खपराkhapra. Other names are (north-west) नादnād, (South-West Shahabad) मोखड़ाmokhra, (Patna) गिरदाgirda, (Patna and South Munger) गंड़ुवाganrua, and पाटpāt in South Bhagalpur. Sometimes a coil of twigs is used for the same purpose, which is known as कोठीkothi, दोलdol, or बौड़binr in the north-west—the last also in Patna and Shahabad, दोलdol in the south-east, and बिन्दीbindi elsewhere in the south. Wells protected in this way are कोठिलाkothila to the west and गढ़ौचाgarauān in Patna. Wells are sometimes lined with a wooden cylinder, and are then called कठकुआँkathkūān. When the cylinder of a well fails to sink, a second smaller cylinder is sometimes sunk inside. This second cylinder is called परचुईparchūin.

925. The wooden base of the cylinder is made of jāmun wood, and is called जमवटjamvat or जमोटjamot. In South Bhagalpur it is called जमकाठjamkāth.

926. A well so large that two buckets can work it is called दोलहीdolatthi. In Patna and the south-east it is दुजानdujāt, and in South Munger also दुजनाdujanta. One for three buckets is तिनलहीtinlatthi or तेलहीtelatthi; in South Munger it is तेजनाtejatta, and in South Bhagalpur तिनजान्तinjānt.

927. The well-dredger and well-spear are described in § 39 and ff.

CHAPTER VI.—THE LEVER USED IN RAISING WATER.

928. This is ढेंकुल dhenkul, ढेंकुला dhenkula, or ढेंकी dhenki. It is also called लाठ lāth, लठा lattha, or लाठा lātha south of the Ganges, and जान्त jānt in South Bhagalpur.

929. The pot (whether earthen or of iron) is कुँर kūr, कुँरी kūrī, or कुन्दी kundi. A smaller iron vessel used for drawing water by hand, and not by means of a lever, is दोल dol, other names being लोहना lohanra in Shahabad and दोल dol in South Bhagalpur. In North-East Tirhut, however, दोल dol is also used for the lever-bucket. In Gaya कठनही kathnahi is a wooden bucket for drawing water from a well. The stick placed across the mouth of the bucket to which the rope is fastened is किल्ली killi or गुल्ली gulli. In South Bhagalpur it is रकिल्ली rankilli or पुल्ली pulli. The string which fastens this to the pot is कनेटी kaneti to the north-west and कुन्रियाठी kunriyāthi generally to the north of the Ganges; also चोरकिल्ली chorkilli in Champāran and North-West Tirhut.

930. The rope of the lift is बरहा barha. It is also called बारह barah in South Munger, and हथबरही hathbarhi and उबहनि ubahani in Champāran and North-East Tirhut. The short rope joining it to the bucket by a slip-knot is पन्चोर panchor or चोरी chhori, with the following local names:—चोर chhor (west), जोना jota (Patna, Gaya, and the south-east), नाधा nādhā (Gaya), जोती joti (Shahabad and South Munger), and बगहा bagha (South Bhagalpur).

931. The lever-beam is बाँस bāns when made of bamboo, also चौष chhip in Champāran and North-East Tirhut. लाठ lāth or लाठा lātha is a shorter and stouter one. Other names are धुरही dhurhi (South-West Tirhut), ढेंकुल dhenkul (west), and दन्दा danda (south-east). Sometimes a thin piece of wood is spliced on to the end of the beam. 960. When there is a mixture of crops, the inferior one is called तारी tari when compared with the other. Thus in जौ केरार jau kerāi the small pea (केराव kerāo), being the inferior, is the तारी tari.

CHAPTER III.—BARLEY AND OATS.

961. Barley (hordeum vulgare) is जौ jau generally. In the north-east it is जब jab, and in Patna and the south-east जो jo. CHAPTER IV.—RICE.

963. Rice (oryza sativum), whether as a crop or threshed but unhusked, is called धान dhan. When husked it is चावल chāval, but the Hindi form चावल chāwal has also been noted in Patna. Husked rice is of two kinds, viz. अरवा arwa, which is not parboiled before husking and is eaten by the higher castes, and the cheaper, which is parboiled before husking and is eaten by the lower castes. This latter is called उषिना usina, उषना usna, or जोसाँदा josānda. Rice when partially husked is called मुहचुर muhchur in Gaya, बोकरा bokra in Saran, and खिजावा khijāwa in North-East Tirhut. Rice boiled plain is जल bhat, when boiled with pulses it is खिचड़ी khichri, and when spices are added to this it is धनल खिचड़ी bhanal khichri or कबुली kabali; also in South Bhagalpur छौकी chhaunki. When rice is boiled to a mash, it is called गोल्हथ golhath or गोल्हथी golhatthi. In Gaya पनिहता panihata is a dish made by adding water to the rice left from last night's supper. In addition to the usual names, लार lar, पोलार podr, &c. (see § 894), the long straw of transplanted rice is called मोरी पेटारी mori petāri, or (in Champāran) पेटाही petāhi or (in Shahabad) पेटाही petārhi.

964. The varieties of rice grown in Bihār are very numerous, as is borne out by many proverbs, such as the following :—राजपूत को धान के चोर नाहिं है rajpūt o dhān ke or nāhiñ hai,—there is no limit to the clans of Rajputs or the kinds of rice; धान बाबन हैं एकै बाहु dhān bābhan keñ ekke hāl,—rice and Bābhans are one and the same (in number of kinds). Rice may be divided into two broad classes, those which are sown at once broadcast and are called बावग bāwag, बाबोग bāög, (in Gaya) बोगेरा bogera, or in Patna बोगरा bogha, and those which are sown in seed-beds and transplanted, being called रोष rop or रोपा ropā or (in Gaya and Patna) रोपरा rop̄hā. At the same time it should be noted that practice varies with locality, and that a kind of rice which is बावग bāwag in one place may be रोपा ropā in another.

A.—RICE THAT IS SOWN BROADCAST.

965. (1) साठी sāthi.—This is a red rice, and ripens in sixty days from sowing, as in the proverb—

साठी पाके साठ दिन,

बरखा होखे रात दिन.

Sāthi pāke sāth dīn,

Barkha hokhe rāt dīn.

—Sāthi ripens in sixty days if it rains night and day.

In the east it is also called गम्हरी gambhri or गम्हरी gamhri. It is sown in the month of Jeth (May-June), and is cut in Sawan (July-August).

(2) सोकना sokna (north-west).—This is sown with the first fall of rain in Jeth (May-June), and is cut in Bhadoñ or Āsin (i.e., in September). This crop is also called भदेरा bhadaiya.

(3) The following are sown in Phāgun (February-March) and Chait (March-April), and are cut in Aghān (November-December). The names were principally collected in East Tirhut, and unless the contrary is specially stated do not apply elsewhere:—

अरद्रा धान, पुनर्वास पैया
 गेल, किसान, जे बोए चिरैया
Aradra dhān, Punarbas paiya,
Gel, किसान, je boe Chiraiya.

—Paddy sown in Aradra turns into plenty, sown in Punarbas to chaff, and sown in Chiraiya (or Pukh) it turns to nothing.

The paddy is generally out in the month of Pūs (December-January).

C.—OTHER MISCELLANEOUS KINDS OF RICE.

980. बोरो boro is a poor kind of rice sown in Āsin (September–October) or Katik (October–November) in the mud on the banks of streams and lakes. It is transplanted several times in Pūs and Māgh (December, January, and February). लमेरा lamera or (in South-East Tirhut) जार jhar or in (Sāran) जारन jhāran is rice which has fallen from the sheaves when reaping, taken root, and grown next year.

981. Rice-lands.—Land which has been under a rice-crop is धनहर dhanhar, धनखेत dhancket, or धनखेती dhancketi. It is also धनखर dhanckhar in Shahabad, धनकियारा dhankeyāra in Gaya, and धनचा dhancha in Patna. Fresh waste land ploughed up for rice sowing is खिलमार khilmār; also नवाद खेत nawād khet north of the Ganges, and नौखिल naukhal in Gaya. In the south-east it is खिलकट khilkat or खिलवाही khil-katti. To dig it in order to make it fit for sowing is खील कोरब khil korab or खील तोरब khil torab. The preparation of a rice-field is कादो (or कदवा) करब kādo (or kadua) karab; also लेव करब leo karab in Saran, and मसाह करब masah karab in Champāran. A man who cultivates rice is धनहा dhanha to the west.

982. Seedlings.—A nursery for rice seedlings is बिहार birār or बिहार biyār. In South-West Shahabad it is बेंगा benga. The seed is बीहन bihan, बिहन्ना bihnāi, or बीया biya, and the same words are also used for the seedlings of any crop; but the seedlings of rice are specially called मोरी mori south of the Ganges and to the west. They are also called जरई jarai in Champāran. The bundles of rice seedlings ready for transplanting are चाँडी anti or चँडिया antiya north of the Ganges and in the south-east, and the quantity transplanted at one place is everywhere except to the south-east बान bān. Seedlings of मोरी boro rice which have been transplanted once and are again transplanted are called in North-East Tirhut खार khāru or खरखान kharukhān. For fuller information concerning seedlings and transplanting, see 855 and ff.

CHAPTER V.—INDIAN CORN OR MAIZE.

983. Indian corn or maize (zea mays) is मकई makai or मकेया makaiya. It is also called जनेरा janera in the west and जिनोरा jinora in Patna, which names ought properly to be applied to the large millet (holcus sorghum). The stalks are डहा dhattha to the west and डठरा thathera to the north generally. In South Bhagalpur they are डठेरो thathero, and elsewhere दाँट dānt or दाँटी dānti. The broken stalk is लथेर lathēr in the North-West and West Tirhut, and निघास nighas or निघेसा nighesa in East Tirhut. No special name for this has been noted south of the Ganges.

984. When the grains begin to form, but are not yet fit for eating, the ear is called सचा sancha. The unripe ear is दुहा duddha to the west generally, and also दोषा dodha in Shahabad. Other names are खिचा khichcha or अजू aju in Tirhut, दुध-घोहू dudhghottu in Gaya, दुहा मकई duddha makai in Saran and Patna, दुध-घोरो dudhbhoro in South Bhagalpur, and दन्तकमरा dantkamra in South Munger. When ripe it is डहा bhutta or बाल bāl. When the seeds are ripe and hard, and not fit for eating, it is called पकड़ा pakthāil. The roasted ear is होरहा horha generally, and also ओरहा orha to the east. The empty cob after the grain is beaten out is लेंहा lenrha generally; also नेहा nerha in East Tirhut and लेंहुरी lenruri in Shahabad. In Patna and South-East Tirhut an optional name is बलुरी baluri, and South-East Tirhut and South Munger बहुरी bahri. In South-West Shahabad the word used is खुहुरी khukhuri or खौहुरी khoukhuri, and in South Bhagalpur हड्डी haddi. The grain beaten out is गेडा gata or गोट got. An ear with no grain in it is called भोरा bhora or भोरहा bharha north of the Ganges. When it contains only a few grains it is called पचगोटिया pachgotiya. The hair on the ear is घुसा bhasa to the west; also घुसा ghasa in South-West Shahabad. In Champaran and Gaya it is called सन san. In Patna it is मोह monahh; in South Munger, मोहा mockha; in Tirhut and South Bhagalpur, मोच moch or मोचा mocha. It is also called केसी kesi. The sheath of the cob is खोड़ा khoiya to the west, and बख्खोड़ा balkhoiya or बोकखा bokla generally. In Champaran another name is खलखोड़ा khalkhoiya, and in South-West Tirhut बख्को balko or कोसा kosa. In East Tirhut it is खौंचा khoincha, in South Munger पतौरा pataura, and in South Bhagalpur पोचो pocho. The male ear is called धनबाह dhanbal or धनवरा dhanahra.

CHAPTER VI.—THE LARGE MILLET.

985. Large millet (holcus sorghum or sorghum vulgare) जनेर janer or जनेरा janera generally. A variety of it is called मसुरिया जनेर masuriya janer to the west to distinguish it from maize (zea mays, see last chapter). So also it is called नन्धिया जनेरा nanhiya janera in East Munger. Local names are गेहूमा gehuma and जोहुरी johuri in Saran, जिनोरा jinora in Patna and Gaya, and गहूमा gahuma in South Bhagalpur. Amongst its varieties may be mentioned a large red kind grown in Shahabad, called जौहरी jondhri. This is called सिधुचा गहूमा sisua gahuma in South Bhagalpur. A similar red kind is called रक्खा raksa or रक्सी raksi. This millet is little grown south of the Ganges. The only other kind noted there is बज्जा bajra, which is described as a dwarf white variety (see however § 987). North of the Ganges दुधिया dudhiya, or (in South Tirhut) लरकटिया larkatiya or नरकटिया narkatiya, is a dwarf white variety. The following also occur north of the Ganges:—जलरिया jhalariya, of which the head bends down, and which ripens late. जेठी jethi in the north-west is a kind sown for fodder. A kind with two grains in one husk is called गेंहूँ genhuān.

986. The stalks cut up for fodder are डठेर dhathera or डठा dhattha to the west, and डठेर thather or डठेर thathera to the east. When the young plant first germinates it is अँकुरा ankura, and the young plant is दिब्धी dibbhi or दीभी dibhi. The ears are बाहू bāl, or in East Tirhut optionally बीह sis. The large stack of the stalks cut up for fodder is गँज gānj to the west and ताह tāl to the east. Local names are खम्हार khamhār or काँह kāw in South-East Tirhut.

CHAPTER VII.—THE SMALL BULRUSH MILLET.

987. This millet (holcus spicatus or penicillaria spicata) is बजरा bajra in Saran. South of the Ganges it is sometimes incorrectly called मधुरिया जनेर (or in Patna जिनोर) manuriya janer (or in Patna jinora), which is properly a different grain, a variety of the large millet (holcus sorghum; see § 986). In South-West Shahabad it is जौधरिया joudhariya, and in South Bhagalpur गहमा gahma. Just as the large millet is grown principally north of the Ganges, so this millet is grown almost entirely south of it. Hence there is great confusion in their names. The following terms relate exclusively to South Bihar:—The stalk is दाँत dānt or दाँटी dānti everywhere; also ढाठ्ठा dhātthā in Shahabad and ठाठेरो thāthere in South Bhagalpur. The first shoots of the plant are अँकुरा ankura or सूँदा sūda; also तिब्बिया tibbiya in South Munger and सूया suiya in South Bhagalpur. To throw out shoots is अँकुराण ankuraḍḍ or सूदाण sūdāḍ. When the ear begins to show itself the phrase used is लहलहा बा lalhāt ba in Shahabad, रेंहा नेह है renra bhel hai in Gaya, लहलहा राह है lahlaha rahat hai in Patna, अरा नेह ara gel in South Munger, and लहलहाचै lalhālāichai in South Bhagalpur. When the heads are blighted and grainless, they are ठुन्था thuntha in South-West Shahabad, बजरा banjhar in the rest of that district and in West Tirhut, बाँह bān in Gaya, ठुठा thuttha in Patna, and मुड़िया muriya in the south-east. The fluffy flowers are घोंपा ghompa in South-West Shahabad, जावा jāwa in South Munger, and फुलको phulko in South Bhagalpur.

CHAPTER VIII.—THE SMALL MILLETS.

988. These are—

- (1) Panicum Italicum.—This is तंगुनी tanguni to the south-west and in Saran, and तंगुन tangun in Saran and Gaya. Elsewhere it is काँनी kauni, or in South Munger optionally काउन kāun.

989. (2) Panicum mileaceum.—साँवाँ sāwāñ or सावाँ sāwāñ. In Tirhut it is also सामा sāma, and in South Bhagalpur समा sama.

990. (3) Eleusine coracana.—This is the most important of all the millets, forming the staple food of a large portion of the population. It is महुआ marua or मँहुआ manrue. The empty dry ears after the grain has been taken out are दाँटी dānti north of the Ganges; also काटुआ katua in North-East Tirhut, मोही morhi in South-East Tirhut, and पुत्ती putti in South-West Tirhut. In South-West Shahabad they are खोलही kholri, and in the rest of that district भूसी bhūsi. In Patna and Gaya they are भूसा bhūsa or खलकोईया khalkoīya, and in the south-east they are भुसा bhussa. The stalks are नेरुआ nerua or लेरुआ lerua to the west, and लार lār to the north-east. Another word current to the north-west is धाठा dhattha. In Patna they are नार nār, in Gaya नारा nāra, and in the south-east लरुआ larua or नरुआ narua. In Gaya and the west दाँठ dānth or दाँट dānt or दाँटी dānti is also used. The green ears roasted for food are उम्मी ummi or उमी ūmi to the west and in Tirhut, and उनी ūni in Champāran. When out somewhat riper, but not quite ripe, and then roasted, they are होरुआ horha generally, and ओरुआ orha in Tirhut and to the east. They are optionally होलुआ holha in Champāran and South Munger. In Shahabad they are हाबुस habus, and south of the Ganges generally घुङ्गनी ghunghni or घुघनी ghughni. This being an important food-crop, there are many popular sayings concerning it. The following may be quoted:—

जब महुआ का के गाही भेल ।
 धिया पुता सुख सुख माही भेल ॥
 जब महुआ में बाल भेल ।
 धिया पुता के गाल भेल ॥

Jab marua a ke gāchhi bhel,
Dhiya puta sukh sukh māchhi bhel.
Jab marua meñ bāl bhel,
Dhiya puta ke gāl bhel.

—When the marua began to sprout, the children dried up like flies (i.e., their food had been used for seed-grain); but when the marua came in the ear, the children got (fat) cheeks.

महुआ मीन चीन सङ्ग दही ।

कोदो के मात दूध सङ्ग सही ॥

Marua min, chin sang dahi,

Kodo ke bhāt dūdh sang sahi.

—Marua should be taken with fish, china with tyre, and milk with kodo.

कोदो महुआ जन नहिँ ।

जोखन्हा धुनिया जन नहिँ ॥

Kodo marua an nahiñ,

Jolha Dhuniya jan nahiñ.

—Kodo and marua are not really food-grains, (i.e. they are despised as poor men's food), just as weavers and cotton-carders can never be cultivators.

991. (4) Panicum frumentosum.—This is चिन्ना chinna or चीना china, local variants being चीन chin in East Tirhut and चीन्हा chinh in South-West Shahabad. It is of two kinds in Sāran,—गौरिवा gauriya and रक्खवा raksa. The grains when boiled and then parched are called माहा mārha or माँहा mānrha, or in East Tirhut माड़ mār.

992. (5) Paspalum frumentaceum.—This is कोदो kodo. In Shahabad a smaller variety is called कोदरी kodari.

993. Miscellaneous.—मकरा makra (eleusine aegyptica), a kind of grass of which the seeds are eaten. In the North-Western Provinces this name is applied to eleusine coracana, but not in Bihār.

CHAPTER IX.—PULSES.

994. Among the pulses are—

(1) Cytisus Indicus or cajanus.—This is राहर rahar or राहरी rahri. In North-East Tirhut it is also called रैचड़ raihar, राहरि rāhari, or राहर rahar. The dry stalks are राहेठा rahetha north of the Ganges, or राधठ rahath or राधठ rahath in East Tirhut. South of the Ganges we have हरेठा haretha or ररेठा raretha (also used in Tirhut) in South-West Shahabad, राहरेठा rahretha in the rest of that district, राहरेठा rahraitha in Patna and Gaya, लहरेठा lahraitha in South Munger, and लरेठो laretho in South Bhagalpur. The pods are डेही dhenrhi generally, and छेनी chhemi also north of the Ganges and in Shahabad. To the East they are also छिमरि chhmari or छिमरि chhimri. In Gaya they are also छिमी chhimi, in Patna दिन्दी dindi, and in South Munger डीन्दी dinri. The stalks used for fodder are भूस bhus or भूसा bhusa; also कटुआ katua in Patna and कटुओ katuo in the south-east. This and other pulses when sprouting are known as दिब्बी dibbhi or डीन्दी dibhi, except in the north-east, where they are गाख gākh. Bread made from this pulse, gram (बूँट būnt), and phaseolus mungo (मुङ्ग mung), is called लिट्टी litti or रोटो roti north of the Ganges (both these words being general terms for bread made from any grain), बभरा bhabhra in Patna and Gaya, and चित्तावा chitwa in South Munger. बरी bari is a kind of round cake or fritters made similarly.

995. (2) Phaseolus mungo.—This is मुङ्ग mung or मूंग mūng. In North-East Tirhut it is also called माँहा मूंग mañha mūng. The pods are called the same as those of cytiscus cajanus (राहर rahar). The stalks used for fodder are जैंगरा jhengra in Saran, Gaya, and South-West Tirhut, जार jhār in Champāran and North-West Tirhut, दान्ठ dānth in North-East Tirhut, and गाख gākh, जमरि jhamri, or जौंग jhāng in South-East Tirhut. South of the Ganges they are भूस bhus or भूसा bhusa; also कटुआ katua in Patna and कटुओ katuo in the south-east.
996. (3) Phaseolus roxburghii or phaseolus radiatus.—This is उरिद urid or (south of the Ganges optionally) उरदी urdi. In East Tirhut it is also called कलदौ kaldāi, कारदौ kardāi, or मास कलदौ mās kaldāi. There are several kinds, e.g., डोमा doma (East Tirhut), which bears in Pās and Māgh (January); लरही larhi (Sāran and South-West Tirhut), नरहू narhu, नरहो narho, लरहो larho or बसनी asni (Tirhut), or अगनुआ aghanua (Sāran, Champāran), which bears in Aghan (November–December); तेषकी tepakhi (Saran and South-West Tirhut) or कतिका katika (elsewhere north of the Ganges), which bears in Katik (October–November); and भदवी bhadvi (South Munger), which bears in Bhādoñ (August–September). Another division is into black and green varieties. The black varieties are दङ्गा danga (North-East Tirhut), कारी kāri, करिया kariya (Shahabad and the south-east), काला kāla in Gaya, and सिवाय siyah in Patna. The green kinds are तुल्लुकी tulbulli in North-East Tirhut, हरियार hariar in Shahabad, हररा harra in Gaya, and सबजी sabji in Patna. The pods are डेंदी dhenrhi, डेनी ohhemi, &c., as above.

997. (4) Phaseolus aconitifolius.—This has only been noted south of the Ganges. It is generally called मोच moth. A smaller variety is मोची mothi. The stalks used for fodder are भूस bhūs, कटुआ katua, &c., as above.
998. (5) Ervum hirsutum (one variety) or cicer (or vicia) lens (another variety).—This is मसूर masur or मसुरी masuri.
999. (6) Miscellaneous.—कुरथी kurthi (dolichos biflorus), खेसारी khesāri (lathyrus sativa),* भेंट bhent or भेंटवांस bhent-wāns, खेत मास khēt mās or खेत मासु khēt māsu (North-East Tirhut), which is apparently a variety of phaseolus radiatus, भिरंगी bhirngi (a kind of wild pulse eaten by the poor), and (Shahabad) लतरी latrī.

* It is unwholesome for human beings, but bullocks eat it greedily, e.g., in the saying—

तुरक तारी, बैल खेसारी,
बामन आम, कायस्थ काम.

Turuk tāri, bail khesāri, Bāman ām, Kāyasth kām.

—Toddy is necessary for a Musalmān's happiness, khesāri for a bullock's, mangos for a Brahman's, and employment for a Kāyasth's.

CHAPTER X.—PEAS.

1000. Peas (pisum sativum) are of various kinds. The large variety is मटर matar, or in South-West Shahabad मटर mantar. A smaller variety is केराव kerāo. This is often sown with barley, when the mixed crop is known as जौ केराव jau kerāi, &c., see § 959. The principal varieties are कबिली kabili (north of the Ganges) or कबली kabli (south of it), which is a large white kind. It is also called घेबली ghebli in South-East Tirhut. North of the Ganges सुगन्ना sugwa is a small green variety. Another kind is known as बजरौ bajri in Champāran. बटुरी baturi in Shahabad, and कुसही kusahi in Patna, Gaya, and the south-east, is a small black variety. In South Bhagalpur it is called भिठगारा bhithgara. Another variety is दबलिया dabliya in South-West Shahabad, डबल केराव dabal kerāo in the rest of that district, and धाबली dhabli in Patna.

1001. When the plant first appears above ground, it is called दिब्ली dibbli north of the Ganges and in Shahabad, but in the south-west of the latter district it is डाली dabhi. In North-East Tirhut it is also called गच्छी gāchhi. In Gaya and Tirhut it is अंकुरा ankura, in Patna and Tirhut अंकुषा ankhua, in South Munger कान्सी kansi, and in South Bhagalpur गजुर gajur. When the pod appears, the phrase is to the north of the Ganges पटा लागत बा pata लागत ba, or a similar phrase. In South-East Tirhut they say that the plant is पटाएल patāēl or पटरा patra. In Shahabad they say it is गदराएल gadraēl; in Gaya and South-West Shahabad they say डेंही लागल है (or बा) dhenrhi लागल hai (or ba); and in Patna दिन्ही लागल है dindi लागल hai. The pod when fully formed is डेंही dhenrhi, चीनी chhimi, चेनी chhemi, or चिमन्ही chhimri to the north, and दिन्ही dindi to the south. In South Bhagalpur it is डेंही dhenri. The unripe pods are गाढ़ gād or गाढ़ा gāda, and when used to make a pottage they are called बटकर batkar in South-West Shahabad. The young shoots are also used for pottage. These are called north of the Ganges साग sāg or भाजी bhāji, the latter principally to the west. When cooked to a soup it is called परेह pareh, and in Patna and Gaya जोर jhor. In South Munger they are चन्दा chanda, and in South Bhagalpur मटरौ साग matro sāg. The young shoots cooked with pulse are called दलपैन्ता dalpainta in South-West Shahabad, and दलसग्गा dalsagga in Patna, Gaya, Saran, and the south-east.

CHAPTER XI.—GRAM.

1002. Gram (cicer arietinum) is बूँट bünt generally. It is also called चना chana in Saran, बेदाम bedām in East Tirhut, and रहिला *rahila to the west.

1003. नोनो noni or खटार khatai is the oxalic acid and acetic acid which form on the leaves. In Shahabad पीयर piyar is a kind of which the grain is yellow pointed, and बूँटी būnti, or in Patna चनी chani, is a smaller variety. Another small variety is बटुरी baturi in Shahabad.

1004. The young shoot as it first appears above ground is said to be सुइया suiāi. In East Tirhut they say of it सूरि फेंकलकै sūi phenkalkaik. The shoot is called दाम dāb in South-West Shahabad, and दिबो dibbi in the rest of that district. In South Munger it is तिबो tibbi, and in South Bhagalpur गजुर gajur or सूआ sūa. When the gram appears in the pod, the verb used is गदराव gadraēb. The plant is then called in South-West Shahabad पटकी patki, and in the rest of that district चटकोरा chatkoha. In Gaya the phrase is चिटुरा लागल है chitura lagal hai,

* E.g. in the song—

ग्रहि रहिला के दाब ।
ग्रहि रहिला के केसी खिरवरा,
बहुत मोटेचें गाब ॥

Ehi rahila ke pūri kachauri,
Ehi rahila ke dāl ;
Ehi rahila ke kailiñ khirawara,
Bahut motailen gāl.

—I made this gram into pūri (thin bread fried in clarified butter) and cakes into pottage khirawara (cakes of rice-flour prepared in hot water), and my cheeks got very fat.

and in Patna चट्टा धरिस है chatta dharis hai. The husk of the gram is बलुखा balukha in South-East Tirhut; elsewhere it is भुसा bhussa, भूसा bhūsa, or बूसा bhūsa. 1006. A cane-field is to the west उखाँव ukhāw or उखारी ukhāri. Elsewhere it is simply जख (or केतारी) के खेत akh (or ketāri) ke khet. Sugarcane land requires careful cultivation, or, as the saying runs, तीन पटावन, तेरह कोरन tin patāwan, terah koran,—three waterings, thirteen hoeings. Land prepared for sugar-cane is उखाँव ukhāw in North-West Bihar. When the land is left fallow the autumn preceding the planting, the plant is called पोड़ा porha in the North-West and in South-West Tirhut, and सुंगार sungār in North-West Tirhut. When an autumn crop is taken the season before planting the cane, the system is known as जरी jari to the west, or in Saran नारी nāri. In North-West Tirhut it is called दोतुरा dotura. South of the Ganges it is generally called चौमास chaumās. When cane is cultivated without irrigation, a layer of leaves, grass, &c., is thrown over the seed and acts as a sort of hotbed. This system is known as खदियाचोल khadiyaçol to the west and in South-West Tirhut, and गोसा पटाप goa patāp in North-West Tirhut. To the west two ploughs are used in cane-planting. The first is simply called हर har or पहिया वाला हर pahiya wāla har; the second is called कान्ही के हर kānhi ke har in Saran and भथौनी bhathauni in Champāran. The second plough has a bundle of grass tied round it, called कान्ही kānhi or कौनी kānni, to widen the furrow. The furrow is everywhere सिरावर sirāūr, also रेह reh in North-East Tirhut. South of the Ganges a second plough is not used. In Āzamghar the furrow is filled up by ploughing a second furrow alongside it, but in Bihar this is usually done by hand.

1007. The first watering of the cane is गन्दा धार ganda dhār in Gaya and South-West Shahabad; in the rest of Shahabad it is रेंवड़ा chhenuka. In Patna it is पनगञ्जा panganda, and in South Bhagalpur अँधरी पटावन andhri patāwan. Elsewhere it is simply पखिल पटावन pahil patāwan. The second watering is कोड़ा kora in Patna. Elsewhere it is दोसर पटावन (or पानी) dosar patāwan (or pāni), with a variant दोसरो पटावन dosro patāwan in South Bhagalpur. 1008. Cane sprouting from the roots left since the previous season is known as खूँटी khūnti north of the Ganges, and also खूँटिया khuntiya in North-East Tirhut. When sprung from fresh seed it is known as बावग bāwag, or (optionally) in Tirhut रोप rop. Cane sown after the autumn crop is out is known as जरिया के ऊँछ jariya ke ūkh to the west, and also नारी के ऊँछ nāri ke ūkh in Sāran. In South-West Tirhut it is दोतुरा के ऊँछ dotura ke ūkh. Elsewhere it is known as चोमसिया chaumasiya. Cane cut up for seed is known as गेंड़ा genra or गेंड़ी genri to the west, and टोना tona or टोनी toni to the east. गुल्लि gulli is also used in Shahabad. In Patna it is also called पोंहड़ा ponhra, and in South Bhagalpur बीहन bihan. When only the top of the cane (which sprouts quicker than the rest) is cut up for seed, the pieces are called अँगेर anger in Sāran, अँगेरा angenra in Gaya, अगारी agāri in Patna, अग्ररा agra in South Munger, and आगा āga in South Bhagalpur. North of the Ganges they are called बधिया badhiya or (in North-West Tirhut) फुन्गी phungi. In South Munger it is टिब्बी tibbhi, and in South Bhagalpur डिप्पी dippi. The earth is hoed (कोड़ा kora) once after the cane has sprouted. This is called पुआरी के जोत puāri ke jot in Champāran, and अन्हरिया anhariya in North-East Tirhut. Elsewhere it has no special name. The chief hoeing is done in Akhārḥ (June-July), and is called बसाही कोरुन akhārḥi koran or बदरा के कोरुनी adra ke korni. To the west it is called बसाही कोरु asārḥi kor, and in Gaya it is पासा pāsa.

Elsewhere they have no special name: the plant is simply described as भर डेऊना bhar thehuna, or in some similar way. The knots on the cane are पोर por, and (in Shahabad) पोर poi. They are also called गिरे gire or गिरेह gireh. When these become visible, the plant is called पोराना porāna in Champāran, Patna, Gaya, and the east generally. Shoots coming from the knots are कान्गोजर kangōjar or कनोजर kanojar in South-East Tirhut.

1011. A branch springing from the bottom and injuring the plant is दोंज donj in Sāran and South-West Tirhut, पछ्खी pachhkhī in Champāran, फुटना phutna in North-West Tirhut, and गोभी gobhī in East Tirhut. 1016. The cotton-tree (gossypium herbaceum) is known everywhere except to the south-west as बङ्गा banga or बाँगा bānga, with a local variant बाँगे bāngo in South Bhagalpur. To the west it is called कपास kapās, which properly means the cotton in the pod. Most kinds of cotton ripen about Baisakh (April-May). Amongst the varieties may be noted भोगिला bhogila (north of the Ganges), a good kind with large pods, and of medium height; भोचरी bhochri (north of Ganges), a small variety, of which the cotton is apt to get blown out of the pod by the wind. फेटवाल phetwal is a kind grown in North-West Tirhut, and गाजर gajar is one grown close to the house in the बारी bāri, and not in the fields, in North-East Tirhut and Shahabad; ररिया rarhiya (Patna, Gaya, and the south-west), a dwarf variety; बड़ेसा baraisa (Patna and Gaya), a large variety; लरमा larma (Saran), नरमा narma and हैवन्ती henuti (Shahabad), a dwarf variety. Other kinds grown in Shahabad are बाँरूछा bañrūchha or बाँरूछा bañrūchha, and मनूच मानुच manūch, and in Munger we find गोला gola and सुपेद suphed. Tirhut is famous for a special kind of cotton which ripens in Bhādoñ (August-September), called कोकती kōkti or भदाईया bhadaīya, which is of a red colour, and of which thread and cloth of extreme fineness are made. A dress of kōkti cloth lasts a life-time.

This is called पई pai in Saran and South-West Tirhut, पोर poi in South-East Tirhut, and बोरन boin in North-East Tirhut. In North-West Tirhut the share is a fourth of the crop, and is called चौडेया chauthaiya.

1018. The stages of growth in the plant are as follows:—

When the first leaf shows, it is called पतिचाप patiyāel north of the Ganges. In South-West Shahabad it is डुबी dubbi, in the rest of that district दिब्बी dibbhi, and in Patna and Gaya कनिचाप kaniyāel.

The next stage is दोपतिचा dopatiya to the north-west, and also south of the Ganges generally. In Tirhut they say it is कपारी पोरन kapāri phoral. In Gaya it is पतिचा patiya, in South Munger दोपती dopatti, and in South Bhagalpur दुपतिचो dupatiyo.

The pod bursting is कपास फूट kapās phūtab to the west, and in East Tirhut बाँगा फूट bānga phūtub. In South Bhagalpur it is बाँगे फूट bāngo phūtab, and in South Munger फोटा phota.

1019. Raw cotton is कपास kapās, or बाँगा bānga, बाँगे bāngo, &c., as above. In East Tirhut बाँग bāng is also used. To the west बाँगा bānga means cotton stalks. From रदिचा rarhiya (raw cotton) about one-sixth clean cotton is obtained; from भोचरी bhochri and कोकठी kokti, about a quarter; from भोगिला bhogila and हेंवती henwti, about a third; and from फेतवाल phetwāl, about two-fifths. मिह्रा mijhra north of the Ganges is a mixture of भोचरी bhochri and भोगिला bhogila.

1020. Cotton is the subject of many proverbs, as (for instance) South Munger proverb जेकरा बारह बिगन्हा बाँग, कमर में डोरो ना, jekra bārah bigha bāng, kamar meñ doro na—(here's a fine miser) he has twelve bighas of cotton and can't afford a string for his waist.

CHAPTER XIV.—TOBACCO.

1021. Tobacco (nicotiana tabacum) is तमाकु tamāku or तमाकुल tamākul. It is little grown south of the Ganges except in South-Bhagalpur and South Munger. North of the Ganges there are three main classes :—

- (1) देसी desi or (North-East Tirhut) बड़की barki.
- (2) बिहापनी bilāēti or (in Champāran and North-West Tirhut) कलकतिआ kalkatiya.
- (3) जेठुआ jethua, which is sown in Māgh (January–February) and out in Jeth (May–June).

In East Bihar are found धमाकुल dhamākul, a broad-leaved variety, and पण्डतिआ pandathiya and खंगरीवा khangriwa, narrow-leaved varieties.

1022. In Shahabad मोरहान morhan are long leaves of the best kind, and चेउआ chheua the next quality.

1023. When manufactured, there are three main kinds :—

- (a) Chewing-tobacco.—खैनी khaini or सुरती surti, or in Patna दोहता dokhta. Some people call this कल जुग के अमृत kal jug ke amrit, or the ambrosia of the kali age.
- (b) Snuff, which is नास nās or नस nas.
- (c) Smoking-tobacco.—This is called पीपनि piani or पीनी pini generally. Among its kinds may be noticed काला kāla (North-West and South-East Tirhut) or पकुआ pakua (Tirhut), which is the coarsest kind. कन्दर kandar or ब्रुसना bhusna in South Bhagalpur, and गून्नी gūnri in South Munger, is broken tobacco. करुआ karua or (in South Bhagalpur) करुओ karuo is a second-class strong kind. दोरसा dorassa, or in South Bhagalpur दोरसो dorasso, is a mixed tobacco of fair quality. Another similar kind is called मसालदार masāldār or महकौआ mahkava. खमीरा khamira is a scented kind mixed with spices, and सदा sadda is the plain kind in common use. मलुआ malua to the west is the usual kind sold in shops, and दोकानी dokāni is the cheap kind used by the poor.

1024. The stalks are दन्ती danti generally, with local variants दाँट dānt in South Munger and दाँटकी dantki in South Bhagalpur. In East Tirhut they are also दाँट dānth. The refuse broken leaves and stalks are झाला jhāla in the south-east, and in South-East Tirhut खरसान kharsān. When blisters come on the leaf when ripe, the verb used is चढ़ा charhab; also गुलथियाए gulthiyāēb or चिथियाए chithiyāēb in Champāran. The blisters themselves are called चिन्नी chitti. The seed-capsules are घुनी ghūni in Saran, फर phar in Champāran, and बिन्नी bichhi in Tirhut generally. The nipping or cutting off of the head is पता तूर pata tūrab in Saran and South-West Tirhut, छोपनी chhopni in South-East Tirhut, and काट kātab or काटनी katni elsewhere. Sometimes shoots appear after doing this, and they are called दौजी donji. Other local names are पचखी pachkhi in Saran and Champāran, कनोजर kanōjar in North-East Tirhut, कनेल kanail or कान्की kānkhi in South Tirhut, and कनई kanai in the east generally. The first crop is called मोरहन morhan. A second crop raised from the roots is दौजी donji, or in South Bhagalpur खुटिया khuntiya. Tobacco seedlings are called पोसा poa in South Bhagalpur.

1025. Tobacco is the subject of many proverbs and tales. An example of the former is—

चून तमाकु खाव के, बिन मँगे ले दे ।

सुरपुर नरपुर नामपुर, तौनू बस कर ले ॥

Chūn tamāku khāv ke bin mānge je de,

Surpur narpur nāgpur; tinu bas kar le.

—The man who mixes tobacco with lime (for chewing) and offers it without being asked, conquers (by his virtuous action) heaven, earth, and the lower regions.

1026. A folk-tale about tobacco runs that a villager who went to a distant village to visit his friends found them smoking in the morning before they had said prayers, whereupon he said—

भोर भए मनुष सब जागे ।

डक्का बिखस बाजल जागे ॥

Bhor bhae, manus sabh jāge,

Hukka chilam bājan jāge.

—At daybreak the people awoke, and immediately the hukkas began to gurgle.

To which one of the smoking party replied—

खैनी चार न तमाकु पीए ।

से नर बनावठ कैसे जीए ॥

Khaini khāe, na tamāku pie,

Se nar batāwa kaise jīe.

—Show me the man who can live without either chewing or smoking tobacco. This verse has passed into a proverb.

1027. Tobacco is often compared to the river Ganges, which has three streams,—one of which flows to heaven, another to hell, and the third to the world of mortals. So also tobacco has three branches, viz. snuff, which, by being smelt, goes upwards; smoking-tobacco, which, by being smoked, goes downwards; and chewing-tobacco, which goes neither up nor down.

CHAPTER XV.—OPIUM POPPY.

1028. Opium poppy (papaver somniferum) is पोसना posta or (in Patna) पोसन posat. The advances made to the cultivators are दादनी dādni. The average produce per bigha is सरदार परतार sardar partar or परतार parta north of the Ganges and in Gaya. In Shahabad it is माह māl, and in Patna पैदा paida. The rough measurement of the field is लहाबन्दी lathābandi in South-West Shahabad, and elsewhere south of the Ganges नाप nāp. North of the Ganges it is नापी nāpi.

1029. The poppy petals are फूल phul, and the heads देही denrhi, or in Patna दिन्दी dindī. The cakes of poppy petals are फुलपता phulpata in Champāran, फुलपत्ती phulpatti in Sāran and Tirhut, and पतल pattal in Patna. Elsewhere they are रोटी roti.

1030. The instrument used for piercing the capsule is नहरनी naharni, or in Tirhut optionally लहरनी laharni. In Patna and Gaya it is नरहनी narhanni. To lance the capsule is पाचव pāchhab. The milky juice which exudes is दूध dūdh, and the opium yield is माह māl. The scraper used for collecting the coagulated opium off the pod is called सितुहा situha or सितुहा situa. In South-East Tirhut sometimes a bamboo scraper is used, called पोहनी pochhni. The gathering of opium is उठाव uthāv generally. Local words are काचव kāchhab to the north-west and in North-West Tirhut, and पोचव pochhab also in North-West Tirhut. The person who lances the capsules is पक्ष्मिहार pachhnihar or (fem.) पक्ष्मिहारिन pachhniharin, and he or she who collects the coagulated opium which has exuded from the capsule is उठौमिहार uthaunihar or उठौमिहारिन uthauniharin. The grain of the prepared opium is दाना dāna, and its consistency सुखवान sukhwan.

1031. The grains of opium-seed are दाना dāna. The shell is कोरवा khoiya north of the Ganges, and कोरिया khohiya in Gaya. In South-West Shahabad it is कोरुही kholri, in the rest of that district and in South-East Bihar बोकला bokla, and in Patna बकुला bakula. In Gaya चिटुरा chitura are poppy capsules which are empty and have not borne seeds. The oil-cake prepared from the seeds is पिन्ना pinna or पीना pina.

1032. The refuse opium, consisting of the washing of the vessels, &c., is धोवन dhoan north of the Ganges and धोई dhoi south of it. In the south-east it is धोए dhoē. The refuse scraped from the vessels is खुरचन khurchan, or (Gaya, South-West Shahabad, and South Munger) खोरन khakhoran. The juice which drains off the fresh opium is पसेवा paseva. This is inspissated on rags, and the product is कप्पा kapha, of which काप्पा kāpha in Shahabad and कप्पा kappha in Saran and South Munger are local variants. The fluid opium used in pasting the leaves on the cakes is लेवा leva in Patna, and the cakes themselves are गोटी goti.

1033. Preparations of opium.—मदक madak is made by boiling down and inspissating the juice (अरक arakh) of pure opium or कप्पा kapha. This inspissated juice is known as किनाम kimām or (in Gaya) केनाम kemām. With it are mixed cut-up betel or guava leaves, known as जासू jāsu. The pipe used for smoking madak is known as महरु mahru or ठरिया thariya or ठरिया tharhiya, or to the south-east मेरु meru. A small piece of madak, known as चोटा chhita, is ignited in the bowl of the pipe with a spill of charcoal, called कलम kalam or (in South Bhagalpur) कंगड़ा kangra, which is held by a small pair of tongs, called चिमटा chimta in the north-west and चूँटी chūnti south of the Ganges.

1034. चण्डू chandu or चाँडू chāndu is the distilled juice of pure opium, and is smoked in an earthen bowl called चिलम chilam to the north-west and दावत dawāt south of the Ganges. This is attached to a stem called निगाली nigāli in Saran, Patna, and Gaya, नरचा narcha in Champaran, and नर nar in North-West Tirhut. Another name is बम्बू bambu or चाँडू bambu, bamboo. It is stirred with an iron skewer, called थाक thak.

When it is desired to make the preparation extra strong, the sediment which accumulates in the stem of the pipe is added. This is called अची anchi south of the Ganges generally, इन्सी insi in South Munger, and इन्ची inchi in South Bhagalpur. In Patna it is also called कैटी kainti, and in Champāran कैटी kaiti.

1035. पिनिह pinik is the drowsiness produced by opium intoxication, and चुस्की chuski the quantity of opium water drunk at one time.

CHAPTER XVI.—HEMP.

1036. The hemp plant (cannabis sativa) is known as गंजा ganja when cultivated in Rajshahai, and भंग bhang when wild elsewhere. The leaves are known as भंग bhang or सब्ज sbaj (generally), सबुजी sabujī (north-west), or सबजा sabja (Patna and Gaya). A favourite way of taking the drug is in the form of a sweetmeat, called मजूम majūm or माजूम mājūm. चरस charas is the resin which exudes from the flowers and leaves.

1037. The flat ganja is चपटा chapta or चिपटा chipta; also in Shahabad कली kali. The round ganja is गोल gol, also गिरगिटिया girgitiya in South-West Shahabad, and also पमड़ी pamri in the rest of that district. Broken ganja is रोरा rora or चूर char, or (in Gaya and South Munger) रै rai. In Shahabad बालूचर bālūchar and जासर jāsar are two kinds of imported ganja. Ganja with stalks attached is called दरही dārhi in Shahabad. मेदनी medani or मेदनी medni is a plant taken with ganja.

CHAPTER XVII.—INDIGO.

1038. Indigo (indigofera tinctoria) is नील nil. The word nil used by Europeans is a Westernism borrowed from Ūrdu-knowing subordinates.

1039. Indigo sown before the rains and irrigated by artificial means is called पटौषा pataua. The first cutting is मोरहन morhan. The second cutting is खूंटी khūnti or (in South-East Tirhut) दोंजी donji, and the third cutting is called तेन्जी tenji or तेहरि tehri, or in the north-west तिरंटी tirānti. If the second or third cutting is allowed to grow on to the second year it is called कलम kalam or कलमी kalmi. In South Bhagalpur there are two sowings (बावन bāwag),—one called कलमी katiki (कतिक Katik = October–November), and the other फल्गुनी phalguni (फाल्गुन Phalgun = February–March). In North Bihār the chief sowing is the फल्गुनी phalguni (फाल्गुन Phalgun = February–March), and there is a second sowing in अषाढ़ Akhārḥ (June–July), called अषाढ़ी asārhi or अषाढ़ी akhārhi. There are also sowings in कतिक Katik (October–November) and बैसाख Baisakh (April–May).

1040. The system of obtaining the plant from cultivators on advances is called दादनी dādni or दादन dādan in the north-west, in South-West Tirhut, and in South Bhagalpur. When indigo is grown by cultivators who have entered into an agreement to do so, it is called रैयती raiyaṭi or असांमियार asāmiwār or असांमियार asāmiyār. Under the system called in the north-west खुश खरीद khush kharid, the planter advances money to a cultivator to sow indigo. He also advances indigo-seed at a given rate, the price of which is recovered in the settlement of accounts. This is also called खुशकी khushi in Champaran and नविशतखानी nawishtakhāni in North-West Tirhut. ठोका के ली thika ke lī is when the planter takes a village in farm and cultivates the sira'ats (जिरान jirāt) and such other land as he can secure. The special cultivation carried out by the planters themselves is जिरान jirāt, or (in South Bhagalpur) बाड़ी bāri. The divisions of their estates are called जिहा jila, each under charge of a जिहादार jilādār, and a subdivision is (north of the Ganges) टोक tōk, under charge of a टोकदार tōkdār.

1041. अलावा ālāwa or अलावे ālāwe is indigo grown by the cultivator on his land after opium or other crop.

CHAPTER XVIII.—OTHER DYES.

1042. The following may be noted:—

- (1) आल āl (morinda citrifolia).—This is used for dyeing red cotton cloth साळू sālu and the coarse red cloth खारुआँ khāruān. The root is divided into classes, called बाबा bāna. The best and thinnest roots are known as पूषा phūṣa. The thickest roots are कचरी kachri in Shahabad and South Munger, and तोड़न toran or गुली gulli in Patna and Gaya. मेल mel in Shahabad is a mixture of the two kinds.

1043. (2) Safflower (carthamus tinctorius).—This is कुसुम kusum generally north of the Ganges, and कोसुम kosum south of it. A local name is फूल phāl in Tirhut. The seed is बररी barri in South Munger. It is also called to the west and in Patna and Gaya बररे barre. The following are some of the colours prepared from safflower:—

- असमानी asmāni, light blue.
- कानी kāgi, navy blue.
- काला kāla, black.
- काहि सबुजा kāhi sabuja, dark green.
- केसरिया kesariya, saffron-yellow.
- गुलाब gulāb or गुलाबी gulābi, pink.
- चंपई champaī, orange.
- नारंगी nāranjī, orange yellow.
- पैठानी paithāni. Made by dipping into an indigo-vat also.
- फालसाही phālsāhi, plum-coloured.
- बदामी badāmi or बेदामी bedāmi, almond-coloured.
- बैंगनी baingni, purple.
- मासी māsi, a very dark green.
- लाल lāl, red.
- हीला hīla, dark blue.
- सबुजा sabuja, green.
- सुरमई surmaī, antimony-black.
- सुरुख surukh, red.
- सोनहला sonāhula, golden yellow.

Of course all the above are not made from safflower alone, but it forms the basis of all. In most of the darker colours it is used in conjunction with indigo. The following riddle shows the comprehensive range of colours embraced by safflower. At a marriage procession garments of every bright colour are worn, and the riddle is—बाप ररक पेटे, पूत गेल बरियात.

Bāp rakal pete, pūt gel bariyat.

—While the father was still in the womb (i.e., pod), the son went to a wedding party. The father is the seed of the safflower in pod; the son is the safflower dye.

In the north-west जरुआ तेल jarua tel is an oil extracted by means of heat from the safflower-seeds. It is called जरदुआ तेल jarathua tel, and in Shahabad ददुआ तेल darhua tel. It is used for applying to sores, and also for burning.

1044. (3) बकम bakam (caesalpinia sappan).—This is a red dye, used principally where बाह di is not obtainable.

CHAPTER XIX.—OILSEEDS.

1045. Oilseeds in general are चिकना chikna, तेहनन नीची telhan tisi, or simply तेहनन telhan. Amongst the varieties may be noted—

- (1) Mustard (brassica campestris or sinapis dichotoma).—This is सरिचो sarison or सरिचो sariso north of the Ganges and in the south-west; elsewhere it is सरचो sarson. In South Bhagalpur it is गोडो goto, and in North-East Tirhut also गोड got. Oil from this seed is called करवा तेल karua tel or कर तेल karu tel.
- (2) Mustard (brassica juncea or sinapis ramosa).—This is लाही lahi or राई rāi to the west. In South Munger it is रचो ranchi, and in East Tirhut रेंचो rainchi. Elsewhere it is तोरी tori, and so also in Champaran.
- (3) Sesamum (sesamum orientale or Indicum).—This is नील til. In South-West Shahabad तिलो tilki is a variety with a white grain, which is sown with the autumn crop.
- (4) Linseed (linum usitatissimum).—This is नीची tisi. To the east it is also called चिकना chikna.
- (5) Safflower (carthamus tinctoria).—See last chapter.
- (6) Castor-oil plant (ricinus communis).—This is रेंर renr or रेंर lenr, also रेंर anrar in the north-west, Tirhut, and South Bhagalpur, and अन्दा anda in Tirhut and South Bhagalpur. The seed is रेंरी lehri or रेंरी rehri generally, also रेंररी anrri in the north-west, Tirhut, and South Bhagalpur, and अन्दी andi in Tirhut and South Bhagalpur. A plantation of this is रेंरवारी renrwari or रेंरवारी lenrwari.
- (7) Bassia latifolia.—The tree is called महु mahu or महुआ mahua. Its clusters of buds are चहा chhatta or कोंच konch. The flower which falls to the ground and is used for distilling spirits is महु mahu or महुआ. The oilnuts which are borne by the tree are कोइन koïn north of the Ganges, or कोइनी koini in South-East Tirhut. In South-West Shahabad they are कोइन्दा koïnda. In South Munger the mahua-pickers sing a song while employed, called तोहा toha.

- (8) Celastrus paniculatus.—This is मङ्गङ्गनी malkangni or डिठौरी dithauri in South-West Shahabad, मङ्गङ्गनी malkauni in Patna and Gaya, मङ्गङ्गनी mankauni in South-East Tirhut, कौनी kauni in South Munger.
- (9) Croton (croton tiglium).—This is जमाल गोटा jamāl gota in Patna, Gaya, and the west.
- (10) Two other oils may be mentioned here. One is मिमिचर के तेल mimiyāi ke tel, which is supposed to be extracted from the heads of coolie emigrants to the colonies, by hanging them head downwards over a slow fire, see §1464. The other is अकोल के तेल akol ke tel, made from the nut of the अकोल akol (aleuritis triloba) tree, which if rubbed on a person's body makes him invisible. This is like saying that if you catch a guinea pig by the tail his eyes will drop out; for the nut is so hard that it is impossible to extract oil from it.

CHAPTER XX.—FIBRES.

1046. Hemp, as a drug (cannabis sativa).—See Chapter XVI.

1047. Hemp, as a fibre plant.—There are two varieties of this:—

- (1) सन san (crotolaria juncea) or (North-East Tirhut) कस्मिरा kasmira or सोन son.
- (2) पटुआ patua, कुतुरम kuturum, or (in South Bhagalpur) कुदरम kudrum (hibiscus cannabensis, Roxb.) This is like san, except that its flower is like the safflower, and that it is used only for making the coarse fibre (चन्ना channa). See below.

1048. The stalk is सङ्गै sangai north of the Ganges generally except in North-East Tirhut, where it is सङ्गै sanai. In Shahabad it is सङ्गैठा sanaitha, in South Munger सङ्गैठा sanāthi, and in South Bhagalpur सङ्गैठा sansanāthi. When the bark has been removed, it is सङ्गै santhi, or in South Munger सङ्गैठा sanāthi, and in South Bhagalpur सङ्गैठा sansanāthi. A bundle of fibres is लरच्चा larchha, or in East Tirhut धोवा dhoa or धूवा thūa. Short stalks that remain in the fibre are called in North-East Tirhut गुदरी gudri, खुदर khudar to the west and in West Tirhut, कुदरी kuddri in North-East Tirhut, and गुदर gudar in East Tirhut. In North-East Tirhut the coarsest fibres are called चन्ना channa, the next finest पटुआ patua, and the finest कश्मिरा kasmira. There is no special name for the seed.

CHAPTER XXI.—BETEL.

1049. Betel (piper betel) is called पान pān, and the man who grows it बरई barai. Amongst its varieties the best is कपूरी kapūri, which has a long leaf, mild, but slightly bitter. The next best is साँची sānchi. The common varieties are ककीर kakir (North-East Tirhut) or ककेर kaker (South-East Tirhut), which has a large leaf and mild flavour; the बेलाहरी belahri (south-west) or बेलाहरी साँची belahri sānchi (North-East Tirhut), and the मगही maghi, which have a round leaf and a sweet taste; and the बँगला bangla or (South-West Tirhut) बँगरा bangra, which is small and slightly bitter. To the west there is also a kind called करदुआ karādua, which is small and sweet.

1050. The mound on which the plant is grown is भिन्दा bhinda, बरेडा baraita, or पाढ़ pārḥ north of the Ganges. South of the Ganges it is भौट bhit. A betel-garden is बरेव bareo or बरवे barve. The rows in the plantation are सपुरा sapura in Saran and South Tirhut, and साँपुर sāmpur in North-East Tirhut. In South-West Shahabad they are पास pās, and in the rest of that district पाँती pānti. The intervening spaces are साँतर āntar or सेंतरा antra. They are also पाहे pāhe in South-East Tirhut, दौंगर daungar in Patna and Gaya, and दौंग daug in the south-east. The main props down these lines are कोरो koro in Tirhut and कोरई korai in Shahabad. In the south-east and in Saran they are इकरी ikri.

1051. The spaces between these props are in North-East Tirhut कोरवाच korwās. The supports of the plants are सरई sarai north of the Ganges, or in South-East Tirhut खरही kharhi, of which there are generally six between each main prop. In Shahabad they are called ईंकर inkar, and in the south-east सरकंडा sarkanda. In Shahabad धेंपे dhempi are the lumps of clay in which the plants are sown. The supports of the roof are also कोरो kōro, except in Patna and Gaya, where they are खम्बा khambha, and in South Munger, where they are खाम्ही khamhi. The walls are टट्टी tatti, or in East Tirhut टाट tāt, and in East Munger टाटी tāti. The roof is माड़ो māro or माँड़ो mānro. In South-East Tirhut it is optionally माड़ब mārab. In South-West Tirhut it is ठाटरा thatra, and in Shahabad and East Tirhut optionally चाको chhāni. In South Munger it is मड़वा marwa or ठाटरी thathri.

1052. The brushwood on the top is खरई kharaī or (in South-West Shahabad) खरचा kharcha, and in South Munger कचुआ kachua. The young seedlings for planting are कलम kalam in Patna, Gaya, and Shahabad, and बेल bel elsewhere. They are watered from an earthen vessel called लोटी loti or (in Sāran) लोट lot. In North-East Tirhut मटोर mator is a basket in which the gardener carries earth to the plant, and which he also uses for keeping the leaves. In East Tirhut भूर bhūr, and in South Tirhut भूरा bhūra, are the shoots which come out of the plant near the root in Jeth (May-June), and कन kan are those which come out in Bhādon (August-September).

1053. A packet of twenty leaves is called a कोरी kori south of the Ganges. North of the Ganges one of fifty leaves is called चौंढेवा chauthaiya, and one of a hundred leaves चाचा ढोली adha dholi. A ढोली dholi has 200 leaves.

1054. North of the Ganges and in Shahabad—

7 ढोली dholi	=	1 कनवाँ kanwān .
14 ditto	=	1 अधवा adhwa .
28 ditto	=	1 पौआ paua or पावा pāwa .

DIVISION VI.

AGRICULTURAL TIMES AND SEASONS.

1081. The* Bihār agriculturist follows the Hindu year in calculating his seasons. The year is divided into twelve lunar months (मास mās, मास mās, महिना mahina, महिना mahinna, or महीना mahina) of 30 days each, and therefore consists of 360 days. Each month is further divided into a first or dark half [किरुन पक्ष (or पक्ष) kisun pakḥ (or pachchh)] (commencing with the first day of the wane of the moon), and a second or light half (सुकल पक्ष sukl pakḥ). Roughly speaking, a Hindu month commences at about the 15th of an English month; but as there are thus only 360 days in a year, they begin each year somewhat earlier in the solar year than the year before, till the calendar is brought nearly right every third year by the insertion of an intercalary month (मलमास malmas) of 30 days every third year.

1082. Besides the above, another important division of the year must be noticed,—that into lunar asterisms (नक्षत्र nakḥat, नक्षत्र nachhatr, or निक्षत्र nichhatr). There are 27 of these in each year, and consequently $2\frac{1}{2}$ in each month. Each asterism is not of equal length. The longest is हथिया hathiya, which is 16 lunar days. The others range from about 13 lunar days in the dry months to 15 lunar days in the wet. Every agricultural operation commences in a certain asterism, and so it is necessary to know when they occur. The accompanying table shows roughly the relative positions of the English and Hindu months and of the lunar asterisms.

1083. The year current in Bihar is the Fasli year, which commences with the Hindu month of Āsin. The year is also popularly* divided into three seasons, viz. the hot (गरमी garmi), the wet (बरखा barkha), and the cold (जारा jāra). The hot season commences in फागुन Phāgun, the wet in अषाढ़ Akhārḥ, and the cold in कातिक Katik. The following rhymes, some of which will be found also in Carnegie's Kachahri Technicalities, are current over the greater part of Northern India, and show the various seasons for agricultural operations.

1084. Cultivation commences in Jeth, in the asterism of Rohini, when ploughing and sowing begin. The rain of Mirgsira is not good, and hence no sowing is done in that asterism. In Aradra sowing is recommenced and transplanting is done for the winter (aghani) crop. This goes on into Punarbas and Pukh if the rains are late. In Magha and Purba Phaguni the urid, kurthi, and other pulses are sown. In Hathiya rain is very important, both for the winter crops and for the sowing of the spring (rabbi) crops. In former days (say cultivators) the rains used to stop in Swāti, which was very good for the crops, but now they end in Hathiya. So valuable is the rain of Swāti that any drop which falls during that asterism into a pearl-oyster becomes a pearl. That is how pearls are made. The rain in Chitra, on the contrary, is very bad.

कहतारी हाथी राजी, हम हूँ आवत बाजी ॥

Maggha lagāwe ghaggha, siwāti lāvas tāti,

Kahtāri Hāthi rāni, ham hūñ āvat bāti.

—Maggha brings rain-storms, Swāti brings a screen (i.e., rain stops), and Queen Hathiya tells (by her thunder) that she is coming.

फागु करार चैत चुक किर्तिक नइहि तार ।

साती नइहि मास तिळ कहि मय बाक गोचार ॥

Phāgu karāi, chait chuk, kirttik natthahi tār,

Swāti natthahi mākh til, kahi gae Dāk Goār.

* Astrologers and poets count six seasons, but the above is the popular division.

—If it rains in the month of Phāgun, urid is spoilt; if in the month of Chait, lemons;* if in the asterism of Krittika, the toddy palms; and if in that of Swati, beans and sesamum, saith Dak, the Gowala.

जौं बरसे बैसक्का राज ।

एक धान में दोबर चाख ॥

Jauñ barse Baisakkha rāu,

Ek dhān meñ dobar chāu.

—If King Baisākh (April–May) rain, every grain of paddy will produce two of rice.

क्रित्तिका चूए जौ ले चूए ।

जौं रोहिनी नाहिँ कादो करे ॥

Krittika chūe chhau le mūe,

Joñ Rohini nāhiñ kādo kare.

—If it rains in Krittika, there will be no rain for the six following asterisms, provided Rohini makes no mud.

Krittika is the best asterism for sowing china (panicum frumentosum): hence they say in Tirhut—

जब जमिन्ह खरचाक चीन ।

क्रित्तिका में तू बोहरत चीन ॥

Jab janiha kharchāk hīn,

Krittika meñ tūñ boiha chīn.

—If you find your stock of food becoming exhausted, sow china in Krittika.

मिरगसिरा तबय रोहिनि जबय अरदरा जाय बद्बुदाय ।

कहे डाक सुनु भिल्लरि कुता भान न चाय ॥

Mirgsira tabay Rohini labay aradra jāy budbudāy

Kahai Dak sunu Bhillari, kutta bhāt na chāy.

—If Mirgsira is hot, Rohini rains, and Aradra gives a few drops, saith Dak, hear, O Bhillari, (rice will be so plentiful that) even dogs will turn up their noses at it.

* चुक chuk is a mess of lemons kept for fermentation, and is here applied to the fruit on the tree.

1085. The rain of Aradra (middle of June) is of considerable importance to the future crops: thus—

अदरा माँच जे बीए सगरी ।
दुख जे मार निकासत बाढी ॥

Adra māṅc jē bōe sāhi, Dukh jē mār nikālā lathī.

—If you sow sixty-day rice in Aradra, you strike distress with a club and drive it away.

आदि न बरहि अदरा बर न बरहि निदान ।
करहिं डाक दुहु भिलारि भए किसान पिदान ॥

Ādi na barse aradra, hast nā barse nidān, Kahahiṅ Dāk sunu Bhillari bhāe kīsān piśān.

—If Aradra does not rain at the commencement, and Hathiya at its end, saith Dak, hear, O Bhillari, the cultivator is crushed.

And—

चरहत बरहि अदरा उत्रत बरहि हस्त ।
कतेक राजा दाँदे, रहे अनन्द गिरहस्त ॥

Charhat barse aradra, utrat barse hast, Katek rāja dāṅde, rahe anand girhast.

—If it rain when Aradra commences and when Hathiya is ending, no matter how much rent may be demanded, the householder is still happy.

अदरा बरहि सब किछु चाँ ।
प्रज्ज जवांस प्रतर बिन भौं ॥

Aradra barse sabh kichhu hān
Ek jawās patr biṅ bhān.

—If Aradra rains everything grows (lit. is): only one, the jawās (Hedysarum alhagi), loses its leaves.

1086. Aradra and Punarbas are the two main asterisms of the month of Akhārḥ (June-July). This is the great month of the year for finishing the preparation of the fields, as the proverb says, जेकर बरस बरहमा र तेकर बारहो मास jekar banal akharwa re tekar bāraho mās, —he whose fields are ready in Akhārḥ, is ready also all the year round. If the rains are late, paddy sowing goes on as late as Punarbas or even Pukh, but this is rarely successful. These last two asterisms are usually devoted to transplanting, and not to sowing.

पुक्क पुनरबस बोए धान ।

मगघा असलेखा कादो सान ।

Pukh punarbas boe dhān,

Maggha aslekha kādo sān,

—Sow paddy in Pukh and Punarbas, and in Maggha and Aslekha mix thoroughly the mud (i.e. prepare the fields).

अरदरा धान, पुनरबस पैया ।

गेल, किसान, जे बोए चिरैया ।

Aradra dhān, punarbas paiya,

Gel, kisān, je boe chiraiya, —Paddy sown in Aradra turns to plenty, in Punarbas it has empty ears, and sown in Pukh it turns to nothing.

1087. After Akharh (June-July) comes Sawan or Sāon (July-August), to which the following rhymes apply :—

साखोन सुकहा सप्तमी बपि कै जगहिँ मान ।

हौं बनि जेवा बरसे जौं बनि देव सधान ॥

Sāon sukha sap̄tami chhapi kai jagahiñ bhān.

Tauñ lagi meḡha barse jauñ lagi deb ūthān.

—If on the morning of the seventh day of the bright half of Sawan the sun rises obscured by clouds, it will rain up to the festival of the Deb Ūthān (11th of the light half of Kātik, i.e. early in November).

साखोन सुकहा सप्तमी उग के लूकहिँ सूर ।

हाँको पिवा हर बारद बरसा गेब बड़ि दूर ॥

Sāon sukha sap̄tami, ug ke lūkahiñ sūr,

Hānko piya har barad, barkha gel bari dūr.

—If on the same day as that above mentioned the sun rises (clear) and afterwards hides itself behind clouds, drive away, my dear, your plough and bullocks, for the rain is very far off.

साखोन सुकहा सप्तमी, उदै जौं देखे मान ।

तुम जाखो पिवा मालवा हम जेवों सुखन्तान ॥

Sāon sukha sap̄tami, udai jōñ dekhe bhān,

Tum jāo piya Mālwa, ham jaiboñ Multān.

—A cloudless morning on the same day (is a sure sign of drought). My dear (let us leave the country,) I am going to Multan, and you can go to Mālwa.

साधोन सुक्ला सप्तमी रैनि जौंरि मसियार ।
 कह भड्डर सुहु भड्डरि परबत उपजय सार ॥

Sāon sukla saptami, raini hoñhi masiyār, Kah Bhaddar sunu Bhaddari, parbat upjay sār.

—If on the same date the night is dark, saith Bhaddar, hear, O Bhaddari, excellent crops will grow even on a mountain.

साधोन सुक्ला सप्तमी, जौं गरजे चाधी रात ।
 तुम जाओ पिया मांछवा, हम जेवौं गुजरात ॥

Sāon sukla saptami, joñ garje ādhi rāt, Tum jāo piya Māhoa, ham jaibon Gujrāt.

—If on the same date it thunders at midnight (there will be a drought), you must go to Mālwa and I to Gujrat.

करजे भौंजे कँकरी, सिङ्ग गरजे जाट ।
 कह भड्डर सुहु भड्डरि कुत्ता भात न खाट ॥

Karke bhñjai kankri, singh garjai jāe, Kah Bhaddar sunu Bhaddari, kutta bhāt na khāe.

—“If in Cancer (Sāwan, July–August) the gravel is wet, and Leo (Bhādon, August–September) passes by with thunder,” saith Bhaddar, “hear, O Bhaddari, rice will be so plentiful that even dogs will refuse it.”

साधोन पखवा भादव पुरवा चासिन बहे रैसान ।
 कातिक कन्ता सिक्किओ न होखे कतय के रखबह धान ॥

Sāon pachhwa, Bhādab purwa, Āsin bahe isān, Kātik, kanta, sikio na hōxe katay ke rakhbah dhān ?

—If the west wind blow in Sāwan, the east in Bhādon, and the north-east in Āsin, and if there is so little wind in Katik that even the reeds do not shake, where, my dear, will you have room to keep your rice ? (i.e., you will have a bumper crop).

साधोन मास बहे पुरवेसा बेंचह बारद कोमह गैया ।

Sāon mās bahai purwaiya, benchah barad kinah gaiya.

—If the east wind blow in Sāwan, sell your bullocks and buy cows (it will be no use trying to plough).

साधोनक पक्षवा दिन दुर चारि ।

चूल्हीक पावा उपजे चारि ॥

Sāonak pachhwa din dūi chāri,

Chūlhāk pāchha upje sari.

—If the west wind blow in Sāwan for only two or three days, rice will grow even behind your hearth.

साधोन पक्षेवा महि भरे ।

भादों पुरवा पक्ष सके ॥

Sāon pachhea mahi bhare,

Bhādoñ purwa pathal sare.

—If the west wind blow in Sāwan, the land will be flooded ; and if the east wind blow in Bhādoñ, (it will rain so that) the very stones will melt.

जे न भरे असरेवा मग्घा ।

Je na bhare Asrekha Maggha,

Pher bhare Asrekha Maggha.

—That which is not filled up with water in Asres and Maggha has no chance of being filled up till they come again next year.

1088. To Bhādoñ (August–September) the following apply :—

South Munger—

पुरवा रोपे पूर किसान ।

आधा बरौ आधा धान ॥

Purwa rope pūr kesān,

Ādha ghaghri ādha dhān.

—If a cultivator does not finish transplanting before Purwa (i.e. Purba Phaguni), half his crop will be paddy and half chaff.

जौ पुरवा पुरवाई पावे । सुखले नदिवा नाचो बसावे ॥

Jauñ purwa purwaiya pāve, sukhle nadiwa nācho basāve.

—If the east wind blows in the asterism of Purwa (i.e. Purba Phaguni), there will be so much rain that ships will float in the dried-up beds of rivers.

Closely connected with this is the following :—

पुरवा पर जी पक्षी बहै । बिहँसि रौंड़ बात करे ॥
प्रह दोनों के रहै विचार । ज बरहै ई करे भनार ॥

Purwa par jauñ pachhwa bahai, bihañsi rañr bāt karai, Eh donoñ ke ihai bichār ā barsai ī karai bhatār.

—If the west wind blows during Purwa, and if a widow chats and smiles, from these facts you may judge that in the first case it will rain, and in the second case she is going to marry a second time.

With this may be compared—

तीतिर पक्ष मेंवा अहै, ओ बिहवा सुसुकाए ।
कहे दाक दुहु डाकिनि, ज बरहै ई जाए ॥

Titir pakh megha ure, o bihwa musukāē.
Kahe Dāk sunu Dākini, ā barse ī jāē.

—“ When the clouds fly like the wings of the partridge, and when a widow smiles,” saith Dāk, “ hear, O Dakini, the one is going to rain and the other to marry.”

सक करे बदरी सनीचर रहै जाए ।
ऐसन बोले भदुरि बिन बरहै नहिँ जाए ॥

Sak kare badri sanichar rahe chhāē, Aisan bols Bhaddari bin barse nahīñ jāē.

—A cloudy sky on Friday and Saturday is a sure precursor of rain.

साओन के पुरवा, भादौ पछिमा ओर ।
बरवा बँचठ सामी, जलत हँस का पीर ॥

Sāon ke purwa, bhādoñ pachhīma jor, Bardha bencha sāmi, chala des ka or.

—My husband, let us sell our bullocks and leave the country if there is east wind in Sāon and a strong west one in Bhādoñ.

The following is current in Tirhut :—

कुसी आमवास चौथी चान ।
अब की रोपवा चान किसान ॥

Kusi amāwas chauthi chān,
Ab ki ropā dhān kisān.

- After the Kusi Amāwas (the festival of the 15th Bhādon, on which Brāhman dig kus grass), and the Chauk Chanda (the moon of the 19th of Bhādon, O cultivator! you need not plant out paddy.

उतरा मैं जनि रोपहु बैया ।

तीन धान होए तेरह पैया ॥

Utra meñ jani ropahu bhaiya,

Tin dhān hoe terah paiya.

- Do not transplant in Utra Phaguni, for you will only get three grains to thirteen empty husks.

Ki jhari bādar ki uphār.

- If the crow speak by night, and the jackal by day, there will be either a rain-storm or an inundation.

बौया बौया भहे बताव ।

तब बौया बरबा के बाव ॥

Bua bua bahe batās,

Tab hola barkha ke ās.

- When the wind blows from all four quarters, there is hope of rain.

1089. To Āsin (September–October) the following apply:—

बहिवा बरसैं तीन होत बा, सक्कर, साखी, मास, ।

बहिवा बरसैं तीन जात बा, तील, कोदो, कपास ।

Hathiya barse tin hot bā, sakkar, sāli, mās,

Hathiya barse tin jāt bā, til, kodo, kapās.

- Rain in Hathiya produces three things,—sugar-cane, rice, and pulse; and destroys three things,—sesamum, kodo, and cotton.

With this may be compared—

बहरा मेख तीन मेख, सन खाडी कपास ।

बहिवा मेख सभ मेख, बानिख पादिख बाव ॥

Adra gel tni gel, san, sāthi, kapās;

Hathiya gel sabh gel, āgil pāchhīl chās.

—Want of rain in Aradra destroys three crops,—hemp, sixty-day rice, and cotton. But by want of rain in Hathiya every thing is ruined, both what has been sown and what will be sown.

बहिषा बरिसे, चितरा मँहराय ।

घर बैसै धनधा रिरियाय (or चगराय) ॥

Hathiya barise, chitra mehrrāy,

आधा चित्रा औ केरार ॥

Adha Chitra rāi murāi.

Ādha Chitra jau kerāi.

—In one-half of Chitra sow mustard and radishes, and in the other half barley and pease.

1090. To Katik (October–November), the following apply :—

एकी पानि जौ बरसे खाती ।

कुरमिन पहिरे सोना पाती ॥

Eko pāni jōḥ barse Swāti,

Kurmin pahire sona pāti.

—If a single shower come in Swāti it enriches people so much, that even Kurmi women get golden earrings to wear.

बैद बिदित ना होखे चान । बिना तुला नहिँ छूटे चान ।

सुख सुखराती देव उठान । तकरे बरहै कराय नेमान ॥

तकरे बरहै खेत खरिजान । तकरे बरहै कोठिए चान ॥

Bed bidit na hokhe ān, bina Tula nahiṅ phūtai dhān,

Sukh sukhraṭi deb uṭhān, takrai barhai karah nemān,

Takrai barhai khet kharihān, takrai barhai kothie dhān.

—What has been written in the Vedas cannot happen otherwise, and paddy cannot ripen before the balance (i.e. Libra = Katik = October–November). From the festival of the Sukhrāti (i.e. the Diwālī) to the Deb Uthān (11th of the light half of Katik) there will be happiness. On the twelfth day after that, hold the festival of eating the new grain; on the twelfth after that, heap up the corn on field and threshing-floor; and on the twelfth after that, put the grain in the store-house.

1091. The following are the signs of the stoppage of the rains:—

बष के उगे तो क्या भये, निरमल रैन करन ।

कौये जल देखिहत सगरा, कामिनि रूप भरन ॥

Chhap ke ugai to kya bhaye, nirmal raini karant,

Kiye jal dekhiha sagra, kāmīni rūp bharant.

—It matters little if the sun rises obscured by clouds, because when the nights are clear (the rains will stop). You will only find water in the sea, and women will have to go to the wells for water.

रात निबद्ध, (or रातुक चकमक) दिन के क्या ।

कहें बाघ जे बरखा गया ॥

Rāt nibaddar (or rātuk chakmak), din keñ chhaya,

Kaheñ Ghāgh je barkha gaya.

—If you see a cloudless night and a cloudy day, be sure, says Ghāgh, that the rains are at an end.

बोली लुहरी, फूले कास ।

बब नारों बरखा के कास ॥

Bolī lukhri, phūle kās,

Ab nāhiñ barkha ke ās.

—The barking of the fox and the flowering of kās grass are signs of the end of the rains.

अगे अगस्त बन फूले कास ।

बब नारों बरखा के कास ॥

Uge agast ban phūle kās,

Ab nāhiñ barkha ke ās.

—The appearance of the star Canopus and the flowering of the kās grass in the forest are signs of the end of the rains.

चन का रोपवठ चान किसान ॥

Kānsi kūsī chauth ke chān,

Ab kā ropba dhān kiān.

—If the kās grass and the kūs grass flower on the fourth of the light half of Bhādon, why do you plant out, O cultivator (for the rains are stopped) ?

1092. The following refer to the dry season :—

अगहन होबर, पूस खौदा ।

माघ सवार, फागुन बरसे घर दू के जार,

Aghan dōbar, Pūs dyanrha,

Māgh sawāī, Phāgun barse gharhu ke jāī.

—If it rains in Aghan, you will get double an average crop; if in Pūs, one and a half; if in Māgh, one and a quarter? But if in Phāgun, then even (the seedlings which you brought from) your house will be lost.

अगहन से बरसे मेघ,

वन को राजा वन को देस ॥

Aghan je barse megh,

Dhan o rāja dhan o des.

—Happy are the king and people when it rains in Aghan.

पानी बरसे आधा पूस ।

आधा गेहूँ आधा झूस ॥

Pāni barse adha Pūs,

Adha gehūñ adha bhūs.

—Rain in the middle of the month of Pūs (i.e. early in January) will give you half wheat, half chaff.

Pahīla pāni bhar gehūñ tār,

Ghāgh kahen ham hobauñ jogi,

Kūān kā pāni dhothen dhobi.

—Heat in Māgh (January–February), cold in Jeth (May–June), and the tanks filled with the first fall of rain (are signs of a drought). I'll become a beggar, says Ghagh, and the washermen will wash with well-water.

चैत के पछेवा भादों के जला ।

भादों के पछेवा माघ के पछा ॥

Chait ke pachhea, Bhādoñ ke jalla,

Bhādoñ ke pachhea, Māgh ke palla.

—The west wind in Chait (March–April) means rain in Bhādoñ (August–September), and the west wind in Bhādoñ means frost in Māgh (January–February).

1093. It will now be of advantage to compare the above with a native account of the behaviour of the asterisms preceding the famine of 1873-74. The poet Phatūri Lāl, in his tale of the famine, says as follows:—

June 1873.—ROHNI is the first asterism of the rainy season ; but, as it came, it departed without rain.
Rainfall in Tirhut about 4 inches. MIRGSIRA fulfilled our hopes, for it gave a few drops of rain and departed.

July.—ARADRA passed by with great majesty, thundering on every side.

Rainfall about 6½ inches, of which 4 inches were in the second week and 1½ inches in the last week.

PUNARBAS is a very holy asterism, but it was also a miser.

PUKH saved the face of the earth, but it became the end of the rains.

August.—ASRES rained upon such of the seedlings as did rise.

Rainfall about 4½ inches.

MAGHA was as poor as a beggar.

September.—PURBA PHAGUNI gave no proof of his existence by rain.

Rainfall about 4 inches.

UTRA PHAGUNI did not give even a drop to swear by.

October.—HATHIYA was like an elephant (hāthi) who put his trunk in his mouth.

Rainfall nil.

CHITRA was only a robber and a murderer.

November.—SWATI was put to public disgrace.

Rainfall nil.

DIVISION VII.

CATTLE AND OTHER DOMESTIC ANIMALS.

CHAPTER I.—CATTLE GENERALLY.

1094. Cattle generally are known as मवेशी maवेशी, माल māl, or माल माल māl jāl. Other names are चौसा chaua north of the Ganges, धूर dhūr in Patna and Gaya, and बरधा bardha in South-West Shahabad. A head of cattle is रास rās, and in Patna and Gaya also धूर dhūr. Horned cattle, exclusive of buffaloes, are गोरू goru or गाव गोरू gāy goru; also धूर दंगर dhūr dāngar in Patna and Gaya. In Sāran दंगर dāngar means cattle worn out from old age. In North-East Tirhut they are called लाल lāl. A worn-out, useless cow or buffalo is said to be टुटा tutā or टूट गैल tūt gail north of the Ganges, or in North-West Tirhut बेहवाल behwāl. CHAPTER III.—BULLOCKS.

1096. A bullock is बारद baradh, also in Patna, North-West Tirhut, and in Shahabad optionally बारद or बड़द barad. To the west it is also called बैल bail, and in Gaya धूर dhūr or पैरा paira. Plough-bullocks are called हराधी harāthi to the east. The pair are called जोड़ा jora. In a team of three bullocks the wheelers are called धूरी dhūri or धुरिया dhuriya to the west, and जोड़ी jori to the east. The leader is बीर binr or बिंदिया binriya to the west, and जिही jhitti or नाटा nata to the east.

When there is ploughing going on or a cart being pulled by the aid of three bullocks, of whom only two are yoked at a time while the third one rests, the three are called तेधुरा tedhura or (in East Tirhut) तेधरी tedhri, or in Patna टेप्टा tepta. Similarly when there are four bullocks, of whom two rest while two work, the team is called चौकर chaukhar or चौकरिया chaukhariya or चारबार charbardha, or in South-West Tirhut फेरवार pherwār. In the case of ploughing, the boy who looks after the unemployed bullocks is called in North-East Tirhut अनवाह anwāh.

1098. Bullocks are distinguished by various peculiarities, such as the following:—

A bullock unbroken to work is चरारी adāri, also चहार adār in Tirhut, in Shahabad, and in South Bhagalpur. In Patna and Gaya he is चौदार audār, in South Munger अबौ aboh. One that sits down at work is परवा parua to the west, and north of the Ganges कोढ़ी korhi.* In South-West Shahabad he is गरियार gariar, in Shahabad and Gaya गर gar, and in Patna मन्कोड़ी mankorhi. A vicious bullock is मरकाह markhāh, also मरकाहा markhanda in Patna, मरकाहो markhanno in East Bhagalpur, and मरकाह markhan in Gaya. In South-West Shahabad the words मरकाहा markaha and लथा latha are used. A shying bullock is फेफरियाह phephriyāh to the north and west, and चिहकार chihukār or चरकाह harkāh north of the Ganges generally. In South-West Shahabad he is बंदिया bandiya, in the rest of the district मन्जार manjār, in Patna and Gaya मरकाहा bharkāha, and to the south-east हारकाहा harkāha. To butt is कुर पेटल kur petal in the west and मारब mārab in Tirhut. In Patna and the east it is दूँस मारब dhūs mārab, and to the south-east दूँस मारब dhūs mārab or दूँसा मारब dhūsa mārab. In Gaya it is दुसियाग्र dhusiyaḡr, and such a bullock is दुसमार dhusmār or दुसियाहा dhusiyaḡha. To break in cattle is तेवारे जोतल tevāre jotal to the west. In Tirhut it is पाठ लगान pāt lagān or जोतब pāt lagāḡb or jotab. In East Tirhut it is पाठ घुमान pāṭ ghumān, and in Gaya पीरी में जोतब pīri meṅ jotab. In Shahabad निकास nikāsal, in Patna लवराग्र

* Compare the proverb कोढ़ी बरध में फेफि बहुत korhi barad meṅ phephari bahut—it is the lazy bullock that snorts and shies.

daghrāḥb, in Gaya दहराग्र dahrāḥb, in South Munger गोहराग्र gohrāḥb, and in South Bhagalpur छटियाग्र chhatiyāḥb, mean to cause an animal to get up and to drive it along a village-road.

1099. A stunted bullock is ननकिरवा nankirwa, नाटा nāta, or नटवा natwa. A dwarf bullock is गैना gaina.

—My dear, you have started to buy a bullock, be sure and buy one with only two teeth. Do not buy any which is not some shade of grey; but if you see a pure white one, you may advance your price four rupees. If you see one with loose horns, give handsel without crossing the road (to look at it more carefully, i.e., it is sure to be a good one). If you see one with a red head and a light red body, don't buy till you have had a good look at it. But, my dear, if you see a black, or a yellow-grey, or a red one, don't take the trouble to look at its teeth.

The following is a warning against two kinds of bullocks:—

सरग पताली नीचाँ डेर ।

अपन खाव, परोसिया हेर ॥

Sarag patāli bhauñāñ ter,

Appan khāy parosiya her.

CHAPTER XVIII.—PASTURAGE.

1147. Lands set apart for pasture are generally simply परगनी parti. Special names are, however, रखात rakhāt north of the Ganges and रखांत rakhānt (South Munger). Other names are चिरागाह chirāgāh in Saran, Patna, and South Munger, चराँत charānt or बाघ bādḥ in Gaya, and अरार arār Shahabad. A cattle-yard is बथान bathān or बथानी bathāni. The field in which cows are fed is in South-West Shahabad चराई charāi, in the rest of that district उबैर uber, and in South Munger उबेरा ubera. In Gaya it is बाघ bādḥ, in Patna बहारसी baharsī, and in South Bhagalpur बहियार bahiyār or आर ār. Cattle left to graze without watch are अनेरिया aneriya to the west, अनैरा anera in West Tirhut, छुठ्ठा chhutha in Gaya, उदङ्गर udangar in Patna, उज्जा ujjha in South Munger, and उजरा ujra in South Bhagalpur.

CHAPTER XIX.—FENCES.

1148. A fence to keep cattle out of fields is घेरान gherān or घेरानी gherāni to the north-west. In Tirhut it is बारी bāri or बेड़ berh. South of the Ganges it is घोरान ghorān. Local names are घेरा ghera in Tirhut and चपा chhāpa in South Munger. In Champaran हिरांत hirānt is a hedge of brambles not fixed in the ground.

CHAPTER XX.—GRAZING-FEES.

1149. These are of two kinds:—

- (1) Those paid to the owner of the land.
- (2) Those paid to the herdsman.

1150. A cowherd is called ग्वार gwār, गोचार goār, अहीर ahir, चरवाहा charwāh or चरवाहा charwāha, and गोरखिया gorkhiya. A tender of cows is in North-East Tirhut गैवाह gaiwāh. A shepherd is गढ़री garehri or भैरिहार bhehrihar. South of the Ganges the latter also takes the form भैरिहार bhehrihār or भैरिहारा bhehrihāra. A local name is भैरधुरै bhehrdhurai in South Bhagalpur.

1151. (1) The fees paid to the owner of the land are known as खर्चारी kharchari or खर्चाराई kharcharāi north of the Ganges and in Gaya. The latter also is used in Gaya. In Shahabad the term is बर्दिया bardiya. In Tirhut, Patna, and the east are noted कास चराई kās charāi, देना dena, भैरौडा bhainsondha, and बरदाना bardāna. In the south-east the word is दैना daina. In many places these fees are only paid for buffaloes, and not for other cattle.

1152. (2) Those paid to the herdsman are चरवाही charwāhi or चराई charāi. See also § 1205.

CHAPTER XXI.—COWHOUSES AND ENCLOSURES FOR CATTLE, CATTLE-OWNERS, &c.

1153. A cowhouse is गोघार gausār or गोघाला gausāla. To the east it is गोहाल gohāl. Local names are गैघरा gaighara in North-East Tirhut, डरखोल darkhol in South-West Shahabad, and दोगाह dogāh in Patna and Gaya. सार sār is also used to the west. बरग्वारा barghara, or in Gaya बहर्ग्वारा baharghara, is a cattle-shed. In Champan a breeding-shed for cattle is called चारी ghārī. A place where cattle are collected is बचान bathān. In some places a special word is used for spots where buffaloes are collected, viz. चिरात hirāt in the north-west, लेंह लेन्रि lenrī in North-West Tirhut, बैठार baithār in East Tirhut. To collect cattle is बथनियार bathniyār. In North-West Tirhut it is लेंहियार lenrhiyār. A cattle enclosure is पाखा pāḥa in the north-west and पखानी palānī in Tirhut. In Shahabad it is अरार arār. A local name in North-East Tirhut is डहा dhattha, which becomes दाह dāth in West Tirhut. A general word is बचान bathān. In Patna अरान arān, and in Gaya अरा ara, is an enclosure for cattle in the forest.

1154. To the west an owner of cattle is called मौदार maudār. The song sung by cowherds while herding is called बिरहा birha, or (in South Munger) महार mahrāi. Another similar song, but sung to a different air, is चान्चर chānchar. लोकर lorkāi is a special cowherd's song concerning a hero called लोरिका lorika. In South Bhagalpur the cowherd's dance is called लोरियारो loriyāro. The man who dances is called नटुआ natua or नेटुआ netua.

CHAPTER XXII.—CATTLE-DEALERS.

1156. These are फेरहा pherha north of the Ganges, and in South Bhagalpur फेरबाक pherbaik. In South-West Shahabad they are हरिहा hariha, in Patna लेंहरीवाला lenhriwāla, in South Munger गेंहरीवाला genhriwāla, and elsewhere हारवाला hārwalā.

CHAPTER XXIII.—MILK AND ITS PREPARATIONS.

1157. Milk is दूध dūdh. Cow's milk is गब gabya or गोरस goras. To milk an animal is दूहा dūhāb or लगार lagāēb. A cow that gives milk is लगार laghar or लगवान lagwān, as opposed to नाठा nātha or अनाठा anātha, which is one that does not; one that milks plentifully is दुधारि dudhārī.*

* Cf. § 1117. Another proverb is दुधारि गाव के दू कादो मका dudhārī gāv ke dū kādō bhala,—even two kicks from a good milker are to be valued.

1158. When the milk of a cow or buffalo runs dry, the word used is बिसुखब bisukhab. Local words are ठाँठ होब thāñth hoëb (South-East Tirhut), बिखबाब biskhab in Patna and South-East Tirhut, चुखटाब chukhab in Shahabad, and ठमरा thamra in the south-west of that district. The milk of a cow for six months after calving is सेब (or south of the Ganges डेब) के दूध dhen ke dūdh. After that it is बकेब के दूध baken ke dūdh.

1159. The unsophisticated Bihar villager is not ignorant of the advantage which accrues to the seller by watering the milk he sells. According to popular belief the cow acts as the milkman's confederate in this, as in the proverb गाब गोबरें मिखाप, ठेऊँ पानि दुबाव, gāy godrēñ milāp, thehuncēñ pāni dukāb—the cow and the milkman are confederates, for (without the pail leaving his) knee, she lets him milk water into it. At the same time it is but fair to add that some translate the proverb as meaning that when a cow and the milkman are friends she will let him milk her even standing in water up to her knees. Both translations are possible.

1160. Clarified butter is घू ghyu. Sometimes the Hindi word घी ghī is used. The word is sometimes spelt घोब ghōw. Local names are नेबन neun in West Tirhut, चिकना chikna in Gaya, नैनु nainu or लेन lain in Shahabad, and नेनू nenu in the east. Fresh clarified butter is अहीर के घू ahir ke ghyu, or in South Bhagalpur गिरासू घू girastu ghyu; and that stored for a time in leather vessels कुपी के घू kuppi ke ghyu or गेहा के घू gelha ke ghyu. South of the Ganges it is also called दखिनाहा घू dakhināha ghyu.

1161. The sediment which settles in making clarified butter is मथियार mathiyar, माठ māth, or माठा mātha north of the Ganges. South of it it is लेनू lainu in South-West Shahabad, मथगर mathgar in the rest of that district, मठाहा mathāha in Gaya, and मठाही mathāhi in Patna. The refuse left in boiling it down is दाही dārhi; also महिया mahiya in North-West Tirhut, and घोर ghor in Tirhut generally. Other names are फाड़न phāran and महरान mahran in Shahabad, and कोरौनी korauni, used in the same place and in South Munger; खंकोड़ी khankhori in the rest of Shahabad, and खुरचनी khurchani in Patna.

1162. Tyre or curdled milk is दही or दहि dahi. It should be noted that this word is feminine, though grammarians say it is masculine.* Another name current in West Tirhut is सजुर sajur. The old curds put in to curdle milk are जोरन joran. Tyre is a luxury, hence the proverb घर दही, बगरो दही ghar dahi, bahro dahi,—only he who eats tyre at home gets it abroad.

1163. Curdled milk is जमाव दही jamāo dahi or सजाव दही sajāo dahi. Other names are सँची sānchi to the east, सज्वा sajwa in North-East Tirhut, मिथुर mithur in South-East Tirhut, and जमुइ jamui in Gaya. The cream of this is called चाहली chhālhi, a local variant being चाली chālī in Patna. In South-West Shahabad it is सारही sārhi. When this is taken off, the remainder is called कटुर दही katui dahi or चककटुर chhalkatui. In Shahabad it is also called चिहुर chhinui, and another name north of the Ganges is चिहुरी chhinui. Another variety of curds, from which the whey has been expressed or boiled, is called चेना chhena. It is something like the dry curds from which cheese is made in England.

1164. The thick milk given by a cow just after calving, or beesting milk, is फेहुस phenus or फेहुसा phenusa to the west. In Tirhut and the south-east it is खिरसा khirsa, and in Gaya काकर kākar means the milk of the first milking after calving, फेहुस phenus being that of the second. A cow that drops her milk is कामफेहुसा kāmdhenua or फेहुसागर dhenuāgar north of the Ganges, also कासर khasar in East Tirhut. To allow the calf to suck the teats of a cow for an instant before milking, so as to induce the latter to let the milk flow, is फेनुसाग्रह phenhāēl or पेनुसाग्रह penhāēl.

1165. Cream is मलार malāi or बलार balāi, and skim-milk पसावन pasawan or (in East Tirhut) चहानुा दूध chhanua dūdh.

1166. Butter before clarification is नेन nein north of the Ganges, and also नेन nen in North-East Tirhut. South of the Ganges it is लेन lainu to the west, चिकना chikna and मक्कन makkhan in Patna and Gaya, and नुनु nenu there and in the south-east. Butter-milk is मठा mattha, माठा mātha, or गोर ghor. In Gaya and the south-west it is also चाँह chhanchh. A well-known proverb about butter-milk is दूधक जरेँ मठा दूधि पीवे dūdhak jareñ mattha phūki pibe,—through having been scalded by (hot) milk, he blows on the butter-milk before he drinks it, i.e., a burnt child dreads the fire.

1167. खोआ khoā is milk boiled down till it is thick.

* E.g., in Manbodh's Haribans, VII, 48, एकचो दहि नहिँ डेब पाववाहि, ekao dahi nahiñ lel adhalāhi,—they did not take a single bad curd.

CHAPTER XXIV.—CATTLE DISEASES.

1168. Medicines are administered through a bamboo tube called धरका dharka or काँड़ी kânri.

1169. The identification of the following diseases is in many cases very doubtful. The list is given rather in the hope that it may form the basis of a future identification by competent experts. Probably many of the names given as representing different diseases are merely different local names of one and the same disease.

DIVISION VIII.

LABOUR ADVANCES, WAGES, AND PERQUISITES.

CHAPTER I.—PAY AND ADVANCES TO LABOURERS.

1184. A labourer generally is मजूर majūr, also in Tirhut and the south-east जन jan. Another very general word is बनिहार banihār. In East Tirhut a कमरिया kamariya (i.e., he who wears a blanket) means a labouring man generally. In Patna, Gaya, and South Munger he is also कमियाँ kamiyān. In Tirhut चाकर chākar is a paid servant, as opposed to बहिया bahiya and चरन्वाह charwāh, which mean an unpaid servant. A day-labourer is in South-East Tirhut रोज़ा rojha; elsewhere he is मजूर majūr or जन jan, as above. A servant engaged by the year is नोकर nokar north of the Ganges, and also चरन्वाह harwāh (literally, a ploughman) in Tirhut. Forced labour is बेगारी begāri, and a forced labourer is बेगार begār, or in Gaya हाकिम hakim हुकमी hukmi. In East Tirhut जिरतिहा jiratiha is a labourer who receives land rent-free and works for his master without remuneration in the agricultural season. In the north-west the पारीवाला pāriwāla sometimes works for his master and sometimes for himself. In Tirhut खवास khawās means a male house-servant, Hindu or Musalman. A proverb which alludes to him is चोरक सङ्ग चोर, पहरक सङ्ग खवास, chorak sang chor, paharuk sang khawās,—with other thieves he is a thief, but in the presence of the watchman he is simply a servant.

1185. A labourer's pay is मजूरी majūri, or to the east अजूरा ajūra. When paid in kind it is बन ban or बनि bani, also बोन boni in North-East Tirhut. When paid daily it is also called रोज़ roj or (in Patna, Gaya, and South Munger) रोज़ीना rojina. In Champāran it is रोज़बन्दी rojbandhi. Monthly wages is दरन्माहा darmāha, also महिना mahinna when it is a fixed sum, and महिनवारी mahinwāri when it means the average income of the month. Yearly wages is सालिबाना sāliyāna or सालीना sālina. In the north-west it is also सलीना salina, and in North-East Tirhut बरन्की barkhi. In Saran and North-West Tirhut मनी mani is an allowance of grain made to a servant in lieu of pay. In South Munger it is कोराना korāna.

1186. Advances of pay to labourers are फाजिल phājil or अगवड़ agwar in the north-west. In East Tirhut they are जगौर janaur, in West Tirhut अगौरी agauri, and in South-East Tirhut also अगार agār. In Shahabad they are अगवन agwan, in Patna अगार agār, in South Munger अगौरी agauri, and in South Bhagalpur अगवौर agraur. In Gaya they are कमिचौटी kamiyauti. हरवर harwar in the west, and हारौरी harauri in South-West Shahabad and Tirhut (or in East Tirhut optionally हारौर haraur), is an advance of grain or money or a piece of land given to a ploughman when he is engaged. In the south-east it is हरवाची harwāhi, in Patna कमिचर kamiai, and in Gaya कमिचौटी kumiyauti.

CHAPTER II.—ADVANCES TO TENANTS.

1187. Advances are generally तगाची tagāwī or करजा karja. The following special names are also used :—

1188. Advances to buy food.—These are खैरान khaihan to the west and in Patna and Gaya. In Tirhut they are called बनिचौटा baniyautā, and when in cash करजा karja. In Patna and Gaya they are खरिहान kharihan.

1189. Advances to buy seed.—These are बिचरान biahān in East Tirhut, and बीचन bihan in Patna and Gaya. In Shahabad they are बीया बेंगा biya bengā or बीया बाह biya bāl.

1190. Advances for purchase of cattle and sinking wells.—These are तगाची tagāwī or करजा karja south of the Ganges. In East Tirhut अधलवा adhlaṭwā, and in West Tirhut अधलपा adhlapā, is the advance made to a tenant for the purchase of cattle. The lender receives back the amount of the advance and half of the profit derived from the cattle.

1191. Advances for marriage expenses.—These are करजैन karjain in Patna.

1192. In Champaran दहिहकी dahihakki is a remission made by the landlord to a lessee. In South-East Tirhut similar terms are छुहती chhutī (used also in Patna and Gaya) and खतिर khātīr. In West

Tirhut and Champaran when fallow land is given to a cultivator for a quarter rent or rentfree for the first year, the custom is called खिलही khilhi. So also in South-East Tirhut it is आसा चास āsa chās, and in Shahabad खिल मारी khil māri. See also §§ 912 and 913.

CHAPTER III.—DUES PAID BY TENANTS.

1193. These are principally the cesses paid to the resident artisans and other non-cultivating residents in the village, who are known as पवनी pawani, पौनी pauni, or पौनिचा pauniya. In East Tirhut they are पवनी पसारी pawani pasāri.

1194. The carpenter (बढ़न्ही barhi) and blacksmith (लोहार lohār), who are generally the same person, get a fee from the member of a marriage procession who gets any work done by him. This is known as बिरिज birit in South Munger, and as बियाह दानी biyāh dāni in South Bhagalpur. Elsewhere it is simply इनाम inām or बकसिस baksis. His remuneration for the repairs of instruments is कठा katha in Saran, जौरा jaura in Champaran, and पाल pāl in Tirhut. In Shahabad it is कमार् kamāi, and so also in East Tirhut. In South-East Tirhut it is also भाम्वर bhāmwar, and in South Munger it is कमैनी kamaini. When he is paid at so much paddy per plough, it is called, according to the amount, बोहा bojha in Saran, Patna, Gaya, and the south-east, अंठिया antiya or पंजा pānja in Champaran, and पंजौर panjaur in North-East Tirhut. Another of his perquisites received at the time of sowing is called अजुर anjur in Shahabad and अंजुरी anjuri in Gaya. He receives a further remuneration for keeping the cane-mill in order. This is पचरावन pachrāwan or भाम्वर bhāmwar in Shahabad, कोल्हकर kolhkarh in Patna, कोल्हकर kolhkar in South Munger, and कोल्हपचरानी kolhpachrāni in South Bhagalpur. In Saran he gets two rupees for each mill, and his remuneration is called खान khān. For repairing other implements he gets in Saran साही sāhi, and a similar cess in Champaran and Tirhut is known as खरिहानी kharihāni. In South Bhagalpur भौरी bhaunri is the general term used for his perquisites. In North-West Tirhut खान khān, and in North-East Tirhut खान khan or कमार् kamāi (which means wages for any work done), are the wages for making a new mill. The grain actually given is दाही dāhi, and amounts to from 10 to 30 seers. The fee for repair is बिगहती bighati, and is 4 annas per bigha for लोहार morhan or first cuttings, and 2 annas per bigha for खंडी khānti or second cuttings of the cane.

1195. The weaver's perquisite.—This is in North-West Tirhut बानी bāni, and elsewhere बाना bāna.

1196. *The shoe-maker's (चमार chamār) perquisite.*—This is भाम्वर bhāmvar to the west. In Gaya and Shahabad, however, it is खरिहानी kharihāni. It is पाल pāl in Champaran and Tirhut, also कमड़ी kamṛī and पंजौरा panjaura in North-East Tirhut. In the South-East it is पांजा pānja or बोजा bojha, and in Patna and Gaya मंगनी mangni. बियौवा biyaua to the west and दत्त dat to the east is the fee given to his wife for service as a midwife.

1197. *The sweeper's (मिहतर mihtar) perquisite.*—This also is खरिहानी kharihāni or कमड़ी kamṛī in Shahabad. In the south-east it is a sweeper's and not the shoe-maker's wife who officiates as midwife. A sweeper in the south-east is हारी hārī, and his wife is हारिन hārin. The fee paid her for her services is दत्त dat or दत्त भोजनी dut bhujni.

1198. *The perquisites of the village accountant (पटवारी patwāri)* are many and various. In Patna and Gaya if the tenant's lands are नगदी nagdi he gets in Patna $2\frac{1}{2}$ *ser*s per bigha, and in Gaya $12\frac{1}{2}$ *ser*s per plough. This is called मंगन māngan, and is his recognised salary. He also gets a fee of one pice in the rupee per annum for answering a raiyat's inquiries about his rent. This is called हुजताना hujtāna. If the land is भांवली bhāoli, he gets in the same district, in addition to the above, नोचा noṭha (also in Shahabad नोचिया nochiya) or "pluckings," which amount to $\frac{1}{4}$ th of a ser per maund. A similar fee is called बलकट balkat in Saran. In Shahabad a village accountant gets in the case of नगदी nagdi lands a perquisite of $\frac{1}{2}$ an anna in the rupee, called तकही takahī. In the case of भांवली bhāoli rents he gets $\frac{1}{2}$ a ser or a ser per maund, the first being called असेरी aseri, and the second सेरी seri or सेरही serhi. In the case of a general clearance of rents he gets a present of 8 annas or a rupee, called फरकतिदावन pharkatīdāvan. In Tirhut this item is called फरकाना pharkāna or फरिकाना pharikāna. In South Munger lands are principally नगदी nagdi, and the village accountant is a servant of the landlord and is paid by him, and gets nothing from the tenants. His pay is as follows. In the case of नगदी nagdi tenures he gets a मंगन māngan of 5 *ser*s per bigha. When the land is भांवली bhāoli he gets $2\frac{1}{2}$ sers per maund, and his pay is called दहिअक मँगन dahiak māngan. He also gets a फरक्काना pharkāna of one pice per rupee in the case of a clearance of accounts. In South Bhagalpur the tenant gives the accountant a नेग neg of $3\frac{1}{2}$ sers per maund. In most districts he charges a pice for every rupee for which he grants a receipt. This is called generally रसिदाना rasidāna or रसिदावन rasidāwan, also कबज्जाना kabjāna in East Tirhut. होली खेलार holi khelāi or फगुआही phaguāhi, दोशान पुजार doāt pujāi, and दुरगा पुजार durga pujāi, are cesses levied by the accountant on the three main Kāyasth festivals of the Hindu year. The above are the usual amounts of his fees, but many of them vary from village to village.

1199. Perquisites of the weighman.—See § 914.

1200. The village watchman (गोडेन gorait, कोतवाळ kotwāl, or (when a Government servant) चौकीदार chaukidār) is sometimes paid by a grant of rent-free land (जागीर jāgir), and hence he is called in South Munger जागीरदार jāgirdār. When otherwise paid, his remuneration is called generally south of the Ganges चौकीदारी chaukidāri. In the north-west it is खरिहानी kharihāni, in North-East Tirhut गोडेनक मूठ goraitak mūth, and in South-East Tirhut गोडेनी goraiti. In Patna and Gaya he is sometimes paid in kind, and his fee is then called फसिलाना phasilāna, and in Gaya also नौचा noncha.

1201. The perquisites of the landlord.—In addition to his rent, the following customary cesses may be noted :—गोआम goām in Patna, Gaya, and South Munger, बन्हवैया banhwaiya in South-West Shahabad, and गोहार gohār generally, are personal services rendered to the landlord by the tenants en masse. हुकुमत hukumat or फरमारफ pharmāis are occasional demands of service or produce for special purposes. This in South Munger is called मदत madat, and in South Bhagalpur हकमैती hakmaiti. His perquisite of milk from his tenants' cows is in South-West Shahabad दुहाव duhāv. Cesses paid on special occasions are generally called सलामी salāmi, but there are frequently special names. E.g., when a tenant's daughter is married, the landlord gets a fee called बियाहदानी biyāhdāni, सादियत sādiyāt, सदियत sadiyāt, or सदियाना sadiyāna. In North-East Tirhut this is usually one rupee four annas at a girl's marriage, and ten annas at a boy's marriage, which is realised from every one except Brāhmans, Kayasths, Rajputs, and Musalmāns. In South-West Shahabad it is मैङ्गवच्च mañrwanch. In Tirhut and the east धिंगान dhingān is a fee paid on the marriage of a daughter for the second time, and भोजनी bhojni is paid on the marriage for the first time of a boy or girl. The former cess is paid in cash, but the latter in kind; e.g. in rice, pulse, or clarified butter. For other cesses paid by cowherds, see § 1151. The help given by the tenant in ploughing the landlord's lands is हरी hari to the north and the west generally. To the east it is हरिहर harihar, हरिहरा harihara, and हरिहरी harihari. Local names are संगावा sangaha in North-East Tirhut, हराई harāi in Shahabad and South-West Tirhut, and हराही harāhi in Patna and Gaya. The presents given to the landlord when he visits the village are सलामी salāmi or (in Shahabad) नजराना najrāna. His fee when a house is built or sold is चौद chauth generally north of the Ganges, and also in East Tirhut जर चौद jar chauth. In towns in Patna and South Munger it is चौथैया chauthaiya, and elsewhere simply सलामी salāmi. He collects cesses in the nature of a ground-rent from the resident artisans and traders in the village. These are called मोतारफा motarpha or मोथारफा motharpha generally, कोठियारी kothiyāri in Champāran and Tirhut generally, and बसुही basurhi in East Tirhut. South of the Ganges they are दुआनी duanni, or (to the east) अबुआब abudb. In Patna and Gaya the former name represents a cess of the following description. 15 mans of grain, or thereabouts (according to village custom) is assumed (when rent is paid in kind) as the produce of one bigha. For each bigha (or 15 mans) thus calculated of the tenant's share of the crop, the landlord takes a cess of 2 ānas. In the case of lands paying cash rates, the cess is levied at from 2 ānas to 9 pice on each bigha of land held by the tenant. पूर pūr is a fee of one rupee per loom paid by weavers. In South Munger चरसा charsa is a cess paid by tanners. In North-East Tirhut केयाली keyāli or कियाली kiyāli (also बरदाना bardāna in Patna) is (or was) a transit-duty levied on cartmen for every load of grain they took. Sometimes it was levied at every place where they halted for the night. In the same tract the same name is also used for a tax levied on grain-sellers' weights. This last is called कौड़ी kauri in the north-west, and मलिकार चुटकी malikāi chutki in South-East Tirhut. In Shahabad it is बयारी bayāi. In Gaya it is किराया kirāya, and the corn paid is मँगनी māngni. In the south-east तहबजारी tahabjāri or तबजारी tabjāri is a similar tax levied on shopkeepers.

1202. Rents are generally calculated in the old sicca rupees of Akbar, which are converted into current coin by adding exchange rates, called बहा मास batta mal and बहा कम्पनी batta kampani. The batta mal is added direct to the rent in sicca rupees, and denotes the exchange rate between them and the Murshidabadi coin introduced in the year 1773. In 1835 the introduction of the Company's rupee, $1\frac{1}{3}$ of which equalled $\frac{1}{2}$ of the Murshidabadi rupee, led to the imposition of a further rate of exchange, called batta kampani, which is calculated on and added to the rent calculated in sicca rupees plus the batta mal. Each of these rates of exchange is generally less than one anna per rupee.

1203. Dues given for religious purposes.—The first fruits given to Brahmans are बिसुन पिरित bisun pirit, and also (north of the Ganges) बिसुन चन्स bisun ans. To the west they are अंगौंऊं angaññ or अंगौंऊं angaññ. On the other hand first fruits set apart for house-gods (भूमि गणेश bhūmi ganes) or penates are अगौं agaun, or (in Shahabad) अगबर agbar, and (in Champaran) रसुवर rasuar. In South Munger three small heaps (कुद्दी kuddi) are put aside on the threshing-floor. One is given to the Brahmans, and is called बिसुन पिरित bisun pirit; the second is given to the मुखर mushar of the village, who is known as देहुरी dehuri, and is called सहर sahar; and the third, called अगौं agaun, is set apart for the house-gods, and is consumed by the cultivator himself. In South-West Shahabad a small heap of grain is put aside for the village god (दिहवार dihwār). This is given to the village milkman (गोचार goār), who performs the worship of the god, and it is called पिठार pithār. In South Munger बहरैया bahraiya, and generally बेहरी behri or बहरिया bahariya (all of which mean simply a subscription), are names for the subscription for the expenses of village worship, and दहिअक dahiak is a similar cess of $1\frac{1}{2}$, and सवाई sawaiya of $1\frac{1}{2}$, seers per maund. The grain set aside for beggars (फकीर phakir) are known as भिछा bhichchha or भिख bhikh amongst Hindus, and रसुली rasūli or फकिरानी phakirāna amongst Musalmāns. The सिब चन्स sib ans is the portion set aside for religious mendicants (सन्नासी sanyāsi).

1204. Miscellaneous.—पुरौना puraunta is the fee paid by the members of a marriage procession to any person who does any work for them. In North-West Shahabad 10 seers per plough are taken each by the washerman (धोबी dhobi) and the blacksmith (लोहार lohār). This is called जौरा jaura. In the same place खरवन kharwan is an armful of crop given to each of the following:—the blacksmith, the carpenter (बरही barhi), the barber (नौवा naua), and the washerman; and the केरा kera is a smaller bundle of crop given to each of the same four.

Again पूरी pari is three handfuls of crop given to the same four. In West Tirhut a similar cess is called पाछ पूरौ pal paseri.

1205. In Shahabad, and also in South Bhagalpur, बन ban is an allowance of one maund in twenty-one or twenty-five of crop given to the agricultural labourer. In South-West Shahabad the cowherd receives a certain share of the milk of the cows he grazes, which is called बारा bara. In South Munger this is परीबा paraundha, and in South Bhagalpur परोधो parodho. Similarly अठवारा athwara (i.e. paid every eighth day) in Saran, पार pār in North Tirhut, भौज bhānj in West Tirhut, and पारा pāra or दुधिया duhiya in South Tirhut, is the milk given to the milkman as a fee for milking cows. चरवाही charwāhi is a fee paid to the herdsman for herding. It is also चराई charāi in Shahabad. सलामी salāmi or कमरबंदीदार kamar-kholdāi is the term applied to the presents made to or demanded by a police-officer or Government peon on entering a village, and the same terms are also applied to the presents made by the local police to the menial servants of magistrates and other high Government officials when in camp in their own district. In West Tirhut they are also called इनाम inām.

DIVISION IX.

LAND TENURES.

CHAPTER I.—TENURES.

1206. The descriptions contained in this division do not pretend to be legal definitions of the tenures referred to. On the contrary, they are only to be taken as giving the popular ideas (always more or less indefinite) current among the villagers as to the nature of the tenures.

Land tenures may be divided into—

- (1) Proprietary tenures.
- (2) Tenures intermediate between proprietary and cultivating ones.
- (3) Cultivating tenures.

CHAPTER II.—PROPRIETARY TENURES.

1207. (1) Revenue-paying tenures.—These are known everywhere as ज़िमीदारी jimidari. A very large landlord is, however, called a तालुकादार tālukadār, and his tenure तालुकादारी tālukadāri. This is the popular distinction in Bihar between the two names. Both tenures can be held in common and can be divided. When, in popular phraseology, it is wished to name a tenure which cannot be held in severalty, but is owned by one heir, the other heirs being given villages or parganas on which to subsist, it is called a राज rāj. In a ज़िमीदारी jimidari (or तालुकादारी tālukadāri) tenure the whole land is held and managed in common. The property itself is called ज़िमीदारी jimidari, or मिल्कियत milkiyat if it is small, and तालुका tāluka if it is large. The rents with all other profits from the estate are thrown into a common stock, and after making the deductions to be noted further on the balance is divided among the proprietors according to a fixed law or share. The deductions are the Government revenue and other expenses. The Government revenue is generally मालगुजारी mālgujāri or मलगुजारी malgujāri, also लाट lāt and रोह rol in Tirhut and to the east, and खजाना khajāna in North-East Tirhut. In Patna and Gaya it is also known as कलत्रो kalatri. The other expenses are known as गाँव खर्च gāñ kharch generally, also गाँव के खर्च gāñw ke kharch or गाँवियाँ खर्च gawaiñyāñ kharch in Tirhut. In South-West Tirhut they are also सालीना खर्च sālina kharch. In Gaya (and East Tirhut optionally) they are देही खर्च dehi kharch, in Patna प्रखराजात ekhrājāt, and in South Munger गरही खर्चा garhi kharcha. In South Bhagalpur they are बन्दखर्चा banh-kharcha, which properly means embankment expenses.

1208. A landlord is ज़मिंदार jimudār or मालिक mālik; also sometimes सरकार sarkār. Local names are गाँव के ठाकुर gāñw ke thākur in South-West Shahabad, and गाँवियाँ gawñāñ generally in that district. When the tenure is held in joint property, the shareholders are called हिस्सेदार hissedār, &c., see § 1214. The Government revenue is paid in by one of the body, called लमरन्दार lamardār in Sāran and मोक्षनार mokhtār in Tirhut and Patna. In Shahabad he is लम्बरदार lambardār. He is also known generally as तहसिलदार tahsildār, कारपरदाज kārpardāj, or मोक्षतिहार mokhtiyār. In North-East Tirhut he is also known as टिपदार tipdār. The inferior proprietors are known as खुरदिहा मालिक khurdiha mālik north of Ganges, while south of the Ganges they are खुरदिहा मालिक khurdiya mālik. In Patna they are known as जुजुनी हिस्सेदार jujui hissedār.

1209. (2) Free grants.—These are known generally as बिरित birīt, and the holder as बिरितिहा biritiha or बिरितन्दार biritdār. These are general terms, and amongst them may be mentioned the following:—

(a) Granted for religious purposes.—These are known generally as सङ्कल्प sankalp, and are of different varieties, such as बरमोतर barmotar, for the worship of Brahma; बिष्णु प्रीत bishun prit or बिष्णु खरपन bishun arpan, for the worship of Vishnu; सिवोतर sibotar, for the worship of Siva; कृष्ण खरपन kishan arpan, for the worship of Krishna, and so on.

(b) जागीर jāgīr, लाखराज lakhrāj (rentfree), माफी māphi, मिनाई minhai (at reduced rent), or खिल्लत khillat. These are properly grants for warlike services. They are also (especially जागीर jāgīr) applied to the free grants of land for services made to the potter (कुम्हार kumhār), watchman (गोरेत gorait), and other village servants.

- (c) A grant given to the family of a man killed in the Raja's service in open fight. This is मरुवत marwat in the west, and मरौटी marauti to the east.
- (d) A बिरित birit may be either acquired by purchase, when it is known as खरिदगी kharidgi, or it may be given by favour, when it is called इनाम inām or इनामत ināmāt. Local names in such a case are खैरात khairāt in Shahabad, and खुशबकत khusbakat in South Bhagalpur.
- (e) खोरिश khorish or मोकरी mokri (north of the Ganges), also पाख palak (Saran), other local names being खोरकी khorāki or परवस्तो parwasti (South-East Tirhut) and खानदान khāndan (North-East Tirhut). This is an assignment by a rāja to a younger son or brother of a certain number of villages in the estate for subsistence for himself and his descendants for ever. On failure of descendants the grant reverts to the parent estate. This occurs in the case of a rāj which cannot be divided.

CHAPTER III.—INTERMEDIATE TENURE.

1210. The principal intermediate tenure is that known as ठीकदार thikedār, in which the holder (ठीकदार thikedār) contracts to hold the property at a fixed rental either for a certain term of years or until a sum of money (जर समन jar saman) advanced on usufructuary mortgage is repaid. In the former case it is also called खुशकी ठीका khushki thika, and in the latter पतौतन patautan in Shahabad, पटौनाँ patauñān in the North-West and Tirhut, and generally सधौषा पटौषा sadhaua pataua. A mortgage lease is इजारा ijāra or जर पेशगी ठीका jar peshgi thika. See § 1487.

1211. Among other intermediate tenures may be noticed the पटनी patni tenures, which form the subject of special laws. They may be briefly described as estates created by a landlord by separating a portion of his estate and letting it in perpetuity at a fixed rent. Subdivisions of these tenures let on the same principle are called दरपतनी darpatni, and these last are sometimes again allotted into smaller portions, called खोपतनी siptni. The holder of patni lands is called a पतनीदार patnidār.

1212. A tenure which may be either intermediate or cultivating, and which may be noticed here, is मोकररी mokarari, or tenure in perpetuity at a fixed rent. In some parts of the country these are also popularly known as सिक्मी sikmi tenures, which usually mean under-tenures held by a cultivating raiyat.

1213. In Champaran सिक्मी sikmi tenures are described as dependent proprietary taluks paying land revenue through the landlord who is responsible for it, and not into the Government Treasury direct. Concerning सिक्मी sikmi rents in Gaya, see §§ 1225, 1226.

CHAPTER IV.—SHARES AND SHARERS.

1214. A share in a village is हिस्सा hissa and also (in Tirhut and the west) बखरा bakhra. The subdivision of a village held by a proprietary body is known as पट्टी patti or तख्ता takhta, also थोक thok north of the Ganges and फाट phāt in Gaya. A shareholder is हिस्सेदार hissedār or सरिकन्दार sarikdār; also बखरन्दार bakhardār to the west, पट्टिदार patidār in Tirhut. The proprietor of a half share is called अधिया adhiya north of the Ganges, and अधेबाध adheadh in South-West Shahabad. The inferior shareholders are called खुरदिहा khurdiha, &c., as described in Chapter II. पट्टी patti is also used to mean the principal share in a village, which may contain several सिक्मी sikmi or subordinate shares. The shares of a brotherhood are भैया बंट bhaiyā bānt generally, or in Patna and South Munger भैया बंट bhaiyā bānt. In the west they are also भैया bhaiwadh. A father's share is बपान bapans, also बपान्ध baphans in Sāran, बपौटी bapauti in North-East Tirhut, and जद्दी jaddi in West Tirhut. An elder brother's share (which according to popular belief was larger than the share of the younger brothers before the institution of the English law-courts) is जेठान jethans, also जेठान्ध jethhans in Sāran, and in North-East Tirhut जेठौती (not जेठौटी) jethauti. The Government revenue is मालगुजारी mālgujāri, &c., as described in Chapter II. The half-yearly instalment is known as अधकार adhkhar or अधकार adhkar north of the Ganges, also as अधिया athaniya or अधी athanni generally. In South Bhagalpur it is अधकार adhkar kist. The distribution of the revenue over the sharers in villages held by a brotherhood is in South-West Shahabad भेर bher. Elsewhere a periphrasis is used, such as हिस्सा पट्टिदारी hissa patidāri.

A proprietor by purchase is खरिदार kharidār, and also (north of the Ganges) बैदार baidār.

CHAPTER V.—CULTIVATING TENURES.

1215. A cultivator is known as आसामी asāmi, रैयत raiya, परजा parja, or काश्तकार kāstkar. In Patna he is also पोतेदार potedar. A tenant with rights of occupancy is मौसवी maurūsi (literally, hereditary) or कदोमी kadīmī (ancient), also देही dehī (resident) in Patna and Gaya, and जददी jaddī (ancestral) in Shahabad. A tenant at fixed rates is इस्मरारी isāmārī, but this distinction is little observed. Hardly any cultivators, and very few landlords, know the difference between a tenant at fixed rates and one with a right of occupancy. A cultivator without rights of occupancy is known as गैर मौसवी gair maurūsi, also as पाही pāhī (literally, 'foreign' or 'non resident') in Patna and Gaya, and खरिदगी kharidgi (literally, acquiring by purchase) in Shahabad. In North-East Tirhut he is हाल उपारजित hal upārijit (newly created). These names are interesting as showing what cultivators themselves consider to constitute a non-occupancy tenant.

1216. In Shahabad, especially along the south bank of the Ganges, there is a class of tenants called गुदस्तदार gudastādār or गुदस्तादार gudastādār. They are generally Rajpūts and Brahmans whose ancestors conquered the country, and who, while serving under the landlords, for whom they were always ready to fight, were considered entitled to a privileged position. A गुदस्ता gudashta or गुदस्ता gudasta tenure is held at a rent fixed for ever,* and is alienable without the consent of the landlord. It is, in fact, a freehold subject to a rent charge. The holders seldom sublet, and are a body of peasant proprietors, very prosperous as compared with other tenants, and furnishing thousands of recruits to the army. Another similar tenure is known as गोर gora. In this the rent is fixed for ever in a holding with specified boundaries, without reference to the quantity of land. The rent is not variable even if the land be found to be more or less than the quantity roughly estimated at the original settlement. It is alienable without consent of the landlord.

1217. In some estates there is a kind of head tenant, who acts as an intermediary between the proprietor and the cultivator. He collects the rents and receives in return some petty privileges and immunities. He is known generally as महत mahton, and in

* This point of fixed rents is denied by some landlords.

Patna and Gaya as महतोबाड़ा mahtodra. In Saran he is also known as टिपदार tipdār, in North-East Tirhut as मोकदम mokadam, and in South Bhagalpur महर maḥrar. Generally, however, the head tenant is called जेठरायत jethraiyaṭ, and he usually performs the above duties. The high-caste cultivators are known as चसराफ asraṭh, local names being सुरफा surpha in Patna, सुरफान surphān in Gaya, and बर अदमी bar admi north of the Ganges. In South Bhagalpur, the quarter of the village where such live is called बबुलोहा babulohā. The remission of rent for such high-class tenants is माफी māphi generally north of the Ganges, also छुटनी chhutni or कसबरे kansare in East Tirhut. In South-West Shahabad and Gaya and South Munger it is रेवाफत reḥaṭ, in the rest of Shahabad मरोफती marauṭi, in Patna कमी kami, इनाम indām, or इलाम ilām, and in South Bhagalpur माफ māph. The low-caste tenants are known as राऊ जाति rāṭ jāti, नीच nich, or छोड़ लोग chhot log. They are also known as रजौड़ rajil in South-West Shahabad, कमीना kamīna in the rest of that district, राऊ भोर rāṭ bhor in South Bhagalpur, सोलकान्हा solkanh in Tirhut, and रेवान raiyaṇ in Gaya. A proverb about them is—

कायस्थ किछु तेहें देहें, बरहमन चिबौलें ।
पात पात पमिबौलें, चौ राऊ जाति छतियौलें ।

Kāeth kichhu deḥē deḥē, Barahman khiyauleñ.

Dhān pān paniyauleñ, au rāṭ jāti latiyauleñ.

—A Kāyasth does what you want on payment, a Brāhman on being fed, paddy and betel on being watered, but a low-caste man on being kicked.

1218. Cultivators may also be divided into resident and non-resident. The resident cultivator is चपरबन्ध chhaparband, also दिही dihī in North-East Tirhut, देही dehī in Patna and Gaya, and बारो बस्त bāri bast in the south-east. A non-resident cultivator is पाही कास्त pāhi kāst or पाही pāhi (foreign), a word frequently confounded with पाई pāi (literally, a foot; hence used to mean an under-tenant). The word पाई pāi has almost fallen out of use now, but it is still understood, and has led to much confusion in laws and treatises on the rent-law, rendering it possible that the rights and liabilities of the under-tenant have been transferred to the non-resident cultivator. In South Bhagalpur the non-resident cultivator is known as पैहार paihār. The दोहट dohat or दोहटा dohṭa cultivator differs from the पाही pāhi cultivator in that he keeps up two establishments and cultivates in two different villages, while the पाही pāhi cultivator does so only in one.

1219. Below the ordinary cultivator there is sometimes an under-tenant, who is known as सिक्कनी sikmi or कुरथौली kurthauli, also as पेटावाला petawāla in the north-west and कोहियेनी kohiāi असामी asāmi in East Tirhut. It is said that to the south-east in the case of a कुरथौली kurthauli tenure the rent of the under-tenant is fixed at a money rate, but is paid in grain at the market rate of the grain at the time of payment. Elsewhere the rent of under-tenures is generally paid in kind.

CHAPTER VI.—RENTS.

1220. Rent is लगान lagān. North of the Ganges and in South-East Bihar it is also पोता pota, with an optional variant पोट pot in South-East Tirhut; another name current north of the Ganges is मलगुजारी malgujāri. Rent rates are दर dar, सरे sare, or सराह sarah; also दरबन्दी darbandi or सराहबन्दी sarahbandi. चुकौचा chukaua north of the Ganges is rent payable at a fixed rate.

1221. Rent paid in cash is known as माल mal, and that paid in kind as ऐन ain. When rents are paid in cash, the tenure is known as नगदी nagdi, and also in East Tirhut as खाप khāp. When paid in kind, it is known as मन्कख mankhāp or भादौली bhādoli. In मन्कख mankhāp or मन्कखी manthika, हुन्दा hunda or मन्कहुन्दा mankhunda, the rent is a fixed quantity of grain paid as rent, irrespective of the proportion it bears to the whole crop. This custom is current principally in Tirhut and Champaran. In Patna it is called मनी बन्दोबस्त manī bandobast, and a variety in which a certain number of maunds of cleaned rice per bigha is taken as rent is known as चौराहा chaurāha. These tenures are principally adopted by landlords when letting their जिरात jirāt or home-farm lands. In भादौली bhādoli a certain fixed proportion of the whole crop is taken by the landlord. This division is called बटाई batāi, &c., and a full description will be found in §§ 902 and ff.

1222. A tenure which has been noted in Patna is the हस्तबूदी hastbūdi, derived from the Persian hast, 'is,' and būd, 'was,' and which means literally 'the-is-and-the-was tenure.' In this the rate of rent is fixed at so much per bigha, but rent is only charged for so much area as is actually bearing crops at the time of harvest. Thus, suppose a piece of land measuring one bigha is cultivated, but for some reason

(such as inundation, destruction by insects, &c.) the area of land actually under crops when ready for harvest is found to be 16 kathas, then the rent of four kathas is remitted and the rent for 16 kathas only is demanded. It thus closely resembles the utbandi tenure of Bengal. Compare § 1229.

1223. हाल हासिली hal hasil tenures also exist in Patna and Gaya. In these the cash rent is determined on the spot after inspection of the existing crops on the land. A very similar tenure is known as बालक balkat. In this the landlord's men, accompanied by the tenant, inspect the crops when ready for harvest, and fix a cash rent by estimating roughly the quantity of produce and its value.

1224. A peculiar tenure, which is principally adopted in lands which are generally subject to inundation, is known as जैदादी jaidādi. It is also adopted where the land is extremely bad and the prospect of a crop is uncertain. The principle is that the full rent agreed upon is paid on the land in any year in which any crops whatever (however small) is grown upon it. In any year in which no crop is produced upon it, no rent is paid.

1225. The tenures* and rent system in the district of Gaya are worth noting. Four-fifths of the cultivated lands are let on the भादली bhaoli system, as has been described in sections 902 and following. In the lands held on the नगदी nagdi system the rent conditions are somewhat peculiar. The nagdi tenure is of two descriptions,—सिकमी sikmi or शिकमी shikmi, and चिकथ chikath or चकथ chakath.

1226. A शिकमी shikmi tenure is described by Bābu Bhūp Sen Singh as that under which the landlord has not any power of enhancement, irrespective of the period for which the tenant might have been in possession. The money-rent is not fixed upon the land, but upon the crops actually grown, varying with the nature of the soil and the class of tenants, whether high caste (सुरधान surphān) or low caste (रैयान raiyaṇ), the former having a lower rate to pay than the latter. The lands generally under this tenure are the दिहान dihāns lands, or the best land lying on the borders of the inhabited portion of the village (see § 784), and the crop grown thereon pays a higher money rent than the same crops grown on fields more distant from the village site. The same shikmi field also pays a rent varying with the crop. Thus if a Brahman tenant planted it with opium poppy in one year and with an ordinary spring crop next year, he would pay a higher rate of rent the first year than the second; while a low-caste tenant would have to pay for both of them a higher rent than the Brahman. Every tenant in a village has a fixed quantity of shikmi land partly at the higher and partly at the lower crop rate. If the tenant grows opium poppy upon a bhāoli and not a shikmi field, he pays for one harvest bhāoli rent, and is liable also to pay nagdi-rent for the poppy at the rate fixed in the village for the particular class of tenants to which he belongs for poppy grown under such circumstances. According, however, to other authorities the rate of rent of these shikmi tenures is unalterable, but an extra rate or cess of so much per bigha is put on when special crops, such as opium or sugar-cane, are grown, and is taken off again when these special crops cease to be grown. Compare § 1231.

1227. The चिकठ chikath or चकठ chakath tenure is, according to Bābu Bhūp Sen Singh, a temporary settlement of waste or uncultivated but culturable lands for limited terms of years, at nominal rents, for the purpose of reclaiming them or bringing them under cultivation. This tenure is governed by the terms of the contract between the parties. If one term be not sufficient to render the lands fit for proper cultivation, the settlement is renewed from time to time till they become capable of yielding full crops. They are then settled as bhāoli or shikmi lands, according to their quality. In chikath lands no right of occupancy accrues by custom, and the rent is capable of enhancement on the expiry of the term of the settlement.

1228. According to Bābu Bhūp Sen Singh when a summer or जेठवा jethua crop is grown on bhāoli land, an additional rate of 20 annas per bigha is charged as rent, the local bigha equalling $2\frac{1}{4}$ Bengal bighas.

1229. In South-West Shahabad, when in rice lands, the tenant pays only for the land under rice, and not for any land which may be fallow, the phrase उठती परती uthi parti is used. Compare § 1222.

1230. A remission of rent on account of deficient produce is माफ māph north of the Ganges, and also छुटती chhutti in East Tirhut. South of the Ganges it is नाबूद nābūd, or, when made on account of inundation, गरकी garki.

1231. Special crops, such as tobacco or poppy, on which special money rents are always assessed, are known as जपन्दी jabdi or जपन्दी japti. Cf. § 1226.

1232. Of the spontaneous produce of a village, बन्कर bankar is the produce from forest land, wood, gums, &c. In Shahabad it is also called बन छिहोली ban chhioli. जलन्कर jalkar is the produce derived from lakes, streams, &c.; and फलन्कर phalkar is the produce of fruit. सिक्कर माही sikar mahi to the west is fishing rights.

1233. Fields situated in one village and included in the area of, and belonging to the proprietors of another village, are called मोतलके motalke, or (in North-East Tirhut) तालुका taluka.

DIVISION X.

THE NATIVE HOUSE.

CHAPTER I.—THE NATIVE HOUSE.

1234. A house is मकान makān or घर ghar. Local variants of the latter are गिरन्ही girhi in Gaya and Sāran, घौर ghaur in South-East Tirhut, घरा ghara in South Munger, and गिही grihi, घरत ghara, or घरों gharo in South Bhagalpūr. A name current in Shahabad is बखरी bakhri. An enclosure containing several houses is north of the Ganges हवेली haweli or हबेली habeli, and south of it हाता hāta. South of the Ganges and in Sāran हवेली haweli or हबेली habeli generally means the female apartments. A palace is घोरहर dhaurahar or धरहर dharhar, as in the proverb सूती खर तर, सपनां धरहर sūti khar tar sapnāi dharhar,—he sleeps on grass and dreams of palaces. A hut is झोंपड़ा jhompra or झोंपड़ी jhompri, खोंप khomp, झोंपड़ा khomptra, झोंपड़ी khompri, or पलानी palāni. कुटी kūti or कुट्टी kutti is the hut of a religious mendicant (फकीर phakir). Other names used north of the Ganges are मठ math generally, and मठिया mathiya to the west, अस्थल asthal to the north-east, and जगह jagah or अखराहा akhraha to the south-east. मरै marai, मँडरै mañrai, or मररै marai, is a grass hut, and मँडो manro, &c., (see section 1307) is the hut in which a marriage ceremony is conducted. A little hovel or hut is north of the Ganges गोहिया goñiya. South of the Ganges it is in Patna and Gaya मरुका maruka or कुरहा kārha, in Shahabad टाटी tāti or बरहाघर barhaughar, and in South Bhagalpur धाको dhāko or मोरका morka. सिरन्की sirki is a hut or tent made of reeds, as in the proverb सिरन्की एक देखि जाति, जाति बेर नँ चाग्रह जाति, सिरन्की उठावेक रहल ना बेरा, चाकू नाच नः पाहू पगवा sirki ek delanhi tāni, tāhi ber mañ del pāni, sirki uthābaik rahal na bera, agu nāth na pāchhu pagha,—he pitched his hovel and it began to rain, nor could he get an opportunity for striking it; he was (like an ass) without nose-ring or tether. A ruined house or enclosure is दीह dih or खसूरहर khasūrhar. A hut in the forest is north of the Ganges पाजा pāja, and south of it चर चर chanchar ghar in Gaya, चाँचवाला घर chānch-wāla ghar in South Bhagalpur, टटगर tatghar in South Munger, and मरही marhi in South Bhagalpur.

1235. Straw huts used by the poor are डडीघर talaughar north of the Ganges, and काही पोस kāhi pos south of it. In Shahabad they are also called दोचरा dochra, and in South Bhagalpur खरो घर kharo ghar. They are also very generally known as फूस के घर phūs ke ghar over the whole Bihār tract. A masonry house is पक्का pakka or पोखता pokhta. When built of stone it is called in Shahabad चाँदनी chāndni. When built partly of bricks and partly of mud, it is कच्चा पक्का kachcha pakka or कच्चा पक्का kancha pakka. In Shahabad it is, however, कच्चा kancha or काँचा kāncha. A house built entirely of mud is कच्चा kachcha; it is also to the west खाम khām, and to the east भीत घर bhit ghar.

1236. When a house has three openings, it is तिनद्वार tindara or सेदरा sedra; with twelve openings, it is बरन्दरी bardari or बरबन्दरी barahdari. But these terms are not much used except south of the Ganges, from and including Patna westwards. A house provided with lattices is जालदार jāldār or जालीदार jāldār. A house with nine apartments is in Patna and Shahabad नौरतन nauratan. Rooms in a native house are generally nine cubits long by five cubits wide. Such rooms are called नौपञ्चन naupancham. बाघा bāsa or डेरा dera is a dwelling or lodging-house, and खिलवात khilwat a house used as a private chapel by Musalmāns.

CHAPTER II.—PARTS OF A HOUSE.

1237. The courtyard.—This is आँगन āngan, आँगने āngnai, or (principally in Patna and Gaya) आँगना angna; also in South Munger ऐंगना engna. In South-East Tirhut it is also called डेरा dera. The space in front of a house is अगुआर aguār or अगुआरा aguāra; also अगुआस aguās in Shahabad, अगुती agutti in Patna and Saran, and अगुआनी aguāni in Patna and the south-east. The space behind it is पिछुआर pichhuār or (generally in the oblique cases) पिछुआरा pichhuāra, or to the west पछुआर pachhuār or (generally in the oblique cases) पछुआरा pachhuāra. It is also पिछत pichhūt to the west, पिछुती pichhutti in Patna and Saran, and पिछुआनी pichhuāni in Patna and the south-east.

and दुहारी duhāri or दुहरिया duariya in Patna and Gaya. Another name current in Patna and the east is देहरी dehri.

1239. The inner entrance room.—This is the room in which the men of the family sit and meet outsiders. It is called दलान dalān. It is also named दोगाह dogāh in South-West Shahabad and दरोका darokha north of the Ganges. In Patna दोगाह dogāh means a cattle-shed. In North-West Bihār दुमुँहँ dumuñhān is a somewhat similar room, but opening both to the outer world and to the inner apartments. A sitting-room generally is बैठका baithka.

1240. The upper story.—This is कोठा kotha, or in the south-west पटहूँ patahuāñ.

1241. The under-ground story.—This is तखाना takhāna or तखाना takkhāna. Other optional names are भुजबरा bhunjabra or तरहरा tarahra in Patna, Gaya, and the south-east.

1242. The veranda.—This is ओसारा osāra or ओसरा osra, with variants ओसारी osāri in South-West Shahabad, उसरा usra in Gaya, and ओसरो osro in South Bhagalpur. It is also called साप्रबान sāēbān, and in Shahabad डाबा dhāba.

1243. The sitting-platform.—This is चौतरा chautra generally. Other optional names are चबुतरा chabutra and पिन्दा pinda in Patna and the south-east, and ओटा ota in Patna, Gaya, and Saran.

1244. The roof.—The roof or ceiling is छत chhat. It is also छत chhāt south of the Ganges, छता chhatta in Gaya, and छता chhāta in South Bhagalpur. A thatched roof is छाडनी chhāuni, चौनी chauni, छाह chhānh, छाही chhānhi, or छान्ही chhanhiya in North-West and South Bihār. It is also generally छप्पर chhappar, with an optional variant छपरै chhapri in the south-west. Another name current in Tirhut is चार chār. If it is a simple thatch without tiles, it is specially called ठाट thāt. A thatcher is गारामी gharāmi or चौनिहार chhaunihār north of the Ganges, and his work is छाडनी chhāūni. In Patna and Gaya he is सुतिहार sutihār, and to the south-east घर हरिया ghar chhariya.

1245. When a thatch is only a "lean-to" on one wall, it is known as एकपलिया ekpaliya to the west. In Tirhut it is एकहारी ekchāri, and to the south-west एकवारा ekchāra. In Patna, Gaya, and (optionally) the south-west it is एकछपर ekchhapra. If it rests on both walls with a ridge pole in the middle, it is दोपलिया dopaliya to the west and दोहारा dochāra in Champaran and to the east. In Patna it is पलानी palāni, and in Gaya and (optionally) South Munger दोहपरा dochhapra. In Shahabad another name current is दोहरा dochra. A roof composed of four triangular thatches meeting in a point at the top is called चौपार chaupār. When there are more than one thatch in a roof, each thatch is called परन्का pharka or पल्ला palla. Also in the case of two thatches the front one is called north of the Ganges अगुत के ठाट agūt ke thāt, and the rear one पछुत के ठाट pachhūt ke thāt. The thatching along the ridge is कोचानी kochāni, or in Gaya दोगा doga. A small thatch put on the top of a wall to save it from rain is परन्कही parchhatti or उपरन्कही uparchhatti north of the Ganges, and south of it परन्कही parchhatti (with a soft t). The sloping ridge-pole down a corner where two thatches meet is called तरक tarak. A beam running horizontally the length of the thatch along the centre, each end resting on the slope of a gable, is called कमरबल्ला kamarballa, also पार pār in North-East Tirhut. A lean-to thatch forming the roof of a verandah is supported on a series of struts projecting from the wall, which are called टेरवा terua, माला māla, मल्ला malha, मरुवा or मरवा marua, or मंरुवा mañrua, which support a long beam or bamboo, called सरदर sardar, on which the thatch rests.

This तिरक tilak is a present made to the bridegroom's people by the bride's people in the bridegroom's house. Some castes pay a portion of this in advance, as a sort of retaining-fee to secure the bridegroom; and when this is done, it is called फालदान phaldān, छेका chhenka, or बर छेका bar chhenka. In Saran and Champaran it is also called बरछा barachchha, in South-East Tirhut पञ्चरही pancharhi, and in South Bhagalpur पन्तोही pantohi.

1288. The man who carries the छेका chhenka is the छेकचरु chenkārhu north of the Ganges. South of the Ganges he is छेकचरी chhenkārhi, or in South Munger महन्त mahton.

1289. The period of marriage ceremonies dates from the presenting of the तिरक tilak, and is called लग्न lagan, or in East Tirhut सुध sudh.

1290. The marriage procession is बरिदान bariyāt. Sometimes the Hindi form बारत barāt is used. When it remains at the house of the bride a day after the wedding, the halt is called बरजाद marjād. When a bride's father is unable through poverty to defray the expenses of the marriage, and he sends her to the bridegroom's house for the performance of the ceremony, she is called कदुर karhui, कदुआ karhua, or दोल कदुर dol karhui. The marriage procession is the first formal visit of the bridegroom to the bride's house.

1291. The second visit, which consists in the ceremony of going to the bride and bringing her home to her husband's house for the consummation of the marriage, is गवना gawna, गवन gawan, or गौना gauna. In East Tirhut it is also दुरागमन durāgaman, and south of the Ganges दुरागौन durāgaun. Another name is रोक्सती roksati, रोक्सदी roksaddi, रोसकती roskati, or रोसकदी roskaddi (روکندی). Yet another is बिदागी bidāgi.

1292. If the bridegroom pays an intermediate visit, it is called in South-East Tirhut दुरागमन durāgnaghan. Immediately before the final visit to fetch the bride, a message is sent to the bride's house with some presents, to announce the approaching of the time for the visit. The presents are called नेचार neār, and the persons who carry them नेचार-धरवा neardharua. The persons who actually fetch the bride are लोताहर lautāhar, नेवन्तहर neotahar, लेताहर letāhar, or लिवावन liāwan, or in South Bhagalpur लेयारी leyāri.

1293. The newly-arrived bride is called गौनहरी gaunahri. In East Tirhut she is also called बहवासिन bahuāsin. The male members of her party are लोकनाहा loknāha, and the females लोकनी lokni or लोकनिया lokaniya.

1294. After consummation of marriage, the first and second visits of the bride to her parents' house are called रोकसती roksati, &c., as above. The second visit of the bride to her husband's house is दोंगा donga, and her third visit is तेंगा tenga. Her subsequent visits to her husband's or her parents' house are called रोकसती roksati, बिदागी bidāgi, बिदागरी bidāgri, अवन गवन awan gawan, बहुरा ahura bahura, बहोर बहोर ahor bahor, बौरा बौरा aura taura, or बारह गैल dil gail.

1296. Their father-in-law's houses are called by bride and bridegroom respectively ससुरार sasurār. The educated also use the Hindi word ससुराह sasurāl. In East Tirhut it is called सासुर sāsūr, and in Shahabad sometimes ससुरा sasura.*

1297. The wife's parents' house is called by her in Patna and South Munger नहिरा nahira or मेका maika, and in South Bhagalpur नेहरा nehra. Elsewhere she calls it नैहर naihar.

1299. The husband's or wife's paternal grandmother's house is his or her दादीबाह dādihāl, ददिबाह dadihāl, ददिहार dadihār, ददिहर

* A man in his father-in-law's house is always made much of, and fed well; hence in thieves' jargon a jail is called (let us hope sarcastically) ससुरार sasurār.

dadihar, or ददिचौरा dadiaura. Another name current in East Tirhut is पैत्रिक paitrik, while in South Bhagalpur they say बपहर baphar.

1300. Their maternal uncle's houses are his or her ममहर mamhar or ममुहर mamuhar. So also the paternal uncle's house is ससुरार sasurār.

1301. The paternal grandfather's house is (north of the Ganges) अजिचौरा ajiaura.

1302. The father of the bride and the father of the bridegroom call each other ससन्धी samdhi. Their wives call each other ससन्धिनी samdhin.

CHAPTER III.—SPECIAL WEDDING CEREMONIES AMONGST THE HINDUS.

1303. Marriage ceremonies vary somewhat according to locality and caste. The following is mainly a description of such a wedding as might take place in the house of a well-to-do goala in Patna, see § 1353. When the marriage has been agreed upon, the father of the bridegroom visits the father of the bride, and each provides a few hand-fuls of paddy (धान dhan). These are mixed together, and then divided between the two fathers by a Brāhman, and the bridegroom's father takes his share home. This ceremony is called धानबट्टी dhanbatti. This paddy is reserved to be parched in the chūlha which will be subsequently mentioned.

1304. Then the females of the bride's family perform the चुमावन chumāvan or चुमौवा chumauna ceremony. In this five women take rice between the thumbs and forefingers of both hands and touch in order her feet, knees, and shoulders with it. They then put it on her head. To perform this ceremony is चुमावब chumāēb.

1305. On the fifth or eighth day before the expected arrival of the wedding procession, the following preparations are made in the bride's house. If they take place five days previously, they are called पचमंगरा pachmangra; if eight days, अठमंगरा athmangra.

1306. The ceremony called मटकोदुवा matkorwa.—The women of the family, and their friends, go singing to a well. They level a piece of ground near the well and smooth it down with लाल माटी lāl māti, a kind of yellow clay which is generally found immediately over gravel. They then dig a clod up out of it, and carry it home on the head of one of them. They make a fireplace, चूल्हा chālha, of this mud in the centre of the court-yard or बाँगन āngan. In South Bhagalpur they set up a plantain-tree and a bamboo in the courtyard, under which they place the mud.

1307. The day before the expected arrival of the marriage procession, the family sets up a bamboo shed in the court-yard over the fireplace. This shed is called मढ़वा marhwa, मँकुवा manruwa, or मँड़ो mānro, also in South Munger मड़ही marhi, and in South Bhagalpur मढ़प mandap. The same day a potter brings an earthen pot, called कलसा kalsa, with a four-wicked lamp, called चौमुख chaumukh, on its top. This is placed in the house where the family god is placed for the purposes of the marriage. This house is called कोहबर kohbar. According to some the pot is placed at once in the मढ़वा marhwa.

1308. A plough-shaft (हरिष haris), a plough-yoke (पाखो palo), and some bamboo twigs (करची karchi), are then buried in the ground in the centre of the मढ़वा marhwa. Then five men bring out from the कोहबर kohbar the कलसा kalsa, and place it under the मढ़वा marhwa in front of the bamboo twigs. The father of the bride then anoints the four posts of the मढ़वा marhwa with घ्यू ghyu (clarified butter), and on each the mother applies some vermilion (सेनुर senur). The name of this ceremony is घूहारी ghyudhāri or दीहारी dhidhāri. In South Bhagalpur it is घिहारी ghidhāri. At the same time worship is offered to the progenitors of the family, which is called मन्त्रीपूजा mantri pūja. Then five men take turmeric (हरदी hardi), oil (तेल tel), and dub grass (दूबी dūbi), which they scatter on the bride's forehead. This is called हरदी चढ़ाएव hardi charhāeb. Then women anoint her body with oil and turmeric. This is called उबटन ubtan, &c.; see § 1342.

1309. Next day, before the arrival of the procession, the paddy saved from the धनबट्टी dhanbatti is parched in the fireplace under the मढ़वा marhwa. This is prepared for the ceremony of लावा चिहार lāwa chhitāi (see § 1332), at the time of the marriage circumambulation. The fireplace is then put to one side.

1310. Next follows the ceremony of swallowing the mango fibre. This is called रमली भोंडार imli ghotāi. In South Bhagalpur a similar ceremony is called चमन्डो घोटन amlo ghotan. An elder male of the mother's family (usually her brother) puts into her left hand a present of money or ornaments. The barber's wife then gives him the centre fibre of one of the mango leaves hanging up in the मढ़वा marhwa, which he presents to the mother's mouth. The mother then bites a small piece off this and deposits it in the hollow of her own right hand, into which the elder male pours a little water. The piece of fibre is called खरिका kharika, तिन्का tinka—, or दन्ती danti. This the mother holds over her daughter's head and gulps (घोंटव ghontab, to gulp) it all down. The elder male then says to her, "Art thou cool (i.e., pleased)? (जुरैलु jurailu)," to which she replies "I am cool (जुरैली juraili)."

1311. Wedding wreaths of mango leaves, flowers, &c., are hung over the door, and about the मढ़वा marhwa. These are, north of the Ganges, बन्दनवार bandnewār or बनवार banwār. South of the Ganges they are बन्दनवार bandanwār, and in South Munger घेरा ghera. In South Bhagalpur mango branches are hung about the house, and are called पल्लो pallo.

1312. In the bridegroom's house, before the marriage procession starts for the marriage ceremony, very similar ceremonies are gone through; the मढकोड़वा matkorwa is performed. A चूल्हा chūlha is made in the court-yard. The plough-shaft, yoke, and bamboo twigs are buried, and the earthen pot with lights is set up. Only no मढ़वा marhwa is built. The ceremonies of चुमौना chumauna and हरदी चढ़ाप्रव hardi charhāeb are performed on him, as is done to the bride.

1313. The paddy reserved from the धनबट्टी dhanbatti is parched in the चूल्हा chūlha. This parched grain is taken with the wedding procession, and mixed with that parched in the bride's house, and with it scattered at the circumambulation (§ 1332).

1314. They then cover him with cosmetic (उबन्त ubtan, &c., see § 1342), and his nails are cut by a barber's wife, he sitting in front of his mother, and his mother wearing the maur (see § 1326). This, as in the bride's case, is called नखछु nahchhu (see § 1326). The ceremony of इम्ली घोंटव imli ghōṭāi is also observed (see § 1310).

1315. He is then bathed and anointed, and sets out with the marriage procession. A little of the water in which he was bathed is brought with him. This is called सिनेह के पानि sineh ke pāni. He is not allowed to bathe again until the चौथारी chauthāri (see § 1340). When the marriage party arrives at the bride's house, this water is given to her mother, and at the time of the girl's नखछु nahchhu, the barber's wife will mix it with other water, and bathe the bride with it immediately before cutting her nails.

1316. The first scattering of rice.—When the bridegroom arrives at the door of the bride's house, the women of her family receive him, and scatter over him uncooked rice, the dung of a heifer, balls of cooked rice, and other articles. A married woman of the family then takes a brass pan (छोपी chhipi or थारी thāri) and a small lamp (दीया diya) and gives them to the bridegroom; and then, holding two corners of her mantle (चुनरी chunri), touches with them the pan, then the boy's forehead, and then her own. This is called परिहावन parichhāvan, परिखन parichhan, परन्हावन parchhāvan, परन्हन parchhan, or परन्हौनी parchhauni. A similar ceremony is called in South Bhagalpur गङ्गसेदी gāṅgasedī.

1317. The ceremony of the pestle.—The girl's mother then rubs in the palm of her hand a curry pestle (लोहा lorha), which she applies to the cheeks of the bridegroom. This is called गाल सेंकी gāl senki. This custom is not known in South Bhagalpur. Instead there is performed a ceremony called दूषा dhūa. A man disguises himself as a woman and approaches the wedding party with a jar of water. He says he is a woman of Kāmṛūp (Assam) come to give away the bride. He then sprinkles water on the bridegroom. (Compare § 1320.)

1318. The marking of the bridegroom's forehead with sandal paste before marriage is तिळक tilak or तिळक tilak. In South Bhagalpur it is चन्दन chandana. This is done by a man called in the west तिळकबन्धू tilkahru, and in the east तिळकदेउवा tilakdeua or तिळिकिया tilikiya. He is generally the bride's father. This tilak is quite distinct from the tilak paid at the time of proposal of marriage.

1319. These ceremonies at the door are called collectively दुवार पूजा duār pūja. In South Bhagalpur they are known as दुवार लगार duār lagāi. Those described above are those performed by goḷas in Patna. Other castes have other customs,—the higher ones contenting themselves with giving presents to the bridegroom and scattering rice (अच्छत achchhat) over him.

1320. The wedding procession then proceeds to put up in a place set apart for them. This is called जननीया janwānsa or (in North-East Tirhut) बैठकी baithki or बाघघर bāghar, and in South Bhagalpur जनमाया janmāsa. A male member of the bride's family (generally her sister's husband) then brings to the जननीया janwānsa a bowl of sweet drink or sharbat, called दूषा dhūa, and covered with a red cloth. He also brings some urid (dolichos pilosus) flour mixed up with finely-powdered pepper. This is called बुडुवा bukua. On his arrival at the जननीया janwānsa he scatters this in the air, causing the bridegroom's party to sneeze. He then gives all those present to drink of the sharbat. The whole ceremony is called बुकुआ उदर bukua urāi. A similar ceremony is called, north of the Ganges, धुरच्छक dhurchhak, in which water is sent in pitchers, and a little scattered over the party with mango sprays.

1321. The barber now comes for the bridegroom's मौर maur or head-dress, as will be subsequently described, which he takes away to the bride's house.

1323. Then the ceremony of making the bracelet is performed. The bridegroom and seven other men husk paddy in a mortar. When husked, two or three grains are wrapped up in mango leaves to form a kind of bracelet. Two of these bracelets are made, and one is tied on to the bridegroom's right wrist, and the other on the bride's left wrist, by a Brahman. These bracelets are called कङ्कन kangan or कङ्कन kankan. The ceremony is called अठोंगर athongar, अठोंगर athaungar, or (in Patna) लठोंगर lathaungar.

1324. Then follows the adoration of the bride. In this ceremony the elder brother of the bridegroom (or in default of him some elder of the bridegroom's family) offers sweetmeats, molasses (गूर gūr), and ornaments to the bride. He then takes some betel-leaf and tyre (दही dahi) in his right hand, and presses it against the bride's forehead, at the same time pressing his left hand against the back of her head.

1325. These two ceremonies are together called बन्दन bandan, गुरहती gurhatthi, or गुरहतन gurhatthan, and signify that he has touched her once for all, and that if he touch her again he will be guilty of a sin. In South Bhagalpur they are performed by the bride's sister, and both bride and bridegroom are adored. There the ceremonies are called गुरौँदा guraundha.

mony that follows is the cutting of the nails. This is called नहच्छु nahchhu, नहच्छुवा nahchhua, नहच्छुवा नहावन nahchhua nahāwan, नहच्छुडिया nahkatiya, or (in Shahabad) नहच्छुङ्गी nahtungi. In South Munger it is नह्छुण्ड nachhundē, and in South Bhagalpur लौछुवा lauchhua. The bride's mother has previously sent (§ 1321) a barber (हजाम hajām) to the जननीसा janwāṣa to ask for the head-dresses. There are two head-dresses,—one worn by the bridegroom, which is made of talipot-leaves and is called मौर maur; the other is worn by the bride, and is called मौरी mauri, or (south of the Ganges) पट्वासी patwāsi, or पट्मौरी patmauri. The bride's head-dress is made of date-leaves. The barber brings these two to the bride's house and puts the मौर maur on the mother's head and the मौरी mauri on the bride's head. Then the barber's wife (हजामिन hajāmin) cuts the finger and toe-nails of both the bride and her mother (the bridegroom's having been cut before he left home).

1327. The bridegroom's party then returns to the जननीसा janwāṣa, and the bride goes inside the house and exchanges her कनेडा kaneḍi for her wedding dress or पिछरी pūri (see § 1348). The bridegroom is then sent for and is seated under the महवा marhwa, and the father or elder male relation brings the bride and seats her beside the bridegroom under the महवा marhwa, to his left. Some one belonging to the bride's family then goes inside and gets the bridegroom's maur from the bride's mother, and brings it out, and it is put on the bridegroom's head.

1329. It is not necessary to describe particularly the procedure carried out by the officiating Brāhman. He recites (or is supposed to recite) verses from the Vedas, and leads in various acts of worship, such as throwing incense on the fire, throwing rice (अच्छ achchhat) about, worshipping Gauri, and the like. At one period the Brāhman puts into the bride's father's hand a shell containing water, flower, achchhat, and metal, and makes him empty it round the base of the earthen pot कालसा kalsa on the top of which the lamp with four lights (called चौमुख chaumukh) is burning. He makes him do this five or seven times. This completes the ceremony of कनेई दाज kaneāñ dān.

1330. From the time of the arrival of the बरिदान bariyāt up to the completion of the कनेई दाज kaneāñ dān, the father and mother of the bride can eat nothing.

1331. Next follows the knotting together of the clothes of the bride and bridegroom. This is गेंठ बन्धन genth bandhan generally. South of the Ganges it is sometimes known as गेंठ जोड़ genth jor or गेंठजोड़न gethjoran, and in South Bhagalpur as जानम गेंठ janam genth. At the same time something of small value, such as a two-āna piece or a few pice, or sometimes a piece of betel-nut, is tied in the bride's waist-band and in her breast-cloth by the Brāhman. Sometimes an ornament is tied to the bride's sheet, which is called अँचरी पाखो (or पखो) añchri pālo (or pallo).

1332. The circumambulation of the sacrificial fire.—This is sometimes done by both bride and bridegroom, sometimes, e.g. in North-West Tirhut, by the bridegroom alone. They or he carry a winnowing sieve. The bride holds it in her hands in front of her, and the bridegroom follows her with an arm passing round her on each side, also supporting the sieve. Her brother fills the sieve as they go along with parched grain prepared in the fireplace formerly under the मढ़वा marhwa, which the bridegroom at the same time scatters by shaking the sieve with his hands (this is called लावा बिहार lāwa chhitāi or, in Shahabad, लावा मिराब lāwa mirāib). Care is taken to keep the sacrificial fire (when there is one) or the altar to the right.* It is considered unlucky for the girl to pass it to her left. This ceremony is called भाँवर bhāñwar, भँवरी bhāñvri, भौरी bhauñri, or सत भौरी sat bhauñri. It is also called बेदि घुमाव bedi ghumāb. This circumambulation is performed five times, and is the important part of the ceremony. The couple on its conclusion are fumigated with incense by the officiating Brāhman. This is called आरत arat, आरती arti, अगती agti, or अगियासी agiyāsi. In South Bhagalpur it is called होम hom.

1333. When this is done, the bride's sisters and her brothers' wives amuse themselves by pushing the bridegroom about, and lifting him up by the ears. This last is supposed to be done five times, but is rarely done more than once. It will be seen that this is only done by females. Amongst the Tirhutiya Brāhmins and Kāyasths, however, it is done by the bride's brother. The ceremony is called बरक बैसाप barak baisāḥ uthāḥ.

1334. This is followed by the application of vermilion. In this the bridegroom takes a small cup containing vermilion in one hand, and applies vermilion to the parting of the bride's hair with a piece of hemp. This is called सेनुर दान senur dān or सिन्दुर दान sindur dān.

1335. The stopping at the door.—The couple then leave the courtyard and go into the house where the family deity is put. This house is called कोहबर kohbar, or in South Bhagalpur कोहबरा kohbara. At the door they are stopped by the sister of the bride, who requires the bridegroom to repeat certain verses, called दुरौच duraundh or दुरौचा duraundha. The bridegroom demands a present for doing so, and on this being given he repeats the verses. This ceremony is called दुबार हँकार duār chheñkāi or दुबार हँकौनी duār chheñkauni.

1336. The stealing of the shoes.—The bridegroom takes off his shoes before entering the house. If he is silent or is too nervous to speak much, the bride's sister may, as a joke, steal his shoes while he is inside, and conceal them somewhere, in order to compel him on his reappearance to speak, and say "where are my shoes?" This ceremony is called जूता चोरार jūta chorāi. In South Bhagalpur they make the bridegroom bow to a pair of shoes covered with cloth, and the ceremony is called जूता गोर लगार jūta gor lagāi.

1337. The couple then kneel facing the north-east, and perform the worship of the tutelary deity of the family, offerings being made to him at the same time. This is called गोर लगार gor lagāḥ. The clothes of the bride and bridegroom are then untied, the promised presents given to the sister of the bridegroom, and the marriage is concluded, the bridegroom returning to the जन्वाई janwāṣa, and the bride remaining in the house.

1339. If the bride's people invite the bridegroom's people to stay over the night, it is called मरजाद राख marjād rākh. This may last for two or three days or more. On the expiry of the period of सरम्बाद marjād, the bride's people see the bridegroom's party off. This is called रोस्कति करि देब roskati kari dēb, &c., as in § 1291. In South Bhagalpur it is also called लोठनी lotli. It is managed as follows: The bride's family collects in the court-yard all the presents received from the bridegroom's party, and with the assistance of village friends assesses their value. All this time the bridegroom's party is away in the जनवाई janwāisa. When the value has been assessed, the bride's father collects on his side presents to the value of at least one-fourth greater value than those received, and takes them to the जनवाई janwāisa. These return presents constitute the dowry, and are called the दहेज dahej. The bride's father lays them before the bridegroom's. Then the bridegroom's father takes a new cloth (चदर chaddar) and puts it on the bride's father. The bride's father in return presents the bridegroom's father with a purse of money of the value of the chaddar. Then both salām to each other. Then the bride's father, in token of allowing the other to depart, presents him with a sum of money varying according to means, and a lota of water, saying "राम राम rām rām," to which the other replies in the same words. This ceremony is called रामरामी ramrammi, मीलन mīlan, मिलनी milni, or समधी मिजावा samdhi milāwa. The two fathers are now, by relation, समधी samdhi to each other, and in token thereof they exchange cloaks and garlands. These exchanged cloaks and garlands are called समधो samdho. Amongst lower castes, as the procession is about to start, the bride's father gives each member money sufficient for the way expenses and drink, called बटवारी batsāri, and in South Bhagalpur पाथक pāthak. Then the procession, bridegroom and all, goes off.

1340. The untying of the bracelets.—Four days after the marriage the bride and bridegroom bathe, and the bracelets on their two wrists are taken off. This ceremony is called चौधारी or चौडारी chauthāri or चतुर्थी chaturthi. This is the first washing the bridegroom and bride get from the time of the arrival of the procession before the marriage. During the interval they have been anointed with cosmetics, उबटन ubtan, &c.; see § 1342. Usually this is done in their respective houses, but in Patna the bridegroom sometimes goes to the bride's house to perform the ceremony. This concludes the marriage proceedings.

1341. Miscellaneous.—The wedding breakfast is (north of the Ganges) कलौ kalau or मजनी majhni. South of the Ganges, in Shahabad it is पङ्गत panghat, and elsewhere गोरौडा goraudha or गुरौडा guraudha.

The feast at the houses of both parties the day before the marriage procession is भतवान् bhatwān, भतवानी bhatwāni, or भोज bhoj. Before eating the guests wash their feet, and the ceremony is called पर पखारी pair pakhāri, पैर पखरुवा pair pakharua, पाँव पखारी pāñv pakhāri, गोड़ धोर gor dhōi, or गोड़धोखार gordhoāi.

1342. The cosmetic of turmeric, meal, oil, &c., rubbed on the bride and bridegroom for about ten days before marriage, is north of the Ganges अबटन abtan, and in East Tirhut उगटन ugtan, कासार kasār, or कासा kāsā. South of the Ganges we find उबटन ubtan or (in Patna) ओबटन obtan very generally used; also आँवट āñvat and अपटन aptan in Shahabad, उकटन uktan in South Munger, and कासा kāsā, कासरा kasāra, or उकटन utkan in South Bhagalpur.

1343. The horoscopes of the boy and girl are everywhere जनम पत्र janam patr or जनम पत्रो janam patri. Also, very generally, टीपन tipan. In West Shahabad they are also कुण्डली kundlī. If they agree, the phrase गन्ना बनब ganna banab, or जोग मिलाब jog milab, or रास बारग बैस गेल rās barag bais gel, is used. To calculate the horoscope is गिनब ginab, or जोग मिलाएब jog milāēb, or दिन गुन्नी करब dīn gunnī karab, or बभन पुच्छी babhan puchchhi.

1344. When the auspicious day for the marriage has been fixed, an announcing letter is sent to the bridegroom's father. This is known as the लगन पत्रो lagan patri, or simply as the चिट्ठी chitthi. The formal invitation to the wedding is नेवन्ता neñwta or नेवन्ता neota, or (in East Tirhut) नवत nawat.

1345. The feast given to the brotherhood at the wedding is known as भइयारा bhāiāra, भइयारी bhāiāri, भइयारे bhāiāre, भइयारो bhāichāro (Shahabad), जेवनार jeonār, or भोज bhoj.

1347. The presents given are as follows:—सनेस sanes, दाला dāla, or दाल दौरा dal daura, are the presents sent by the bridegroom before the arrival of the procession. दहेज dahej, as already explained, is the dowry paid by the bride's father. Before the bridegroom leaves after the wedding, he goes to bid his mother-in-law good-bye. She and the other women give him presents, which are called सलामी salāmi. Other similar presents are in South Munger पूरन pūran, and in South Bhagalpur चौक chaunk. निहावर nichhāwar, निहाउर nichhāūr, or नेचहावर neochhāwar, are presents made to the barber and his wife. गैदान gaidān or गौदान gaudān is the present of a cow made by the girl's father to the family priest (परोहित parohit, or (in East Tirhut) पुरोहित purohit or अचार्य achāry). गुरहत्ती gurhatthi has already been mentioned as the ceremony of giving presents to the bride by the bridegroom's elder brother (§ 1325). मोहदेवार mohdekhāi, मुदेखौनी mudekhauni, or मुदेखी mudekhi, are the presents given to the bride by her mother-in-law or other female relatives of the bridegroom on her first coming to her husband's house.

1348. The पिहरी piāri, पीरी piri, or (in South Bhagalpur) कनियौती kaniāiti, is the bride's yellow dress, and कन्हावर kanhāwar or कंधावर kandhāwar is a red loin-cloth laid upon the bridegroom's shoulder during the ceremony.

1349. Bringing the bride home.—This is गौना gauna, &c., vide § 1291. The procedure is as follows :—When the bride is old enough to live with her husband, an auspicious day is fixed. Some days before the date, the bridegroom's family send a present of sweetmeats, called गौना के नेचारा gauna ke neāra. On the evening of the appointed day the bridegroom and his party arrive, and after feasting go off with the bride at dawn next day. The day before, a plough-shaft (हरिष haris), but no yoke or bamboo twigs, has been buried in the court-yards of each of the respective families. Before the bride and bridegroom start, their nails are out. This is called नह चहार nah chhachhāi or नोह चिहार noh chhilāi. With the party the bride's people send one or more gaily-decorated earthen vessels full of sweetmeats, called कुन्दा kunda or महार mahar.

1350. When the party arrives at the bridegroom's house, the bride passes from the litter to the door, putting her feet into a basket at each step. This is called दौरा में गोर चारन daura meñ gor dārab or घर पेचारी ghar paisāri.

1351. On entering the dwelling the couple go into the house where the family god is, and worship him. This is called गोर लगान gor lagāñ.

1352. As they go into the house, another ceremony, called दुआर चहार duār chhenkāi, is performed. In this the bridegroom's sister demands a present, and when it is given or promised she allows them to pass.

1353. On certain ceremonies performed by Soti Brāhmans of East Tirhut.—Different castes and different localities have various marriage customs, but the one just described may fairly be taken as a standard Hindu marriage ceremony. It describes a marriage such as would take place in a well-to-do goāla's house in the district of Patna.

1354. The Soti Brāhmans of East Tirhut have several curious marriage customs which have existed for many hundred years, some of which will now be noted. The greatest care is kept in keeping up correct genealogies of members of this clan. The genealogical registers are called पंजी pānji, and they are kept up by hereditary genealogists called पंजियार panjiyār. Once a year or oftener there are great meetings of these Brāhmans at Saurāth, near Madhubani, and other places, where the panjiyārs assemble and write up the registers. They also arrange marriages after consulting their registers, and give certificates to the parents certifying that the marriage is lawful, and that the parties are not within prohibited degrees of affinity. These certificates are called अधिकार माला adhikār mālā or असुजन पत्र asujan patr. The settlement of the conditions of marriage is called सिद्धान्त sidhānt.

1355. When the bride is of equal or higher caste than the bridegroom, the parties meet in a distant place away from both their homes, and the conditions are proclaimed by the panjiyārs present. If, however, the bride is of lower caste, the following procedure is adopted:—

The bride and her family leave their house and going a little distance off erect a सढ़वा marhwa for the marriage ceremony. On the day appointed for the wedding, the bridegroom starts from his home with his servants under the pretence that he is going out hunting. None of his relations accompany him, and although they, of course, really know for what he is starting, they pretend to be ignorant. When he arrives within a little distance of the सढ़वा marhwa, he stops, and then the sidhānt is proclaimed. By this time the marriage preparations are ready, and the bride's brother comes to him and conducts him to the appointed place. On his arrival at the door the bride's female relatives, each being called for this purpose a बिचकारी bidhkari, catch hold of his nose with one hand, and with the other hold a sheet tied round his neck. In this condition they bring him into the सढ़वा marhwa, and there the marriage is performed.

1356. After a time the bridegroom's friends pretend that he has been lost in his hunting expedition, and send a man called the बौन srautra to look for him. He returns shortly afterwards, and informs them that the bridegroom has married so and so, whereupon they all fall to and abuse him. After abusing him they change their minds and reward him.

1357. At the marriage a barber ties some paddy in a knot in the bridegroom's waist-cloth (धौती dhoti). This is called जन्म गेंडि janam genthi. This is not untied until the fourth day after marriage, which is by this sect called the चतुर्थी chaturthi.

1358. Another ceremony is the दसौत dasaut. In this a professional dancer (नटुवा natua) comes up to the bridegroom and offers him sham sweetmeats (लड्डू laddu), in return for which he receives presents. After this the bride and bridegroom go into the कोहबर kohbar to worship the family god. On the way the bride's female relations set up shops of paltry articles, which the bridegroom is obliged to buy.

1359. Another ceremony is घस्कट्टी ghaskatti. In this the bridegroom cuts some grass for his father-in-law, and in return the latter promises to give him a horse.

CHAPTER IV.—MARRIAGE CEREMONIES AMONGST THE MUSALMANS.

1360. The writer is indebted to Kāzi Sayyad Raza Husain of Patna City for the following facts:—

1362. शरई (شرعی) sharai marriages are entirely free from ceremonies of any kind. After the betrothal the marriage is performed in strict conformity with the sacred law. The amount of dowry (महर مهر) mahar) is not fixed, but depends on the pecuniary circumstances of the parties. Immediately after the marriage, the wife goes to her husband and is settled for life.

1363. उरफी (عرفی) urfi marriages are not so frequent as they used to be. The spread of education and railways has tended to make people stricter in their religious duties, but, specially amongst the lower orders, the following ceremonies are still in vogue. In these marriages the dowry (महर (مهر) mahar) is always fixed. In the cities it is fixed at one lakh of rupees, and in the villages at forty-one thousand rupees and one dindr. This is the amount of dowry promised by even the poorest people. It is needless to say that it is never given.

1364. Arranging the preliminaries, निश्चयन (نسیب) nisbat.—The parents first make themselves acquainted with one another's pecuniary circumstances, and the negotiations are carried on through a female match-maker (सुहाना (مشاطة) mushāta). When the preliminaries are settled, a letter of ceremony is sent by the guardian of the boy to the girl's family. This letter is written on red paper, or on white paper sprinkled with red. The carrier of the letter, on arrival at the girl's house, is given sharbat to drink, and detained for a day or two. The reply is written on similar paper and returned by him, and this correspondence settles the marriage question. From this time marriage presents are exchanged between the parties, the boy's guardian making the first present. If at this time any women come from the house of the bridegroom on a visit to the bride's house, the bride will not show her face to them.

1365. In some places, before the marriage is decided on the girl's guardians first see the boy. This may be done in two ways: either the girl's people send for the boy to their house, and serve him with betel-leaf, and give him rupees or gold mohars, or else the guardian of the bride sends some relative to the boy's house. There, on his arrival, he is given sharbat to drink, and the first thing given him to eat is sweetened rice (मीठा चावर mitha chāūr). This relative reports concerning the boy to the girl's guardians.

1366. Betrothal.—This is मैंगनी (منگنی) mangni. In this the boy's guardian, after consulting with the other party to the contract, fixes a date, on which he sends presents with considerable ceremony. Large coloured earthen pots are filled with sweetmeats and fruits, and sent with a large party. In some places a suit of clothes is also sent. The pots are carried on the heads of maid-servants, who sing songs when they start and when they approach the bride's house. As soon as they arrive they are given sharbat to drink, and while they drink the bride's people sing abusive and obscene songs to them. The persons that supply them with sharbat receive a small present. The maid-servants are also given sweetened rice to eat in a dish covered with silver leaves and pieces of fruit. Sometimes they are given sweetmeats to eat first and then dishes prepared with salt. They are detained for at least one day. When they leave the bride's house on their return journey, they are given presents in money and sometimes suits of clothes. They are also given a plain ring (बहा chhalla), a red handkerchief, and some sweetmeats as presents for the bridegroom.

1367. The letter of promise बादा का बहा (وعدہ کا قلم) wāda ka rukka.—When the time of marriage approaches, the parties, either orally or in writing, fix a date for it. Afterwards a customary letter of promise is sent, written on red paper and sprinkled over with pieces of gold or silver leaf. The letter is to the effect that such and such a day has been fixed, and that the writer hopes that it will meet with approval. Amongst poor families, the letter is sent in a bag of red cloth or velvet, together with two betel-nuts, some green grass, one or two pieces of turmeric, and a little rice. Amongst rich families, the letter is sent in a silver or golden box. The box is placed inside an embroidered bag together with the betel-nuts, &c. The whole is sent on a silver plate. The letter is always carried by a barber, who is given a handsome present, consisting of cash, clothes, and utensils by the girl's guardian. The guardian sends a reply either through the same man or through a messenger of his own. A tailor is then sent by the girl's guardian to take the measure of the boy's dress. He also gets a present from the boy's people, on going away. The marriage must take place not more than two months after this correspondence.

1368. The going into retirement of the bride and bridegroom मायून (مايُون) māyūn or मांजा (مانجا) mānjha.—After the interchange of letters, the bride and bridegroom sit in mānjha.—The girl puts on a sheet dyed with safflower, and the women of the neighbourhood and her female relations assemble, and rub her with cosmetics (उबतन ubtan), singing songs as they do so. From that day the girl sits in a room, and never leaves it except for necessary purposes. She does not see the face of any man,—not even of her father or her brother. She eats only milk and fruits, and every day the barber's wife comes and applies cosmetic to her. In the meantime the boy is undergoing the same treatment. He wears similar dyed garments, is surrounded by females, and cosmetic is rubbed on his body every day. In South Munger he does not thus go into retirement.

Two or three weeks before the marriage a grindstone is put in one of the rooms of the female apartments of both the houses, which has been previously well cleaned. The following day a number of women assemble and singing, accompany the maid-servants who carry some mūng (phaseolus mungo) to a well or river. Arrived there, they joke and sprinkle water on each other, while washing the grain. They then bring it back in the same way. It is dried in the sun, and ground into flour on the grindstone by seven women whose husbands are alive (सोहागिनी sohāgini). It is then made into a dish called बरौ bari for the ceremony of कंदूरी (کندوری) kandūri (see § 1377).

1370. The cutting of the clothes.—This is called किता पारचा (قطع پارچه) kita pārchā, and takes place in the bridegroom's house. Men and women are invited, songs are sung, and the tailor cuts out the marriage dress of the bride. When it is cut, all the men present congratulate the boy's guardian, and give the tailor a small present.

1371. A similar ceremony takes place in the bride's house on the day of the marriage procession. There the bridegroom's wedding garment is prepared, and when it is being despatched to him the male friends of the family assemble under a canopy in the female quarters. A few stitches purposely left unfinished in the bridegroom's drawers are then completed by the tailor, who gets some small fees from those present. This ceremony is called चाव (or, in South Munger, जाना) बेबोतब (ماز بیوتنا) sāj (or jāma) beotab.

1372. The vigil—रतजग्गा ratjagga.—This ceremony takes place in the houses of both parties. A spot in the house is washed, and a small wooden stool is placed therein. A new water-pot is placed on it, and is covered over with a new earthen cover. A red handkerchief is then tied on it. A garland of flowers is then placed round the neck of the pot, sweetmeats are cooked, and hymns sung entreating God to bless the bride and bridegroom. The women sit up the whole night near the water-pot, thereby intending to keep God awake. At dawn the sweetmeats and रिहम (رهم) *riham and sharbat are offered to God. They are then distributed among the people.

1373. The erection of the canopy—बाबाबन्दी (سایه بندی) sāyā-bandī or मँहवा mañhwa.—This takes place the day after the last ceremony. A canopy with four bamboo poles is erected in the female quarters. First, brown sugar is offered to the saint named Shakarganj, and then garlands are tied to each pole of the canopy. When the ropes of the canopy are being tied, the sister of the bride or bridegroom, or any near female relation of the father of either, comes in and stops the work. The persons employed are not allowed to proceed till they have promised to pay her a sum of money. When the canopy has been safely erected, a paste of sandal powder is rubbed on the faces of those present. In some places, after the erection of the canopy, a goat or a cow is sacrificed in memory of the saint Shaikh Abdul Qadir Jilāni, (شیخ عبدالقادر جیلانی). The flesh of the animal sacrificed is cooked on the spot where it was killed, with rice and gram, in new earthen pots. When cooked, it is offered in the name of the saint, and then eaten.

1374. The same night another ceremony takes place. A potter is ordered to make a small water-pot. This is coloured and painted with figures of horses and elephants. It is called कलसा kalsa. It is placed in the courtyard and covered with an earthen cover, on which ears of rice and mango leaves are put. A four-wicked lamp (चौमुख chaumukh) is kept burning on it every night. This pot is neither opened nor removed till the marriage ceremony is over. When it is first deposited, the women sing a song over it, the purport of which is, "We have shut up storm, rain, serpents, scorpions, and worms herein."

1375. On the same night another ceremony, called चिहल तन (چهل تن) chihal tan (forty persons), takes place. A number of beggars who play the drum and fiddle are invited, and towards the end of the night a pit, four or five feet wide and two or three feet deep, is dug under the canopy. In this pit large billets of wood are burnt, while the beggars play and sing hymns in honour of the same. When the fire begins to burn brightly, they one by one fall upon it and extinguish it with their bare feet. Sometimes they carry the bridegroom in their arms while performing the ceremony. When it is over, fried gram and fried wheat mixed with sugar are offered to the forty saints.

1376. The song of Balaimiyan.—This is called बौर का नया (بیر کا نیر) pir ka naija, or बाँले मीयान (بالے میان) bālai miyān. Next day the females of the neighbourhood are invited; a spot is washed beneath the canopy, and the green branch of a mango tree with leaves on it (or sometimes simply a wooden stick 3 or 4 feet high) is erected therein. A red handkerchief dyed with safflower is spread over it. The women then sing the song of Bālai Miyān. At the same time an अँकिचा *ankhiya is put in a new earthen pot, offered to the saint, and then distributed to the people.

* A kind of cake made of wheat-flour and rice-flour and boiled in water. It is shaped like the eye, ānki: hence its name.

1377. Offering to deceased elders.—This is called कंदूरी (کندوری) kandūri or बीबी के सहाजक (بی بی کی سہانک) bibi ke sahnak, and takes place on the same night as the last ceremony. An earthen fireplace (चूल्हा chūlha) is prepared at home and placed beneath the canopy. The maid-servants go singing to fetch water, carrying several water-pots covered with red cloth, and accompanied by musical instruments. They must be married women of good character; they may not be widows, or women who have married twice. In the water which they bring, rice, gram, mūng (phaseolus mungo), fruits of the egg-plant, and pumpkins, &c., are cooked. When cooked, first the rice is distributed on earthen plates, then on it the pulse, then a little tyre prepared specially for the occasion, and then the vegetables and cakes. On each plate one betel-leaf and one garland is laid. In some places only rice, curds, and sugar, are put on the plate, and this is called मीठी कंदूरी mithi kandūri. These plates are prepared in great number, and have been previously kept in a room washed for the purpose. Then the plates are offered, first one in the name of the prophet, then one in the name of his daughter Bibi Fātma (فاطمہ), then one each in the names of many saints, and then one each in the names of the deceased members of the family, so far as they can be remembered. Great care is taken to make offerings in the name of all of the last. After this the females of the neighbourhood and those related to the family who have been invited assemble in a place in the courtyard (बाग़ āngan) of the house, which has been well washed for the occasion, and sing songs in the praise of Bibi Fātma, and eat the offerings. No woman who has been married twice, or who is unchaste, dare eat out of these sacred plates.

1378. The anointing.—तेल चढ़ाव tel charhāḍb.—This takes place in the houses of both the bride and bridegroom the day after the last ceremony. Each is made to kneel down on a wooden bench (चौकी chauki), and a yellow cloth is thrown over him or her. Then seven married women (सोहागिनि sohāyini) tie up seven cakes (सुहाली *suhālī and पौडा pīṭha) in a yellow handkerchief, and wave it round their heads. Then they anoint the whole body of the bride or bridegroom with oil. A small bundle is made up of mustard seeds tied up in a piece of yellow cloth, and then tied on the arm of the bride or bridegroom. This is called कंगना बाँध kangna bāndhab.

1379. The marriage procession.—This is बरिदान bariyāt, &c., as amongst Hindus; see § 1290. When the time for the departure of the bridegroom's marriage procession draws near, the maid-servants of the bridegroom's house go out, singing songs, to fetch water. On their return they are stopped at the gate by the musicians, who refuse to let them pass till a present has been made to them. The water is placed under the canopy, where also a small stool is placed. The male members of the family assemble there, and, as songs are sung, the brother-in-law of the boy, or any near relative, digs a pit there. This is called 'digging a pond,' पोखरा खोदव pokhra khodab. He also gets a present for doing this. The bridegroom then bathes at this place, and puts on his wedding garments, consisting of (a) coloured drawers, (b) a kind of overcoat (जामा (جاما) jāma) dyed with the safflower, or made of प्रकरङ्गा ekranga or of brocade (असद्वारी (اسادری) asdwari), (c) a white turban covered with a red cloth, or a red turban, (d) a garland of flowers, and (e) a handkerchief carried in the hand. He then mounts on horseback, and visits first the grave of some saint, where he makes an offering of sweetmeats, and then the village imāmbāra (इमामनवाड़ा (إمام نوا)),* where he makes a similar offering. He then starts for the bride's house, and on approaching it he pays similar visits to the tombs of saints and the imāmbāra there. In the meantime the bride has also bathed, put off her मंज्हा mānjha dress, and put on another which has been prepared either in her own house or in that of a relative.

1380. When the time for the arrival of the bridegroom approaches, the bride's maid-servants set out on the road on which it will come, carrying with them rice soaked in water and a newly-made ladle (दोई doi), to which is tied a piece of red cloth. They stop at a well or a river, lay the ladle down on the ground, and cross over it one by one, eating the rice as they do so. They then dig up a चिरचिरा chirchira† shrub which they had previously noted, and carry it home, singing songs. The root of the tree is ground up and made into pills, which are administered to the bridegroom on the night of the जहवा jahwa (§ 1384).

1381. The sending of presents.—This is called साचक (ساقق) sāchak. Before the arrival of the marriage procession a बरी bari is sent to the bride's house. This word has two meanings, viz. (1) a dish of cooked pulse, and (2) that here referred to,—all the following presents taken together. It consists of :—

* An imāmbāra is, according to Bihār tradition, a building erected in honour of the celebrated martyr Imām Hassan, the grandson of Muhammad.

† Achyranthus aspera, said to be of sovereign virtue to one bitten by a venomous reptile or stung by a scorpion, &c.

- (1) Dresses for the bride, of from one to twenty-five suits. The first suit, or wedding dress (रौत के जोड़ा rit ke jora), is also called the शाहाना (شاهانه) shāhāna or royal suit. It is not worn after the fourth day of the ceremony. It consists of a pair of long drawers of satin cloth and a जामा jāma (see above) of brocade, tasar silk, or प्रहरङ्गा ekranga. A second suit, also of fine materials, for the fourth day is called the चौथी के जोड़ा chauthi ke jora; and a third suit, for the tenth day, दसहरा के जोड़ा dasahra ke jora. Each suit is of less value than the preceding one.
- (2) The chaplet, सिहरा (سہرا) sihra, for the bride.
- (3) Some raw thread dyed with safflower. This is called नारा nāra or कल्लावा (کلاوا) kalāwa, and varies in amount from one or two chhatānks to a maund.
- (4) Some otto of spices, सोहाग के अतर (سہاگ کا عطر) sohāg ke atar.
- (5) Sweet-scented oil.
- (6) A cone-shaped basket (called सोहाग पूरा sohāg pūra) of bamboo, covered with red paper and containing चल्चलबेली chhalchhabela, नगर मोथा nagar motha, बाह चढ़ bal chhar, the bark of the bay-tree (नज taj), cardamoms, sandal-wood, grains of musk, nutmeg, mace, saffron, cassia, turmeric, &c.
- (7) Sweetmeats.
- (8) Fruits, viz. almonds, pistachios, grapes, dates, cocoa-nut kernel, &c.
- (9) Spices for betel.
- (10) Fifty-two water-pots. These are small in size and are gaily coloured. In each a little rice, some betel-nuts, and some mango-leaves, are put.

These things are carried on the heads of maid-servants in procession in trays, accompanied by torches, music, and fireworks. First comes a large tray carrying the royal robes, then small trays, on each of which is placed another suit, and then the rest. The whole is covered by a long piece of cloth called दलजहन्ना daljhanā.

1382. In the meantime the bridegroom's dress is despatched from the bride's house, with a tailor, to meet the procession. The dress consists of a red जामा jāma (see above), long drawers of silk often worked with gold and silver flowers, a turban covered with a red handkerchief on which is laid a garland, and over this a very thin handkerchief, called मग्ना (مِلْح) magna or veil, and a red handkerchief for him to carry in his hand. When the bridegroom is clothed in this by the tailor, he gives the clothes in which he has travelled so far to the barber, who follows the bridegroom, carrying an umbrella over his head. Then the ceremony of निकाह (نِكَاح) nikah or religious marriage is performed, and dates and sweetmeats distributed to the assembled guests.

1383. After this the bridegroom goes on horseback to the bride's house with great pomp, accompanied by a large party of men with torches, fireworks, and music. When they reach the house, all the men remain standing outside, while the bridegroom enters the female quarters of the house either on foot or horseback. There he sits on a wooden stool (which is given him in dowry), and his mother-in-law (or if she be dead, some other female relation of the bride) comes to him carrying a plate containing a small lamp made of flour and a little अरुआ arua rice. She warms her hand at the lamp, and then touches the cheek of the bridegroom. While she is doing this, a woman comes and whispers in his ear the following Hindi verse "सोने में सोरागा, धरे में लाग़ा। सो दुल्हा का मन दुल्हिन से लाग़ा ॥ some men sohāga, sūi men tāga o dulha ka man, dulhin se lāga, i.e., borax in gold, a thread in a needle, and the bridegroom fell in love with the bride.*" Then six married females (सोरागिनि sohāgini) and the mother-in-law alternately touch the cheeks of the bridegroom with the अरुआ arua rice. He is then given some sharbat to drink. This is prepared in various ways: sometimes the wet hair of the bride after she has bathed is dipped into it, sometimes a small piece of sugar is put into her hand till it becomes moist with the perspiration, and then the sharbat is made of it, and sometimes it is made of a piece of sugar which she has taken into her mouth and crushed between her teeth. Then the bridegroom stands on the wooden stool, and a maid-servant carries in the bride in her arms, and touches the back of the bridegroom with her feet, and takes her away: then the bridegroom returns to his own party.

1384. The जलवा jalwa.—The day after the arrival of the procession, milk, a dish called मलीदा (مالیدا) malida or sweetmeats, and sharbat, are sent from the house of the bride to the bridegroom's party. The मलीदा malida or sweetmeats are put into the milk and drunk by the bridegroom out of a cup of silver or copper, which is given to him afterwards in dowry. Then the others drink it. The same evening maid-servants come from the bride's house singing songs, and take away the procession umbrella, and under its shade seven married females grind the spices which came in the सोहाग पूरा sohāg pūra, and when ground, apply the powder to the hair of the bride, which they also tie with the नारा nāra or string which came at the same time. The scented oil is also applied to her hair. Then the bride puts on the royal dress, a garland of flowers, the chaplet सिहरा (سیرا) sihra, and a veil, which is thrown over her face. She takes off all the ornaments of her maidenhood, and puts on new ornaments sent her by the guardians of the bridegroom. Black powder (मिस्सी missi) is applied to her teeth, and she is adorned in every other practicable way. During the day, it may be added, myrtle leaves have been applied to the soles of her feet to make them red. When she is ready, the bridegroom is sent for, and he comes walking, preceded by a maid-servant walking backwards, and carrying a plate on which is a burning lamp, so arranged that the smoke is thrown towards the bridegroom. When he reaches the gate of the female quarter of the house, the mother of the bride, or (if she is dead or a widow) any other married woman, meets him, and conducts him inside. The manner of doing this varies in different places. Sometimes the mother carries in her hand a plate in which lamps made of flour or silver are burning, and the wicks of which are of red cloth. A small quantity of the red thread (नारा nāra) already mentioned is also laid on the plate. She walks backwards with her face towards him, and at every step throws down a piece of thread, and asks the bridegroom to pick it up and lay it on the plate. In this way, and at the same time touching his cheeks with her hand warmed at the lamp, she takes him into the inner yard, under the canopy. In other places the mother-in-law gives him betel to chew, which he bites and throws away.

1385. When the bridegroom comes under the canopy he sits on a wooden stool near a bed. As long as he stays there his sister (or, in her absence, a maid-servant) spreads a portion of her cloth (वारी sārī) over his head. Then the match-maker (मुशता (مشتا) mushata) throws a string round his neck, and pulling it gently, refuses to let it go till she is paid something. A cloth is then hung between the bed and the stool, and the match-maker (who has also had charge of adorning the bride) makes her stand on the bed in such a way that the bridegroom can only see her face. She then places the two hands of the bride on her (the bride's) forehead, and moves the bride's head this way and that way. A coloured handkerchief, in which is tied rice and turmeric, is then given to the bridegroom, who throws it on the bride, and each time he does so he is given a betel leaf in which pieces of the root of the चिरचिरा chirchira shrub already mentioned are wrapped up. This moving of the head and throwing of the handkerchief is repeated seven times, and the ceremony is called जलवा देव (جلو دینا) jahwa deb. The bridegroom then sits on the head of the bed, and the match-maker takes off the chaplet and veil from the face of the bride and shows it to the bridegroom, who for this favour gives her a present, and at the same time receives presents from the female relations of the bride. Sometimes, after this is done, a cup containing sandal-wood and a finger-ring of silver, which has a small cup made in the place where there is usually a stone, is given to the bridegroom, who, after dipping the ring into the sandal-wood, touches the forehead of the bride with it. In other places vermillion (रेवुर senur) is used instead of sandal-wood.

1386. Then the wife of the bride's brother, i.e., the bridegroom's सारहाज (سارہج) sarhaj, comes and sits on the bed, and throws little balls of flour at the bridegroom, who does the same to her. This ceremony is called गेंद खेलव gend khelab. A maid-servant then carries off the bride in her arms, followed by the bridegroom, who catches hold either of a corner of the bride's sheet (चदर chaddar) or her finger.

1387. It must be noted that throughout all these ceremonies the bride has kept her eyes shut, and never moves on foot, but is always carried in the arms of a maid-servant.

1388. The bride and bridegroom are then made to stand in an outer room (दालान dalan), and in the hands of both a little rice is put, but the hand of the bride is turned backwards. They are then caused to toss their hands up in the air, by a maid-servant, and thus the rice is scattered through the house, and the bride says at the same time that she is filling the house of her father and mother. The bridegroom also says that he is filling the house of his father and mother-in-law. This ceremony is called घर भरव ghar bharab. The bride is then carried off to a well-furnished room, where the bridegroom takes off her shoes with his own hands.

1389. The departure of the procession.—This is رخصتي (rukhsati), and takes place on the third day after the above-mentioned ceremony. The bridegroom is called into the female apartments, and he and the bride are given rice-milk کیر (khīr) to eat. He affects displeasure, and refuses to eat with her. The mother then makes him a present, and he consents to do so. Then the bride and the bridegroom sit together on a carpet, and a small piece of sugar on a betel-leaf is placed first on her head, then on her shoulder, then on the palm of her hand, then on her knees, and lastly on her feet. The bridegroom is pressed to pick up the pieces of sugar from each place with his mouth, or at least with his hands. This ceremony is called نابات چُناب nabāt chūnab.

1390. When the bridegroom goes off to his own house with the bride, she is carried in the arms of a maid-servant, and keeps her eyes shut till she reaches the court-yard of her husband's house. The sister of the bridegroom first meets her with a jug of water and washes her feet in a plate, which she (the sister) keeps as her perquisite. After this the ceremonies of घर भरव ghar bharav and नابات चُناب nabāt chūnab are performed again in the bridegroom's house.

1391. The ceremony of the fourth day.—This is चौथी chauthi or चौधारी chauthāri. It takes place on the fourth day after marriage, i.e. on the day after the arrival of the bride and bridegroom at the latter's house. The bridegroom takes off the thread नाड़ा nāra with which the hair of the bride had been tied. The women of the family then bathe the bride in the female apartments, singing songs at the same time, and the bridegroom himself bathes outside. Sometimes the bridegroom also bathes inside. The bride then puts on her dress made for this day (see § 1381), and the bridegroom also puts on the dress given him by his father-in-law. The bridegroom then enters the female apartment, and joins in the ceremony of जूबा jūa, or gambling. Seven spotted shells (चिन्नी कौड़ी chitti kauri) and a necklace (चन्दन हार chandan hār) are thrown up in the air. A maid-servant extends the bride's hands, and the bridegroom his own, and both try to catch the falling necklace. The one who succeeds wins the game.

1392. Two or three days after the arrival of the bride in the bridegroom's house people come from her house to take her back. The bride's younger brother and other relations may form some of the party, but not elders, such as the father or uncles. They bring with them presents of sweetmeats, rice, pulse, a goat, &c., varying in quantity according to means. Two or three days afterwards they return with the bride and bridegroom.

1393. The ten days' stay.—This time the bridegroom stays nine or ten days in his father-in-law's house. This stay is called the दसहरा dasahra khāna. On their arrival a room is made over to the bridegroom in the female apartments, and the bride is made to walk into this room accompanied by her female relatives and those of her husband, all singing songs. This is the first time the bride is allowed to walk since the commencement of the ceremonies. Up to this she has been always carried about. When the bride approaches the bridegroom in this room, he is expected to salute (सलाम salām) her. If he does not do so, showers of abuse are poured upon him.

This concludes the wedding ceremonies.

CHAPTER V.—BIRTH CUSTOMS GENERALLY.

1394. An adopted child is amongst Musalmāns मोतम्मना (متمنى) - motmanna. Amongst Hindus he is पालक pālak, पोसपुत posput, or पोसपालक pospālak. Local names are पोसबेडा posbeta or पोसबालक posbālak in the south-east, and कर्ता पुत्र karta putr in East Tirhut. To adopt a child is पोसिया लेब posiya leb, गोद लेब god leb, or रास पर लेब rās par leb.

1395. When a woman cannot suckle her child, owing to pains in and hardness of the breast, she is called थानैलियाही thanailiyāhi. Inability to suckle on this account is थानैली thanaili. When a child is not well nurtured owing to the untimely death of its mother, or to her milk running dry, it is called दुधन्हडा dudhtutua or दुधन्हडा dudhkatua. In South Bhagalpur it is कलरा kalra.

1396. A seven-months' child is सतवॉस satwāns or सतवॉस satwānsa generally; also सतवॉस satwānsu south of the Ganges, सतमास atmās in North-East Tirhut, and सतमसुवा satmasua in South-East Tirhut and South Bhagalpur. An eight-months' child is अठवॉस athwāns generally; also अठवॉस athwānsu south of the Ganges, अठमास athmās in North-East Tirhut, and अठमसुवा athmasua in South Bhagalpur.

1397. An only child is प्रकलौना eklanta; also प्रकलुहा ekāhula in Shahabad and प्रकौनिवाँ ekauniyān in South Bhagalpur. A first-born child is पहिलौठा pahilautha. The youngest child, i.e., the last which a woman has, is called पेठपौडुवा petponchhua or कोरपौडुवा korponchhua. When a girl is born after three boys (which is considered very lucky), she is called a तेतर tetar, and she is even often named तेतरौ tetri. In the south-east, however, a girl born after two and not after three boys is so called. A child whose elder brother is dead is called मराह marāhh, or मराहवा marachhwa, or (in South Bhagalpur) मरोहा marochha, and (in North-East Tirhut) मचह machhas. Such children are treated and dressed as girls, sold to the midwife for a few cowries, and brought back again and given opprobrious names, in order to induce the demon of death to think them of small account and not worth killing.

1398. When a woman has a child every year she is बरसाइन barsāin, or in South Bhagalpur बरसैनो barsaino. A woman with only one child is प्रकौन ekaunj, or to the east काक बन्या kāk banjha, or कावा बाँज kaua bānjh. The latter name is said to be derived from the children's game of काग दुरस kag durus, or "odd or even." In this game one boy guesses whether another has an odd or even number of cowries in his hand. If he guesses an odd number he says काग kag, or if an even one दुरस durus. Hence काग kag means an odd number, and specially 'one.' A barren woman is बाँज bānjh, बाँज बरिहा bānjh bahila, or (in the south-west) बाँजिन bānjhin. A woman after delivery, until the purificatory ceremonies are performed, is अलवानी alwāni or परसौनी parsauti. The lying-in room is north of the Ganges सोरौ soiri, and to the east also सोर soer. South of the Ganges it is सौर saur, सौरौ sauri, or जच्छा खाना jachcha khāna. In this a fire is kept burning for ten days after the woman's delivery. This fire is known to the north-east as अगियासी agiyāsi, and in South Bhagalpur as पोरा pora. Elsewhere it is पसंगी pásanghi, with a variant पसंगी pásangi in the south-west and in South Munger.

1399. The presents given to a woman in a state of pregnancy are known as सधोर sadhor. In South Bhagalpur such presents are given after delivery, and are called सठोरा sathora. अछवानी achhwāni is caudle given to a lying-in woman to produce milk. It is also called सोठौर sothaur in the north-east and सोठौरा sonthaura in Gaya and the south-west. Another name current in the north-east is अधरसी adhrassi; in South Munger it is कदवा kadwa, and in South Bhagalpur आदो गुरु ado gūr. The longing of a pregnant woman is दोहद dohad or मन्चलब manchalab. The earthen cakes which she is fond of eating when in this condition are called खपरा khapra.

CHAPTER VI.—CEREMONIES PECULIAR TO THE BIRTH OF A HINDU CHILD.

1400. When the labour pains commence, the चमरिनी chamāṇī or चमैनी chamaini, i.e. the native midwife, is sent for. She is also called दगरिन or दगरिन dagrin. On her arrival she puts a finger-mark (टीका tika) of vermilion on the wall. This ceremony is called सोरारी sorāri, and is supposed to hasten the delivery of the child. As soon as the child is born, the midwife washes the forehead (लट lat) and feet (गोर gor) of the mother, which operations are called लटधोवा latdhoā and गोरधोवा gordhoā respectively. She gets a fee (नेग neg) for doing this. The child's navel-string (नार nār) is then cut. If the child is a मराछ marāchh (or मरछवा marachhwa), i.e. if the child which was born before it from the same mother is dead, the navel-string is all thrown away. Otherwise it is buried in the floor of the lying-in room, and over it the fire (पसंगी pūsanghi) is placed. The latter is called in South Bhagalpur पसनी pasni or घूर ghūr. The child's body is then rubbed with कोठवार kothwār, which is the dust of a sun-dried granary (कोठी kothī), in order to take off the foetal excretion (जावर jāwar or जामर jāmwar). The midwife's fee for cutting the navel-string is नारकटाई nārkatai or नरकटाई narkatai.

1401. When the child's body has been thus rubbed with dust, it is bathed in lukewarm water, and then the midwife throws it up in the air and catches it again five times. This is called लरिका लोकाई larika lokāi. At the same time another woman strikes a brass dish (थारी thāri बजाई bajāi), and the mother holds in her hand a handful (अंजुरी anjurī) of grain, which last is the perquisite of the midwife. The after-birth (लिजरी lijhri or नार पुरैन nār purain),* &c., is then thrown away in a vessel called खपरा khapraur or (in Gaya) खपराई khapraurī, for which the midwife receives a fee called खपराई फेंकाई khapraur phenkai.

1402. Two or three days after the birth, when the परोहित prohit or family priest has fixed on a lucky day, the ceremony of नारायण

nahdwan is performed. This consists in नीम nīm (azadirachta Indica) leaves being boiled in water, and both the mother and child being bathed with the decoction. Then a handful of seeds of राई rāi (mustard, sinapis racemosa) and जैवंत jeñwāñin (dill, ligusticum ajowan) is waved (निहावर कर nichhāwar karab or चौंख aunchhab) round the mother's head and thrown into an earthen cup containing fire. When the seeds are consumed, the cup is upset, and the mother breaks it with her left foot. Then she sits with grain in her hand, while the brass dish is again beaten, and the midwife again throws the child five times in the air. This all takes place in the court-yard of the house, and is done to avert the evil eye. It is the first day on which the mother comes out of the lying-in chamber. The same day this chamber is plastered over with fresh mud, amongst the rich by a maid-servant, and amongst the lower classes by the husband's sister ननद (nanad), who gets a fee for this, called सोररी लिपार soiri lipāi or (south of the Ganges) सौर लिपार saur lipāi. The same day the washerman takes away the lying-in clothes (छुत्का के कपड़ा chhutka ke kapra), and washes them.* His fee for this is called छुत्का chhutka.*

1403. The next day after bathing, the barber pares the mother's nails, which ceremony is called नोहटुंगी nohtungi or नहटुंगी nahtungi, and his fee is known as नोहटुंगार nohtungār.

1404. On the seventh or eighth day, when the mother is first able to eat rice, the ceremony of खैरही जोड़ाव kheñrhi jorāñb is performed. A hole is dug in the ground, into which milk and water are poured. The mother sits close to it, and eats her first dish of cooked rice. From this day collyrium (काजूर kājar) is put on the child's eyes. Before this, when oil was rubbed on the child's body, the child had been laid on its back during the operation, but henceforward it is laid on its face for the application. From this day, also, the mother gets a bed to sleep on. Up to this day she had been fed only on caudle and on a mixture of oil, turmeric, and molasses (हार्दी गूर hardi gūr).

1405. On the twelfth day the ceremonies of दोनी काँच donni jhāñkab and छठी chhathi are performed. Sometimes the latter ceremony is omitted. In the former, five दोनी doni or दोना dona, which are a kind of platter, are prepared of leaves of the jack-tree (कठार kathar). In these cakes (पूरी pūri), rice milk (खीर khīr), &c., are placed. Sometimes the leaf platters are omitted, and rice milk, &c., is simply laid on the ground over the cakes. Worship is then performed, and the articles eaten.

1406. The बडी chhathi or बड़ी chhatthi ceremony is also called in Tirhut बडिबार chhathiyār or बडि chhatthi. As its name indicates, it should properly be performed on the sixth day after birth, but this rarely occurs now-a-days. When it is held on the twelfth day it is also called बरन्ही barhi. In this ceremony a kind of square marked with diagonals and made of cowdung is fastened on the wall. At every corner and intersection cowries are fastened, and the whole is painted with vermillion, and cakes, &c., are laid before it. The child is then oiled, has collyrium applied to its eyes, is wrapped up in a cloth, and placed before it. It is then dressed in new clothes, and rings (बकुल kara) are put upon its arms and feet for the first time, and some money put into its hand. On this day also the child is named, and the relatives are fed.

1407. The ceremony of purification performed on the fortieth day after birth is called चिहा chhilla. In South Munger a similar ceremony takes place on the twentieth day, and is called बसदौरी basdauri. The ceremony of first feeding the child with rice is called अन्नप्राशन anprāsan, also (south of the Ganges) खिरकिया खिरकिया khirkhiyāi and खिरचटार khirchatāi. In Gaya it is निमक चसी nimak chasi, and in South Munger चटावन chatāvan.

CHAPTER VII.—BIRTH CUSTOMS AMONGST MUSALMĀNS.

1408. The navel string (नार nār) is cut by a चमैनी chamaini, and the child is then bathed गोसल कराव (غسل کرنا) gosāl karāēb. Sweetmeats are then consecrated (नियाज कराव (نیاز کرنا) niyāj karāb) in the court-yard by the male members of the family, and the milk of a respectable and virtuous woman is given to the child in a shell (सितुहा situha). This ceremony is called दुधपिलाव dudhpilāi. The people are then called to prayers by striking a brass pan (थारी thāri) with a stick, and this custom is called बन सलवात (بن سلاوات) ban salwāt. In South Munger it is called बांग सलवान bāng salwāt.

1409. The lying-in room, in which the mother (परन्धौनी parsauti) is, is always kept warm with an अंगेठी angethi or moveable stove, and is called सौरी sauri, &c.; see § 1398. Caudle (अचुवानो achhucāni) is given to her to produce milk, and oil mixed with turmeric and molasses is given to her to make her strong. This last mixture is called बरन्ही दूर hardi.

gār. Until milk flows in the mother's breasts, the child is wet-nursed with the milk of the woman whose milk was given to it immediately after it was born.

1410. On the third day the mother and the child are bathed and dressed in new clothes, and the women of the neighbourhood come and sing songs, and receive oil and vermillion. Up to this the mother has had nothing to eat except the caudle and the mixture already mentioned, but now she is allowed to eat food and to sleep on a bed.

1411. On the same day the washerman takes away the lying-in garments, and the barber pares the mother's nails and shaves the child. The former operation is called नखन्दुही nahtungi, and the latter बाल तराशी (بال تراشي) bāl tarāshi.

1413. On the same day the lying-in room is plastered over with mud plaster. This operation is known as सोहर लिपार soēr lipāi.

1414. On the fortieth day the consecration ceremony (निवाज (نیاज) niyāj) is again performed, and the relations are fed.

1415. Circumcision is खतना khatna or सुन्नत sunnat. See also § 386.

CHAPTER VIII.—DISPOSAL OF THE DEAD AMONGST THE HINDUS.

1416. The burning of a corpse is दाह देव dāh deb, आगि देव āgi deb, दगध करव dagaḍh karab, or जारव jārab. In North-East Tirhut it is also संस्कार देव sanskār deb, and in the south-east जरायव jarāḍv. When a Hindu dies he is taken out of the house and placed on a bier. A bier is रन्ही ranthi generally; also टिकट्टी tikthi in South-West Shahabad, ताटी tāti in the east generally, धाठ dhāth in North-East Tirhut, फरकी pharkī in South-East Tirhut, and चचरी chachri in South Bhagalpur. Sometimes he is simply placed on a bed (चरपाद charpāi or खटिया khatiya). Four men, who are called मजिल्ले जे जानिहार majille jē jānihār, or in South Bhagalpur कंकठिया kankathiya; carry the bier on their shoulders and set it down on the ground outside the village. This is called नगर बिहराँव nagra bisrañw and is done in order that the people who are to accompany the corpse (who are called मजिल्लिहा majiliha) may collect.

1417. After the departure of the corpse from the house the walls of the latter are plastered over with fresh plaster, and outside it are placed a stone, cowdung, iron, fire, and water for the मज्झिमा majjiha to touch on their return from the cremation.

1418. The four men who carried the bier take it on, when the people have collected, to the place of cremation on the bank of a river. This place is called असमान asman, or मुरद्धाती murdhatti north of the Ganges. In North-East Tirhut it is समान saman. South of the Ganges it is चिरारी chirār or चिरारी chirārī, or to the South-East मरघाती marghatti or मुरघाती murghatiya. In East Tirhut it is also called मरघात marghat or मुरघाती murghatti. They then bathe the corpse (नहनाय nahwāēb or असनान कराय asnān karāēb). The heir or chief mourner (कर्ता karta) then has his head, beard, and moustaches shaved (भद्र कराय bhadr karāēb), and puts on a dress of mourning (उत्री utri or कपनी kaphnī). He then dresses the corpse in new clothes, viz. a waist-cloth (काचा kachchha) and a sheet, washes its mouth, and then with the assistance of the other men places it on the funeral pile. To dress a corpse in this way is कपनाय kaphnāēb.

1419. A funeral pile is चिता chita generally, also चैती chaiti in Gaya and सारा sāra in Patna and the south-east. To prepare it a trench is dug in the form of a cross and four pointed logs (खूँटा khūnta) are driven into the ground at each end, and between them the logs of wood are piled. When the corpse is placed on the pile, the chief mourner (कर्ता karta) anoints its mouth with a mixture of गुग्गुल gugul (gum of the amyris agallocha), barley, incense (दूप dhūp), water-nut (मकाया makhāna), honey, sesamum, and sweetmeats. He then buys fire (आगि मोल लेब āgi mol leb) from a डोम Dem (some, however, take fire from the house), and with it lights a long torch (लूका lūka). He then walks round the corpse five times, touches its lips each time with fire (पचकरमा pachkarma), and sets fire to the pile (दगध कर दगadh karab). When the body is nearly burnt, each of the persons present throws five sticks into the fire. These are known as पचकाठीया pachkathiya north of the Ganges; in Gaya and the south-west they are पंचआगि panchāgi or पंचआगि पंचागि panchagin; in Patna they are पंचलकरी panchlakrī; and in the south-east as पचकाठ pachkāth or पचकाठी pachkāthi. When the body is nearly all consumed, the fire is put out (पानी देब pāni deb) with handfuls of water, and the remaining small unburnt portion is thrown into the river for fishes and tortoises (मच्छका ल मच्छकच्छ la). They then wash the place where the body was burnt, and the chief mourner (करन्ता karta) plants a tulsi tree near by, and writes on the ground the words राम राम rām rām.

1420. They then bathe at another landing-place (घाट ghāt) and sit down. Then the करन्ता karta gets up first and walks towards home, followed by the others. When they arrive at the door of the house, they touch the stone, cowdung, iron, fire, and water already mentioned, and then their left ears, each with the little finger of his left hand. This ceremony is called काव काठी उतारव kān kāthi utārab. They then separate. Some castes, however, instead of performing this ceremony, simply bite a piece of bitter nim leaf, and then go home.

1421. Offerings are sometimes made to the manes at the time of cremation, and these are called in South Tirhut अस्मान पूजा asmasān pūja, or पंचपिंडा pañchpinda.

1422. The day after the funeral the करन्ता karta goes to the place of cremation, and pours on the site of the pile a little fresh milk. This is called चिता सेराव chita seraēb. He then comes to the village pipal tree, where he finds the barber and the family priest (प्रोहित prohit) waiting for him. The former has some fresh milk, and an earthen vessel (कंठिया kantiya) carried in a sling (बिकर sikhar) of मूंज mūnj rope. There is a hole in the bottom of the pot, partially stopped up with a plug. The karta hangs this up on a branch of the tree, so that its contents will drip out through the hole on to the root. He then fills it with milk and water and covers the vessel with an earthen cup (धकनी dhakni). He then goes round the tree three times, and goes home. The whole of this ceremony is called घन्त डोंग ghant tāngab. On reaching home he feeds his relatives with rice-milk and urid pulse, and himself eats off a potsherd (खपरौ khapri). Before commencing to eat, each person places a small quantity of rice and milk from his platter (पत्ता pattal) apart on another platter. This is called राह काह ruāh kārah, and the whole ceremony is called दुधमुंह dudhmuñh or दुधमुंहो dudhmuñhi, and also दुधो dudhi in South-East Tirhut.

1423. The same evening and every evening up to the tenth day (दसवौं dasvān) after the death, the करन्ता karta lights a lamp made of mud and placed on the top of a stick. The first day it is placed at the spot where the deceased died. The second day at a little distance from it, towards the door. The third day further off again, and so on, it being arranged that on the evening of the tenth day it reaches the spot outside the door where the five articles (stone, cowdung, iron, fire, and water) were placed.

This rite is called दीया बत्ती dīya bātī, or (in East Tirhut) सुख राति sukh rāti, and in Patna चिराग बत्ती chirāg battī. Up to the tenth day the करन्ता karta every day after bathing throws into the river or the well a handful of sesamum (निह til) mixed with rice and water. This is called तिलज्वर देब tilanjur deb.

1424. On the third day after the death the rite of तिराती tirāti is performed, and in South-East Tirhut, on the fourth day, the अथसंचान athsanchan. On the seventh day is performed the सतनवाप्रव satnahāḥb. In this the male members of the family touch oil and oil-cake (खरी khari), and then bathe. When they return, the females do the same, and on their return to the house they put oil and vermilion on their heads, and a little gram soaked in water (अकुरी akuri) is given to each.

1425. On the tenth day is performed the rite of दसकरन्म das karm, also called दसवर्ष daswān, and in Tirhut दसगातर dasgātr, and in North-West Tirhut दसाही dasāhi. On this occasion the male relatives shave their heads, and those who are sons of the deceased their moustaches also. Then the Brāhman who performs such obsequies, and who is called कन्ताहा kantāha or महाबाह्व mahābāhvan, comes, and performs the ceremony of making obsequial offerings पिण्डा पराप्रव pinda parāḥb. If the deceased is a male, this Brāhman gets as a fee all the requirements of a man (clothes, bed, shoes, umbrella, fan, dishes, lota, &c.), and, if a woman, all those of a woman. On the eleventh day offerings (पिण्डा pinda) are again made.

1426. Brāhmanas are then feasted. This is called ब्रह्मभोज bramhbhoj, भोज bhoj, or कारज kārāj. Amongst Brāhmanas this takes place on the 13th day after the death, amongst Rajpūts on the 14th day, amongst Vaisyas and amongst some Sūdras on the 16th day, and amongst other Sūdras after the expiry of a month. The ceremony is as follows:—In the day-time, the परहित prohit or family priest performs the पिण्डा pinda ceremony, and after it the करन्ता karta sits on a square marked on the ground (चौका chauka). A new turban is tied round his head, and he is dressed in new clothes. This is called पगड़ी बन्हाप्रव pagri banhāḥb. The relatives also put into his hand an offering of money, called नेवन्ता neota. Brāhmanas are then fed (ब्राह्मण जेवन्तार brāhman jeonār). Afterwards, in the evening, the caste brotherhood are fed. On this day the widow of the deceased is clothed in her widow garments, which are known as रङ्गसारी rañs sārī, or (in Tirhut) रङ्गसार rañrsār. Amongst the upper castes this is a white cloth, but amongst the lower ones it is a coloured one.

1427. In the case of the death of a male, पिंडा pinda ceremonies are performed six months and a year after death: the first is called चमारी chhamāsi, and the second बरन्धी barkhi. When, however, a marriage has to be celebrated in the family, the ceremony is performed three months after death, and is called तिनपकी के पिंडा tinpakhi ke pinda. On all these occasions also Brāhmans and the caste brotherhood are fed.

1428. When all the funeral ceremonies have been performed in the orthodox way, they are called किरिया करम kirīya karm. When the body is merely thrown into a running stream; it is called परवाह parwāh or जलपरवाह jalparwāh. On five days in the month a body must be burnt with five effigies of कुस kus grass (poa cynosuroides). These images are known as कुसपुतर kusputr, and the days as पंचक panchak or पचका pachka. In the south-east they are पचक pachchak. The visit of the women to condole after a death is मुंह देख muñh dekh, पुहारो puchhāri, or पुहारो puchhāro.

1429. Some Hindu and semi-Hindu sects and castes bury their dead. The principal of these are Kabirhas (कबिरहा kabirha), Saiva mendicants (अतीथ atīth or सन्यासी sanyāsi), Sib Nārāinis (सिब नारिनी sib nārāini), and Mushars (मुसहर mushar). To be buried is समाधि (or समाध) देव samādhi (or samādh) leb, and to bury is मिट्टी देव mitti deb or समाध में बैसाव samādh meñ baisāb. The body is bathed and dressed in new clothes, the necklace (कन्धी kanthi) and sectarian mark (निशान tilak) are put on his neck and forehead respectively, and he is seated in the grave facing the north with the feet crossed under the buttocks (पल्लो बैस palthi baisab) and with cakes in his hand.

CHAPTER IX.—DISPOSAL OF THE DEAD AMONGST MUSALMĀNS.

1430. The corpse immediately after death is taken out into the verandah (बागवान sāebān) or court-yard (आँगन angan). It is stripped and a new waist-cloth (लंगो lūngi or लुङ्गी lungi) is put on it. It is then washed (गोसल कराव gosal karāb) (غسل کرنا). The man who washes has a kind of bag (called साफी (صافی) sāfi) on his hand, with which he wipes the corpse. He then performs the ceremonial ablution of the corpse (वाजू कराव waju karāb) (وضو کرنا). This consists in cleaning its teeth, washing its hands, inside of the mouth, forehead, face, arms, and feet. He then dries it with a clean सफ़ी (ماني) safi. The waist-cloth is then taken off as unclean, and is given to the barber, who attends to call the relations, and, when they are assembled, to look after their refreshment. A fresh waist-cloth is then put upon the corpse. Amongst the Sunnis this washing is generally done by friends of the deceased, but amongst Shias there is a special class of men who perform this work. The water with which the corpse is washed has been boiled with leaves of the बरै bair tree (sisyphus jujuba), and to this plain water is added. This washing is said to preserve the corpse from decay for a short time.

1431. A sheet is now taken, and a hole torn in the middle, through which the head of the corpse is put. The rest of the sheet hangs down before and behind. It is called झूल jhal or कफ़नी (کفنی) kaphni. The corpse is then laid on a bed (चारपाय chārpāi), decently covered with a sheet, and taken to the grave-yard, which is known as कबरिस्तान (قبرستان) kabristan. The funeral itself is called जनाजा (جنازة) janaja. The prayers recited at the grave-yard or in the yard of a neighbouring mosque differ for men, women, and children. After their recitation the corpse is laid in the grave with the head northwards. The grave is then roofed over with bamboos or planks, over which some thatching grass (जहाज jhalā) is laid, which is plastered over with mud. It is then filled up with dried earth, every member of the funeral procession assisting in doing so. This is called मिट्टी देव mitti deb. Before the party leave the grave-yard, alms (खैरात khairāt) are given to beggars. The man who digs the grave is a नोनियाँ noniyān, and his fee is known as कबर खोदारी (قبر کھودائی) kabr khodāi.

1432. For four days after the death nothing is cooked in the deceased's house, and the family is supplied with food by the relatives. On the third day the brethren all assemble in an open place and 1½ or 2½ sers of gram, some flowers, betel-leaf, and sharbat, are taken there. Each man then takes up a grain of the gram, and after reciting a benediction over it drops it on a cloth spread for the purpose. The benediction is called दारद (درود) darād. They go on doing this till all the grain is exhausted. It is then given to beggars, and the sūra or chapter of the Qur'an entitled qul huwa-l-lāh is read. Each one then drinks sharbat, takes betel-leaf, and the meeting separates. This ceremony is called by the educated कुल (کُل) kul, from the first word of the title above quoted. By the ignorant it is called पान फूल pan phul. It is the conclusion of the funeral ceremonies.

CHAPTER X.—CEREMONIES AT PLOUGHING AND SOWING AND TRANSPLANTING.

1433. In the south-west on the first day of ploughing the villagers scatter rice-flour over the plough and yoke. This ceremony is called समहुत samahut. A similar ceremony is the हरमहूरत harmahūrat north of the Ganges, also called समहुत samahut in Tirhut, in which a handful (मूँठ mūnth) of grain is thrown into the field at the north-west (बन्दार bhandār) corner. In South Munger the plough is worshipped. The ceremony is called हरमोतर harmotar, and in it a vessel of water is poured over the plough in the name of the earth-goddess धरती मातर dharti mātī.

1434. In South-West Shahabad the मूठ पूजा mūth pūja is the feast at the time of commencement of sowing. The villagers give handfuls of grain to the herdsman and watchman. It is also called दिहवार पूजा dihwār pūja. In South Bhagalpur the मूठ पूजा mūth pūja consists in the cultivator feeding his labourers on rice and milk. On the last day of sowing broadcast, a small quantity of seed is brought back to the homestead and shut up in an earthen pot (कुँडा kūṇṛa), after which food of extra quality is prepared. This is called generally कुँड-मुन्दन kunrmundan or कुँड-मुन्नन kunrmūnan; also हरसोदन harsodhan in Champāran.

1435. On the first day of transplanting rice a feast is given. This is called पहिरोप pahiroṇ in Patna, and पहिरोंप pahirōpa in the south-east. In East Tirhut it is खेत भोज khet bhoj, or खेत भोजनी khet bhojni. South of the Ganges on this occasion the cultivators face the east and plant five rice seedlings (मोरी mori). This is called पंचाईत panchāith in Shahabad, and पचाँती pachānti elsewhere. On the same occasion in South Bhagalpur wine, milk, fried grain, and oil are offered to the gods who protect the field from blights and mildews. This ceremony is called गोखी gochhi. In South Munger on this occasion a deity of the मुशर mushar caste, named मुकुटवा Murkatwa, is worshipped. The legend about him is that a cultivator once sent this man, who was his labourer, home from the fields to get some seedlings. On the labourer's return the cultivator observed a spot of vermilion (सिंहर senur) on his forehead, and concluded that he had been debauching his (the cultivator's) daughter, who was at home at the time, and had given the seedlings. The man was quite innocent, but the cultivator in a rage killed and hid him in the earth. He is hence worshipped as a martyr, especially by his caste-fellows.

North of the Ganges, on the first day of transplanting a feast is given to the neighbours. This is known as गवा gawa or गावा gāwa, and to give it is गवा देव gawa leb or गवा लगान gawa lagāeb.

1436. The feast at the conclusion of rice transplanting is बौन-ली aunjli in South Bhagalpur, बनउसर banusra or बनुसर banusār in Gaya, and उछारी uchhāri or बनउखान banukhāo in Patna. In Sāran, when the transplanting is over, a handful of seedlings is planted with ceremony in a corner of the field. This is called केना देहरी kena dehri.

1437. In planting sugar-cane, before commencing, the direction of the wind is tested to judge of the probability of rain. This is called पवन परिखा paban parichhha in the north-west. The day on which the planting of this crop, as well as of the spring crop, is commenced, is called मूठ mūth, and when it has come they say मूठ लागल mūth lāgal. When the planting is concluded five long canes are planted in the middle of the field. This is called पंचक panchukk or पंचौक panchaukh north of the Ganges, and पच्छौक pachkhān south of it.

CHAPTER XI.—HARVEST CEREMONIES.

1438. When the crops are cut, some of the new grain is taken home and eaten with certain ceremonies. This feast is known as नेवान newān or नेवादी newāni, or to the south-east as नेमान nemān. When the grain is collected on the threshing-floor, a cake of cowdung is placed on the top of the heap to avert the evil eye (see § 839). South of the Ganges worship is also done to the village deity or दिवन्वार dihwār. A similar worship in South Bhagalpur to propitiate ghosts is called दानो पूजा dāno pūja.

1439. The ceremony of the first cutting of the sugar-cane takes place, south of the Ganges, on the festival of the देव उठान deb uthan or देवठान deothān. This takes place on the 11th of the bright half of Kātik (i.e., early in November), and is said to be the day on which Vishnu wakes from his four months' sleep. In South-West Shahabad, on this day, the villagers tie a few canes together by the leaves, and place a neck-ring (हंसुली hansuli) on the top. They then pour perfumes over it, take the neck-ring away, and commence cutting. When the crushing of cane is begun a ceremony is performed, called पिठार pithār in South-West Shahabad, समहत samahat in the rest of that district, पेटवान petāwan in Patna and Gaya, and पचघन pachghan in the south-east (see also § 299).

1440. In Shahabad, on the first day of crushing cane, the villagers take some juice home to cook with rice. This dish is called रसजाउर rasjaur. The ceremony at the first boiling of the juice is मिठाई mithāi in the south-west, and चिरन्नी sirni in Patna and Gaya. A similar worship of a god, who is called कोइला माता Koila Māta, exists in the south-east. This god exists elsewhere as a deity protecting wells.

CHAPTER XII.—MISCELLANEOUS.

1441. Among the lesser known festivals may be mentioned the following. The उरस uras or चिरागा chirāga is, south of the Ganges, a festival held in honour of the Musalman saint महदूम शाह Mahdūm Shah. It takes place on various dates in different places, e.g. in Patna City it takes place in the month of Bakrā'id (about December), and at other places in Bārāh uafāt (about March). महदुमागा makhdumāna is a rite performed in his honour by landlords.

1442. The छठ बरन chhath bart is a Hindu festival in honour of the sun held on the 6th of the light half of Kātik (early in November). The दवात पूजा dawāt pūja is held by men of the Kayasth caste on the 12th of the light half of Kātik (i.e., the day but one after the diwālī). On this day they worship their inkstands and will not touch pen and ink.

1443. In the north and east, on the 3rd Bhādoñ (August–September) occurs the तीज tij, on which women fast a day and night in honour of the goddess पार्वती Pārbati, and eat सत्तु sattu (ground parched grain) next day. On the last day of Bhādoñ occurs the अनंत anant or अनत anat, on which day both men and women fast. In the same tract the बहुरा bahura is a festival on which the women eat सत्तु sattu with sugar and clarified butter.

1444. The अखर-तीज akhartij in Patna, अखर-तिजिया akhartijiya in Gaya, and अखर-मीन akhartit in South-West Shahabad, is the feast on the 3rd of the light half of Baisākh (early in May), on which the obligations of the spring harvest are cleared off. In South Bhagalpur it is called अछे तिज-तिजिया achhai tirtiya.

1445. On the 5th of the light half of Sāon (early in August) occurs the feast of the नाग पंचमी nāg panchami, also known as नाग पञ्चमी lāg panchmi in North-East Tirhut, नकपंचि nakpānche in Shahabad, नगपंचि nagpānche in Patna and Gaya, and लगपंचि lagpānche in the south-east. On this festival the women mark their houses with lines of cowdung, and worship सेशनाग sesnāg (the Serpent of Eternity) with milk and parched grain (लावा lāwa). On the गोबर पंचि gobar pānche, which falls on the 5th of the dark half of the same month (late in July), the same god is often worshipped in Patna instead of on the former festival. This is called बेहरा पंचि behra pānche in South Bhagalpur.

1446. गोधन godhan is a woman's rite in which they make cow-dung figures of scorpions, snakes, &c., and beat them. To the south of the Ganges, in Bhādoñ (August–September), the women fast for twenty-four hours and make cowdung figures of Ganes and lay brambles (जाड़ झूड़ jhār jhār) in the court-yard, saying the words अप्पन करन् मेवक धरन् जाड़ झूड़ घुसिबावे बी appan karm bhaiyak dharm jhār jhār ghusiāwe hī, an incantation which literally translated means, 'I cause my own fate and my brother's virtue to enter the bramble.' This incantation is supposed to benefit the speaker and her brother in some mysterious way. A similar ceremony is called करन्मा धरन्मा karma dharmā in South Bhagalpur.

1447. The जिउतिवा jīūtiya to the west and the जितिवा jītiya to the east is a fast and worship performed by women on the 8th of the dark half of Kātik (late in October) for the benefit of their children.

1448. In Patna the festival of the hōlī festival (full moon of Phāgun or middle of March) is distinguished by the custom called लुकारि lukāri or लुकवारी lukwāri. In this, at night, the village children throw lighted torches across the boundaries of the village into the neighbouring village. This is supposed to be lucky for the village which throws, and unlucky for the village which receives, and is a source of frequent fights.

1449. On the day between the 15th of Chait and the 15th of Baisakh (about the 15th of April) when the sun enters the sign of the Ram (मेख mekh), it is customary to feed Brāhmins with सत्तु sattu (ground parched barley), तिकोड़ा tikorha (immature mangoes), and water, and to give alms. This feast is called the सतुआइन satudāin or सतुआनी satudāni. In South Bhagalpur this festival is held on the last day of Chait, i.e., the last day of the Bangali year. On the following day there is in Tirhut a curious festival, called the जूड़ सीतल jūr sital. The people bathe in water drawn the previous night and eat food cooked at that time, after worshipping सितला देवी Sitla Debi, the goddess of small-pox. Then from morning till noon all classes, rich and poor, cover themselves with mud, and shower it on all whom they meet. No one is free from this mud bath. In the afternoon the people go out with clubs and hunt jackals and hares and whatever animal they can find in the village. On their return home they boast of their valour in having killed this and that jackal, and the phrase जूड़ सीतल सिपाही jūr sitalak sipāhi is used like मोहरम के सिपाही moharram ke sipāhi to signify a braggard.

CHAPTER XIII.—ARBITRATIONS, OATHS, &c.

1450. A body of arbitrators is पंचारत panchāit to the north and west. In Patna and Gaya it is पंचौत panchit or पंचेता pancheta, and in the south-east पंचैती panchaiti. The head arbitrator is called सरपंच sarpanch, also south of the Ganges सरदार sardār or महन्तों mahton. In Shahabad he is also called महान mahān, and in South Bhagalpur मैफूर mafirar. A caste assembly is चटार chatāi (lit. a mat), or पङ्क्त pangut (lit. sitting in a row), and its head arbitrator परधान pardhān or मानजन mānjan. In Shahabad the man next to the chief is called the चहीदार chharidār.

1451. When one party in the case challenges the opposite party or a particular person to an oath, the phrase used is हसर करब hasar karab; also धारब dhārab in Patna, Gaya, and the south-east. The oath may be on the ammonite (साङ्ग्राम sāgrām or साङ्गिराम sāngirām), a copy of the Sanskrit हरिवंश haribans, or on Ganges water (गङ्गा जल ganga jal). When Ganges water is placed in a copper vessel with some leaves of the holy basil (Ocimum sanctum), the oath is said to be by तुलसी ताँबा tulsi tāmba. Or a man may lay his hand on his son's head (बेटा का सिर पर हाँथ beta ka sir par hānth dhai kañ), in which case his son is supposed to die within a year if he tells a lie, or he may touch a Brāhman's legs and swear by them (ब्राह्मण के गोर हूँ Brāhman ke gor chhu kañ). In Shahabad one form of oath current is to pour forth some country liquor. This form is known as मद्दार maddin. The oath taken on a cow is known as गौ किरिया gau kiriya. The man who swears by this oath sometimes holds the animal's tail, and sometimes simply touches it. In these cases the man before swearing bathes and puts on new clothes. North of the Ganges the गुरुरा gurura is a circle drawn on the ground in which the man who takes the oath stands, or from which he takes the thing claimed. The belief in these oaths is, throughout the country, very genuine, but perjury is sometimes attempted. One common trick when swearing with one's hand on one's son's head is to substitute some one else for the son. The writer remembers in the year 1879, when he was in camp in Darbhanga district, a curious incident. License-tax assessments were being held, and one well-known money-lender offered to swear on his son's head that he lent no money. The challenge was accepted, and the oath taken. Curiously enough the son was next day seized with what was said to be cholera, and the man came to the writer, and insisted on his name being written in the highest class of assessesees. This was done. It is satisfactory to know that the son recovered. Bābhans are popularly supposed to have little fear of the sanction of an oath, as witness the following proverb,—सौख, सुत, हरिबन्ध लै, बीच गङ्गाक धार, एतेक लै बामन, नँ ना करब इतिबार sil, sut, haribans lai, bich gangāk dhār, etek lai bābhan tañ na karah itibār, If a Bābhan swear by the ammonite, his son, the Haribans, and in the midst of the Ganges,—don't believe him.

1452. To excommunicate from caste is छडा (or छडा तमाकु) बन्द करब hukka (or hukka tamāku) band karab. It is also कुजात करब kujāt karab or पंचादत सँ काट देब panchāit señ kāt deb. The headman of a caste is मुखिया mukhiya, चौधरी chaudhri, सरदार sardār, or मानजम mānjan. Amongst the Telis and Chamārs he is also called महन्तों mahton, मेहन्तर mehtar, or (in South-East Tirhut), मेहुर mañrur.

CHAPTER XIV.—MISCELLANEOUS SUPERSTITIONS.

1453. A wizard is ओझा ojha or जादूगर jādugar. Other names also used are सोखा sokha in South-West Shahabad, गुनी guni in North-East Tirhut, दैया daiya in Patna, भगत bhagat in Patna, Gaya, and the south-east, and also भगतिबा bhagatiya and चडिया chatiya in South Munger. His enchantments are जादू jādu or ओझाद ojhāi, also भगताद bhagatāi in South Bhagalpur. A witch is दाइन dāin.

1454. An omen is सगुन sagun, and also north of the Ganges मगुन shagun. A good omen is अच्छा सगुन achchha sagun, or in Shahabad कुसुन सगुन sulabh sagun. An evil omen is कुसगुन kusagun, also in the north-west बदनगुन badshagun, and in Patna and Gaya नहस nahas. In East Tirhut it is असगुन asgun. Other names are कुषारन kusāit (an unlucky time) and कुजात्रा kujātra (an unlucky starting).

1455. There are a vast number of village gods (ग्राम देवता grām deotā) worshipped throughout the province. The principal amongst them will shortly be mentioned. A काली अस्थान kālī asthān, also called देवी अस्थान debi asthān or देवी ग्राम debi thān, which is a mound in honour of Kālī, the wife of Shiva (सिब Sib), is generally erected outside each village. In Tirhut under the village pipal tree there is generally a mound, decorated with clay images of the principal personages in the epic connected with him, erected in honour of the Salhes who is mentioned in the following list. This is called a सलहेस अस्थान salhes asthān. The mound erected to a deceased Brahman or holy man is generally called a बरहम अस्थान barham asthān.

1456. The following is a list of the principal village deities worshipped in Bihār. The more well-known deities, such as सिब Sib, महादेव Mahādeb, बरहम Barham (Brahma), or कृष्ण Krishn, are omitted. It will be observed that some of them are demons, who are worshipped in order to propitiate them.

अमता भवान्नी Amta Bhawāni or अम्बिका भवान्नी Ambika Bhawāni, a form of Debi worshipped in Saran.

कारु बीर Kāru Bir or कारु दास Kāru Dās (south), also कलुआ बीर Kalua Bir (Patna), worshipped by Doms and Dusādhs.

कैतुक गोसाँई Kaituk Gosāñī, worshipped in South Bhagalpur by Dusādhs.

कोरडा माता Koīla Mātā, the goddess of a well spring, worshipped generally.

कोदर कट्टा Kodar Katta, worshipped by Doms in South Bhagalpur.

कोल Kol, worshipped in Gaya.

खाजे खिदर Khāje Khidar, the patron god of the boatman (महाल malāh) caste. He is also often confused with a similar female deity गङ्गा माँ Ganga Māi. Musalmān women fast on every Thursday in the month of Bhādoñ (August–September) and call the fast खाजे खिदर का रोजा khāje khidar ka roja.

They are paid in kind by the people at whose doors they stop and drum. A पंचपिरिया panchpiriya is a Hindu who worships Musalmān saints. In cases of sickness various articles are exposed in a saucer at a cross-road. This custom is supposed to communicate the disease to the first person who touches it, and is called जोग jog or जोग टोन jog ton, or in South Bhagalpur ओज टेन ojh tem. The contents of the saucer vary with the disease demon to be propitiated. There are generally some red ओढ़ौल orhaul (hibiscus) flowers, some sand, grain, and yellow cloth. If a ghost भूत bhūt has to be propitiated, wine, or even a fowl, is laid there. In cases of small-pox, the cloth with which the sores were dressed is frequently put out, which often makes the superstition about communicating the disease a lamentable reality. In South-East Tirhut an oblong mound studded with flags to avert cholera is called आँखरिङ्ग derik. The खटोला khatola (north of the Ganges) is a miniature bedstead hung on a tree as a propitiatory offering.

1458. The following is a list of some of the various demons, ghosts, and other supernatural bogies believed in in Bihār. Those which are worshipped, and which hence have been included in the former list, are omitted.

मिमिचार् के तेल mimiyāi ke tel, a kind of bitumen brought from Persia and elsewhere. It is said to be extracted from the heads of coolies who emigrate to the colonies, by hanging them head downwards and roasting them over a slow fire. The threat of extracting it from the head of a child is therefore an active deterrent.

राकस Rakas, the will o' the wisp; it breathes fire and misleads travellers, but it also lives in the fields, and where it resides grain is produced in abundance.

सुखरा Sukhra (north), also सुखेनी sukhaini (North-East Tirhut), a vampire which sucks up children's blood.

The बिरकोत्सर्ग birkhotsarg, and also (in Tirhut) the बैदिक baidik, is the ceremony of marriage performed in the name of a bullock let loose on the 11th day of mourning for a near relative. The जलोत्सर्ग jalotsarg is the emblematical marriage ceremony on completion of a well or tank. It is married to an image erected close by. In case of a pond it is also called तरागोत्सर्ग tarāgotsarg, and on completion of a well कुपोत्सर्ग kupotsarg. The latter is called in South Bhagalpur कूप जग kup jag or कुइयाँ दान kuiyāñ dān. बाटोत्सर्ग bātotsarg is the ceremony on the completion of a road. No marriage is in this case performed.

1460. Water brought from a sacred river, spring, or place of pilgrimage तीरथ (tirath), is much used in religious ceremonies, and is carried by men called कमरपन्थू kamarpanthu. They are also called कैवारन्थू kamwārthū in South-West Tirhut and कमरथुवा kamrathua in South-East Tirhut.

DIVISION XIII.

TRADE, MONEY-DEALING, AND ACCOUNTS.

CHAPTER I.—TRADE AND BAZAR ACCOUNTS.

1461. Trade is लेन देन len den, महाजनौ mahājni, कारबार kārbār or कारोबार kārobār, बेवन्दार beohār, बेबापार beyāpār or बेबोपार beopār, or बनिज baniij. In Patna City it is also बेवन्दरगत beohargat. Exchange or barter is बदलारे बदलारे adlai badlai. A money-lender is महाजन mahājan, साह sāh or साहकार sāhukār, or बेवन्दरिया behwariya. He is also called in the country बनिजा baniya, and in South-West Shahabad साह sāo. In Patna City he is called कारोबारी kārobāri or धनी dhani. A banker is कोठीवाल kothīwāl or सराफ sarāph. A borrower is रिमिहा rimiha, खदुक khadduk or खदुका khaduka, or असामी asāmi. In South Munger he is also called मुजेरा mujera, in South Tirhut बनिबौटा baniyauta and धारनिक dhārnīk, and in South Bhagalpur खतब khātab. In Patna the words करज चौक karj khauk and करज खोर karj khor are also used.

1462. An account-book is बही bahi. A trader's account-books are called collectively बही खतब bahi khāta. जाकर jakar in Gaya is a record of cloth sales kept by cloth-merchants. Each page of the account-book is called पन्ना panna, and also in North-East Tirhut पत्ता patta.

1463. The following are the books usually kept by village money-lenders:—

- (a) The रोजनामचा rojnāmcha.—This is the day-book. The left hand or credit side of the page is known as जमा jama, and the right or debit side as नॉन nānw or नॉम nām.
- (b) The रोकड़ बही rokar bahi—Mr. Crooke's description of this is equally applicable to Bihār. It is exactly the same as the रोजनामचा rojnāmcha. There is only this difference, that it is balanced after each transaction. For example, the book shows Rs. 1,000 on the credit side; Rs. 100 are disbursed on a certain account. This is entered on the debit (बाकी baki or नाँव namū) side, and the book is balanced showing Rs. 900 still to credit. This is called रोकर बाकी rokar baki or बाकी तहजीब baki tahbil, and is again brought forward to credit. North of the Ganges it is called फाजिल phājil. A man who carries on several distinct trades keeps up a separate रोकर बाकी rokar baki for each.

- (c) The लेखा बाकी lekha baki, the खाता khāta, or खाता बाकी khāta baki.—This is the ledger, and is made up as time allows from the रोजनामचा बाकी rojnāmcha baki. It contains each creditor's or debtor's account separately, with a reference to the page of the day-book on which each item has been entered day by day. Some traders keep up a separate खाता बाकी khāta baki for each of their trades or speculations, others have only one general one.

- (d) There is also the जमाखर्च jamakharch, which is an abstract of the day-book, and is hence also called a खतियौनी khatiyauni, and shows the totals of receipts and payments on each page.

1464. Small traders generally only keep up the first of these books, —the रोजनामचा rojnāmcha or day-book. Very small traders do not even keep this. They have a separate slip of paper containing each customer's account, and called चिट chit, चिट्ठा chittha, or चिट्ठी chitthi, or पुरजा purja or पुरजी purji. In South Munger it is called सरखत sarkhat.

1465. Large traders, such as those in the city of Patna, with whom this work has nothing to do, keep up all the above four books. For the sake of completeness, the following information, founded on that given by Elliot in his Glossary, is added. Quoting Elliot's words (with the necessary alterations to suit local variations): "The page (of an account-book) is divided into two equal parts, called in Patna रेकाना rekāna: each of these is again divided into two रुकन rukan or रुकन rukūn. The (first or) right-hand रेकाना rekāna is called the हाशो hāsho. The first right-hand quarter (some say half) of the left-hand रेकाना rekāna is called सीरा sira, and the remaining portion is called in Patna City इरादा irāda, and elsewhere पेडा peta or (in North-East Tirhut) पेड pet. The सौरा sira contains the sum finally brought to account after the necessary deductions have been made from the gross amount in the पेडा peta and बाबो hāsho." In reading the above, it should be remembered that it refers to accounts kept in the Persian character. When kept in the mahājani character, the terms for right and left must be reversed.

CHAPTER II.—ACCOUNTS BETWEEN LANDLORD AND TENANT.

1466. These accounts are not usually kept in bound books, but on separate slips of paper, kept together in packets by a paper tape, called तबलक tablak or कैदक kaidak.

1467. A tenant's receipt for rent is known as रसीद rasid or दाखिला dakhila, and in North-East Tirhut कबज kabaj.

1468. The system of accounts differs according as the rent is paid in kind or in cash. Hence two sets of accounts are kept up in a landlord's office. They are the following :—

(a) Accounts of rents paid in kind—

1. खसरा दानाबन्दी khasra dānābandi.
2. खसरा बटार khasra batāi.
3. मोफरीद mophrid.
4. लग्नित laggit and वासिल बाकी wasil baki.
5. तिरिज जिमिस्वार tirij jimiswār.
6. सिवाहा siyāha.
7. हिसाब बिकरी गल्ला hisāb bikri galla.

(b) Accounts of rents paid in cash—

8. खसरा khasra.
9. मोफरीद mophrid.
10. लग्नित laggit and वासिल बाकी wasil baki.
11. तिरिज पट्टेचारी tirij patwāri.
12. सिवाहा siyāha.

(c) In addition to the above, the following general accounts are kept, which are applicable to both kinds of rent—

13. मोलहकी molhaki.
14. डड्डा dhaddha or जमा वासिल बाकी jama wasil baki.

15. जमाबन्दी jamābandī.

16. जमाखर्च jamākharḥ.

1469. The word तिरिज tirij, met with above, means 'abstract.' In small estates, Nos. 5, 11, and 14 are often not used.

1470. The following is a brief description of the above accounts :—

(1) The खसरा दानाबन्दी khāsra dānābandī. This is the account paper drawn up in the field when the दाना dāna or estimate of the crop is being made. It contains—

(a) The date.

(b) Name of tenant.

(c) Quantity of land (बरजगी arājī).

(d) Length (तूल tūl) and breadth (बरज araj) of the plot.

(e) Name of the crop (जिनिस jinis) thereon.

(f) The quantity of grain estimated.

The तिरिज तारीखनार tirij tārikhwar is a daily abstract of No. 1, and shows (in the case of division by appraisement) the total area of land and the quantity of grain estimated daily. The sum of all the daily entries in this paper shows the total area of lands of which the rent is paid in kind, and the produce thereof. This account is only kept when the division of the crop is by appraisement (दानाबन्दी dānābandī, see § 913). Some landlords, however, also keep it in the case of actual division on the threshing-floor, as a check on No. 2.

(2) When the division is by actual division on the threshing-floor (अगोर बटार agor batāi, see § 914), a खसरा बटार khāsra batāi is opened instead, containing the date, name of tenant, area, kind of crop, quantity, landlord's share, cesses, &c.

(3) The मोफरीद mophrīd is the bundle of papers in which separate accounts of each tenant are entered. A separate slip of paper is kept for each tenant. It is compiled from the खसरा khāsra (No. 1). It shows the quantity of each kind of grain belonging to him which was estimated, date by date. The area of the land under each crop at each estimate is also given. When this is abstracted out so as to show the total area and total crop for each tenant, the abstract is called तिरिज मोफरीद tirij mophrid.

- (4) The लग्गित laggit and वासिल बाकी wasil bāki are written up from No. 3, a separate slip of paper being kept for each tenant. They form a kind of ledger or personal account. The heads are as follows,—the total quantity of each kind of grain and the area of land under each. The total share claimed by all the landlords (हाकिमी हिस्सा hākīmī hissa) is then struck off. From this the shares of the other shareholders, who keep accounts separate from the landlords whose accounts we are considering, is deducted. To the remainder the cesses and other dues (अबवान abwāb) are added. The total shows the quantity of grain realizable from the tenant by the landlord on whose behalf the account is prepared. This portion of the account showing the demand is called the लग्गित laggit. From the total demand the quantity of grain realized during the year is set off, and the balance, if any, is shown. The whole paper showing demand, realization, and balance is called the वासिल बाकी wasil bāki. An abstract of the लग्गित laggit, showing under the head of each kind of grain separately the amount of crop of, and area of land under, that grain owned by each tenant, is called the तिरिज लग्गित tirij laggit. The abstract of the वासिल बाकी wasil bāki is the धड्डा dhaddha (No. 14).
- (5) The तिरिज जिनिस्वार tirij jiniswār is compiled from the लग्गित laggit (No. 4). It shows in one entry for each tenant the total area he has under cultivation, and the amount of each kind of crop demanded from him.
- (6) The सिवाहा siyāha is the day-book of receipts and disbursements of grain. An abstract of this, called the अवारजा awārja or वारजा wārja, shows the total receipts and disbursements, date by date.
- (7) The हिस्ब बिकरी गल्ला hisāb bikrī galla is the account showing the produce of the sale of the grain received as rent. It shows the date of sale, quantity sold, rate, and price.

1471. We now come to the accounts of rent paid in cash.

- (8) बसन्त khasra is the paper in which the area (i.e., तूल tul or length and आराज araj or breadth) as ascertained by measurement of the lands held by the tenants in a village, together with the rate per bigha or class (पट्टा patta) of each plot, is entered. An abstract of this shows the amount measured each day, while the measurement is going on, and is called तिरिज बसन्त tirij khasra. This बसन्त khasra gives only the measurement of the lands held temporarily on a cash rent, and differs from the regular बसन्त khasra or measurement papers of a village.
- (9) मोफरोद mophrid.—This is similar to No. 3, mutatis mutandis. It shows the area and different rates of rent of the various plots held by each tenant. Each tenant has a separate slip of paper, and all lands for which cash rents are paid, whether temporarily or not, are included in it. It is compiled from No. 8 and No. 10. An abstract of it, called तिरिज मोफरोद tirij mophrid, shows the area of land held and total rent payable by each raiyat.
- (10) लगगित laggit and वासिल बाकी wasil baki.—These are similar, mutatis mutandis, to No. 4. They are the ledger account of each tenant. Each tenant has a page, on which is shown the area of his plots, rate of each, rent of each, total area, and total rent. From this the shares of the other shareholders are deducted, and to the remainder the cesses and dues are added, together with the value of any rent in kind (दाम्दो नक्का damdo galla), due by the raiyat which has not been realized during the year. To this again the arrears of previous years are added, and the total shows the demand against the tenant. The paper thus far is called the लगगित laggit. From the total demand is deducted the cash rent collected during the year, and the balance is struck to be carried to next year's account. The whole paper showing demand, realization, and balance is called the वासिल बाकी wasil baki. An abstract of the लग्गित laggit, called the तिरिज लग्गित tirij laggit, shows under the head of each tenant separately the total area held and rent payable by him at each rate. The abstract of the वासिल बाकी wasil baki is the डड्डा dhaddha.

- (11) The तिरिज पट्टेवारी tirij patewari is the paper in which the name of each पट्टा patta or separate class of land in the village is entered, showing the total area, rate, and rent of each class. The total shows the total area of land held at various rates in the village. This paper is compiled from No. 10.

- (12) The सिवाहा siyaha is the same (mutatis mutandis) as No. 6. In this the daily receipts and disbursements in cash, including the price of grain sold, are entered. It is, in fact, a cash-book. An abstract of this, called the अवारजा awarja or वारजा warja, shows the total expenditure day by day.

1472. The following accounts are applicable to both kinds of rent.

- (13) The मोलहकी molhaki is a ledger account for each tenant, showing date by date all payments (whether in cash or kind) made by him. It is compiled from the सिवाहा siyaha. An abstract of this, called तिरिज मोलहकी tirij molhaki, shows the total payments made during the year by each tenant. The totals of this should agree with the total of No. 12 (the सिवाहा siyaha) on the receipt side. It hence serves as an abstract of the receipt side of No. 12, while the अवारजा awarja is the abstract of the disbursement side.

- (14) The डड्डा dhaddha is also called the तिरिज वासिल बाकी tirij wasil baki or जमा वासिल बाकी jama wasil baki. It shows the name of the tenant; area of his holding at each rent; amount of rent; additions on account of cesses, unrealized grain rent and arrears of previous years; deductions on account of shares of other shareholders; deductions on account of cash rent realized; and balance. This paper is in fact an abstract of the वासिल बाकी wasil baki (Nos. 6 and 10). The latter shows the accounts of each tenant separately, whereas the धुआँ dhaddha shows all the tenants' accounts on one sheet of paper. This form of account is according to Field* said to have been invented by Udhmant Singh, of Nassipur, in the district of Murshidabad, in order to enable the zamindārs to represent the collections as they pleased to the Muhammadan Government.

- (15) The जमाबन्दी jamābandī is the paper in which the total annual demand of the village on account of rent is entered. This paper does not usually show illegal demands from the tenants. These are generally shown only in the जमाखर्च jamakharch (No. 16).
- (16) The जमाखर्च jamākharch is the final annual abstract of the financial condition of the village. It shows the total demand, realization, and balance of the year in more or less detail. The demand side shows the balance of previous year, the total demand according to the जमाबन्दी jamābandī (No. 15), and other items of demand (such as fines, illegal cesses, &c.) which do not find their way into the latter. The total is the grand total of the demand for the year. This demand is on the other side of the account again divided into money spent and balance. The money spent includes the portion of the realizations which are forwarded to head-quarters, and the portion of realizations spent on the village and on miscellaneous expenses. The balance is made up of realizations in hand, and for which the village official or the landlord's grain-merchant is responsible, and of unrealized demand, the latter of which is given in detail. Some landlords have two copies of this paper,—one for their own information, containing the illegal cesses, and the other excluding them, so as to allow of its production in court.

1473. In the appendix to this work are given translations of the various forms of account as kept by a Patna landlord.

* Law of Evidence, p. 670.

CHAPTER III.—INTEREST, DISCOUNT, AND COMMISSION.

1474. Discount and commission are generally सहाजी salāmi. बहा batta is also used south of the Ganges. In Patna they are also called फिराना phiranta. बढ़ती barhti is a premium. सकरई sakrai is a commission of 3 or 6 pies per cent charged by the acceptor on accepting a bill. नकरई सकरई nakrai sakrai is a charge at 8 ānās per cent. on a drawer of a bill when his bill is not accepted. जाबन्ता साह जोग jābta sāh jog is a commission at one anna per cent. when the bill is accepted in favour of a banker. हुँदियाना hundiāna or हुँदियावन hundiāwan is commission on a bill-of-exchange (हुँदी hundi). Factorage, or the commission (of one or two pice per rupee) taken by a servant on goods bought for his master is दस्तूरी dastūri, or, more commonly, फल phal. दलाली dalālī is brokerage.

1475. Interest is खर sūd. Interest in kind, paid on seed-grain, is आगी āghī to the west and in South-East Tirhut. In South-West Shahabad it is आगवान agwan, and in Patna चाड़ा chhāra or कदौर karhuur. North of the Ganges generally it is also called सवार डेही sawāi derhi, in allusion to the rate at which the principal is lent. In the south-east it is बियाज biyāj. Elsewhere बियाज biyāj or बेबाज bej is interest on money, which in the south-east is खर sūd. असल asal or मार mār is the capital lent out at interest; but in Shahabad it is also मूल mal, and in the south-east सूदी रुपैया sūdi rupiāya. मोनाफा monāpha is profit. It is distinguished from interest (which is unlawful for them) by strict Musalmāns. Amongst others, however, the two terms are convertible. Other words for profit are बहोतरि barhotri or नाफा nāpha in Shahabad, नफा napha or इन्तिफा intipha to the west, इन्ताफा intāpha in the south-east, and बखित bachit in Patna, Gaya, and South Bhagalpur.

1476. पैसा paincha or हथपेर hathpher is a loan when the exact thing is to be returned. A local variant is पैच painch in South-West Shahabad. It is also called उधार udhār, which properly means a purchase on credit. करजा karya is a money loan. This is also called south of the Ganges करज karj, करजवान karjwām, and पैसा paincha. दस्तगर्दानी dasgardān or (amongst the educated) दस्तगर्दानी dastgardān is a temporary loan without interest. हथपेर hathpher or (in Shahabad) पैच उधार hanth udhār is also used in this sense.

1477. A debtor is खुदका khaduka or असामी asāmi. Local names are खुदक khadduk in Gaya and the south-west, मुजेरा mujera in Patna, and खताब khātab in South Bhagalpur. A defaulting debtor is अनामार jamāmr, also थानमार thanmār in Champāran and South-East Tirhut, मालमार malmār in South-West Tirhut, and थैलीमार thailimār in South Bhagalpur. Other names are खाज khāu in Saran, खौकार khaukār in South-East Tirhut, and ना देहना na dehan in Patna. The educated say ना देहना na dehand. Outstandings are लाहना lahna. A bad debt is गताल खाता gatāl khāta in Patna and the north-west, and गयाल खाता gayāl khāta in Gaya and the south-west, of which गैल खाता gail khāta in South Munger is a variant. In South-West Shahabad it is also said to be गपनाल gaptāl, in Tirhut they say बुरल भेलै būral bhelai, and in South Bhagalpur दुबो भेलै dūbo gelai. When an animal or other property is pledged for a debt, it is called to the north-west and in West Tirhut लावन lāwan or लावन लावन lāwan jhāwan. Elsewhere it is भरना bharna or गिरौ giron.

1478. To borrow money is सुद पर रुपैया काहब (or काहि लेब, or काहि लापब) sūd par rupaiya kārhab (or kārhi leḥ, or kārhi lāḥḥ).

CHAPTER IV.—RATES OF INTEREST.

1479. A rate of interest is दर dar. The following are the rates of interest charged. Interest at one per cent. is रुपै सेकड़ा rupai saikra, at two per cent., दू रुपै सेकड़ा du rupai saikra, and so on:—

- (1) देहा derha, देवोहा deorha, or in the south-east देरुहिया deurhiya. This is fifty per cent., e.g., a man borrows five maunds of grain at sowing time and repays $7\frac{1}{2}$ maunds at harvest, without reference to the selling price at the time of borrowing or repayment. This is confined to transactions in grain.
- (2) सवार sawāi or सवैया sawaiya is twenty-five per cent. as above.
- (3) बिकरी के भाव bikri ke bhāo (north), or भाव के भाव bhāo ke bhāo (south), also असल के असल asal ke asal in the south-east.—In this grain is lent, and at harvest time an equivalent in grain to the real money value of the grain lent at the time of borrowing is returned.
- (4) लगानी lagāni is giving one rupee's worth of grain and after six months receiving back one rupee two annas worth. In South Tirhut it is also called अठराहनी athrahni.

- (5) पैसे रुपये paise rupaiya is money interest at one pice per rupee per month. So डेढ़ पैसे रुपये derh paise rupaiya is one and a half pice per rupee per month.
- (6) टकन्ही takhi is money interest at two pice or one टका taka per rupee per mensem. In the south-east it is also called चधचन्ही adhanni.
- (7) गँडन्ही gandhi is money interest at four pice per rupee per month.
- (8) चरचन्ही charanni is four annas per rupee per annum.
- (9) पचचन्ही pachanni is five annas per rupee per annum.
- (10) छवचन्ही chawanni is six annas per rupee per annum.
- (11) क़िस्त kist or क़िस्त बन्ही kist bandi is when the total of principal and interest is repayed within a stated time by fixed instalments.

1480. The first money received by a shopkeeper during the day is बोहनी bohni; also बोहनी बट्टा bohni batta in Patna and Gaya, and बनहार banhār in South Bhagalpur. In Patna City it is गँडौठ ganthaut or गँठा gānthā. A pledge or deposit is गिरौ giroṅ or बन्धिक bandhik. In Patna, Gaya, and South Munger it is गिरन्नी girwān, in Shahabad गिराई giraiṅ, in the south-west of that district गिरौ गँठ giroṅ-gānth, and in South Bhagalpur गिरन्नी girmi. पुरिया puriya, or in East Tirhut पुरजा purja, is a sealed or fastened-up deposit. जाकर jākar is goods which are taken away for use, if required, at a wedding, &c. The price is fixed before hand. If the goods are used, this is paid; if they are not used, they are returned, and a pice or two per rupee is paid to the shopkeeper.

CHAPTER V.—MORTGAGE.

1481. A pawn or mortgage is रेहन rehan, बन्धिक bandhik, or मकफूल makphul. It is also गिराई giraiṅ in Shahabad, and गिरन्नी girmi in South Bhagalpur. मकफूल makphul is more usually applied to mortgage of land, and the other terms to pawning of moveable articles; but this distinction is not universal. A mortgagor is राहिन rahin, and a mortgagee is मुरतहिन murtahin, but these words are seldom used. The villagers prefer to use words like खदुका khaduka, खदुका khaduk, or असामी asāmi for the former, and महाजन mahājan for the latter. In Patna a mortgagor is मुजेरा mujera, and in Shahabad a mortgagee is बेवहारिया beohariya.

1482. A usufructuary mortgage, in which both the principal and interest are extinguished by being paid out of the profits of the land mortgaged for a fixed period, is पटौचा pataua, सटौचा पटौचा sataua pataua, or सधौचा पटौचा sadhaua pataua. छर भरना sād bharna is similar, but the usufruct is only instead of interest, the principal remaining to be paid by the mortgagor. A बै बिल वफा (بيع بالربا) bai bil wafa is a mortgage of property for a fixed period, in which, if the total debt is not repaid within the period, the property becomes the mortgagee's in satisfaction of the debt. Money advanced on the security of standing crops is to the north लागी lāgi.

CHAPTER VI.—MISCELLANEOUS.

1483. An invoice or manifest is बीजक bijak, and also to the east चिट्ठा chittha or फिरिख phirist. Insurance is बीमा bima, with a variant बीवा bīwa in Shahabad. In the south-west of the latter district it is हुन्दा भारा hunda bhāra. Something additional given to a purchaser is north of the Ganges गलुवा ghalua or लब्ध लाभ lābh sabbh. In South-East Tirhut it is also लब्ध lābh, and in South-West Tirhut बरकत barkat. South of the Ganges it is generally फाव phāo or पिछुवा pichhua. A variant of the latter is पछुवा pachhua in the south-east. Another name is चुटकी chutki in Patna. जूग jūg is similarly used by women when making petty purchases, especially of vermilion (सेनुर senur) and collyrium (मिस्सी missi). Other names for this are मंगनी mangni to the west and in South Tirhut, मंगनी चंगनी mangni changni in Patna, लावा घोली lāwa gholi north of the Ganges generally, लावा दूवा lāwa dūa in South-West Tirhut, and दांटी dānti. बेदाना beāna or बयाना bayāna is a handsel given by the buyer to the seller to secure his purchase.

1484. गला galla is a hole in the ground or a bag under the shop-keeper's seat in which he keeps his money. To test coin is बूकब būjab, ठोकब thokab, परखब parkhab, जाँचब jānchab, बजाअब bajāāb, or अंकनब anknab. In the south-east it is परेखब parekhab. A money-tester is परखी parkhi or परखिया parakhiya, or जचवैया jachwaiya. In the south-east he is परेखिया parekhiya. In Patna he is परिख parikh, and in Gaya रोकरीया rokariya. To test the correctness of scales is साध लेब sādh leb. In Patna and the south-east it is धारा करब dhāra karab, and in Shahabad पासैव देखल pāsangh dekhāl. To test a weight is तारब tārab or साधब sādhāb.

1485. Capital is पूंजी pūnji or पुंजी punji, and capital out at interest is बिजाजू biyāju or बेजाजू beāju. It is also called सूदी रुपैया sūdi rupaiya. The adjustment of accounts is बुझारब bujhārath north of the Ganges, and सफाई saphāi south of it. In South-West Shahabad it is बुझौता bujhauta. To test the entries is जाँच लेब jānch leb or मिला लेब mila leb. The testing is in Shahabad जाँच मिलाव jānch milān. A release in full is फारकहत्ती phārkhatti or फरकहत्ती pharkatti. In the north-west they say in such a case भुभन्तान हो गेल bhubhtān ho gail, and in the east of Tirhut they say his account is राफ सफ rāph sāph, and in Patna that it is बेबाक गेल bebāk ghail. In Patna they say बही पर से नाम उतर गेल bahī par se nām utar gel, and in South-West Shahabad नाम घेरल गेल nām gheral gail, alluding to the custom of encircling the name with a line when the account is cleared off.

1486. To become bankrupt is दिवाला निकसब diwāla niksab, or दिवाला सुध हो जायब diwāla sudh ho jābb. To make a man a bankrupt is दिवाला निकारब diwāla nikāsab. A bankrupt is दिवालिवा diwāliya. In Tirhut they would say of such a man साक उखड़ गेलैहि sāk ukhar gelainhi, or दिवाला उखड़ि गेलैहि diwāla ukhari gelainhi. In all the above the word may also be spelt देवाला devāla. In Patna they say ओकर डाढ़ उखड़ल है okar tāṭ ultal hai, in allusion to the custom amongst bankers of a bankrupt turning up one corner of his mat and sitting on it, as a notice of his condition. The action is equivalent to putting up the shutters in England. In connection with this it may be mentioned that Patna is famous for its bankrupts, as in the lines commemorating the three rascals of Bihār :—

पटना के दिवालिवा, तीनों नामजद,
सुने पावे च्छप्राहिया, तीनों के तूरे राग.

*Bhāgalpūr ke Bhageliya, Kahalgānj ke thag,
Patna ke diwāliya, tino nāmjad, Sune pāve Chhaprahiya, tino ke tūre rag.*

—The Bhagels of Bhagalpur, the thags of Colgong, the bankrupts of Patna, are all famous (sharpers); but if a man of Chhapra hears this, he will beat them (lit. burst their veins) all (at their own weapons).

1487. A bill of exchange is डकी hundi or डकी पत्री hundi patri; also in Gaya and the south-west पत्ररी patri. The duplicate of the bill is पैठ painth. Also, in Patna City, पैठ peth. The third duplicate is परपैठ parpainth or परपैठ parpeth, and the fourth जिकरी jikri or जिकरी jigri. This last is also a letter to a person other than the drawer for the acceptance of his endorsement by the drawer. A letter of advice is समाचारी चिट्ठी samāchāri chitthi. A bill payable at sight is दरसनी darsani. In Patna such bills by custom bear eleven days' date. If payable after a future date, it is मिषादी miyādi or मुदती mudati. One payable five days after sight is called पञ्च परन्नाम pahunch parmān or (in Patna City) पञ्च दाम pahunche dām. The address at the head of a banker's letter is जोग jog or सिरनामा sirnāma. A bill paid and discharged is खोखा khokha. In Patna it is also रुबन्नाम bhugtān, and north of the Ganges रुबन्नाम bhubhtān. To accept a bill is सकार sakārah. The date on which a bill falls due is called मिती mitti, which indeed in mercantile transactions is the general word for dates of all kinds.

1488. A warehouse is गोदाम godām. हरजा harja is demurrage. महसूल mahsūl or मासूल māsūl is customs, postage, or railway freight, &c. A price-current is निरख नामा nirakh nāma. Cash or specie is नगद nagad, नगदा नगदी nagda nagdi, or रोक rok. पावना pāwana is a claim, and रसीद rasid a receipt. टकसाह taksāh is a mint. Merchandise is सोदामरी के माह saudāgri ke māh. Imports are आनदानी āmdāni, and exports रपतानी raphtāni.

DIVISION XIV.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

CHAPTER I.—MEASURES OF LENGTH.

1489. The अङ्गुल angul is a finger-breadth, equal to about two-thirds of an inch. The width of the four fingers of one hand, i.e., four अङ्गुल angul, is called a चौचा chaua. Instead of this, a measure is used in Shahabad called मुट्ठा muttha, which is the width of the closed fist. Twelve finger-breadths make one span, which is बिता bitta or बिलस्ता bilasta, or to the north-east बिलहस्त bilhast, to the south-east बिलस bilast. South of the Ganges a still smaller scale is current. A सूत sūt is the thickness of thread.

3 सूत sūt = 1 पेन pain.

1490. In Shahabad and the south-east a finger-breadth is तसुर tassur. In Shahabad and Patna in measuring wood, however, a तसुर tassur equals two finger-breadths, and fourteen of these make one गज gaj or हाथ hāth (wood measure). Twenty-four finger-breadths, or six चौचा chaua, or two बिता bitta, make one हाँथ hānth or हाथ hāth, which is a cubit. The हाथ hāth is the standard from which the others are taken, and varies from 15 to 20 inches in length, 18 inches being the average.

1491. Two cubits make one डेग deg or pace, and also one गज gaj or yard. A गिरा girah, गिरेह gireh, or गिरे gire is the length of the forefinger, and 16 go to a गज gaj. Another name for a गिरा girah is कनवाँ kanwān in Patna and Gaya. Three गज gai or six cubits make one लग्गा lagga or लग्गी laggi, which is also called बाँस bāns south of the Ganges, and लट्ठा lattha in South-West Shahabad. Another गज gaj is the सिक्न्दरी गज Sikandri gaj, also called बरा गज bara gaj or बरका गज barka gaj, which is $2\frac{1}{2}$ cubits north of the Ganges and 48 fingers or 2 cubits south of it. It was the yard used in land measuring until Akbar's time, and properly equals 26 inches, but has become in the village mind confused with the बरा गज bara gaj. This is the tailor's yard, and is called by them कतार गज katai gaj or कत्ती गज katti gaj. Akbar introduced as the standard measure of the empire the इलाही गज ilāhi gaj, equal to $33\frac{1}{2}$ inches, which is still in use in the North-West Provinces.

1492. In South-East Tirhut and Patna धाप dhāp equals डेग deg or कदम kadam, a pace, but elsewhere north of the Ganges and in the south-east it is about half a कोस kos; see below. Another name of this last is मेल mail or मौल mīl, a corruption of the English 'mile.' The रस्सी rassi or रसरी rasri is equal to 20 लग्गी laggi or 120 cubits. In South-West Shahabad 70 cubits make a रस्सी rassi. Generally 60 रस्सी rassi make one कोस kos, but in South-West Shahabad it is 50 रस्सी rassi. The कोस kos varies greatly in length in different districts. An ordinary कोस kos is however 60 रस्सी rassi, 1,200 लग्गी laggi, or 3,600 गज gaj or yards, or 80 yards more than two miles. The गौकोस gaukos is a vague measure of distance, as far as a cow's bellow can be heard. A कच्चा कोस kachcha kos is a short कोस kos, and धाप dhāp (see above) is generally about a mile.

1493. A cubit used in measuring earthwork and well-sinking is तरहा tarha to the north-west and खनिज khanit (literally, digging) in the south-west. In South-West Shahabad and South-East Tirhut it is खन्ता khanta. In Gaya it is तररा tarra, and to the south-east गिलन्दजी gilandaji (which means simply earth-work). In digging a well the depth is measured in men's heights, called पूरिस pūris, &c. See § 923.

1494. The following table shows the relative value of the principal measures of length.

CHAPTER II.—SUPERFICIAL MEASURE.

1495. The पक्का बिगन्हा pakka bigha is fixed at 14,400 square feet, or 1,600 square yards. It is therefore a little less than $\frac{1}{4}$ of the English acre of 4,840 square yards. The कच्चा बिगन्हा kachcha bigha varies in every pargana; it is generally smaller than, but is sometimes larger than, the standard. The foundation of the size of the bigha is the लज्जी laggi (see above, § 1491), which varies greatly in the number of cubits which it contains. A square लज्जी laggi is a दूर dhūr. Twenty दूर dhūr make one कट्ठा kattha, and 20 कट्ठा kattha make one बिगन्हा bigha. In Shahabad a कट्ठा kattha is called a बिस्वा bisua. In East Tirhut a बिगन्हा bigha is also called कूरो kūro. North of the Ganges 4 पार pāi make one दूर dhūr; south of it—

9 square चौचा chaua make 1 sq. डेग deg or कदम kadam.

CHAPTER III.—MEASURES OF PROPORTION. .

1496. Proportion is generally expressed by saying so many annas in the rupee. Thus 10 annas in the rupee = 10 : 16; 4 annas in the rupee = 1 : 4; 8 annas in the rupee = 1 : 2; and so on. In calculating proportionate shares in estates, two systems are in vogue. In both the estate (मौजा mauja or महाल mahāl) is the unit. In one system the following is the scale :—

1 मौजा mauja or महाल mahāl = 16 आना āna.

1 आना āna = 20 दाम dām.

1 दाम dām = 20 कौड़ी kauri.

1 कौड़ी kauri = 20 बौड़ी bauri.

1 बौड़ी bauri = 20 फौड़ी phauri.

1 फौड़ी phauri = 20 रौड़ी rauri.

The other system is as follows :—

1 मौजा mauja or महाल mahāl = 16 आना āna.

1 आना āna = 12 पार pāi.

1 पार pāi = 20 करंत karānt.

1 करंत karānt = 20 मसंत masānt.

1 मसंत masānt = 20 डिस्मिल dismil (? = decimal).

1 डिस्मिल dismil = 20 बिस्मिल bismil.

The first system is called the Hindūstāni, and the second the English system.

CHAPTER IV.—MEASURES OF WEIGHT.

1497. 25 दास dām are counted to the pice (पैसा paisa). A दमरु damri is a nominal coin equal to $3\frac{1}{2}$ दास dām. The अद्धी addhi is half a दमरु damri. The टक्का takka or टक्का taka = 50 दास dām or two pice, and the अधेला adhela or (in South-West Shahabad) अधेला adhelcha, is $12\frac{1}{2}$ दास dām, or half a pice. The दोकरा dokra or छदास chhadām is $6\frac{1}{2}$ दास dām, or $\frac{1}{2}$ of a pice. A pice is also called डेबुआ dhebuā or (in Gaya) कच्चा kachcha. The छदास chhadām or sixteenth part of an āna is also called कनवाई kanwai, कनवाई kanwān, or चर्ताक chhatānk. The following table will make this clear :—

दाम.	३१	३१	१२½	२५	५०	१००
	दमरु.	३	४	६	१२	२५
		छदास.	३	४	६	१०
			अधेला.	३	४	६
				पैसे or पैसे.	३	४
					टक्का.	३
						१०० or āna.

1498. In weighing, the रत्ती ratti of 1·875 grains Troy is taken as the standard. From this the following scheme may be drawn up:—

8 रत्ती ratti	= 1 मासा māsa = 15 grains Troy.
12 मासा māsa	= 1 तोला tola = 7 dwt. 12 grains Troy or the weight of one rupee.
5 तोला tola	= 1 कनवाई kanwāi or चटई chhatānk = 1oz. 17 dwt. 12 grains Troy.
16 कनवाई kanwāi or चटई chhatānk	= 1 सेर ser , = 2lb. 6 oz. Troy.
40 सेर ser	= 1 मन man = 100lb. Troy = 82·286lb. Avoirdupois. This is the standard मन man or maund, and 27·222 of these go to the English ton.

For larger weights the सेर ser is the standard. In local bazārs it varies greatly, not only according to locality, but according to goods sold. The bazār सेर ser is named as containing so many गण्डा ganda, a गण्डा ganda consisting of four तोला tola or sometimes four pice, and being a constant quantity.

1499. In weighing gold, jewels, &c., the standard is the red seed (abrus precatorius) called the करजनी karyani, लाल lāl, or कच्ची रत्ती kachchi ratti. It is said to weigh three barleycorns (जौ jau).

The jeweller's scale is as follows:—

3 जौ jau	= 1 लाल lāl .
4 ditto	= 1 रत्ती ratti .
2 लाल lāl	= 1½ रत्ती ratti .
4 रत्ती ratti	= 1 चौरत्ती chauratti .
5½ ditto	= 1 अन्नी anni .
8 ditto	= 1 मासा māsa , मसा massa , or मसिका masika = 15 grs. Troy.
10½ ditto	= 1 दुबन्नी duanni .
8 दुबन्नी duanni or 10½ मासा māsa	= 1 धक dhak or (in South-West Shahabad) धाका dhāka , which is the weight of a rupee = 6 dwts. 6½ grs. Troy.
12 मासा māsa	= 1 तोला tola = 7 dwts. 12 grs. Troy. Here it will be seen that the jeweller's rupee is less than a tola.

चटङ्की chhatanki = $\frac{1}{8}$ of a ser.

अधःसेरा adhsera or असेरा asera = $\frac{1}{2}$ a ser.

तिनःपौषा tinpausa = $\frac{3}{4}$ of a ser.

सवैया sawaiya, properly $1\frac{1}{2}$ ser; really $\frac{1}{2}$ of a पसेरी paseri.

डेहःसेर derhseri = $1\frac{1}{2}$ ser.

तिनःसेरा tinsera or तिनःसेरी tinseri = 3 ser.

चरःसेरा charsera or चरःसेरी charseri = 4 ser.

This is properly 5 ser, but varies greatly. It is usually said to be 7 ser kachcha, but is sometimes only 5 or 6. Vegetable-sellers generally call it 6 ser.

धारा dhāra = 10 ser. In Shahabad it sometimes means 5 ser.

|| See § 1202. These are only charged on rent of land and on old settlements of other kinds. For instance, if a new settlement is made of toddy palms, it is made in Company's rupees, and no exchange rate is added to the rent. The addition of a rate of exchange, in fact, depends on whether the settlement is made in old coinage or in new; and according to custom, rent of land is generally settled, even at the present day, in the old coinage, but not so other rents.
